=====NEW CIGARRETTE WARNING LABELING

IN THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGE TO U.S. CIGARETTE PACKS IN 25 YEARS, THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION RELEASED NINE NEW WARNING LABELS THAT DEPICT IN GRAPHIC DETAIL THE NEGATIVE HEALTH EFFECTS OF TOBACCO USE. AMONG THE IMAGES RELEASED ARE ROTTING AND DISEASED TEETH AND GUMS AND A MAN WITH A TRACHEOTOMY SMOKING. THE LABELS WILL TAKE UP THE TOP HALF OF A PACK OF CIGARETTE PACKS. WARNING LABELS ALSO MUST APPEAR IN ADVERTISEMENTS AND CONSTITUTE 20 PERCENT OF AN AD. CIGARETTE MAKERS HAVE UNTIL THE FALL OF 2012 TO COMPLY. MANDATES TO INTRODUCE NEW GRAPHIC WARNING LABELS WERE PART OF A LAW PASSED IN 2009 THAT, FOR THE FIRST TIME, GAVE THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AUTHORITY TO REGULATE TOBACCO, INCLUDING SETTING GUIDELINES FOR MARKETING AND LABELING, BANNING CERTAIN PRODUCTS AND LIMITING NICOTINE.

===== PA-BOY BURNS FEET AT PLAYGROUND (0:23)

A TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY IS RECOVERING FROM SERIOUS BURNS AFTER A PAINFUL EXPERIENCE AT A PENNSYLVANIA PLAYGROUND.

PLAYGROUNDS CAN BE A CONDUCTOR OF FUN IN THE SUMMERTIME BUT IT CAN DEFINITELY CAN GET VERY HOT, ESPECIALLY ON THE BLACK RUBBER SURFACES. THE KIDS FEET GOT BURNT RIGHT AWAY THEY WERE ALL WHITE, STARTED BUBBLING AND FEET STARTED SWELLING UP.

THE BETHLEHEM HOUSING AUTHORITY WHO RUNS THE PLAYGROUND SAYS IT HASN'T RECEIVED A COMPLAINT BEFORE. BUT KIDS GETTING BURNED ON PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT ACROSS THE COUNTRY ISN'T NEW. FIGUEROA QUESTIONS THE NOW-BLACK RECYCLED RUBBER FLOORS OFTEN USED. NEIGHBOR HEATHER ORTIZ IS A MOTHER OF TWO.

ON A HOT DAY IF A KID FALLS, EVEN FOR JUST A SECOND, FIGUEROA SAYS SHE'S SPOOKED THAT ANOTHER CHILD WILL GET HURT.

STANDUP -- LEHIGH VALLEY HOSPITAL SAYS THEY'RE NOT SEEING A LOT OF CASES LIKE LITTLE ALEX, BUT WHAT THEY ARE SEEING? KIDS BURNING THEIR FEET WHILE WALKING ACROSS METAL BASEMENT DOORS.

PARAMEDICS SAY HUMAN SKIN BEGINS TO BURN AT 124 DEGREES. BLACK RUBBER MATS HAVE BEEN TESTED AS HIGH AS 160 DEGREES.

NATS

IT'S NOT KNOWN HOW HOT IT WAS ON THE PLAYGROUND SURFACE THAT BURNED LITTLE ALEX. DOESN'T SURPRISE ME THAT IT WOULD BURN, BUT SECOND DEGREE BURNS DOES SURPRISE ME. FIGUEROA WANTS THE SURFACE OF THE PARK CHANGED AND WARNING SIGNS PUT UP; IN THE MEANTIME BANDAGES AND GAUZE ARE THE FOOTWEAR FOR LITTLE ALEX.

===== MAMMOGRAMS STUDY (0:19)

REGULAR MAMMOGRAPHY SCREENINGS REDUCE A WOMAN'S RISK OF DYING FROM BREAST CANCER. THAT'S ACCORDING TO A NEW STUDY INVOLVING MORE THAN 133-THOUSAND WOMEN OVER THE PAST 30 YEARS. IT COMPARED WOMEN WHO WERE GIVEN REGULAR MAMMOGRAMS TO THOSE WHO WEREN'T. THESE FINDINGS ARE NOT EXPECTED TO CHANGE THE U-S PREVENTIVE SERVICES TASK FORCE RECOMMENDATION THAT WOMEN GET SCREENED AT THE AGE OF 50 AND BEYOND, ONCE EVERY TWO YEARS.

THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY DISAGREES, SAYING ANNUAL MAMMOGRAMS SHOULD START AT AGE 40.

===== Date: 04/04/2011 - Monday

=====BREAST MILK SCREENING (:17)

NEW RESEARCH OUT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FINDS THAT SCIENTISTS MAY BE ABLE TO ASSESS A WOMAN'S RISK OF DEVELOPING BREAST CANCER BY LOOKING AT THE CELLS IN HER BREAST MILK. INVESTIGATORS COLLECTED MILK SAMPLES FROM 250 WOMEN WHO WERE SCHEDULED TO HAVE BREAST BIOPSIES. THEY THEN ISOLATED PARTICULAR CELLS IN THE BREAST MILK, WHICH ARE PRONE TO CANCER AND THEN ISOLATED GENES IN THE MILK, TO LOOK FOR POSSIBLE CANCER DEVELOPMENT. THEY FOUND THE COMBINATION OF THE CANCER PRONE CELLS ALONG WITH CERTAIN GENES, WERE FOUND IN WOMEN WHO WERE EVENTUALLY DIAGNOSED WITH THE DISEASE. SCIENTISTS SAY, BECAUSE 80 PERCENT OF WOMEN ACROSS THE GLOBE GIVE BIRTH, THIS DISCOVERY COULD LEAD TO A SCREENING THAT WOULD COVER A LARGE PERCENTAGE OF THE FEMALE POPULATION.

=====ALZHEIMER NEW STUDY (:16)

TWO NEW REPORTS FROM GENETIC RESEARCHERS SHOW SOME PROMISING FINDINGS IN THE FIELD OF ALZHEIMER'S RESEARCH. THE FINDINGS WERE PUBLISHED IN NATURE GENETICS AND OUTLINE THE DISCOVERY OF FIVE NEW GENETIC MARKERS FOR THE DISEASE. PREVIOUS RESEARCH ONLY FOUND FIVE GENES THAT ACT AS PATHWAYS FOR THE MEMORY-STEALING DISEASE. SCIENTISTS SAY THE DISCOVERY DOUBLES THE NUMBER OF CLUES AS TO THE CAUSE OF THE DISEASE. RESEARCHERS ARE CAREFUL TO SAY AN ALZHEIMER'S CURE IS STILL A LONG WAY AWAY, BUT THE NEW FINDINGS ARE A CRITICAL POINT IN FINDING A CURE. ACCORDING TO THE ALZHEIMER'S ASSOCIATION, MORE THAN FIVE MILLION AMERICANS SUFFER FROM THE DISEASE. BY 20-50, THE GROUP ESTIMATES AS MANY AS 16 MILLION AMERICANS WILL BE DIAGNOSED WITH ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE.

IT'S BEING CALLED ONE OF THE LARGEST-EVER KIDNEY EXCHANGES AT A SINGLE HOSPITAL IN CALIFORNIA. FIVE HEALTHY DONORS GAVE ONE KIDNEY EACH TO FIVE RECIPIENTS AT CALIFORNIA PACIFIC MEDICAL CENTER IN SAN FRANCISCO. THE PROCEDURES ARE CALLED "PAIRED DONATIONS." THINK OF IT LIKE AN ORGAN DONATION SWAP MEET: PATIENTS WHO NEED KIDNEYS BRING LOVED ONES WHO WANT TO DONATE, BUT CAN'T -- BECAUSE OF COMPATIBILITY ISSUES. THE WILLING DONORS ARE MATCHED WITH STRANGERS WHO *ARE* COMPATIBLE. SO THE PATIENTS RECEIVE HEALTHY KIDNEYS, AND THEIR LOVED ONES ARE STILL ABLE TO DONATE TO SOMEONE ELSE WHO'S ALSO IN NEED. DOCTORS USE A SOPHISTICATED COMPUTER TISSUE-MATCHING PROGRAM TO CREATE THE DONOR CHAIN.

