ISSUES REPORT

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 7-24-2016

Length: 29:30

Issue: Economic development

Waste Control Specialists spokesman Chuck McDonald discusses progress in his company's quest to get a license to operate a high level radioactive waste disposal facility in Andrews County. They already operate a low level storage facility, but want to store high level waste such as spent fuel rods from nuclear power plants. (18:00)

Issue: Education

Ector County School Superintendent Tom Crowe discusses a District Continuous Improvement Program. The plan outlines their continuing efforts to improve reading and math skills, along with standardized test scores. (5:00)

Issue: Insurance scams

Joe Woods, a spokesman for the Property Casualty Insurers Association of America, talks about scams roofing contractors perform after homeowners have already made hail damage settlements with their insurance companies. They encourage homeowners to file additional claims, and then sue the insurance companies. The additional lawsuits could cause the companies to raise their rates. (6:00)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 7-31-2016

Length: 29:50

Issue: Veterans Issues

Odessa unveils a statue and memorial plaza to honor "American Sniper" Chris Kyle, who was born in Odessa. The plaza is intended to honor all veterans and offer them a place for reflection. Kyle's widow, Taya Kyle, comments. Odessa businessman Kirk Edwards discusses the financial and in-kind donations that went into the project. (10:30)

Issue: Midland Need to Read

Midland Need to Read spokesman Jessica Smith discusses an event to promote literacy classes for adults. (12:00)

Issue: Crime prevention

Midland Police Chief Price Robinson talks about efforts to buy body cameras for Midland Police officers. The cameras will video record how officers interact with the public when they respond to police calls. Robinson says it is a voluntary effort to provide transparency of their operations to the public. (7:00)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 8-07-2016

Length: 29:45

Issue: Crime prevention

Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms officials hold a news conference with Odessa Police to explain the legal consequences of purchasing a firearm on behalf of a convicted felon, who is forbidden by law from owning a firearm. They explain that the "Don't Lie for the Other Guy" public service campaign hopes to convince people that they risk up to ten years in prison if they violate the law. (14:00)

Issue: Salvation Army banquet preview

Salvation Army of Odessa board member Laura Dennis previews a banquet to honor community leaders who have helped the mission of the Salvation Army. (10:00)

Issue: Charity fundraising

Association of Professional Fundraisers local chapter chairman Gail Heathington talks about a meeting of local fundraisers with local representatives for corporations. The fundraisers discuss their strategies to raise funds to support local non-profit agencies. The representatives from the corporations talk about their own charitable gift giving strategies. They discuss their own goals for improving the community. (4:00)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 8-14-2016

Length: 29:30

Issue: Law Enforcement

Senator John Cornyn confers the Congressional Badge of Bravery to local U.S. Deputy Marshal Steve Clark at a ceremony at Midland Federal Court. Clark was honored for risking his life in an attempt to aid Midland Sheriff's Deputy Mike Naylor, who was mortally wounded while serving a warrant. Clark crawled into the line of fire to reach Naylor.

Senator Cornyn and Midland Sheriff Gary Painter say law enforcement officers deserve praise for performance above and beyond the call of duty. (10:00)

Issue: Criminal justice

Ector County District Clerk Clarissa Webster discusses a new website portal that allows persons receiving jury summons to respond to jury summons online. The portal allows them to submit information requested on the summons before they have to report in person to the courthouse. They can also use the portal to request exemptions, or a one time request to reschedule their jury service. (13:00)

Issue: Crime prevention

Ector County Attorney Dusty Gallivan discusses a resolution requesting that the state legislature allow the county to regulate game rooms in unincorporated areas of the county. Gallivan says the sheriff's office and many citizens complain of illegal activities that occur in and around game rooms. The legislature can issue authority to the county to regulate the business and the hours of operation. (6:30)

WEST TEXAS UPDATE

Date: 8-28-2016

Length: 29:50

Issue: Midland city taxes

Midland city councilmen John Love and J. Ross Lacy debate a possible tax increase to support repairs to city streets. Mayor Jerry Morales says a balance has to be met to keep taxes low while still providing necessary city services. (11:00)

Issue: Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center

PBRC spokesman Kathryn Norwood previews a fundraising dinner while explaining the mission of the Rehab Center. (9:30)

Issue: Ector County Clerks Office

Ector County Clerk Linda Haney says her office had to move out of their space at the Ector County Courthouse until environmental crews could remediate health hazards. The hazards were created by pigeons and other animals accumulating their droppings in the ceiling of the clerk's office. Clerk's employees took up temporary residence in the courthouse annex, where I-T technicians set up a temporary computer network to continue service to the public. (8:30)

Issue: Health Care

The president of Pink the Basin, Laura Barnes, talked about an upcoming fundraising banquet. Proceeds will help pay for mammograms that can help with early detection of women's breast cancer. (12:00)

Issue: Hunger prevention

Hunger Free Texans held a regional conference at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa to coordinate social service agencies. Hunger Free Texans CEO Aaron Herrera says various agencies can help set up farmers' markets, community gardens, and other food access points. Their ultimate goal is to make food available to families that are "food insecure". Medical Center Hospital vice president Jacqui Gore says the hospital has been working with the Farmers' Market to provide healthier food choices for patients recovering from various ailments. (12:00)

Issue: Lifeline Ambulance service

Odessa Fire Rescue official Ron Huber encourages people to sign up for the Lifeline Service, which guarantees Ector County residents a flat low rate for ambulance service. In return, Odessa Fire Rescue gets much needed funds to pay for firefighting and life saving equipment. (6:00)

Issue: Education

Odessa College is named to the top ten of the Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence. The Aspen Institute assesses the performance of community colleges for academic performance and how well they prepare their graduates for the work force. A one million dollar grand prize will be awarded to the top school in March of 2017. (10:30)

Issue: Special Needs Children

Former Midland residents Steve and Jan Davidson discuss plans to build a new Opportunity Park, a playground for children with special needs. They built the original Opportunity Park 27 years ago in honor of their son, who died of Muscular Dystrophy. The new park will be built on land donated next to the Bush Tennis Center as soon as they complete the fund raising for the project. (13:00)

Issue: Habitat for Humanity

Habitat for Humanity celebrates its return to Odessa after several years of absence. Habitat executive director Alynda Best joins a groundbreaking ceremony at a home site in Odessa, which still needs about $25,000 before they can begin construction of a new home. The program helps low income residents own their own homes, provided that they can afford their house payments. (6:00)
