JOB OPPORTUNITY

3/18/11

REPORTER/ANCHOR

News

A rare opportunity to join the WGN Morning News Team. We're looking for a reporter and anchor with the right combination of news judgment and personality to join the ensemble group presenting the WGN Morning News each day. You'll have the opportunity to develop an on-air franchise segment for the Morning News and you'll be the co-anchor of our early morning newscast. You'll need to show us you can handle live, breaking news, conduct live interviews on a variety of topics, and maintain an on-air persona consistent with the tone of the Morning News.

You'll need to have television reporting and anchoring experience. You'll be an even better candidate if you also have Chicago knowledge and experience. Must submit a non-returnable DVD with resume.

Equal Opportunity Employer

IF INTERESTED, SEND RESUME AND DVD TO:

WGN-TV Human Resources Department
2501 W. Bradley Place
Chicago, IL 60618

WGN-TV

Interactive News Producer

You know that journalism no longer comes with a capital J, but that Google sure does, whether as a verb or a noun. You understand that this industry is no longer divided into on-screen versus print, but that journalism means being platform flexible and being everywhere.

The Interactive News Producer at WGNTV feels as comfortable writing a breaking story as translating one from an on-air report. This person knows how to use Final Cut, understands Multimedia is an outdated word, and realizes content managers are just as important as producers in order to make a newsroom viable in 2015.

The Interactive News Producer also:

- Notices the kiosks at the gas station showing 0:30 weather reports and thinks, 'How could we get our weather reports to show up here?'
- Sees a breaking report on CNN at the airport and knows how to configure that story onto the WGN mobile site from his/her iPhone via a WIFI connection using VPN.
- Has a penchant for technology, isn't afraid of a little HTML, and maybe has been referred to as a geek once in her/his life.
- Enjoys starting new projects that help bring web, mobile, online and on-air content together, making it more accessible to the everyday user.
- Thinks social media is as lame of a term as "web 2.0" and knows its more about simplifying access for the user and less about sending out a tweet every 35 minutes.

One more note: Whether you grew up with it or reinvented it, Facebook is on your radar. You know what a blog is and you have for years – in fact, you had one before they were even called blogs. Maybe it was a Xanga, a Blogger, or an emoticon-happy Live Journal. These words mean something to you: Blogrolls, Feed readers, feed burners, RSS, XML, WAP, CMS, Embed code. And if some of them don't, then you're the kind of person who would Google them to find out.

*Job ID: 47101
 *Job Title: Interactive News Producer
 Job Reference:
 Employer Name: WGN-TV/CLTV/WGN America
 # of Openings:
 Work Times:
 Hours/Week:
 Wage/Salary:
 Start Date: 9/14/2011
 End Date: 10/14/2011
 Supervisor:

*Job Description: You know that journalism no longer comes with a capital J, but that Google sure does, whether as a verb or a noun. You understand that this industry is no longer divided into on-screen versus print, but that journalism means being platform flexible and being everywhere.

The Interactive News Producer at WGNTV feels as comfortable writing a breaking story as translating one from an on-air report. This person knows how to use Final Cut, understands Multimedia is an outdated word, and realizes content managers are just as important as producers in order to make a newsroom viable in 2015.

The Interactive News Producer also:

- Notices the kiosks at the gas station showing 0:30 weather reports and thinks, 'How could we get our weather reports to show up here?'
- Sees a breaking report on CNN at the airport and knows how to configure that story onto the WGN mobile site from his/her iPhone via a WIFI connection using VPN.
- Has a penchant for technology, isn't afraid of a little HTML, and maybe has been referred to as a geek once in her/his life
- Enjoys starting new projects that help bring web, mobile, online and on-air content together, making it more accessible to the everyday user
- Thinks social media is as lame of a term as "web 2.0" and knows its more about simplifying access for the user and less about sending out a tweet every 35 minutes.

One more note: Whether you grew up with it or reinvented it, Facebook is on your radar. You know what a blog is and you have for years - in fact, you had one before they were even called blogs. Maybe it was a Xanga, a Blogger, or an emoticon-happy Live Journal. These words mean something to you: Blogrolls, Feed readers, feed burners, RSS, XML, WAP, CMS, Embed code. And if some of them don't, then you're the kind of person who would Google them to find out.

CHICAGO'S VERY OWN

Antenna TV & WGN-TV Writer Producer

Are you creative and a good editor? Can you write with style and a sense of humor? Antenna TV is on the lookout for a highly-motivated Writer/Producer to help elevate the brand identity and support promotional efforts for the national retro network, Antenna TV. Additional duties may also include work for local channels, WGN-TV and CLTV. The ideal candidate should have experience and knowledge of retro television programming. This individual will conceptualize, write, edit and possibly shoot & design some of their own graphics for on-air promotions. A positive personality is essential, as is strong self-motivation and the ability to multitask.

If you are a passionate Producer/Editor with demonstrable experience in non-linear editing; specifically adept with Final Cut software; equally knowledgeable with retro programming and/or local broadcasting; and one who loves a challenge – we want to hear from you.

Qualifications

Must Have:

- Minimum of 2 years Creative Services experience in on-air cable or broadcast environment, boutique agency, or post-production house
- 2 years writing and producing commercials or on-air promotions with a sense of humor and authentic, conversational writing style.
- Knowledgeable with retro programming
- 2 years' experience in Final Cut Pro editing
- Proficiency with Mac OS and file base management
- Strong aptitude for new technology
- Self-directing, self-motivating, with ability to work in a fast paced, deadline-driven environment; Competitive spirit and strong team collaborator
- Versatile team player with the ability to help increase ratings with unique, cutting-edge creativity

Send resume w/online link to your demo reel* to:

Jeff Wilson
Director of Creative
WGN-TV, Antenna TV, CLTV
jdwilson@tribune.com
2501 West Bradley Place - Chicago, IL 60618

*All resumes without links to demo reel will be burned at our next marshmallow roast.