THE NEW RULES, WHICH WILL TAKE EFFECT IN 120 DAYS, REQUIRE AIRLINES TO PROMINENTLY DISCLOSE ALL FEES AND TAXES ON THEIR WEBSITES. IT ALSO INCREASES COMPENSATION FOR PASSENGERS WHO ARE INVOLUNTARY BUMPED, LIMITS "TARMAC DELAYS" FOR INTERNATIONAL FLIGHTS TO FOUR HOURS AND MAKES OTHER PRO-CONSUMER CHANGES. THE CHANGES EXCEED THOSE MADE IN THE 2009 AIRLINE PASSENGER RIGHTS RULE, WHICH WAS PROMPTED BY A FLURRY OF LENGTHY TARMAC DELAYS THAT PUT A NATIONAL SPOTLIGHT ON PASSENGER DISCONTENT.

RESEARCHERS FOUND VERY OBESE TEENS ARE ENGAGING IN HIGH-RISK BEHAVIORS LIKE SMOKING, DRINKING, DRUGS AND SEX -- AT THE SAME RATES AS HEALTHY-WEIGHT TEENS. MOST SURPRISING WERE THE FINDINGS THAT VERY OBESE GIRLS WERE *MORE* LIKELY TO HAVE SEX WHILE DRUNK OR HIGH. NOW BABIES AS YOUNG AS NINE MONTHS CAN GET A VACCINE TO PREVENT MENINGITIS. THE FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION HAS APPROVED THE DRUG -- MENACTRA -- TO BE USED ON BABIES AND TODDLERS. FOR YEARS, THE VACCINE HAS BEEN USED ON PEOPLE OVER THE AGE OF 2 TO PREVENT THE LEADING FORMS OF BACTERIAL MENINGITIS. INFANTS AND TODDLERS ARE PARTICULARLY VULNERABLE TO THE POTENTIALLY DEADLY DISEASE. MENINGITIS IS AN INFLAMMATION OF THE MEMBRANES THAT COVER THE BRAIN AND SPINAL CORD. EVEN WITH PROPER CARE, THE F-D-A SAYS UP TO 15 PERCENT OF PEOPLE WHO DEVELOP MENINGITIS DIE. ONE IN FOUR PEOPLE SUFFER COMPLICATIONS LIKE BRAIN DAMAGE OR HEARING LOSS. MENACTRA WAS ORIGINALLY APPROVED BY THE FDA IN 20-05.

=====Doctors Save Life & Limb With Leg Reversal Surgery (PKG 2:12)

OUR MEDICAL REPORTER CECILIA RAMIREZ HARRIS HAD A STORY ON THIS RARE OPERATION. DOCTORS HAVE SAVED THE LIFE OF A CHILD BY CUTTING OFF HIS LEG, AND SEWING THE LOWER HALF BACK ONTO HIS HIP - BACKWARDS. IT'S A PROCEDURE CALLED VAN NES ROTATIONPLASTY, AND IS PERFORMED ONLY ON A HANDFUL OF PATIENTS IN THE U.S. EACH YEAR.* "BASICALLY, WE TAKE OUT THE ENTIRE MIDDLE PART OF THE LEG (THE KNEE AND MOST OF THE THIGH), THEN WITH NERVES STILL CONNECTED, WE TURN THE BOTTOM PART OF LEG AROUND BACKWARDS, RECONNECT THE BLOOD VESSELS AND REATTACH THE LEG" SAID DR. JOEL MAYERSON, MD WHO PERFORMED THE SURGERY AT OHIO STATE'S JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL.

WHEN THE PROCEDURE IS COMPLETE, THE CALF ACTS AS THE PATIENT'S THIGH AND THE ANKLE THEN ACTS AS THE PATIENT'S KNEE, WITH THE FOOT FACING BACKWARDS. THEN, A PARTIAL PROSTHETIC LEG AND FOOT ARE USED TO COMPENSATE FOR THE MISSING BONE AND PATIENTS REGAIN MOBILITY. "IT'S UNBELIEVABLE HOW THEY CAN COMPLETELY REARRANGE YOUR WHOLE LEG AND STILL BE ABLE TO FUNCTION" SAID DUSTIN SMITH, WHOSE 12-YEAR OLD SON DUGAN HAD THE SURGERY. SMITH SAYS HIS SON HAD FEELING IN HIS LEG ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, "AND WITHIN AN HOUR OR TWO AFTER THAT SURGERY HE COULD MOVE HIS FOOT AND TOES."

WHEN TUMORS ARE DIAGNOSED ON THE FEMUR, OR THIGH BONE, PATIENTS ARE OFTEN GIVEN THREE OPTIONS: DOCTORS CAN AMPUTATE THE LEG ABOVE THE KNEE, THEY CAN REPLACE THE DISEASED BONE WITH A CADAVER BONE OR A MAN-MADE ROD, OR THEY CAN DO ROTATIONPLASTY. WHEN PRESENTED WITH THOSE OPTIONS, 12-YEAR OLD DUGAN SMITH DIDN'T HESITATE. "WHEN I HEARD ROTATIONPLASTY, THEY SAID I WILL BE ABLE TO RUN AND PLAY SPORTS, AND I JUST WENT STRAIGHT FOR IT. BECAUSE THAT WAS THE BEST THING TO DO" HE SAID.

WHILE SOME PARENTS MAY WORRY THAT THEIR CHILD'S BONE IS TOO FRAGILE TO WITHSTAND COMPETITIVE SPORTS, DOCTORS SAY, TO THE CONTRARY, THE LIVE BONES ARE MUCH STURDIER THAN THE ALTERNATIVES. WHEN METAL RODS ARE USED, SPORTS ARE ELIMINATED PERMANENTLY, FOR FEAR OF BREAKAGE. SAME WITH CADAVER BONES. "THAT IS STILL A DEAD PIECE OF BONE AND IS NOT ALIVE AND HAS A HIGH CHANCE OF BREAKING" SAID DR. MAYERSON. BUT BY USING THEIR OWN BONE, "THEY CAN RUN AND PLAY ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES WITHOUT ANY PROBLEM, THERE ARE NO ARTIFICIAL PARTS THAT THEY CAN BREAK, AND THEY CAN DO ANY ACTIVITY THAT THEY WANT TO" MAYERSON SAYS. WITHIN A MATTER OF MONTHS, DUGAN WAS BACK PLAYING BASKETBALL AND, WITH HIS FATHER AS HIS COACH, HE WAS PITCHING IN HIS FIRST BASEBALL GAME.

FCC REPORT FOR THE MONTHS OF APRIL, MAY, JUNE

DESPIERTA AMERICA

U.S. TO INVESTIGATE SECURE COMMUNITIES DEPORTATION PROGRAM VO: 24

The Department of Homeland Security's Office of Inspector General plans an investigation of an immigration enforcement program that purports to target "serious convicted felons" for deportation but has ensnared many illegal immigrants who were arrested but not subsequently convicted of crimes or who committed minor offenses, a letter obtained Wednesday shows. The letter from acting Inspector General Charles K. Edwards to Rep. Zoe Lofgren (D-San Jose), who requested an investigation late last month, said the watchdog agency had already scheduled a review of the program, known as Secure Communities. Homeland Security's Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency launched the program in 2008 with plans for mandatory nationwide participation by 2013.

