

Summaries for “All In”

October, November, December 2020

Filed January 2021

OCTOBER 1, 2020

Sexual Assault in Indiana

Today we talk about the current legislation in place in Indiana around sexual assault and advocates calling for a legal definition of consent.

OCTOBER 2, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

Today we get updates on the latest Indiana news, talk about Indiana Avenue and its cultural significance in music, and hear a story about recovery from COVID-19.

OCTOBER 5, 2020

The Race For Indiana Governor: The Incumbent

Today we discuss Indiana's gubernatorial race with Indiana Public Broadcasting's statehouse reporter, then hear an extended interview with incumbent Governor Eric Holcomb.

OCTOBER 6, 2020

The Race For Indiana Governor: The Challengers

Today we continue our conversation on the Indiana governor's race with extended, unedited interviews with Democratic candidate Woody Myers and Libertarian candidate Donald Rainwater.

OCTOBER 7, 2020

The Heartland International Film Festival Goes Online

The Heartland International Film Festival is mostly virtual this year due to the pandemic. Can a film festival work with the audience at home?

OCTOBER 8, 2020

The Changing Roles Of Before And After School Programs

Today we talk to after school program leaders to find out what the early stages of the pandemic looked like for their programs, the challenges they faced, and why they're continuing to work and stay open this fall.

OCTOBER 9, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

Today we talk about the latest in Indiana news, including turnover at the Indiana Women's Prison, visitation restrictions at nursing homes, and a new art exhibit in Columbus.

OCTOBER 12, 2020

The Race for Indiana Attorney General

Today we hear extended interviews with the two candidates for state attorney general, Democrat Jonathan Weinzapfel and Republican Todd Rokita, conducted by IPB Statehouse Reporter Brandon Smith.

OCTOBER 13, 2020

The Ku Klux Klan In The Heartland

Today we talk to James H. Madison, author of the new book "The Ku Klux Klan in the Heartland," about the history of the KKK in Indiana and its ties to current issues around race and white supremacy.

OCTOBER 14, 2020

Climate Voters In The November Election

Today we talk to a panel of experts and advocates about how the political discourse around climate issues has changed, and how it might impact the upcoming election.

OCTOBER 15, 2020

Energy Insecurity

Today we talk to a researcher and an advocate about energy insecurity during the pandemic, as low income households are losing access to utility services like electricity, heating, and cooling every day.

OCTOBER 16, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

Today we get updates on a possible second wave in the COVID-19 pandemic, teachers retiring early because of the pandemic, and the story of dueling political displays in small-town Goshen, Indiana.

OCTOBER 19, 2020

The Pandemic's Impact On Rural Hospitals

Today we talk to a panel of guests about Indiana's rural hospitals, the challenges they've faced, and the changing roles they play for the communities around them.

OCTOBER 20, 2020

Supreme Court Nominee Amy Coney Barrett

Today we talk about Amy Coney Barrett with two of her colleagues from Notre Dame and a constitutional law expert from the IU McKinney School of Law, to learn more about the SCOTUS nominee.

OCTOBER 21, 2020

The Pandemic's Health And Economic Impact On Indianapolis Neighborhoods

Today we talk about a new report focused on pandemic-related issues in Indianapolis neighborhoods, and how community groups are working to address them.

The Pandemic's Impact On Asian American And Asian Owned Businesses

OCTOBER 22, 2020

Asian American owned businesses across the country have been struggling to stay open because of limited service, and some say discrimination has made things worse. We talk to local leaders and business owners about how they're doing.

OCTOBER 23, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

Today we get updates on a potential second wave of COVID-19, potential statewide education changes after the election, and we learn about seasonal affective disorder during the pandemic.

OCTOBER 26, 2020

Are Big Changes Coming To Health Care?

Health care is a top issue for voters this election, and the COVID-19 pandemic has heightened the urgency of an already contentious political fight around the Affordable Care Act. Today we talk to health care and legal experts about what's at stake.

OCTOBER 27, 2020

Indiana Republicans On President Trump

Today we talk to two Indiana Republicans about their opposing views on President Donald Trump.

