=====WORKING LONG HRS DOUBLES DEPRESSION (20 SEC)

A NEW STUDY SHOWS THAT EXTRA TIME AT THE OFFICE INCREASES YOUR CHANCE FOR DEPRESSION. THE STUDY, WHICH LOOKED AT WHITE-COLLAR CIVIL SERVANTS IN ENGLAND, FOUND THAT PEOPLE WORKING AT LEAST 11-HOURS A DAY HAD ABOUT TWO-AND-A-HALF TIMES HIGHER ODDS OF DEVELOPING DEPRESSION THAN THOSE WHO WORKED SEVEN OR EIGHT HOURS. THE LINK WAS STILL THERE EVEN AFTER RESEARCHERS ACCOUNTED FOR OTHER FACTORS LIKE JOB STRESS, SMOKING AND ALCOHOL USE. THE STUDY SUGGESTS THOSE IN JUNIOR AND MID-LEVEL POSITIONS WERE MORE LIKELY TO BE DEPRESSED THAN MANAGERIAL TYPES, WHO MAY HAVE MORE CONTROL OVER THEIR WORK.

=====CANCER DRUG ERASES ALZHEIMER'S SYMPTOMS (22 SEC)

SCIENTISTS SAY THEY "SERENDIPITOUSLY" DISCOVERED THAT A DRUG USED TO TREAT A TYPE OF CANCER QUICKLY REVERSED ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE IN MICE. IN THE STUDY, RESEARCHERS AT CASE WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE GAVE MICE MEGA-DOSES OF BEXAROTENE, A DRUG USED TO TREAT A TYPE OF SKIN CANCER CALLED CUTANEOUS T-CELL LYMPHOMA. WITHIN 72 HOURS, THE MICE SHOWED DRAMATIC IMPROVEMENTS IN MEMORY AND MORE THAN 50% OF AMYLOID PLAQUE -- A HALLMARK OF ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE -- HAD BEEN REMOVED FROM THE BRAIN. THE STUDY WAS PUBLISHED IN THE JOURNAL SCIENCE. PATHOLOGY TESTS ON THE MICE SHOWED BEXAROTENE LOWERED THE LEVELS OF AMYLOID BETA AND RAISED THE LEVELS OF APOLIPOPROTEIN E, WHICH HELPS KEEP AMYLOID BETA LEVELS LOW. RESEARCHERS TESTED THE MEMORIES OF MICE WITH ALZHEIMER'S BOTH BEFORE AND AFTER GIVING THEM BEXAROTENE. FOR EXAMPLE, THE ALZHEIMER'S MICE WALKED RIGHT INTO A CAGE WHERE THEY'D PREVIOUSLY BEEN GIVEN A PAINFUL ELECTRICAL SHOCK, BUT AFTER TREATMENT WITH BEXAROTENE, THE MICE REMEMBERED THE SHOCK AND REFUSED TO ENTER THE CAGE. IN ANOTHER TEST, THE SCIENTISTS PUT TISSUE PAPER IN A CAGE. NORMAL MICE INSTINCTIVELY USE TISSUES IN THEIR CAGE TO MAKE A NEST, BUT MICE WITH ALZHEIMER'S CAN'T FIGURE OUT WHAT TO DO WITH THE TISSUES. AFTER TREATMENT WITH THE DRUG, THE ALZHEIMER'S MICE MADE A NEST WITH THE PAPER. CARRILLO SAID ONE OF THE MAJOR ADVANTAGES OF BEXAROTENE IS THAT IT'S ALREADY BEEN APPROVED BY THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION FOR USE IN HUMANS, WHICH MEANS THE RESEARCHERS CAN MOVE INTO HUMAN TRIALS SOONER THAN IF IT WERE A COMPLETELY NEW DRUG.

OVER 32 WEEKS, BOTH GROUPS INITIALLY LOST WEIGHT ON THE LOW-CALORIE DIET, BUT RESEARCHERS FOUND THAT EVENTUALLY, THE GROUP THAT DIDN'T HAVE DESSERT FOR BREAKFAST REGAINED THE WEIGHT, WHILE THE DESSERT GROUP KEPT LOSING WEIGHT. OVERALL, THE DESSERT GROUP LOST AN AVERAGE OF 40 POUNDS MORE THAN THE NON-DESSERT GROUP. RESEARCHERS NOTED THE NON-DESSERT GROUP DIDN'T FEEL FULL AND EVENTUALLY CHEATED ON THE DIET PLAN, WHILE THE DESSERT GROUP HAD FEWER CRAVINGS LATER IN THE DAY. THE SCIENTISTS NOTED THE KEY IS TO INDULGE IN THE MORNING WHEN THE BODY'S METABOLISM IS MORE ACTIVE.

