January 6, 2024	Temporary and Transitional Housing in the Northeast	Host: Carmen Shantz  Guest: Frank Morrison, Executive Director and Founder, Community House on Broadway, (Longview, WA). https://www.choblv.org  Description: The Community House on Broadway is a clean and sober homeless recovery center that exists to help individuals and families in Cowlitz County become self-sufficient by providing temporary and transitional housing for homeless individuals and families. Individuals can stay for ninety days or more to work on their addictions. They also have a hotel for families and individuals and a nursing home for those struggling with mental health. Sixty percent of those served are adults coming from addictions and many have lost custody of their children. As a Christian organization, they show kindness to their clients to reach them, as the clients’ brains have been affected by PTSD and drugs. Trained counselors are on site, with childcare nearby, in a safe, clean housing environment, regular nourishing meals, emergency clothing and personal items, professional case management (help developing and adhering to an action plan) and a working conduit with existing physical, mental, and spiritual support services within the community.

They offer programs like kindergarten readiness, friends, family and neighbors caregivers’ education, and behavioral support. The minimum income for those served is about 20% less than the state average. Thirty percent of kids in Longview under 6-years-old live in low-income households and so parents need access to affordable childcare. They have CPR classes and book clubs that give the caregivers a chance to network and care for themselves. Cowlitz Community Network needs volunteers to care for the children of those attending workshops and book clubs.

January 6, 2024	Developing Good Habits and Stronger Relationships (25 minutes)	Host: Jenny Burkhiser  Guest: Shaunti Feldhahn, Author of The Kindness Challenge, Social Researcher, and Speaker, (Norcross, GA).  https://shaunti.com/; www.jointhekindnesschallenge.com  Description: The Apostle Paul says in Philippians 4, “do not be anxious about anything,” but that is much easier said than done, especially when it comes to money. Most couples (92%) have some degree of conflict or tension around money. When couples argue or disagree about money, what is really going on deep down within? There are five different factors that determine couples’ response to money-related conflicts. One of the factors discussed was, “we don’t value what the other person values.” Shaunti discussed how couples can communicate their needs and values to each other to better understand what the real issue is in a money conflict. In a marriage relationship, learning to be financially responsible and creating a budget is great, but if a spouse is not on the same page with creating a budget, that can make being financially responsible frustrating. Finally, Shaunti explained the importance of kindness in all relationships and encouraged taking the Kindness Challenge and then employing the following steps: nix the negative, practice praise, and be generous to start the new year with good habits and stronger relationships.

Faith and Blue was inaugurated in 2020 by MovementForward, Inc., working with the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS Office) at the U.S. Department of Justice. The ties that bind officers and residents must be reinforced if neighborhoods are to be built where everyone feels safe and included. Rev. Maus shared that school choice is important in that it allows parents to choose what school they desire their child to attend, despite any financial constraints. For 40 years, Smithtown Christian School (SCS) has been a place where faculty, staff, and administration are committed to preparing the youth of today to be the leaders of tomorrow. SCS is a faithful, caring community, in the midst of an unstable and confusing world, where students are educated to think Biblically, serve effectively, and lead Christ-centered lives through academic excellence and spiritual growth. At SCS, parents have the opportunity to see their children encouraged to pursue academic excellence so that through their careers, passions, and daily lives, students can effectively glorify God and minister to others.

Food insecurity is defined by the United States Department of Agriculture as the lack of access, at times, to enough food for an active, healthy life and it is impacting the entire nation. For example, according to a New York State Department of Health report on food insecurity, about one in four adults (24.9 percent) in New York State experience food insecurity. Within New York State, the percentage of adults who report that they are food insecure varies by county and ranges from 11.2 percent to 39 percent. Whether caused by unemployment, poverty, and income shocks, which can prevent adequate access to food, or other reasons, Lighthouse Mission is committed to feed the poor, but their goal is to empower people to overcome poverty and live purpose-filled lives. Pastor Howie encouraged each individual to be aware of the needs from their local pantry and encouraged financial or nonperishable item donations, or for a church or small group to volunteer time and effort to gather food items or finances in the local community.

		prepare for disasters. It is essential, then, for seniors and the people who care for them to give a lot of thought to how best to respond to natural disasters. They should, ideally, plan and prepare for them. “Take Control in 1, 2, 3” Campaign encourages older adults, emergency managers and all those who work with and support older adult communities to take three simple steps: 1) assess needs, 2) make a plan, and 3) engage support networks. FEMA has also created a Disaster Preparedness Guide for Older Adults that provides checklists and questions to answer under each step and is specifically designed for older adult communities. These include but are not limited to: learning about the types of disasters within their specific communities and signing up for electronic alerts, building a kit to be prepared for disaster at any time, and engaging friends, family, and caregivers in plans, ensuring they are each aware of specific needs during an emergency. Taking appropriate precautions can not only help mitigate risk and danger but help save lives.