POLL: AMERICANS WANT GOVERNMENT TO PUSH ECONOMIC MOBILITY VO: 25

An overwhelming majority of Americans want the government to help poor and middle-class Americans better their lot, but there was significant disagreement about whether or not the government was pursuing the right strategy. The poll seems to underscore a long-running truism that everyone wants to help the poor but no one agrees how to do it. Some 83% of respondents in a new poll by the Pew Charitable Trusts supported a government role in promoting economic mobility, and 58% said the government could do more. Yet 37% believed the government is pursuing the "wrong strategies" and 43% believed it was pursuing the right strategies ineffectually.

TX IMMIGRATION BILL JUAN JOSE RODAS - AUSTIN, TEXAS PKG 1:57

Hispanic lawmakers in the Texas Senate expect a bitter fight over a bill that would give most police officers the right to question detained people about their immigration status. The measure would also prohibit cities from adopting policies that ban the practice.

96 MINUTES WITHOUT A HEARTBEAT VO: 25

Ron Winslow discusses new medical techniques that are emerging to save lives when most body functions appear to have stopped. A little-known device is shaking conventional wisdom for reviving people who suffer sudden cardiac arrest: People may be able to go much longer without a pulse than the 20 minutes previously believed. The capnograph, which measures carbon dioxide being expelled from the mouth of the patient, can tell rescuers when further efforts at cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, are futile or whether they should be continued. It is the latest effort that cardiology experts and emergency teams are devising that aim to improve a patient's odds. The American Heart Association updates its CPR guidelines, prioritizing compressions over mouth-to-mouth. Watch a video tutorial on how to give CPR the updated way.

A BLOOD TEST OFFERS CLUES TO LONGEVITY

VO: 30

Blood tests that seek to tell people their biological age - possibly offering a clue to their longevity or how healthy they will remain - are now going on sale. But contrary to various recent media reports, the tests cannot specify how many months or years someone can expect to live. Some experts say the tests will not provide any useful information. The tests measure telomeres, which are structures on the tips of chromosomes that shorten as people age. Various studies have shown that people with shorter telomeres in their white blood cells are more likely to develop illnesses like cancer or even to die earlier. Studies in mice have suggested that extending telomeres lengthens lives.

40% OF PREGNANCIES ACROSS USA UNPLANNED, STUDY FINDS

VO: 22

According to the analysis released today, the highest rates were in the South, Southwest and in states with large urban populations. Highest was Mississippi with 69 per 1,000 women ages 15-44; lowest was New Hampshire, with 36 per 1,000. "There are many, many reasons why people don't plan ahead, even when it's such a crucial decision," says Claire Brindis, director of the Bixby Center for Global Reproductive Health at the University of California-San Francisco, who was not involved in the analysis. Brindis says difficulty in finding family-planning services and lack of access to birth control contribute to the high numbers of unintended pregnancies. There is "a very strong denial factor - (people think) 'this won't happen to me,'" she says.

GAS PRICES

High gasoline prices are pushing a lot of Americans to make tough financial choices. Forty percent of people who answered an Associated Press-GfK poll say increases in the price of gasoline will cause serious financial hardship for them or their family in the next six months. And 29 percent say there's been no negative impact on the family.

DREAM ACT SUPPORTERS TELL OBAMA TO QUIT CAMPAIGNING ON DREAM ACT

VO :26

Immigration advocacy groups have a message for President Barack Obama: Stop using the DREAM Act to ask for campaign money unless you can deliver relief from deportation for undocumented youth. United We DREAM, a group of young people pushing for the bill, started a petition last week asking the president to remove discussions of the bill in campaign literature and fundraising emails unless he is willing to use his executive power to block deportations for DREAM Act-eligible students. The DREAM Act would grant legal status to some undocumented young people who came to the U.S. as children and are now looking to attend college or join the military. Although Obama has said repeatedly that he supports the DREAM Act and that undocumented students are not the focus of his immigration enforcement plans, some are nonetheless caught up in a deportation system that removed more than 390,000 people from the country last year.

GOV. RICK SCOTT SIGNS CONTROVERSIAL ELECTION BILL INTO LAW*VO :30

Gov. Rick Scott on Thursday signed a controversial overhaul of the election laws that Republicans say is needed to prevent voter fraud and Democrats call a cynical act of partisanship to improve GOP chances in Florida next year. Critics assailed him for endorsing "voter suppression" tactics aimed at making it tougher for President Barack Obama to capture Florida's prized 29 electoral votes in 2012. But some supervisors who run elections in Florida say the state's voter registration database is highly reliable. A statement from their statewide association warns Scott that the changes could cause chaos and confusion at the polls next year. The League of Women Voters says it will suspend voter-registration activity because the bill requires such groups' volunteers to register with the state and face fines of up to $1,000 for not submitting voting forms within 48 hours.

UNIONS-POLITICS*VO :35

The nation's largest labor federation is weighing whether to pull political support from congressional Democrats who aren't doing enough to back labor unions. AFL-CIO President Richard Trumka is expected to issue the warning in a speech Friday at the National Press Club. In prepared remarks, Trumka says the role of unions is not to build the power of one political party but to improve the lives of working families. The AFL-CIO's executive council is considering a plan that could spend less on congressional races and more on fighting state battles, like those in Wisconsin and Ohio, where lawmakers want to weaken collective bargaining rights.

STUDY FINDS SUPPLEMENT MAY HELP PREGNANCY PROBLEM

VO :24

Scientists studying the pregnancy complication pre-eclampsia say a dietary supplement containing an amino acid and antioxidant vitamins given to expectant mothers at high risk could reduce occurrence of the disease. In a study in the British Medical Journal (BMJ) on Friday, researchers found that pregnant women taking supplements with the amino acid L-arginine plus vitamins were significantly less likely to develop pre-eclampsia compared with those taking just vitamins, or those taking a placebo supplement.

DESPITE OPPOSITION, HOME BIRTHS INCREASE

Home births rose 20 percent over four years, government figures show, reflecting what experts say is a small subculture among white women toward natural birth. Fewer than 1 percent of U.S. births occur at home. But the proportion is clearly going up, a study by researchers at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found. The new figures are for 2004 to 2008. Home births had been declining from 1990 to 2004. The increase was driven by white women - 1 in 98 had their babies at home in 2008, the most recent year for which the statistics were available. Only about 1 in 357 black women give birth at home, and just 1 in 500 Hispanic women do.

Patients and their caregivers are turning to an ancient practice in the battle against cancer at the Indiana University's Simon Cancer Center. It's called yoga therapy. Nearly every state in the union decided to tackle immigration on its own this year in the absence of federal action on the issue. More than half considered Arizona-style enforcement measures. But an Associated Press review of the data found that as of Monday nearly all of the most punitive measures failed. Only Georgia and Utah have passed comprehensive bills. Many were set aside while lawmakers focused on state budgets. Business groups joined immigrants to oppose some of the measures. And many lawmakers were worried the bills wouldn't survive lawsuits.

Prosecutors say both men are a danger to the community and would likely try to flee the country. They and four others are charged with sending at least $50,000 to the Pakistani Taliban, which opposes Pakistan's government and allies such as the U.S. The suspects face a maximum of 15 years in prison on each of four charges if convicted.

The Associated Press-GfK poll shows that arguments for overhauling middle-class benefit programs to pare government debt have failed to sway the public. In the poll, 54 percent said it's possible to balance the budget without cutting Medicare, and 59 percent said the same about Social Security. Democrats and political independents were far more likely than Republicans to say that neither program will have to be cut. Overall, 70 percent said Social Security is "extremely" or "very" important to their financial security in retirement, and 72 percent said so for Medicare.

