Topic: U.S. fighter plane shoots down Chinese balloon

The Chinese balloon flying across the United States has become a global focus. After an 8-day flight over the U.S. from west coast to the east, on Saturday, the Balloon was shot down by a missile fired from a U.S. warplane over the Atlantic Ocean in South Carolina, bringing the incident to a dramatic end. China expresses its strong dissatisfaction and protest against the U.S.'s insistence on using force and attacking civilian unmanned airships, and criticizes the U.S. for overreacting and violating international practices. China states that it reserves the right to make further necessary responses.

Topic: START - "New Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty" expires in 2026

The United States and Russian Federation signed a "New Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty" in 2010, which came into effect the following year with a validation till 2021. And the two countries agreed on a five-year extension of New START to keep it in force through February 4, 2026. START limits the number of US-Russian strategic offensive weapons, namely intercontinental ballistic missiles, submarine-launched ballistic missiles, heavy bombers for nuclear missions, and the nuclear warheads they are equipped with; no more than 1,550 nuclear warheads can be deployed on these delivery platforms. On August 8, 2022, Russia announced its decision to temporarily withdraw from the treaty facility inspection mechanism because the United States hopes to restart inspection activities without considering the current realities.

Topic: Haley Suggests Elderly Presidential Candidates Take IQ Tests

Nikki Haley, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations who announced her candidacy for the 2024 U.S. Presidential Election, recently suggested that candidates over age of 75 should take mandatory intelligence tests. In an interview broadcast on Monday (6th) US time, the first lady of the United States, Jill, refuted that the idea is absurd, and even pointed out that the question of whether her husband Biden would be tested would never be discussed. Gill refuted the claim that Biden is too old to run for re-election, and asked how many 30-year-olds can go to Poland and then take a 9-hour train to Ukraine to meet with President Zelensky. Although Biden has not yet announced his re-election bid, Gill said she fully supports her husband's re-election bid, but it Biden's decision. If Biden wins re-election next year, he will be 82 when he takes the oath.