In fact, according to the American Psychological Association’s annual Stress in America survey, 87% of Americans say that the rising prices caused by inflation are a significant source of stress. Lower-income, younger adults and women are the most likely to report delaying care. However, Christians don’t have to face delays due to the combination of skyrocketing premiums plus high deductibles and other out-of-pocket costs: Health Care Sharing Ministries are more affordable monthly than health insurance, leaving far more in a family’s pocket to manage other out-of-pocket costs. Health Care Sharing Ministries (HCSM) should not be confused with health insurance. When members go to a doctor or hospital or incur a medical cost, they submit the bill to their community through the ministry. The community regularly shares big-ticket items like treatments for cancer or heart disease. Members pray for other members, send shares to assist with bills,

The statistics paint a troubling picture: one in five high students ages 12-18 years reported being bullied during any given school year; approximately 160,000 teens reported skipping school to avoid bullying; and students who say they are frequently bullied score lower in reading, mathematics and science than their peers. Factors that cause boys in particular to bully other children are 1) the lack of a male role model in a young man's life and, 2) boys inherently process emotions differently than girls. Boys need action, activity and purpose to channel their emotions in positive and constructive ways, yet these are the very elements denied to boys during school. Boys are hard-wired with a drive for action, risk and adventure. As the largest Christ-centered, boy-focused scout-type organization in the country, Trail Life USA offers a dynamic mentor-led program that nurtures spiritual growth, teaches life lessons, and molds boys to become bold, courageous, godly men. They offer activities such as camping, hiking, and outdoor activities help build deep relationships and provide a special context for leadership, problem-solving, conflict-resolution, and character-building. 		this complicated issue, many states do not have enough foster homes for the number of children who need them. This has led them to be “housed” in jails and offices. Restoring order and routine to children who have been removed by authorities is crucial in their developmental process. Focus on the Family has designed, “Wait No More,” a Foster Care and Adoption Program, to raise adoption awareness and recruit parents for children and youth in the U.S. foster care system. Their desire is to see local church members “step up” to welcome these children into their homes. This is an achievable goal because the number of church congregations outweighs the number of children in need. Local congregations are perfectly placed to make a big impact on children in foster care in this country. Wait No More inspires and mobilizes the Church to do its part to extend the love and hope of Christ to these children. An integral part of their program is a recruitment event called Wait No More: Preparing Hearts and Homes for Kids in Foster Care, which is coordinated in partnership with local and state child welfare officials, adoption agencies, ministries, and local churches. Whether becoming a foster family or supporting those who are fostering, each person can support U.S. youth in foster care.

It erodes our communities, weakens the rule of law, and undermines our national security. Every year, millions of people are exploited within and across borders. Many victims are exploited for commercial sex, adults and children alike. In 2023, the Institute sought to hear from the survivors themselves about their experiences in recovery. Specifically, given that 66% of trafficking shelters in the U.S. identify as Christian programs, they wanted to find out how various faith practices were helping—or hurting—survivor progress. They received 158 responses nationwide and the findings were overwhelmingly positive. Christ followers have an opportunity to share the love and forgiveness they have experienced with trafficking victims, sharing the gift of time and listening. Some of the ways to join in the fight against human trafficking: 1) offer prayers for the shelter leaders, dedicated staff, and resilient survivors who stand at the frontline of this battle; 2) be a force of change in your community by volunteering at a local shelter, as time and dedication can make a life-changing difference for those seeking refuge and support; 3) be equipped with the knowledge and tools to fight trafficking effectively, using your voice to advocate against sexual exploitation. Other ways to help are to offer support to individuals struggling with pornography, become a guiding light for vulnerable children in your community, or make a lasting impact on the lives of families and children by becoming a foster parent or offering respite care. Finally, consider igniting a movement in your church or community by organizing a human trafficking awareness event.

		the Bible. Sadly, many in today’s American society do not seem to be aware of the Biblical events of Jesus’ death, crucifixion, burial and resurrection, even in our country where the Bible is freely available. Rev. Hedding said that teaching children of the strong Biblical connections between Passover and what Jesus did for humanity on Good Friday are powerful. It is important to note that both the Apostle Peter and John the Baptist refer to Jesus as the Lamb of God. By this imagery, they take us back to the Passover story where the blood of a lamb saved the Israelites from destruction (Exodus 12:21-23). This is precisely what Jesus has done for all of us! He has saved us from the Destroyer or the wrath to come. Rev. Hedding shared how individuals, families, and churches can celebrate Christian Passover meals to remember and share the Gospel with the next generation as Easter approaches.
March 30, 2024	Equipping Parents and the Church to Hide God’s Word in Children’s Hearts	Host: Jenny Burkhiser  Guest: Charles White, Retired Christian Preschool Teacher of and Editor, www.bibleparent.com, (Topeka, KS).  Description: In the U.S., the Church is losing 86% of the children raised in church and yet only 15% of ministers regarded Sunday school as a leading concern. About 83% of Christians make their first commitment to Jesus between the ages of 4 and 14 yrs. and yet one out of four churches has closed their Sunday School, with the decline increasing every year. God’s commands for parents can be found in Deuteronomy 6:5-9: “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your might. And “these words that I command you today shall be on your heart. You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise. You shall bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. You shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.” Charles noted that the essence of God’s commands to parents is to surround their children with Bible verses: on their walls and windows, doors and bedsides, pockets etc. His website provides many free resources, including daily Bible verses, calendars, and coloring books, for churches to reproduce and give to parents in their own “Bible Makeover” at home to bring children up in the instruction of the Lord.
