Healthcare	Confirmed flu cases are also starting to climb in the Kanawha Valley. Health officials say the H-1-N-1 strain is the most predominate this season. It is also known as swine flu and caused the 2009 pandemic.	1/1/14
Political	Beckley has a new mayor tonight. The city council met earlier this evening to appoint an interim mayor, taking the place of Emmett Pugh. The new Mayor of Beckley, Bill O'Brien, takes the place of long-time mayor Emmett Pugh, who resigned in 2013 amidst scandal.	1/2/14
Healthcare	Freezing temperatures don't just mean danger on the roads, winter storms also mean deadly threats to your health. If you stay out longer than 30 minutes than you could probably get very cold and sick. Bundling up is important but even then, serious health effects like frost bite can set in. Hypothermia is the most life threatening when the thermometer drops below freezing.	1/6/14
Crime	Your help is needed this evening to find two fugitives on the run. Shawn Diablo Mills is wanted for possession with intent to deliver. Ryan Monroe is wanted for being a felon and possessing a gun.	1/7/14
Healthcare	Kids at WVU's Children's Hospital had a special visitor today, Batman took time out of his busy day to stop by. He took pictures and taught a lesson or two. The Dark Knight taught the kids the "Be a Hero Message" by never giving up, doing the right thing, helping others and never being a bully.	1/8/14
Healthcare	Federal officials are distributing water to areas impacted by the spill. We've just learned 75 truck loads of water are coming to the mountain state from the Federal Emergency Management Agency. The first shipments are expected to arrive tonight. The main focus is hospitals, nursing homes and people who are most vulnerable.	1/10/14
Political	Governor Earl Ray Tomblin says progress is being made. He spoke in a news conference this afternoon, updating people on the plan to get clean tap water back in people's homes. He says officials are lifting the ban in a strict, methodical manner to help ensure the water system is not overwhelmed by excessive demand, which could cause more water quality and service issue.	1/13/14
Political/Economy	West Virginia American Water has said they'll give customers credit for the water they will be using to flush their pipes. Many of you were wondering if the Charleston Sanitary Board would do something similar. At a news conference today, Mayor Danny Jones explained that the municipal bond is not a for-profit service, so a discount will not be available to people using the service.	1/14/14

Crime	Beckley Police say an arrest is imminent after a meth lab found in an area hotel room. Beckley Police and fire crews responded and found a shake and bake meth lab in a room at the Mictrotel in Beckley. Investigators tell us employees pulled the fire alarm, after they suspected two people were cooking drugs inside.	1/15/14
Crime	Right now, police are searching for a robber on the run. Police in Oak Hill say the Comac store, in Oak Hill, was robbed at gunpoint, around 9 last night. Deputies say the man got away with $250, and that he left the store on foot.	1/18/14
Political	With thousands of West Virginians still concerned about their water, lawmakers are finding a way to try and prevent this sort of emergency from happening again by creating legislation at the state and federal level. Governor Earl Ray Tomblin joined others to announce legislation aimed at closing the loopholes that allow storage facilities like Freedom Industries to go unregulated.	1/20/14
Crime	A Raleigh County mother charged in the death of her 2 year old son learns her fate in court today. Brandy Smallwood is charged with child neglect leading to death and serious injury. She will spend time in jail for her crimes.	1/21/14
Education	Parents, you might be wondering, what if Raleigh County Schools go over their allotted snow days for the year? Raleigh County schools will be closed again tomorrow. That means all 8 days of their snow day limit will be used. If there's more snow days after day 8, Superintendent Jim Brown says, it will not cause any more days to be added to the school year. However, Brown tells us starting this Fall, that's changing.	1/22/14
Political	West Virginia Secretary of State Natalie Tennant plans to file her candidacy papers for the US Senate race. Tennant filed papers this morning at her office in the state Capitol in Charleston. The Democrat announced her candidacy in September. She is looking to fill the Senate seat being vacated by the retiring Senator Jay Rockefeller.	1/24/14
Crime	A man who used to be a trusted member of the law enforcement community is now facing possible jail time. Police originally charged James Butcher in August 2013 with delivering oxycodone, possessing a controlled substance and also conspiracy to deliver. In a plea hearing this morning Butcher and the state agreed to drop the two additional charges if Butcher pleaded guilty to delivering a controlled substance.	1/27/14
Economy	Coal takes center stage as part of the 41 st annual West Virginia Coal Association Mining symposium. It got underway today at the Charleston Civic Center. The symposium provides industry leaders with a chance to come together and discuss current energy and economic trends, mine safety, as well as health and environmental issues.	1/29/14