Meanwhile, social conservatives are rallying behind former Pennsylvania senator Rick Santorum, even disillusioned ones like Chris La Tondresse, founder and CEO of an organization called Recovering Evangelical. In a column at CNN.com_La Tondresse said "there's no questioning Santorum's social conservative bona fides," but "more than any other Republican candidate (and even more than some Democrats), Santorum speaks openly and passionately about his concern for poor and vulnerable people in the U.S. and

PKG: 2:11

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security [DHS] announced the launching of a hot line for people jailed on immigration charges who believe they are victims of abuse, or are U.S. citizens detained through immigration enforcement in error. The telephone service is Washington's latest effort to address concerns about suspected undocumented immigrants booked in local jails. The new policy comes after recent reports of U.S. citizens being deported and DHS putting an end to an immigration enforcement agreement it had with Maricopa County Sheriff's Office (MCSO) in Arizona, due to "discriminatory policing practices" which allowed Sheriff Arpaio's deputies to check the immigration status of local jail inmates and triggered a series of allegations of racial profiling and discrimination against Latinos.

MEN HAVE 2/3 OF JOBS

VO: 19

Men are claiming more than two-thirds of the private-sector jobs created as the economy recovers, reversing a long-running trend that came within a whisker of giving the USA its first-ever majority-female workforce. In a wrinkle that puzzles economists, one important driver of the trend is that hundreds of thousands of men are showing up in retailing, once considered a source of jobs for women. Nearly 1.28 million men gained jobs in the 12 months that ended in November, compared with 600,000 women, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics

(BLS). Although men have returned to work in greater numbers in goods-producing jobs and service-related businesses, they're not returning to still-stagnant construction industries. Instead, retailers have added 216,900 men - about five times as many as have been added by traditionally male financial services companies - vs. about 9,000 women. Also, manufacturers have added more than 250,000 men and cut 33,000 women.

"It is alarming that a candidate who claimed that the McCain/Kennedy comprehensive immigration reform bill was 'reasonable' now advocates kicking immigrants out of America - even families who've lived here for a generation and those who have raised children and grandchildren here, pay their taxes, obey the law, are members of their churches and communities, and even volunteer to serve in the military and in harm's way."

"I believe that such an improper advertisement, paid for by the New York taxpayers, should be shown only in age-appropriate high school classroom settings. The fact that this video is available for people of all ages to view on the internet is alarming," Golden said in a statement about the clip, which was put out by the non-profit Community Health. Golden continues, "In this day and age, it is dangerous to indirectly advocate for safe sex. This campaign has the potential to confuse our youth and encourage them to actually engage in unsafe sex. This advertisement campaign must be reevaluated as it is my belief that it could actually cause unintended consequences, such as a rise in teen pregnancy and the spread of sexually transmitted diseases."

NEW IMMIGRANT RULES
LOURDES MELUZA - WASHINGTON, DC
PKG: 2:11

The Obama administration has proposed to change a rule to reduce the time illegal immigrant spouses and children are separated from their American relatives while they try to gain legal status in the United States. Currently, many illegal immigrants must leave the country before they can ask the government to waive a three- to 10-year ban on coming back. U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Director Alejandro Mayorkas said Friday the change would let children and spouses ask the government to decide on a waiver request before they head to their home countries to apply for visas to return. Mayorkas says the change would reduce family separations to days or weeks, from months.

CALIFORNIA DREAM ACT REPEAL FAILS

A petition to repeal a California law allowing undocumented immigrants access to taxpayer-funded scholarships, failed to get enough signatures, its backers say. An drive to place repeal of the California Dream Act on the state ballot came up short -- netting 447,514 of the required 500,000 signatures required to present to the secretary of state by the Friday deadline, the Los Angeles Times reported. "This is disappointing news," said the public face of the petition drive, San Bernardino Republican Assemblyman Tim Donnelly. "It is no less of a warning to Gov. Brown, and every [Democratic] legislator who voted to create a new entitlement program for illegals while the state still has a budget deficit over $9 billion, and cannot even meet it's obligation to legal California students," Donnelly said.