New Jersey worked for five years to address consumers' No. 1 complaint: That the aspirin doesn't work fast enough to relieve pain. So on Monday, Bayer is introducing a reformulated aspirin that it says works in half the time of regular aspirin. Dubbed Pro-Release Technology, it uses aspirin micro-particles about a tenth the size of those in standard Bayer in tablets that dissolve and enter the bloodstream much more quickly. Bayer says its aspirin is now better-known for preventing heart attack and stroke than for its pain reliever roots. Bayer says it needs to revitalize the brand and target younger customers.

The change -- mainly due to a 94 percent increase in home births in white women. Home births increased significantly in 27 states during this period -- only four states saw declines. The highest increase was in Montana. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists says although the risk of planned home births is low, research shows it does increase the risk of newborn death.

South Carolina's Republican-controlled Legislature is expected to send Gov. Nikki Haley an Arizona-style anti-illegal immigration bill in the coming weeks. That has local law officials getting ready for enforcing immigration laws. Roan Garcia-Quintana has been advocating for the state to do more to protect citizens from illegal immigrants who commit violent crimes. "South Carolina has been overrun by illegals," he said at a recent legislative hearing. "The question I ask to all of you is, 'What do you want South Carolina to be like?' We already have our own criminals. We don't need to import criminals."

VO: 40

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that California must remove tens of thousands of inmates from its prison rolls in the next two years, and state officials vowed to comply, saying they hoped to do so without setting any criminals free.

Administration officials expressed confidence that their plan to shift low-level offenders to county jails and other facilities, already approved by lawmakers, would ease the persistent crowding that the high court said Monday had caused "needless suffering and death" and amounted to cruel and unusual punishment.

JUDGE TO RULE ON LOUGHNER'S MENTAL STATE

VO: 25

A federal judge is set to determine this week whether Jared Lee Loughner, the man accused of shooting Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, D-Ariz., and 18 others in Tucson, is mentally competent to stand trial. Two mental health experts -- one for the federal government, another assigned by the judge -- have evaluated Loughner and sent sealed reports to the court. Prosecutors and defense attorneys said they do not dispute the findings in the reports and do not wish to question the experts at a hearing Wednesday on Loughner's mental competency, possibly indications that both sides agree he is a troubled young man.

PA:OUTDOOR SMOKING BAN BEGINS IN PHILADELPHIA

VO: 22

Beginning July 1st, smoking will be banned at Philadelphia playgrounds and recreation facilities. The executive order signed by Mayor Michael Nutter prohibits smoking at city recreation centers. The mayor says among the goals it is to prevent children from lighting up. "Youth who smoke are much more likely to smoke as adults and therefore run the risk of getting smoking related diseases and of course dying," said Nutter. Nutter is not emphasizing this as a way to cut second-hand smoke. Deputy Mayor Mike Diberardinis says kicking smokes out of rec centers helps the city's goal of raising healthier kids. "If we're allowing smoking anywhere on our grounds, we're going against that pledge," he said. Health Commissioner Dr. Donald Schwarz says they're leaving enforcement up to the public.

NYC BANS SMOKING IN PUBLIC PLACES

VO: 27

Further smoking bans will affect smokers in New York City. On May 23rd, parks, beaches, and boardwalks, in addition to other public places in New York City will no longer allow smoking. However, New Yorkers can still smoke on sidewalks, streets, parking lots, and in their own homes. While the new ban will not be heavily enforced, smokers in parks will first receive a warning which can be followed by a $50 fine. Mayor Michael Bloomberg, a promoter of health measures throughout New York City, signed the legislation following a 32 to 12 vote in favor of these smoking restrictions. These restrictions will be in addition to the existing ban on smoking in restaurants and bars.

TWO NEW HEPATITIS C DRUGS APPROVED

By the end of this week, adult hepatitis C patients will have access to two new drugs, to add to their arsenal in battling the viral disease that causes inflammation of the liver that can lead to liver failure. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved Incivek (telaprevir) on Monday, and Victrelis (boceprevir) on May 13. Both drugs are approved for use in combination with the two standard treatment drugs - peginterferon and ribavirin - for a three-drug cocktail. Incivek and Victrelis are called protease inhibitors, which bind to the virus and prevent it from multiplying. "There are now two important new treatment options for hepatitis C that offer a greater chance at a cure for some patients with this serious condition," said Dr. Edward Cox, of the FDA's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research in a written statement. "The availability of new therapies that significantly increase responses while potentially decreasing the overall duration of treatment is a major step forward in the battle against chronic hepatitis C infection."

Guerrero has been able to pay the "unclassified student" rate of $96 per credit hour. She has taken six classes over three semesters.

AZ DROPHOUSE*VO: 21

Agents with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) discovered 108 illegal aliens at a drop house in west Phoenix Wednesday. The agents, assigned to HSI's Drop House Response Group in Phoenix, were drawn to the house by reports of multiple vehicles quickly entering and leaving the garage - activities that are consistent with human smuggling. The agents knocked on the front door and were given permission to enter. Inside, they discovered the aliens packed in every room of the four-bedroom house located on the 9000 block of West Vernon Avenue. The aliens are from Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador. There were five teenage boys and 14 women found among the group. Agents identified a number of suspected human smugglers at the scene and are interviewing those individuals and the other persons found inside the residence as part of an ongoing investigation into the broader smuggling scheme.

CENSUS AGING POPULATION*VO: 26

Women are continuing to outlive men, but men are gaining on them in numbers thanks to medical improvements. New 2010 census figures, released Thursday, show men are narrowing the female population advantage, primarily in the 65-plus age group. It's a change in the social dynamics of a country in which longevity, widowhood and health care for seniors have been mostly seen as women's issues. In all, the numbers highlight a nation that is rapidly aging even as Congress debates cuts in Medicare, an issue with ramifications for the growing ranks of older men. "We know in the past because of women's longer life expectancy, women put more emphasis on health care issues because they lived to an older age and often had to rely on the pensions of their husbands," said Jen'nan G. Read, an associate professor of sociology and global health at Duke University. "I would expect men to become more aware and involved in health care now that they may be affected in the same way as women," she said. Over the past decade, the number of men in the U.S. increased by 9.9 percent, faster than the 9.5 percent growth rate for women. As a result, women outnumbered men by just 5.18 million, compared with 2000, when there were 5.3 million more women than men.

Sales of homes in some stage of foreclosure are still much higher than in a healthy housing market though they're lower than the first quarter last year. Foreclosure listing firm RealtyTrac says such sales still accounted for 28 percent of all home sales. That's nearly six times higher than what it would normally be. Foreclosure sales include homes purchased after they received a notice of default or were repossessed by lenders. RealtyTrac executive Rick Sharga calls it "an astronomically high number" and the normal is below five percent.

More than half of Americans do not want Medicaid funding cut and are skeptical of changing how the federal government funds the healthcare program for the poor, according to a Kaiser Family Foundation survey released on Wednesday. Currently, U.S. states administer Medicaid with partial reimbursements from the federal government. The healthcare reform law passed last year made more people eligible for the program and also increased some rates of reimbursement.

YOUNG ADULTS, HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE*VO: 29

An alarming finding from recent study on hypertension -- close to 1 in 5 young adults has high blood pressure. That's according to a new study out of the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill -- which studied more than 14-thousand kids since 1995. Previous estimates were much lower -- about 4 percent. Researchers believe the increase can be attributed largely to the obesity epidemic in America, combined with a diet high in sodium-laden processed foods and very little exercise. To make things worse most of the 24-32-year-olds in the study had no idea there was a problem.

