In conversation with Amanda Haas, Culinary Director, Williams-Sonoma

This program is part of our Food Lit series, underwritten by the Bernard Osher Foundation.

Jeremiah Tower was a founding chef in the 1970s at Alice Waters' Chez Panisse restaurant and is widely credited as one of the creators of both New American Cuisine and California Cuisine. In 1984, Tower opened his own restaurant, Stars, in San Francisco. It was an overnight sensation and fostered the careers of numerous American chefs, including Mark Franz, Mario Batali, Tim Grable, Emily Luchetti and Jerry Traunfeld. The restaurant was among the top-grossing restaurants in the United States for close to a decade. Tower went on to win a James Beard Award as the best chef in America, hosted a PBS Series and opened restaurants in Singapore and Hong Kong. He holds a degree in architecture from Harvard.

Come hear his both witty and serious thoughts on manners in 2016—at the dinner party, the bar or in your own home. Tower has advice on everything: food allergies, RSVPs, iPhones, running late, thank-yous, restaurant etiquette, even what to do when you are served something disgusting.

Duf Sundheim, 2016 Republican Candidate for U.S. Senate

Tony Strickland, Former California State Senator; California Chairman, The Committee for American Sovereignty

Tony Thurmond, California State Assemblymember

Can Republicans and Democrats come together after a nasty election to make progress on energy, water, transportation and other climate-related concerns? Those issues were barely a sideshow in the 2016 national election, but climate disruption requires modifying how we run our economy and get around. Is it naive to think elected leaders can bury the hatchet and find common ground in the state legislature or the U.S. Congress? Where are the opportunities for political deals?

Join a conversation about licking wounds, moving forward and getting to work on important systems that need fixing.

In Conversation with Mark Zitter, Chair, The Zetema Project

Underwritten by The California Wellness Foundation.

As U.S. health-care costs continue to grow, supporters of the Affordable Care Act point to a dramatic drop in uninsured citizens, while critics highlight skyrocketing premiums. But the arguments over cost and access largely ignore the impact on the delivery of health-care services to patients. How are care delivery systems transforming to provide Americans with high-quality care at affordable prices? How will Republican efforts to repeal and replace the ACA influence the delivery system? In this wide-ranging conversation, Obamacare architect and noted health policy expert Dr. Ezekiel Emanuel will discuss the impetus for delivery reform during the Trump era and specific practices that enable highly effective care delivery.

Jeremy Carl, Research Fellow, Hoover Institution, Stanford University

John Hofmeister, Former President, Shell Oil Company; Chairman, Erin Energy Corp.

Bob Inglis, Executive Director, RepublicEn; Former U.S. Representative (R-SC)

President-elect Donald Trump is giving plum jobs to Republicans who deny or downplay the risks of climate disruption. That's a big shift from the time of President George W. Bush, when U.S. Senators John McCain and Lindsay Graham pursued climate-fixing legislation.

Bob Inglis, a former Republican representative and executive director of RepublicEn, says Republicans should not doubt or deny the science. Rather, they should defend it because their party has the best solutions, ones based on markets and not mandates. He will be joined by John Hofmeister, former president of Shell Oil Company, and Jeremy Carl, a research fellow from the Hoover Institute at Stanford for a vibrant discussion about the tensions and challenges between climate science, America's energy needs and the Republican party in the coming years.

The Future of Choice with Cecile Richards the President of Planned Parenthood

Cecile Richards, President, Planned Parenthood Federation of America and Planned Parenthood Action Fund

Wade Davis, Former NFL Player; Thought Leader, Writer, Public Speaker and Educator on Gender, Race and Orientation Equality—Moderator

This year, Planned Parenthood marks its 100th year of providing vital health-care services, education and information to women, men and families across America.

While 2.5 million men and women visit Planned Parenthood affiliate health centers annually, the organization faces major opposition and during this historic election year, Planned Parenthood and its supporters have been under scrutiny by politicians and others who want to eliminate the organization's state and federal funding and shut down its clinics. One side argues that Planned Parenthood's initiatives should not be bolstered by the government and often have a negative impact, while Planned Parenthood's supporters assert that without the organization's services, public health and safety are potentially endangered.

Join INFORUM at The Commonwealth Club in welcoming Planned Parenthood President Cecile Richards for a powerful and timely discussion about Planned Parenthood's history, its role in our political and cultural dialogue, and what the future holds for the organization as it looks toward its next 100 years.

Artificial Intelligence: What Everyone Needs to Know

Jerry Kaplan, Entrepreneur; Author, Artificial Intelligence: What Everyone Needs to Know

In conversation with John Markoff, New York Times Technology Reporter

This program is generously supported by Accenture.

Over the coming decades, artificial intelligence will profoundly impact the way we live, work, wage war, play, seek a mate, educate our young and care for our elderly. It is likely to greatly increase our aggregate wealth, but it will also upend our labor markets, reshuffle our social order, and strain our private and public institutions. Eventually it may alter how we see our place in the universe, as machines pursue goals independent of their creators and outperform us in domains previously believed to be the sole dominion of humans. Jerry Kaplan is widely known as an artificial intelligence expert, serial entrepreneur, technical innovator, educator, bestselling author and futurist. He co-founded four Silicon Valley startups, two of which became publicly traded companies, and teaches at Stanford University.

Join Kaplan for an illuminating conversation about the future of artificial intelligence and how much humans should entrust to machines.

Why Facts Don't Trump the President

George Lakoff, Professor of Linguistics, University of California, Berkeley

Greg Dalton, Founder and Host, Climate One

Additional Speakers TBA

Facts are overrated. Sure, they are the concrete foundation of narratives and they should be defended when the national conversation is filled with bald-faced lies. But the obsession with facts can be taken too far at the expense of other deeper means of communication.

George Lakoff says if progressives want to learn from the election of Donald Trump, they need to change what they study in college, how they think about facts as adults, understand framing and learn to repeat, repeat, repeat.

Jon Krosnick has been studying public opinion around energy and climate change longer than just about anyone else. That gives him deep understanding about what Americans think about fossil fuels and clean energy and how that diverges from what politicians say and do about those issues.

Join a conversation to learn how your Bay Area brain helped elect Donald Trump and how you can revise the way you think and talk in this new political world.