"Month by month, industry by industry, and state by state, America's labor market grew stronger in 2011. We're now seeing sustained job growth across almost every industry. We created nearly 2 million private sector jobs in 2011, and the unemployment rate fell in 45 states and the District of Columbia last year. FLORIDA IMMIGRATION REPORT

Florida lawmakers will likely have another battle over immigration during their upcoming session. State Rep. Gayle Harrell, R-Stuart, on Friday filed a bill that would require employers in the state to check the status of new employees against a federal database also known as E-Verify. The new requirement would start in January 2013 if lawmakers approve the bill. Last year the GOP-controlled Legislature debated a tough immigration bill that was backed by several leading Republicans. But the House and Senate could not agree on the bill and the measure died. Since that time neither Gov. Rick Scott nor other legislative leaders have spoken much about the need for legislation this year.

USA CALIFORNIA DREAM ACT

Organizers have failed to gather enough signatures for a California voter initiative aimed at barring illegal immigrants from receiving public aid for college, a leader of the campaign said on Friday. The petition drive led by state Assemblyman Tim Donnelly, a Republican, took aim at 2011 legislation known as the California Dream Act. The first part of the legislation signed into law in July by Governor Jerry Brown, a Democrat, allowed illegal immigrants to receive privately funded college scholarships. The second part signed in October also extended state-funded aid to certain illegal immigrants, and that is what opponents sought to overturn.

The Swiss drug maker said it implemented the recall, which affects U.S. retailers, voluntarily and is working with the Food and Drug Administration during the process. It became aware of the potential problem during an internal review that identified broken and chipped pills, and inconsistent bottle packaging that could cause pills to be mixed up. The company said it wanted to make sure that customers didn't take any pills that they might be allergic to or that might become dangerous when mixed with their other medications, though it also said that there have been no such reports from consumers.

In a legislative analysis written for the Republican majority on the House Education Committee, supporters of the bill said the burden would be upon the applicant to prove his or her citizenship. The rules would require the same signed affidavit and documentation process applicants use to prove state residency. Opponents, led by Democratic Rep. Chrysler announced plans today to continue sprucing up its Belvidere, Illinois plant, now with a clearer goal in mind: the plant will be tapped to produce the Dodge Dart, the company's upcoming sedan, a move that the automaker says will add 1800 new jobs. The Belvedere plant previously built the Jeep Compass, Patriot, and the Dodge Caliber The Caliber's long-overdue death late last year brings in some space for the Dart. The line is presently building re-production examples, but should ramp up to full volume early this year. Adding the Dart to the Belvedere plant took a bit of work on Chrysler's part. New tooling, line upgrades, a 638,000-square-foot body shop, and quality-ocused metrology center were recently bestowed upon the plant. All told, the upgrades represented a $700 million investment in the Belvedere facility. The better news - at least for the United Auto Workers - is that the addition of Dart production also means additional workers. Chrysler announced it's adding a third shift to Belvedere for the first time since 2008. As a result, the automaker expects to hire 1800 new employees, including 500 tied directly to launch production of the Dart. Once hiring is finished, the plant's workforce should grow from 2700 to 4500 employees.

It's National Wear Red Day the American Heart Association's campaign to spread awareness for heart disease in women, their number one killer. Are you wearing red today? An estimated one in four women dies from heart disease in the U.S., according to the National Heart Lung and Blood Institute. That's more deaths from heart disease than the next four causes of death combined, says the AHA. But 80 percent of those deaths could be prevented if women eat right, exercise, and don't smoke. That's why the AHA spreads awareness through its Go Red For Women campaign so women "don't become a statistic." Besides keeping themselves healthy, the AHA says women should look out for signs of a heart attack so they call 9-1-1 and get to a hospital immediately - or at most within five minutes. Women should be on the lookout for uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain in the center of their chest that lasts for more than a few minutes or comes and goes. Also, be on the lookout for pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach. Shortness of breath, with or without chest discomfort, are also signs of a heart attack, along with breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness.