ISSUE	DESCRIPTION	DATE
Education	All the snow days we've seen are forcing school systems across southern West Virginia to adjust their calendars. Mercer County alone lost eleven days to bad weather. That's more than the number of make-up days built into the school calendar. To make up that time, the board of education plans to turn three instructional support days to regular school days.	1/30/14
Education/Political	Early voting starts today on a school levy and bond in Raleigh County. The school levy has been in place for years and the vote will just continue what's already in place. The money for that helps continue programs in place throughout the schools. The bond is another matter. It would provide money to improve school buildings across the country.	1/31/14
Education/Health	Families across the region are worried about the water inside their children's schools. Six schools had to re-flush their lines this weekend after they tested above the acceptable levels for crude M.C.H.M. Tests show that George Washington High School, John Adams Middle School, and Andrew Heights Elementary in Kanawha County are now in the clear.	2/3/14
Political	Voters in Precinct 63 who would cast ballots at the new Marsh Fork Elementary School will now be voting at the Raleigh-Boone Technical Center. That is in the Old Pettus Grade School building. Polls will be open from 6:30 on Saturday morning.	2/4/14
Crime	A McDowell County Catholic Church leader is sent to prison for soliciting a 16 year old girl on the internet. Charles Hannon, a brother with St. Peter's Catholic Church in Gary, was sentenced to 2 to 10 years in jail after pleading guilty to sending inappropriate emails to the young girl.	2/5/14
Healthcare	A Greenbrier County doctor is indicted for involuntary manslaughter. The indictment says Dr. Leslie Abigail Winters prescribed pain medication to Marcus Vaughn last February which resulted in his death. We've learned Vaughn checked into the emergency care unit before heading to Dr. Winter's office to be treated for back pain.	2/7/14
Political	A congressional hearing in Charleston focuses on the water crisis that left the area without drinking water more than a month ago. The Chemical Safety Board shared a picture of two holes found in the bottom of the tank at Freedom Industries. These are the two holes that led to the massive chemical leak last month. Federal investigators say Freedom Industries hired inspectors just 3 months before the spill.	2/10/14
Healthcare	Hospitals in our area are suffering because of so many open positions. A new nursing program at UC Beckley might help fill those positions. Today, the regional president for the University of Charleston announced plans to start an associate degree in nursing program. President, Jerry Forster, has had this plan in the works for a while now and he said it's been a long time coming.	2/11/14

Economy	Businesses across the region are getting hit with a loss because of the weather. 59News Reporter Heather Leigh was in downtown Lewisburg talking to shop owners about how much the storm costs them. She found that heavy snow was to blame as it kept some of the local businesses closed and the shops that did open only saw a few customers.	2/13/14
Economy	Alligator, rabbit, caribou and all kinds of critters were on the menu today in Dunbar. The Critter Dinner has been going on for the last 40 years. Admission to today's event was either 5 cans of non-perishable food or a donation, and all of the proceeds from the dinner go to benefit the Dunbar Institute Samaritan Food Pantry.	2/15/14
Education	Investigators are looking for who is behind a threat made at a local high school. We are told a note was found claiming that there was a bomb in the school. According to Superintendent Jim Brown, the students were evacuated to Trap Hill Middle School. The all clear was given at Liberty High School at around 12:45 this afternoon following the bomb threat.	2/17/14
Political	A new bill in West Virginia could make it more difficult to make meth. The Senate passed a bill today that will regulate the sale of drugs used in the production of methamphetamine. If passed by the West Virginia house, pseudoephedrine related products will be prescription only.	2/18/14
Political	Senator Joe Manchin is addressing your concerns in Southern West Virginia. He started the day in Fayetteville and wrapped up at the Raleigh County Courthouse. People were invited to come out and talk to the senator about various issues affecting the state and the nation including the economy and the water crisis.	2/19/14
Crime	State Police are investigating a shooting in Greenbrier County. Troopers with the State Police detachment in Lewisburg confirm shots were fired around 4pm yesterday in Ronceverte. Troopers say the shooting happened within a vicinity of a home. The investigating is still on-going.	2/23/14
Political	Members of the West Virginia Legislature are looking at ways to allow cities to set their own gun laws. This came out of last year's debate over home rule when lawmakers expanded the program, but removed the ability municipalities like Charleston had to set strict gun laws. This year, the Legislature is revisiting the gun issue, and a few bills have been moving through the process. One was up for a vote this morning in the Senate.	2/24/14
Crime	A murder trial begins for a man accused of stabbing his girlfriend to death in Raleigh County. Jeremy Lambert is on trial for a murder almost three years ago.	2/25/14
Crime	Today a judge sentenced a Monongalia County teen for her involvement in the July 2012 murder of Skylar Neese. Rachel Shoaf was sentenced to 30 years in a state prison for the second degree murder of Skylar Neese. Shoaf's attorney's request to sentence Shoaf as a juvenile was denied. Shoaf will remain in a juvenile facility until her 18 th birthday, at which time a hearing will be held to determine Shoaf's placement in an adult correctional facility.	2/26/14

