Issues Report – January 31, 2016

Duration: 29:55

Issue: economic development

The Midland City Council has called a special election to ask voters to extend the 4-B Sales tax for another 25 years. Voters approved the tax to pay for the construction of the Scharbauer Sports Complex. Now that the two stadium complex will be paid for this year, city leaders want to continue the tax to pay for maintenance of the stadiums while funding parks and recreation projects. Mayor Jerry Morales and Councilman Jeff Sparks present opposing views on the proposal. (12:00)

Issue: Harmony Home

Harmony Home, a center for dealing with abuse of children and women, holds their annual Super Bowl Party as their major fund raiser. Executive Director Marisol Espinoza talks about the fund raiser and the various programs they have in dealing with abuse. (11:00)

Issue: West Texas Food Bank

Supporters of the West Texas Food Bank celebrated the opening of their new warehouse facility that is about three times larger than their previous facility. Executive Director Libby Campbell told reporters of the various programs they have to deal with hunger in 19 counties of West Texas. (6:00)

Duration: 29:55

Issue: Economic development

The Midland City Council approved an agreement between the Midland Development Corporation to help fund the establishment of an aeronautical engineering program at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. They hope the graduates of the program will provide a work force for the burgeoning aerospace industries growing in a new business park at Midland Air and Space Port. UTPB President Dr. David Watts, Midland City Councilman J. Ross Lacy, and MDC secretary Robert Rendall comment on the program. (9:30)

Issue: Suicide prevention

The Midland Education Foundation is hosting a conference of mental health professionals to explore the causes of teen suicide and discuss ways to prevent young people from taking their own lives. One day of the conference will be open for parents and the general public to participate. MISD spokesman Jami Owen speaks to morning show hosts Robert Hallmark and Kurt Verlei. (10:30)

Issue: Long Term Acute Care

Medical Center Hospital in Odessa holds a ribbon cutting for a new 25 bed unit dedicated to Long Term Acute Care. The unit will serve acute care patients who require longer recovery times than standard acute care patients. The care is one step below intensive care. Complete Care CEO Judith Schiros and Medical Center Chief Operating Officer Tony Ruiz comment. (9:00)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 1-24-2016

Length: 29:15

Issue: economic development

The City of Odessa completes a deal with Pioneer Natural Resources to sell treated effluent from the city's water reclamation plant. Pioneer will use the treated waste water for oil and gas fracking operations, paying the city up to 117-million dollars over the years. The city will get revenue they otherwise would not get for disposing of a waste product. Some of the money will be used to build a reverse osmosis water plant.
(10:00)

Issue: Aphasia Center fundraiser

The West Texas Aphasia Center will hold a "Chocolate Decadence" Valentine Day's event to raise funds for the center. The money will go to the center's efforts to help people who have suffered a loss of brain and speech coordination as a result of strokes or other medical conditions. Spokeswoman Kitty Bennett spoke with morning show hosts Robert Hallmark and Kurt Verlei.
(11:00)

Issue: UTPB Athletics

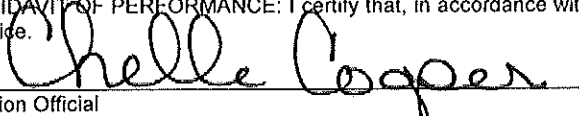

The University of Texas of the Permian Basin unveiled three new logos that will be used with the 12 intercollegiate sports programs at the university, including the new football team that begins play in the fall. The new logos are intended to represent strength, determination, and ferocity. They will appear on the university's sports uniforms and will be sold on T-shirts and other apparel at local stores.

Issue: Teen Suicide

The clinical director for the Society for the Prevention of Suicide, Maureen Underwood, talks about the causes of teen suicide and possible ways to prevent it. The Midland Independent School District hosted a two day conference of mental health experts to discuss teen suicide. The district had experienced several teen suicides in recent years. (19:30)

Issue: oil economy

Petroleum economist Karr Ingham of Amarillo was in Midland to testify before a hearing of the Texas House Energy Committee. He said excess supply of oil and diminishing demand will leave the oil economy depressed for the foreseeable future. He predicts that oil prices will recover, but it is hard to predict when that will happen. (8:00)

Length: 29:35

Issue: STEM Accelerator

Odessa College hosted a ceremony to mark the beginning of a coalition to improve instruction of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math in several West Texas high schools, community colleges, and four year universities. Western Texas College official Dr. Roy Bartels and Education Texas Chief Program Officer Chris Coxon discuss the program. The coalition plans to work together on improving STEM instruction. (19:00)

Issue: AVID demonstration site

Officials with AVID announce that Odessa College is the first institution of higher learning to be designated as a demonstration site for their program. AVID works to prepare public school students for college, even if there is no family history of attending college. Odessa College will be a model for other community colleges. They will see how Odessa College helps students succeed once they get to college. (5:00)

Issue: Midland's 4-B Sales Tax

Midland Mayor Jerry Morales explains why the city council withdrew its efforts to place an issue on the May 7th ballot. That issue would have allowed voters to decide whether to extend a portion of a sales tax that had been dedicated to paying off the construction of the Scharbauer Sports Complex. Once the bonds have been paid off, several city leaders want to continue levying the tax to support maintenance of the complex and other parks facilities. They hope to clarify the language of the issue and put it before voters in November. (5:00)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 3-06-2016

Length: 29:52

Issue: Crime prevention

Odessa Police Chief Tim Burton announced the creation of a coalition of federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies to crack down on gun violence in Ector County. The coalition will hold monthly meetings to discuss particular cases, and how each agency can contribute resources to investigate and arrest dangerous suspects.
(16:00)

Issue: Handicapped access

A specialist in Americans with Disabilities Act requirements, R.W. Gregonis, talks with Midland business owners on the specific requirements of the act. Midland Chamber of Commerce spokeswoman Nellwyn Barnett says this was prompted by lawsuits filed against several local businesses, seeking settlements for violations.
(8:00)

Issue: Crime prevention

Midland Police release their annual report on serious crimes. The report showed increases in several crime categories. Midland Police Chief Price Robinson says despite the increases, the overall crime rate remains relatively low. He discussed several programs the department is using to help citizens prevent crimes.

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 3-13-2016

Length: 29:57

Issue: Ray Perryman economic forecast

Texas economist Ray Perryman presented his annual economic forecast for the Permian Basin. He predicted oil prices will recover slowly by the end of the year. He says the current downturn is not as bad as a similar downturn in the 1980s. (24:00)

Issue: Midland Police social media

Police spokeswoman Geena Arevalo talks about the launch of a new mobile phone app that will allow residents to record an inventory of home valuables. In the case of a burglary, they would be able to instantly provide police with photos and serial numbers of items that were stolen from their homes or cars. The app would also provide alerts about traffic congestion or neighborhood emergencies. (5:30)