IMMIGRATION NEW MEXICO DRIVER LICENSES

VO: 22

A fight over whether to stop undocumented immigrants from getting driver's licenses in New Mexico is on hold temporarily while Democrats make a last-ditch effort to reach a compromise with Republican Gov. Susana Martinez who wants to scrap the license policy. The House Judiciary Committee decided not to take a final vote on the issue late Wednesday night after spending more than four hours debating the politically charged issue. New Mexico and Washington are the only states allowing undocumented immigrants to obtain the same driver's license as a U.S. citizen. Utah grants immigrants a driving permit that can't be used for identification. The committee chairman, Rep. Al Park of Albuquerque, warned that, without a compromise, the struggle over the license issue was shaping up as a repeat of last year when the House voted to stop issuing licenses to undocumented immigrants but the Senate rejected that proposal

GALO ARELLANO - MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG: 2:16

As Floridians head to the polls for today's GOP primary, it is likely that many of Florida's unemployed voters have been looking for a new job for a while. Florida has the highest long term unemployment rate of any states, 53% of unemployed workers in the state have been out of a job for six months or longer, according to Census data. When the housing bubble imploded, so did Florida's job growth. The state's unemployment rate hit a high of 12 percent in December 2010 - one of the highest in the nation. Economists say it is improving, but slowly. Although the market is starting to loosen up, there are four jobseekers for every open position in Florida, said Mason Jackson, chief executive of the WorkForce One career center in Fort Lauderdale. Businesses are still hesitant to hire because of continued uncertainty in the economy. "If we filled every job we could find, 75% would still be unemployed," Jackson said. Nationally, 42.5 of unemployed workers have been looking for work for six months or more. Florida Gov. Rick Scott (R) spent much of 2011 talking about the state's one million unemployed workers and proposed tax credits to help spur job growth, which his aide admitted wouldn't actually create jobs

ALABAMA REPEAL ACTION

VO :20

In the year since it has become law, HB 56 has been nothing short of a disaster for Alabama. HB 56 has legitimized racial profiling, terrorized persons of color regardless of their legal status, frightened children, entrapped foreigners - including business executives - and damaged the state's economy. According to a new analysis by Sam Addy, director of the Center for Business and Economic Research at the University of Alabama, HB 56 could cost the state between $2.3 billion and $10.8 billion in economic output and $265 million in tax revenue. The impact of the law has been so harsh and so counterproductive that even proponents of HB 56 have concluded that the law must be fixed. But HB 56 is beyond repair and it must be repealed for the good of Alabama and its residents.

U.S. states reached a landmark $25 billion deal Thursday with the nation's biggest mortgage lenders over foreclosure abuses that occurred after the housing bubble burst. The deal requires five of the largest banks to reduce loans for about 1 million households at risk of foreclosure. The lenders will also send checks of $2,000 to about 750,000 Americans who were improperly foreclosed upon. The banks will have three years to fulfill the terms of the deal. It's the biggest settlement involving a single industry since a 1998 multistate tobacco deal. Federal and state officials announced at a news conference that 49 states had joined the settlement. Oklahoma announced a separate deal with the five banks. The settlement ends a painful chapter that emerged from the financial crisis, when home values sank and millions edged toward foreclosure. Many companies processed foreclosures without verifying documents. Some employees signed papers they hadn't read or used fake signatures to speed foreclosures -- an action known as robo-signing.

Instead, employees of those institutions will be able to get free contraception directly from health insurance companies. Other groups who had objected to the administration's original rule supported Obama's change Friday.

In arguments set for Monday in San Francisco, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals will consider the latest challenge to voter-approved Proposition 209, which outlawed affirmative action programs in all public agencies across the state. The same court in 1997 upheld Proposition 209, but civil rights advocates, armed with a decade of new data on student admissions to the University of California system and what they consider a favorable 2003 U.S. Supreme Court decision, are pressing for a different outcome.

A judge on Wednesday blocked a federal requirement that would have begun forcing U.S. tobacco companies to put large graphic images on their cigarette packages later this year to show the dangers of smoking and encouraging smokers to quit lighting up. U.S. District Judge Richard Leon in Washington ruled that the federal mandate to put the images, which include a sewn-up corpse of a smoker and a picture of diseased lungs, on cigarette packs violates the free speech amendment to the Constitution. He had temporarily blocked the requirement in November, saying it was likely cigarette makers will succeed in a lawsuit, which could take years to resolve. That decision already is being appealed by the government. Some of the largest U.S. tobacco companies, including R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and Lorillard Tobacco Co., had questioned the constitutionality of the labels, saying the warnings don't simply convey facts to inform people's decision whether to smoke but instead force the cigarette makers to display government anti-smoking advocacy more prominently than their own branding.

