

Statement of Limitations of Commercials During Children's Programming
WRLW-CD Q3 2023

I certify that WRLW-CD has complied with FCC rules regarding limitations of commercials during children's programming under the following.

Furthermore, WRLW-CD only airs Public Service announcements or appropriate station promotional announcements during the local insert of breaks during Core E/I programming.

The FCC's rules limit the amount of commercial material that can be aired in certain children's television programming to 10.5 minutes per hour on weekends, and 12 minutes per hour on Weekdays.

These requirements apply to television broadcasters, cable operators, and satellite providers.

These limitations are prorated for programs that are shorter than one hour in duration.

The programming at issue for the commercial time limits is programming originally produced and aired primarily for an audience of children 12 years old and younger.