MORE U.S. WOMEN USING MEDICATIONS DURING PREGNANCY*VO: 19

That's two more years than the median age in Florida and more than five years above the national average of 37-years old. Experts said the biggest factors are the low birth rate in Maine and young families leaving the state for other opportunities. The second oldest state is Vermont, while the youngest is Utah.

DRIVER'S DATA MAY BE USED TO CHECK WORKERS' STATUS

The Obama administration is about to add more personal information to E-Verify, an immigration enforcement tool that is vulnerable to fake, stolen or borrowed documents. The administration has said that it will add driver's license data from the state of Mississippi to E-Verify as early as June 8. The agency will test whether using the data can help E-Verify better identify people working illegally in the U.S. E-Verify checks workers' information against Social Security and immigration records. E-Verify was not designed to check whether a document with valid information belongs to the person who presented it. Citizenship and Immigration Services, part of the Department of Homeland Security, has tried to make up for E-Verify's shortcomings by adding photos from U.S. passports, green cards given to legal permanent residents and work permits. But those only cover some workers.

Despite hopes that high doses of vitamins C and E might lower a woman's risk of developing a pregnancy complication marked by high blood pressure, a new analysis of the evidence to date finds no benefit. After reviewing nine studies including nearly 20,000 women, researchers found that women taking 1,000 milligrams of vitamin C and 400 IU of vitamin E - much higher doses than in most prenatal multivitamins - were no less likely to develop the potentially deadly pregnancy complication known as preeclampsia.

U.S. Sen. Charles Schumer of New York said he will introduce a bill to stop car rental agencies from renting automobiles that are under recalls for problems that aren't yet fixed. Recalls considered less serious would be fixed as soon as possible, but the cars wouldn't be "grounded" until then, under the proposal by the American Car Rental Association. "Rental car agencies appear more interested in reaping profit by keeping recalled vehicles on the road than they do with ensuring the safety of the individuals and families who are driving their cars," Schumer said before his announcement Monday.

NEW ID LAW IN ARIZ. STIRS WORRIES FOR IMMIGRANTS

VO: 25

Amid the controversial illegal-immigration measures that failed to win enough legislative support this year, one smaller bill did pass.

Starting July 20, state and local government entities no longer can recognize photo-ID cards issued by foreign consulates. The cards often are the sole form of photo identification for individuals living in another country who do not have a passport or a local driver's license.

Some state lawmakers have been trying to pass the law for years as part of a larger push to keep illegal immigrants out of Arizona. They say the ID cards are too easy to fraudulently attain and give the inaccurate impression that all cardholders are in the country legally.

REPUBLICANS SEEM TO SOFTEN ON IMMIGRATION

VO: 31

In the 2008 presidential campaign, some Republican contenders called for millions of people living in the country illegally to return to their native lands before being able to seek legal status. As the next presidential election nears, would-be GOP nominees are emphasizing sympathy for some illegal immigrants, in what is either a strategic feint or a reflection of changed political terrain. Former House Speaker Newt Gingrich opened the door to more flexible treatment of illegal immigrants who have been in the United States for decades, obey the law and are married with children. "We are going to want to find some way to deal with the people who are here, to distinguish between those who have no natural ties to the United States - and therefore you could deport them at minimum human cost - and those who in fact may have earned the right to become legal but not citizens," he said in Marshalltown, Iowa.

HEALTH CARE FRAUD

VO: 29

It's getting personal now. In a shift still evolving, federal enforcers are targeting individual executives in health care fraud cases that used to be aimed at impersonal corporations. The new tactic is raising the anxiety level -- and risks -- for corporate honchos at drug companies, medical device manufacturers, nursing home chains and other major health care enterprises that deal with Medicare and Medicaid. Previously, if a company got caught, its lawyers in many cases would be able to negotiate a financial settlement. The company would write the government a check for a number followed by lots of zeroes and promise not to break the rules again. Often the cost would just get passed on to customers. Now, on top of fines paid by a company, senior executives can face criminal charges even if they weren't involved in the scheme but could have stopped it had they known. Furthermore, they can also be banned from doing business with government health programs, a career-ending consequence.

STRESS DOESN'T RAISE RISK OF MS: STUDY

VO:19

Having a stressful home or work environment doesn't make a person more likely to develop multiple sclerosis, hints a large new study. Previous research has suggested that in people who already have the chronic disease -- which affects the brain and spinal cord -- stressful events make flare-ups more likely. In the new study, the authors looked at whether stress raised a woman's risk of getting the disease, and couldn't find a link.

YOUNG ATHLETES USE FEWER DRUGS, BUT MORE ALCOHOL

VO:20

Teens who exercise and play team sports are less likely to be smokers or use marijuana and other drugs, according to a new study. However, the results also showed that high school students on athletic teams drank more alcohol than their peers.

FOOD PYRAMID CHANGING

VO:23

The shape of healthy eating is changing. Federal health officials are tossing out the food pyramid and replacing it with a plate. The Food Guide Pyramid was introduced in 19-92 and replaced in 2005 by My-Pyramid. Officials say the pyramid was too confusing. The new plate is designed to educate people about the government's latest dietary guidelines. It is broken into four parts -- grains, protein, fruits and vegetables. Beside the plate is a small circle for dairy. Notice... there's no room for fats or sweets.

MORE PARENTS SAVING FOR COLLEGE

VO:29

More moms and dads are putting money away for their kids' education. The Los Angeles Times says last year, Americans put nine-billion-dollars into government-run college savings plans -- known as 5-29 plans. That's up from five-billion-dollars in 2008. Experts say many parents are afraid their children won't be able to afford college. Right now, the average cost of a year's tuition, room and board at a public U-S university is more than 16-thousand dollars.

1,000 companies in all 50 states Wednesday the government plans to inspect their hiring records. Businesses across the U.S. that rely on low-skilled labor are working to stave off Immigration and customs Enforcement audits, which can lead to the loss of large numbers of employees, reduced productivity and legal expenses. Wednesday's surge in so-called silent raids drew criticism from both the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and immigrant advocates. It brought to 2,338 the number of companies audited by ICE in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1 and topped the prior year's record of 2,196. The audits, affecting such businesses as garment makers, produce growers and fast-food chains, result in the firing of every illegal immigrant found on a company's payroll.

Wal-Mart scored a big victory on Monday when the Supreme Court threw out the largest sex-discrimination case in U.S. history, but it has been forced to address the issues raised in the suit. Since the sex-bias lawsuit was given class action status in 2004 on behalf of 1.6 million women, Wal-Mart Stores Inc. has added more policies for advancing women in the workplace. As a result, Wal-Mart says the percentage of entry and midlevel women managers has increased over the past five years from 38.8 percent to 41.2 percent. Some analysts say Wal-Mart is moving in the right direction, but has a ways to go. They note that there is only one woman among CEO Mike Duke's 11 direct reports.

SAME SEX MARRIAGE

VO :18

Old-time, backroom politics faced down hundreds of chanting protesters from each side of the highly charged gay marriage debate in New York on Monday as the issue stalled again over whether religious groups could be protected from discrimination charges under a same-sex marriage law. And Albany's notoriously entrenched politics won, for now. After a three-hour conference behind closed doors, while groups from each side waited in a stifling hot hallway, Senate Republicans emerged without comment. A vote within the conference to even move the bill to the floor for final legislative approval was pushed to at least Tuesday as private negotiations continue between Republican Senate leader Dean Skelos and Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who made same-sex marriage a major initiative.

VO :20

A federal judge in Atlanta will hear arguments on an attempt by civil liberties groups to block Georgia's new law cracking down on illegal immigration from taking effect. The hearing before Judge Thomas Thrash is set for Monday. Thrash has indicated he may rule from the bench. Civil liberties groups have asked Thrash to block the law from taking effect until a lawsuit they filed earlier this month has been resolved. That lawsuit asked the judge to find the law unconstitutional and to keep authorities from enforcing it. Thrash will also hear arguments Monday on the state's motion to dismiss the lawsuit.