President Barack Obama declared Tuesday that diplomacy can still resolve the crisis over Iran's possible pursuit of nuclear weapons, and he accused his Republican critics of "beating the drums of war." "Those folks don't have a lot of responsibilities," Obama said. "They are not commander in chief." Tension with Iran, and Obama's preference for restraint, dominated his first full news conference of the year, held on the same day that Republican Super Tuesday voting was drawing attention as well.

Gas prices are down for the second day in a row. Triple-A says prices dropped about three tenths of a cent. The nationwide price for a gallon of regular remains at 3-76. Congressional Republicans and Democrats are again battling over rising gas prices. At a hearing Wednesday, Republicans and oil industry leaders called for more U.S. production, while Democrats focused on conservation and the role of Wall Street speculators.

Private-business hiring in February was solid, according to a report released Wednesday. The number suggests an equally strong gain in Friday's payrolls report. Private-sector jobs in the U.S. increased 216,000 last month, according to a national employment report published by payroll giant Automatic Data Processing Inc, and consultancy Macroeconomic Advisers. The gain was close to expectations of 215,000 put forth by economists surveyed by Dow Jones Newswires. The January data were revised to show a gain of 173,000 instead of the 170,000 increase reported earlier.

MERCURY DISCOVERED IN COSMETIC PRODUCTS*MARTIN BERLANGA. MIAMI, FLORIDA*PKG 2:00

FDA identified 35 products. Women in at least seven states may have been unwittingly slathering poison on their faces by using mercury-tainted cosmetics, the Food and Drug Administration warned today. The products, usually used for lightening skin, are sold as soaps, skin creams, and lotions. In all, the FDA has identified 35 products, most of them manufactured overseas, and most sold in Latino, Middle Eastern, African-American, and Asian neighborhoods. Mercury poisoning can cause illness and even death, and while the amounts of mercury in the cosmetics is typically low, mercury, like lead and some other poisons, accumulates in the body. Mercury is also readily absorbable through skin. It damages the nervous system and other organs such as kidneys. Consumers could be giving themselves frequent small doses of poison that will eventually lead to symptoms like irritability, tremors, depression, memory problems and changes in hearing and vision.

A U.S. appeals court ordered the state of Alabama on Thursday to stop enforcing additional parts of its controversial new immigration law, pending review of a federal challenge to the measure that is considered the toughest in the nation. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit, based in Atlanta, issued a brief order expanding its initial injunction to include provisions that barred illegal immigrants from obtaining a driver's license and barred courts from enforcing contracts that involved illegal immigrants. The appeals court in October blocked the state from enforcing another key provision of the law that required schools to check the immigration status of children on enrollment.

US: MORE WORK NEEDED TO STOP YOUTH TOBACCO USE*BLANCA ROSA VILCHEZ. NEW YORK*PKG 2:00

More work needs to be done to keep young Americans from using tobacco, including creating smoking bans and increasing taxes on tobacco products, the U.S. Surgeon General's office said in a report released Thursday. Almost one in five high school-aged teens smokes, down from earlier decades, but the rate of decline has slowed, the report said. It says it's particularly important to stop young people from using tobacco because those who start smoking as teenagers can increase their chances of long-term addiction. They also quickly can experience reduced lung function, impaired lung growth, early heart disease and other health problems like asthma. More than 80 percent of smokers begin by age 18 and 99 percent of adult smokers in the U.S. start by age 26, according to the 920-page report, which is the first comprehensive look at youth tobacco use from the surgeon general's office in nearly two decades.

Once again, the numbers are better than expected -- with the United States adding 227,000 jobs last month. The unemployment rate held steady at 8.3 percent -- the first time in six months that it didn't decline -- and that's only because a half-million Americans started looking for work. Campaigning today in Mississippi, Mitt Romney didn't directly address the report, but he criticized President Barack Obama for failing to bring the jobless rate below 8 percent. Obama, meanwhile, says there is still work to do, more than three years after what he calls the worst economic crisis of our lifetime.

"STARS" Act (Studying Towards Adjusted Residency Status) it's a modified version of the controversial DREAM Act, the long-stalled legislation that would allow undocumented students to remain in the country. Currently, undocumented immigrants do not begin to accumulate unlawful status until six months after they turn 18. Under the STARS Act, students within the sixth-month grace period would be allowed to extend their stay in the United States if they are graduating high school and planning to attend a four-year university. Students considered for residency adjustment would have to have arrived in the United States before they turned 16, as well as lived in the country for five consecutive years before applying.