OCTOBER 28, 2020

The Race For Indiana Attorney General (Repeat)

Today we revisit extended interviews with candidates for state attorney general, Democratic candidate Jonathan Weinzapfel and Republican candidate Todd Rokita.

OCTOBER 29, 2020

Voter Suppression And Voter Outreach

Today we talk to leaders from local organizations, each focused on different populations, to find out what they're doing to encourage people to vote. We discuss the challenges they've faced doing outreach during the pandemic, and learn what specific issues are on the minds of the voters they're trying to reach.

OCTOBER 30, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

We get updates on the growing number of COVID-19 cases, the second gubernatorial debate, a wilderness stewardship recipient, and ongoing issues in the Indiana prison system.

NOVEMBER 2, 2020

Indiana's Second Wave

Today we get an in-depth update on the second wave of COVID-19 in Indiana, to find out why it's happening, what state officials are doing about it, and what impact the holiday season might have.

NOVEMBER 3, 2020

Workers Behind The 2020 Election

Today we talk to a group of election workers about what it's like to run an election, how the pandemic changed things, and what concerns they have about the process this year.

NOVEMBER 4, 2020

2020 Election Aftermath

Today we talk with several political analysts and our statehouse reporter on the new election results from Indiana and across the country, what to look out for next, and President Trump's late-night address prematurely declaring victory.

NOVEMBER 5, 2020

Conspiracy Theories Around The 2020 Election

Today we talk about a new study on misinformation and conspiracy theories around the 2020 election, to find out where these ideas come from, how they spread on social media, and how they might have impacted voters this year.

NOVEMBER 6, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

We get updates on COVID-19 cases, election results, the state of manufacturing jobs in Indiana, and education referendums on the ballot this year.

NOVEMBER 9, 2020

The Ku Klux Klan In The Heartland (Repeat)

Today we talk to author James H. Madison about the history of the KKK in Indiana, and its ties to current issues around race and white supremacy.

NOVEMBER 10, 2020

True Crime In Indiana

Today we talk to author Janis Thorton about her new book "No Place Like Murder," and stories of true crime in Indiana.

NOVEMBER 11, 2020

The Electoral College

Today we learn about the history of the Electoral College, the ongoing debate around its impact, and how some people want to fix it or remove it altogether.

NOVEMBER 12, 2020

Working Mothers In The Pandemic

Today we talk about how COVID-19 is highlighting what working moms in Indiana face on a daily basis, and how the pandemic has complicated things for many.

NOVEMBER 13, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

Today we get updates on the pandemic, the Dreasjon Reed case, voter turnout in Indiana, and this year's virtual Indy Jazz Fest.

NOVEMBER 16, 2020

COVID Between The Coasts: Part One

Today we talk to reporters and producers from WNIN about their new podcast series, which covers the many ways COVID-19 has had an impact on the Midwest and the people who live here.

NOVEMBER 17, 2020

Indiana's Show Caves

Today we talk to the people who manage Indiana's commercial caves, and experts on cave geology and exploration, to learn about the state's subterranean world.

NOVEMBER 18, 2020

COVID Between The Coasts: Part Two

Today we learn more about the new podcast series from WNIN about the pandemic's impact on the Midwest, including an episode about survivor stories and a student-led project to interview people and analyze data in the region.

NOVEMBER 19, 2020

Homeless Shelters And COVID-19 (Repeat)

Today we re-air our conversation with representatives from three Indiana homeless shelters to find out how they're adapting to the pandemic.

NOVEMBER 20, 2020

The Friday Pitch-In

We get updates on COVID-19 cases, Organization Day at the statehouse, a statewide job program, the impact of the pandemic on the opioid epidemic, and tips on spending during this holiday season.

NOVEMBER 23, 2020

COVID-19 Update

Today we get an in-depth update on the latest COVID-19 news in Indiana, and learn about the two vaccines nearing federal clearance.

NOVEMBER 24, 2020

The John Mutz Story

Today we talk to former Lt. Governor John Mutz, and the author of his new memoir "An Examined Life: The John Mutz Story."

NOVEMBER 25, 2020

Indiana Schools Going Virtual

Today we talk about Marion County's decision to order its schools go virtual until mid-January. We also talk to a school official from Vigo County, and the president of a teachers union, about what models the schools in their counties have been following, and what the transition to online learning looks like for them.