Anaheim, California, home to Disneyland, was ranked last. The list was based on 84 different categories, including the number of parks, quality of schools, and crime rates.

FOOD ALLERGIES

A new study suggests that food allergies affect more children than government health officials estimate. The advocacy group-funded study in the journal Pediatrics says one in 13 children in the U.S. has some type of food allergy, and

In the study of more than 40,000 children, 8 percent had food allergies, and peanuts and milk were the most common sources.

MENENDEZ RE-INTRODUCE IMMIGRATION REFORM BILL

Sen. Robert Menendez_(D-NJ) and six Senate Democrats introduced a beefed-up immigration reform bill Wednesday, legislation they hope will appeal to hawkish Republicans who have pushed for tougher laws. Menendez and his colleagues said the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2011 will focus on strengthening border security, tougher worksite enforcement, and a requirement that the roughly 11 million undocumented in the U.S. register with the government. The legislation was drafted, Menendez said, with the intention of making it more palatable to those in Congress who prefer a tough approach to immigration.

In the first ruling of its kind in the federal court system in Tennessee and three surrounding states, a Knoxville magistrate judge is blocking a KUB contractor from trying to defeat a lawsuit over back wages by attacking the immigration status of the workers who filed it. U.S. Magistrate Judge Bruce Guyton acknowledged in his ruling the legal weightiness of the issue at hand for businesses and workers in the federal 6th Circuit, which includes Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. "The court finds that the issue now before the court is an issue of first impression," Guyton wrote in a ruling released late last week.

FEDERAL JUDGE RULES FOR IMMIGRANT WORKERS IN SUIT

VO: 21

A federal judge in Knoxville has ruled that Hispanic workers do not have to reveal their immigration status to an employer they are suing to recover back wages. David Dunaway, an attorney for Caryville-based Baird Tree Company, has argued that illegal immigrants have no right to recover wages they could not legally earn in the first place. The firm is demanding to know which of the 21 workers suing the company are here illegally. But U.S. Magistrate Judge Bruce Guyton ruled earlier this month that workers must be paid for the hours they work, regardless of immigration status, according to the Knoxville News Sentinel. The ruling is the first of its kind in the Sixth Circuit, but in 2002 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a company had the right to know the legal status of worker Jose Castro, who was suing for wages lost after he was laid off for union organizing.

INDIANA IMMIGRATION LAW BLOCKED

A federal judge on Friday temporarily blocked parts of an Indiana immigration law cracking down on illegal immigrants in the state. The preliminary injunction granted by U.S. District Judge Sarah Evans Barker comes as a blow to lawmakers in the Republican-dominated state legislature who this year have taken a get-tough approach to immigration. Barker's decision was in response to a lawsuit filed with backing from the American Civil Liberties Union of Indiana and the National Immigration Law Center. The judge's decision temporarily blocks a provision of the state law signed in May that allows state and local police to arrest anyone ordered deported by an immigration court. Barker also blocked a section of the law that would prohibit any person in the state, other than a police officer, from knowingly accepting or offering a consular ID card as a valid form of identification.

SOUTH CAROLINA IMMIGRATION BILL

PKG 2:10

South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley has signed an illegal immigration law that requires police to call federal immigration officials if they suspect someone is in the country illegally. That question must follow an arrest or traffic stop for something else. The law bars officers from holding someone solely on that suspicion. The Republican governor signed the bill Monday and said the new law won't lead to racial profiling. She stressed that her own parents were legal immigrants to this country. They are from India. Profiling is one issue the American Civil Liberties Union is raising as problematic in its vow to sue over the law. The legislation also makes it a felony to make fake photo identification for illegal immigrants.

MARTIN BERLANGA- MIAMI, FLORIDA
PKG 2:00

A U.S. federal judge Monday blocked key parts of Georgia's new illegal immigration crackdown from taking effect July 1. Judge Thomas Thrash issued a preliminary injunction halting Georgia from authorizing police officers to question criminal suspects about their immigration status. He also blocked portions of the measure, passed by the Republican-controlled state legislature and signed by Republican Governor Nathan Deal in May, that would make it a crime to knowingly harbor or transport an illegal immigrant. Enforcement of U.S.

immigration laws traditionally is handled by federal, not state, authorities. But many Republicans fault federal efforts to stem illegal immigration. Georgia is latest U.S. state to pass tough immigration legislation only to have it blocked in the courts. Courts have also halted key parts of laws passed by Arizona and Indiana. Meanwhile, South Carolina Republican Governor Nikki Haley Monday signed into law a bill that requires police to check the immigration status of anyone they stop or arrest for another reason and suspect may be in the country illegally.

DREAM ACT

Congressional Democrats are making a push to pass the DREAM Act - the long-simmering legislation that would create a path to citizenship for illegal immigrants brought into the country as children - with the first-ever Senate hearing on the legislation set for Tuesday. Some big guns, including Education Secretary Arne Duncan and Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano, are set to testify at the session chaired by Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.) and hosted by the Senate Judiciary's Subcommittee on Immigration, Refugees and Border Security. The legislation, first introduced in 2001 and reintroduced several times since then, had earlier received the support of some Republicans but has fallen short of passage. Most recently, late last year, Senate Democrats attempted to fold the act into a defense-spending bill, only to see it filibustered. An effort to pass the DREAM Act separately also failed. The bill would make it possible for people brought into the country as children to apply for citizenship after spending several years in the country and completing two years of college or military service. Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.) reintroduced the bill in May. This time, backers are focusing on the potential economic benefits of a path to citizenship.

SOUTH CAROLINA ANTIIMMIGRANT LAW PROPOSAL JAIME ZEA - COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA PKG: 2:01

South Carolina officials are advising lawmakers to change the state's anti-illegal immigration law to put it in line with last week's U.S. Supreme Court ruling. The Senate could take up the proposed changes later Wednesday as part of a bill that requires officers to check suspects' immigration status. The amendments would tweak South Carolina's 2008 law that put the onus on businesses to check their employees' immigration status. The state's labor director and attorney general say the changes would ensure state law would be deemed constitutional. The proposal would do away with the current system of fines for not checking workers. The state would instead punish businesses that continue to break the law after warnings by revoking their operating business licenses and filings.

Brown said in the gubernatorial campaign last year that supported the Dream Act. The only legislator who opposed the measure was the Republican Assemblyman Hesperia and founder of the Minutemen cazainmigantes, Tim Donnelly of Hesperia, who said that the Dream Act will attract more illegal immigrants to California at a time when cuts are made to schools K- Grade 12 and higher education.

The justices refused to hear an appeal by group of out-of-state U.S. citizens after the California Supreme Court unanimously upheld the law and dismissed their lawsuit. The 2001 law provides that any student who attends a California high school for three years and graduates can get in-state college and university tuition. Illegal immigrants who qualify must swear they will seek to become U.S. citizens.

The American Civil Liberties Union and the ACLU of Alabama said today that they will file, in coalition with other civil rights groups, a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of Alabama's draconian anti-immigrant law before it goes into effect Sept. 1. HB 56, even more restrictive than Arizona's SB1070 which it was inspired by, was signed into law this morning by Alabama Gov. Scott Bentley. The law's key provisions sanction discriminatory and unconstitutional practices by police officers, landlords and employers by inviting racial profiling of Latinos and others based on how they look or talk, violating the First Amendment and interfering with federal law. Under the extreme law, Alabama public schools will require children to provide proof of citizenship when enrolling in kindergarten and grade school and require police to demand "papers" from people they stop whom they suspect are not authorized to be in the U.S.