Three undocumented immigrant college students led a group of people across the Golden Gate Bridge this afternoon to kick off a cross-country march to Washington, D.C. in support of the Development, Relief and Education for Alien Minors Act, also known as the Dream Act. The three students and one ally student, who is the first American-born citizen in her family, are set to travel some 3,000 miles and visit 285 cities and towns nationwide to educate people about the DREAM Act, which would provide a path to citizenship for undocumented college students. Backed by various immigrants' rights groups, the marchers call their journey the "Campaign for the American Dream" and expect to reach the capitol in October just before the presidential election, according to John Rodney, a spokesman for the California Immigrant Policy Center. Saturday afternoon, the four students were joined by staff members from immigrants' rights groups and about 20 local supporters, including students from the University of California at Berkeley and City College San Francisco. Chants of "Education, not deportation!" and "Dreamers united will never be divided!" echoed as the group made its way to the Presidio shortly after 1 p.m.

Speakers at a Friday rally at the Capitol that capped this week's Selma-to-Montgomery march attacked Alabama's immigration law and a law that starting in 2014 will require Alabamians to show photo ID at the polls, with some exceptions. Wade Henderson, president of The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights in Washington, called Alabama's immigration law, known as House Bill 56, the "most vile" in the country. "The state of Alabama ... is once again using fear and intimidation as weapons against those without power. This time, the targets are Latinos and the aim is to drive them from their homes and their communities," Henderson said. "And just like segregation, we know that this path leads to the death of the American dream," he said

SPRINGBREAKERS PADRE ISLAND WARNING
DALIA RAMIREZ - PADRE ISLAND, TEXAS

PKG: 1:45

For the third year in a row the Texas Department of Public Safety has issued a travel warning, advising students to stay out of Mexico during spring break. Just Friday the bodies of four victims ranging in age from 14 to 21 years old were found in plastic bags along with a threatening note in Central Mexico. Police said the victims were killed by a drug gang. The dangers are also strong for spring breakers headed to South Padre Island and that plan to cross the border into Mexico. It's been 23 years since a UT Austin student went to South Padre Island during spring break, crossed the border into Matamoros, Mexico and never returned. He was kidnapped and brutally killed by a cult. It's now a story that has resurfaced as spring breakers of both past and present remember Mark Kilroy. Freshman college student Jordan Pina who has plans to spend his spring break at the island said, "I'm pretty excited. I get the feeling that I got when I first went. A lot of festivities, a lot going on so I'm pretty excited". It's a playground for college students who often cross the nearby border into Matamoros where minors can drink. But, one thing is for sure, Jordan has no plans to party in Mexico. He said, "I have family over there in Brownsville, which is right by there so we all know not to go over there, it's very dangerous over there". This is the third year in a row the Texas Department of Public Safety put out a warning on the dangers of spring breakers traveling to Mexico. But, for Maritza Reyes the danger extends back to her college days when a UT student was kidnapped and mutilated by a Mexican cult.

LOS ANGELES PRO IMMIGRATION MARCH

Hundreds of protesters have taken to the streets of Los Angeles, in the US state of California, during a week of campaigning to protest against a pattern of anti-immigrant laws which have already passed legislation in numerous states throughout the country. "The 99 percent, the community, is not going to allow that kind of hatred to spill into states like California and others. So we're here to send a message to everyone that we're going to stand together united and not allow any of these things to happen," said Martin Terrones, a union organizer. Protesters say the country's anti-immigrant laws are against some of America's most important civil rights achievements, pushing the country back to racial hatred and division. "Fifty years after Martin Luther King, Jr., and Rosa Parks took a stance against all these discriminations and laws in the South, now it's happening again but this time only to the Latino community," Terrones said.

And this month they're getting an additional boost as investors bet that supplies will shrink ahead of the summer driving season.

People who eat a lot of red meat are more likely to die at any given time than those who go light on the burgers and hot dogs, a new study suggests. Researchers found that the more servings of processed or unprocessed red meat people reported eating daily, the higher their chance of more than a 20-year span. Red meat and especially processed red meat contains a lot of compounds and chemicals that have been linked to chronic disease risk," said Dr. Frank Hu, one of the study's authors from the Harvard School of Public Health -- and cooking red meat produces more carcinogens.