Economy	The Beckley Women's Expo starts tomorrow. The expo will be at the Beckley-Raleigh County Convention Center. It features more than eighty southern West Virginia businesses and organizations displaying everything from health products to fitness gear and jewelry.	2/27/14
Education	West Virginia University now has a new permanent president. E. Gordon Gee served as interim president since last December. The university's board of governor's named Gee to take over full time today during an emergency meeting in Morgantown. The decision follows a recommendation on Friday by a university search committee that endorsed Gee for the job permanently.	3/3/14
Economy	Next time you head to the supermarket you may be surprised by your receipt. Severe weather impacting the east and west coast has already started showing up in food prices. Local store managers say the price of beef is up by fifty cents to a dollar a pound. That's because the cold forced many farmers to shrink their cattle herds.	3/4/14
Crime	A woman is stabbed in the back after a fight in Beckley. Now police are investigating. The stabbing happened around three this morning on Grant Street. When officers arrived, they found a woman stabbed twice in the back. They learned it happened after an argument which escalated into the attack.	3/5/14
Crime	The latest developments tonight, a verdict has been reached in the trial of a man accused of killing his theatre dancer girlfriend. Jeremy Lambert is found guilty of 1 st degree murder without mercy. Lambert is accused of stabbing his former girlfriend, Cyan Maroney, to death more than two years ago.	3/6/14
Education	Students statewide are preparing to take the spring Wes Test. The test helps teachers evaluate where students are in their learning. But with many days of school missed this year due to snow, some are worried that students won't be ready in time. Administrators say teachers are preparing students by not wasting any time in the classroom.	3/10/14
Political	Charleston Mayor Danny Jones is firing up a campaign against a gun bill that would limit a city's ability to restrict carrying guns on city property. The bill, which is now awaiting action from the governor would allow those with concealed-carry permits to bring guns into recreation centers.	3/11/14
Political	An organization in our area is getting a helping hand from local legislators. The Women's Resource Center was just given an $8,500 grant. West Virginia House of Delegates representative Ricky Moye presented the Women's Resource Center with the grant.	3/12/14
Economy	It's officially wedding season, and the Chuck Mathena Center held its first annual Bridal Gala today in Princeton. At the event, brides from around the area could view a fashion show of the latest gowns and dresses, as well as talk to local vendors about their services. Organizers say one bride even had the chance to win complimentary event planning services, a cake, and $500 towards a dress.	3/15/14

Crime	The case of a school bus fight that ends with a death of a woman from Bluefield comes to a close. Judith Kowaleski will spend 7 years and 6 months in prison. If you remember Kowaleski killed Elizabeth Slagle in March of last year. She pleaded guilty to a Voluntary Manslaughter charge in January. It began with a school bus fight between Kowaleski's daughter and the daughter of Elizabeth Slagle. Slagle allegedly attacked Kowaleski with a stun gun, and Kowaleski shot Slagle with a .38 caliber pistol.	3/17/14
Education	We have exclusive video from inside a special Raleigh County Board of Education meeting as Superintendent Jim Brown says he's resigning. Although Brown resigned today, he is agreeing to stay on until July 1 st while another superintendent is found. Brown sent out an official statement regarding his resignation stating because of personal issues he is forced to resign.	3/18/14
Education/Health	High school students are taking a stand against smoking. They're asking classmates to help them kick butts. During every lunch today at Independence High School a group of students demonstrated to their classmates what exactly happens to your lungs when you smoke.	3/19/14
Healthcare	State health officials are seeking patient data from physicians who might have treated people affected by the Jan. 9 chemical spill. A Bureau for Public Health commissioner says the state is reaching out to health care providers to obtain data on any patient who might have been exposed to the contaminated water.	3/23/14
Economy	In Raleigh County, workers with the Salvation Army say they're more than grateful for the outpouring of support of donations from the community. Earlier today we talked to Core Officer Captain Robert Barber who is thankful for the local generosity. Barber tells us the donations are a blessing and allows the organization to assist local residents in need. However, he says one problem is some of the items being donated are left after hours. The items left overnight can get damaged by morning having to be disposed of and causing for a big hike for the Salvation Army's dump bill.	3/24/14
Crime	A man convicted of involuntary manslaughter is wanted after not showing up in a Greenbrier County courtroom today. Antonio Smith failed to appear in court today for sentencing. Smith was convicted of pushing Ira Harris down a staircase, ultimately leading to his death in February 2012.	3/25/14
Political	Governor Tomblin signs a controversial gun bill into law affecting concealed carry rules across the Mountain State. The law states that people with concealed carry permits can bring guns to city owned recreational facilities. The law requires people to store those guns securely out of view and access to others.	3/26/14

ISSUE	DESCRIPTION	DATE
Crime	A Raleigh County man charged with making terroristic threats to police and government official, was in court for a competency hearing today. Prosecuting attorney Kristin Keller asked the court to send Ronald Collins to a mental facility for 6 months until he can be restored to a healthy mental state and would be fit to stand trial. Dr. Bobby Miller testified that Collins suffers from bipolar disorder and is not fit at this time to continue in the judicial system.	3/27/14
Education/Crime	A community in Tazewell County wants answers tonight after a break-in at an elementary school. Raven Elementary School officials say the principal showed up to the school this morning to find it vandalized. Tazewell County deputies were called to the scene around 6 this morning and began investigating. They say at least two people forced entry into the school through a window.	3/31/14