SUSPICIOUS PACKAGE INVESTIGATED IN NY'S TIMES SQUARE VO: 20

New York City authorities briefly shut down a street in Times Square after investigating a suspicious package Monday which turned out not to be dangerous, the city's fire department said. The city is on high security alert after the killing of al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden in Pakistan Monday.

MORE SECURITY BLANCA ROSA VILCHEZ. NEW YORK PKG 1:58

Even as Americans cheer the death of Osama bin Laden, U.S. policymakers may struggle to map out a new U.S. security policy that can redirect resources from a decade of laser-like focus on counterterrorism while still guarding against fresh attacks. The death of the al Qaeda leader, who embodied the post-Sept. 11 decade and the 'War on Terror' it inspired, could allow Washington to rebalance its foreign policy away from the expensive, bloody wars of Iraq and Afghanistan and shadowy counterterror operations elsewhere. But such a shift, while welcome for Americans wearied by distant conflicts and worried by close-to-home issues like the economy, would run the risk of neglecting ongoing threats emanating from places like Pakistan, Yemen and Somalia.

FLORIDA SB 2040 LOURDES DEL RIO. TALAHASSEE, FLORIDA

PKG 2:03

The Senate President, Mike Haridopolos, has decided to postpone for tomorrow the vote on Senate Bill 2040. The bill, inspired by Arizona's controversial immigration law, was expected to come up for a vote today. More than 400 people mobilized in 9 buses to Tallahassee, departing earlier this morning from different cities throughout Central Florida. Whole families waited for the Senate vote outside of the Chambers, while groups of children, students and farm workers visited several Senators to share their stories, pray and ask them to vote against the bill.

UTAH IMMIGRATION LAWSUIT*VO :21

Two national organizations are suing Utah to halt a new immigration law they claim encourages racial profiling. The National Immigration Law Center argues legislation signed by Gov. Gary Herbert in March is just as unconstitutional as a similar Arizona law that is before the courts. The American Civil Liberties Union also joined the lawsuit filed Tuesday in federal court in Salt Lake City. The most controversial parts of Arizona's law are on hold pending a trial. They include a provision that would require police officers who are enforcing other laws to question the immigration status of those they suspect are in the country illegally.

ILLINOIS DREAM ACT TOMORROW*VO: 23

Illinois children with at least one immigrant parent may become eligible for a privately-funded college scholarship even if they are in the state illegally. The Senate passed legislation 45-11 Wednesday that would enable children of immigrants to draw from a new scholarship called the Illinois DREAM Fund. All no votes came from Republicans, although many supported the legislation. The bill now heads to the House. The bill also will allow illegal immigrants to participate in the state college savings program. Currently, people must be United States citizens to qualify for the savings program. Students must already be employed and enrolled in college to qualify for the scholarship. The state would appoint commissioners to raise and distribute private funds for the scholarship. About 95,000 people would currently be eligible for the program.

CALIFORNIA DREAM ACT VOTE

College students who entered the country illegally appear closer than ever to receiving financial aid in California. On a party-line vote of 51-21, the state Assembly approved a bill Thursday that allows those students to collect privately-funded college scholarships. Assemblyman Gil Cedillo, a Democrat from Los Angeles and the author of AB130, has introduced a similar bill every year since 2005. Former Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger, a Republican, vetoed the legislation repeatedly, but Democratic Gov. Jerry Brown made a campaign pledge to sign it. Dozens of Democrats in the Assembly spoke in support of the bill, arguing that students should not be punished because their parents brought them into the country illegally. They said immigrant labor makes comfortable, middle-class standards of living possible and that California should reward skilled and educated immigrants.

Florida SB 2040 Passes in Florida. In a surprise move, the Senate voted on the immigration bill SB 2040. Without debate, the Florida Senate unexpectedly voted Wednesday morning 23-16 to approve SB 2040, a controversial immigration crackdown bill. The measure looked dead late Tuesday after Senators shot down an amendment that would have made the bill tougher by pushing for a broader use of the federal government's E-Verify system to check the immigration status of workers. Dozens of immigration activists were ordered to leave the state Capitol building for violating an order by the Sergeant-at-Arms Donald Severance to not engage in any singing while sitting in the Senate's visitors gallery. The activists and immigrants, wearing matching orange "We Are Florida" T-shirts, began singing immediately after the vote

DEBATE HB-12 TEXAS PREVIEW*VO: 22

The rule of law is the foundation of our society, and enforcing it is the responsibility of local police forces. Legislation that threatens to diminish my ability as police chief to protect the community I serve should be of great concern not just to me but also to the 25 million residents of Texas. One policy that has been quickly progressing during the legislative session addresses what I consider an unsubstantiated belief that some Texas cities are "sanctuary cities" that purposely harbor undocumented immigrants. Some feel that authorities in such cities are complicit in protecting undocumented immigrants from deportation.

FLORIDA IMMIGRATION LAW
LOURDES DEL RIO - MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG: 2:00

The fierce fight to crack down on illegal immigration ended - for this year - in the Florida Legislature on Friday when House and Senate lawmakers reached the end of the 60-day session without an agreement. State senators signed off on their more lenient proposal on Wednesday. But by then, it was too late for the House to take up the measure. On Friday, Gov. Rick Scott told a Fox-affiliated radio station in the Florida Panhandle that lawmakers should have passed an immigration bill - but there's always next year. "We've got the next session, Scott said in an appearance on "Freedom in the Morning with Wolfe and Andi."

TEXAS VOTACION HB 12

VO: 18

House Democrats temporarily derailed a key GOP-backed plan Friday night that aimed to crack down on illegal immigration in Texas by requiring local police to enforce federal immigration laws. After more than three hours of heated debate, the measure was pulled from consideration because of a procedural error. Rep. Trey Martinez Fischer, D-San Antonio, raised a point of order over a mistake made on a witness affirmation form when testimony was taken in the House State Affairs Committee. The point of order effectively knocked the bill back into committee. The bill by Rep. Burt Solomons, R-Carrollton, would prohibit cities from adopting policies that stop law enforcement from asking about immigration status.

UNEMPLOYMENT NATIONAL

It's not just McJobs. April employment numbers make it clear the U.S. economy is generating high-skilled positions across a number of sectors. "There are literally thousands of very high quality jobs that are being created across the country, in technology and financial services and in manufacturing," said Scot Melland, president and CEO of Dice.com, a career site and job board for technology and engineering professionals based in New York. One problem: the sectors offering the highest pay represent just a small sliver of the overall job market. Their growth alone does little to alleviate the nation's massive and persistent unemployment problem.

US ECONOMY GAS PRICES

VO: 15

A brightened outlook for job growth may dim this spring as rising gas prices weigh on companies and prompt some to rethink their hiring plans. Analysts' consensus forecast is that the economy added 185,000 jobs in April and that the unemployment rate remained at a two-year low of 8.8 percent. That would be down from the 216,000 jobs added in March but still solid. Still, just a few weeks ago economists were confident that private companies would add more than 200,000 jobs for the third straight month. Some now worry that the job figures could be weaker than expected, based on the most recent economic data. "There are risks out there that job growth could slow sharply," said economist Chris Rupkey at the Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ. For now, Rupkey is sticking with his forecast that a net total of 170,000 jobs were created in April. He predicts that private employers added fewer than 200,000 jobs, while local governments shed positions.

PKG 2:09

President Obama kicks off his immigration reform tour on Tuesday in Texas to outline a plan to secure the border while providing a path to citizenship for some undocumented immigrants. This is a worthy debate at risk of becoming a partisan polemic. There is no evidence that Republicans and Democrats are even close to passing something resembling comprehensive immigration reform. If the president wants to kick-start immigration reform both parties can support, he should launch his campaign in Silicon Valley, or Boston, or the Dulles corridor in northern Virginia.