NOVEMBER 30, 2020

The Shortlist: The Best of 2020 Indiana Fiction (Repeat)

Today we re-air our show with five authors nominated for the 2020 Eugene and Marilyn Glick Indiana Authors Awards in the fiction category.

DECEMBER 1, 2020

The Shortlist: The Best of 2020 Indiana Nonfiction (Repeat)

Today we re-air our show with three authors nominated for the 2020 Eugene and Marilyn Glick Indiana Authors Awards in the nonfiction category.

DECEMBER 2, 2020

Ongoing Efforts Around HIV/AIDS

Yesterday was World AIDS Day, so today we're talking about people in Indiana affected by HIV and AIDS, and local groups working to serve them during the pandemic.

DECEMBER 3, 2020

The North Split

Today we talk about the North Split Reconstruction Project in Indianapolis to find out why it was started, what impact it might have on the community around it, and what construction will look like over the next two years.

DECEMBER 4, 2020

The Best of 2020 Indiana Genre (Repeat)

Today we revisit our conversation with Indiana authors nominated for the 2020 Eugene and Marilyn Glick Indiana Authors Awards in the genre category.

DECEMBER 7, 2020

The People and Communities Impacted By Coal Plant Closures

Today on All IN we talk about Indiana coal plant closures, and the economic and environmental impact these plants have on local communities.

DECEMBER 8, 2020

The Shortlist: The Best of 2020 Indiana Poetry (Repeat)

Today we re-air our show with Indiana authors nominated for the 2020 Eugene and Marilyn Glick Indiana Authors Awards in the poetry category.

DECEMBER 9, 2020

The Shortlist: The Best of 2020 Indiana Children's Books (Repeat)

Today we revisit our conversations with the authors nominated for the 2020 Eugene and Marilyn Glick Indiana Authors Awards in the children's category.

DECEMBER 10, 2020

Indiana's Response To The Pandemic

Today we talk to a public health expert to get his thoughts on Indiana's response to the pandemic, and to a health reporter about what different counties across the state are doing to mitigate the spread of the virus in their communities.

DECEMBER 11, 2020

Indiana's Show Caves (Repeat)

Today we revisit our show with the people who manage Indiana's commercial caves, and experts on cave geology and exploration, to learn about the state's subterranean world.

DECEMBER 14, 2020

Mental Health For Indiana's Teachers And School Staff

Today we talk about the mental and emotional health of teachers and school staff across Indiana.

DECEMBER 15, 2020

A Conversation With Former Indiana First Lady Judy O'Bannon (Repeat)

Former Indiana first lady Judy O'Bannon has been a champion of historic preservation efforts in the state for decades, and is being recognized for it. We talk about her passion for preservation and public life.

DECEMBER 16, 2020

What's At Stake For Hoosiers With Unemployment Insurance?

Today we find out what unemployment insurance looks like in Indiana, how the pandemic has changed access to these benefits, and what's at stake for the Hoosiers who have it.

DECEMBER 17, 2020

Reporter Roundtable: Indiana's 2021 Legislative Session

Today we hear from our statewide team of reporters to find out what to expect during Indiana's upcoming legislative session.

DECEMBER 18, 2020

Who was Madam C.J. Walker? (Repeat)

Madam C.J. Walker was born to slaves and died the first self-made female millionaire in the United States. Her business was built in Indiana, but her legacy extends far beyond her fortune.

DECEMBER 21, 2020

The Skills Gap Debate (Repeat)

The "skills gap" is the idea that there's a disconnect between what workers can do and what jobs require of them. But the impact of the skills gap, and the ways in which we use the term, are up for debate.

DECEMBER 22, 2020

The Push For Carbon Neutrality (Repeat)

Today we talk about a bill that would allow carbon offsets to be sold in Indiana. How would it be assessed or regulated? And what does the science tell us about trapping carbon from the atmosphere?

DECEMBER 23, 2020

The Character of American Democracy (Repeat)

Today we talk to Jill Long Thompson, former U.S. Representative from Indiana's 4th District, about the role ethics plays in government.