As the founder of Something Greater Ministries, she seeks to serve God by creating opportunities for people to encounter God through prayer, scripture study, community, and the teachings, traditions, and spirituality of the Catholic Church. Her second book: Born to Soar: Unleashing God's Word in Your Life is a Scripture and Prayer Journal which draws spiritual insights from the miraculous life cycle of the Monarch Butterfly. www.melissaovermyer.com . Her new book with Ascension, From Worry to Wonder: A Catholic Guide to Finding Peace Through Scripture .	- Worry plagues so many of us. What is your "starting point" for helping someone who's just trying to get a hold on this part of their life? - You talk about "mental boundaries" in the book, as in habits you've cultivated to help your mind "dwell" on what is true, good, and beautiful. What helped you decide that this was an important habit to build in your own life? You share stories of truly difficult times for your family: first the serious injury of your daughter during a surfing trip, and then the total loss of your family home to a fire. What did you learn about worry, trust, and praise during those times? How do those lessons stay with you today? - What is the 40-day journal all about? - What will readers find in the Worry to Wonder toolkit? - You've been studying and sharing Scripture for 30 years. Which passages really speak to you on this topic of worry? Why? - I understand that you're a Catholic convert. What was your journey of conversion like? What drew you to the Catholic faith?
