WRKH provides its listeners with programming and public service announcements that address issues of concern to our local community. Among the issues determined to be of most concern to the community during the preceding calendar quarter were:

- Disabilities/Education: Scott Parks, the executive director for Project Outreach Gulf Coast... and two members of Project Outreach at their high schools, Sarah Reier at Spanish Fort and Courtney Cooner from Saraland talk about the program, which focuses on helping students with disabilities and their typical peers come together for the better of them both. Project Outreach is promoting local "Shooting for Change" basketball events for Autism awareness.
- Drug Abuse and Prevention: Drug Education Council director Virginia Guy talks about the local impact of the nationwide opioid crisis, how to recognize a drug problem in your family and how the Drug Education Council can help you find the resources you need. The Council has educational programs in local schools, to prevent drug abuse.

The Fair features local employers in industries such as hospitality, aerospace, law enforcement, financial services, plus seminars for job seekers.
- Environment: Casi Calloway and Laura Stone from Mobile Baykeeper talk about coal ash... what it is, where it's located at Alabama Power's Barry Steam plant on the Mobile River, and how it could affect Mobile waterways and local environment if there was a breach of the containment system and tons of coal ash got into the Mobile River.
- Healthcare Assistance: Alabama Kidney Foundation is the only state-based organization in Alabama that provides direct services to kidney patients through financial assistance, education and support services. The Mobile Kidney Walk is the Foundation's premier fundraising event, dedicated to raising funds to help local kidney patients. iHeart Mobile/Pensacola formed a team for the Walk in honor and memory of a co-worker who just died.