PKG 2:02

Arizona Gov. Jan Brewer announced Monday she will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn a ruling that put the most controversial parts of the state's immigration enforcement law on hold. The planned appeal to the high court comes after Brewer lost an appeal April 11, when a three-judge panel of the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals refused to reverse a lower court's order that prevented key parts of the law from being enforced. The panel said federal officials were likely to prove the law is unconstitutional and succeed in their argument that Congress has given the federal government sole authority to enforce immigration laws.

PKG 2:12

Describing the border with Mexico as more secure than ever, President Barack Obama says Republicans who insisted on tougher enforcement should now be ready to move on and deal with comprehensive immigration reform. But instead, he says they're still demanding more. In a speech in Texas along the border today, Obama pointed to an increase in border agents, and the near-completion of a border fence. And he said more cargo is being screened. But he said Republicans will "never be satisfied." Obama is pushing for legislation offering a pathway to citizenship to the nation's 11 million illegal immigrants -- amid opposition from majority Republicans in the House. He's trying to convince Hispanic voters that he's not the one standing in the way of immigration reform.

TEXAS SANCTUARY CITIES

VO :20

After taking the unusual and controversial strategy of cutting off debate, the Texas House late Monday voted 99 to 47 in favor of a ban on "sanctuary cities," despite objections that the measure was unnecessary and will increase racial profiling against Hispanics. House Republicans voted to end debate by calling for an immediate vote on the bill, shutting down debate on amendments after four hours of sometimes heated discussion. Democrats roundly criticized the tactic almost as emotionally as the underlying legislation, and faulted House Speaker Joe Straus for allowing the maneuver

UTAH IMMIGRATION LAW

PKG 2:16

People arrested for serious crimes in Utah will be required to prove their citizenship -- and those stopped for minor offenses may be too -- under a new immigration law that took effect Tuesday. But it may be short-lived. Civil rights groups are seeking to block the law on constitutional grounds, and a judge will consider whether to halt its enforcement at a hearing set for Tuesday afternoon. The law, signed by Republican Gov. Gary Herbert in March, requires police to check the citizenship status of anyone arrested for a felony or class-A misdemeanor, while giving them discretion to check the citizenship of those stopped for traffic infractions and other lesser offenses. Class A misdemeanors include theft, negligent homicide and criminal mischief, while felonies range from aggravated burglary to rape and murder. Civil rights attorneys spent much of Monday trying to persuade state officials to voluntarily delay the law's implementation. U.S. District Judge Clark Waddoups has a hearing scheduled in Salt Lake City where he could decide to halt enforcement of all or some of the law.

New York City will launch a new national emergency alert system by the end of the year that will send messages to cellphones during disasters. Mayor Michael Bloomberg made the announcement Tuesday at a news conference overlooking the World Trade Center site. He says the new technology will give the public clear and accurate information about imminent safety threats. The mayor says it will be geographically targeted and send messages to all cellphone users. He was joined by FCC Communications Commission Chairman Julius Genachowski, as well as federal and local officials. The alert plan was approved by Congress in 2006 under the Warning Alert and Response Network Act. The system also will be launched in Washington by the end of the year.

The bill would allow a 'select group' of foreign students 'with great potential to contribute more fully to America,' they said. A formal announcement is to be made Wednesday. The move came just hours after President Barack Obama, a fellow Democrat, called for reform of the US immigration system as he stood on the US-Mexican border. He demanded that Congress act on the long- simmering issue.

One thousand of the jobs could be added as a third shift at their Sterling Heights Assembly Plant. That plant, known as SHAP, builds the Dodge Avenger and the Chrysler 200. Workers at the plant say that there has been talk for weeks of adding a third shift. Martell Greer, a worker at SHAP, said Thursday, "That would be great for the area, for the state and for me and my family." The other two plants in line for third shifts are Detroit's Jefferson North, which builds the Grand Cherokee and Dodge Durango and a plant that builds small Jeeps in Belvidere, IL. SHAP is currently building a new paint shop. The plant had been slated to close when Chrysler went through bankruptcy. Workers there say that this may mean longevity for the facility. "We see investment. Investment and great products mean that we are going to be alright," said SHAP worker Randy Jenkins.

GEORGIA IMMIGRATION LAW

GUSTAVO VALDES - ATLANTA, GEORGIA

PKG: 2:07

Georgia's Republican governor signed Friday a tough new state law cracking down on illegal immigrants that is similar to one enacted in Arizona last year, handing new powers to police in the southern U.S. state. The law authorizes police in Georgia to investigate the immigration status of criminal suspects they think may be in the country illegally. It also requires many private employers to check the immigration status of newly hired workers on a federal database called E-Verify. Enforcement of U.S. immigration laws traditionally is handled by federal, not state, authorities. The Georgia measure is the latest to gain favor among Republicans at the state level who accuse Democratic President Barack Obama and the federal government of failing to stem illegal immigration.

LOTTERY VISAS MISTAKE

A computer glitch corrupted the State Department's annual worldwide lottery for U.S. immigrant visas and the results will be scratched, the Obama administration said Friday, disappointing tens of thousands of would-be immigrants who were notified this year that they had won a chance to come and live legally in the United States. Nearly 15 million people had entered the 2012 lottery hoping to win one of 50,000 U.S. immigrant visas available under a wild-card program for people who otherwise would have little hope of getting a coveted U.S. visa. Applicants for the random drawing do not have to have the usual family or employer sponsor. The lottery selects 90,000 winners, a total that is then winnowed down through attrition, interviews and strict educational and occupational criteria.

Hispanic lawmakers in the Texas Senate are bracing for a bitter fight over one of the session's flashpoint immigration issues: the so-called sanctuary cities bill that one legislator called a "hate-mongering" and racist measure. The bill would give most police officers the right to question detained people about their immigration status, and prohibit cities from adopting policies that ban the practice. None of Texas' major cities claim to be sanctuary cities, but many police departments discourage their officers from asking about immigration status. Supporters, including Republican Gov. VO :28

Arizona Gov. Jan Brewer has vetoed a bill to allow guns to be carried on public rights of way on public university and community college campuses. Gun-rights advocates backed the bill, saying it would help people defend themselves and prevent them from getting in trouble for merely driving through a campus with a gun in a vehicle. University presidents opposed the bill. They said allowing guns on campuses would endanger employees, students and visitors, and it would be difficult for officers responding to a shooting to quickly identify a wrongdoer. The bill originally would have applied to campus buildings, including classrooms, by allowing people with concealed weapons permits to carry guns into the facilities. But it was scaled back during Senate consideration to apply only to rights of way. References to concealed weapons also were removed.

Arizona Gov. Jan Brewer on Monday vetoed a bill to require President Barack Obama and other presidential candidates to prove their U.S. citizenship before their names can appear on the state's ballot. The bill vetoed by Brewer on Monday would have made Arizona the first state to pass such a requirement. The Arizona bill included proof-of-qualification for all candidates appearing on Arizona ballots, with those varying by the office sought. Hawaii officials have certified Obama was born in that state, but so-called "birthers" have demanded more proof. Brewer said in her veto letter that she was troubled that the bill empowered Arizona's secretary of state to judge the qualifications of all candidates when they file to run for office.

How would you like to be able to fill up at $2.80 a gallon? Gasoline prices like that are available but there's one catch...they're in Mexico. But 1200 WOAI's Michael Board says plenty of south Texans are ducking to avoid the bullets from the gang wars, to gas up at prices which are as much as a dollar lower than prices in the United States. Why is gasoline so much cheaper across the Rio Grande? Two main reasons. First of all, Petroleos Mexicanos, the state-owned oil company, controls prices with the assistance of the Mexican government, which is not keen to see the price of gasoline go up too high for fear of public unrest. Also, Mexican environmental laws are not as strict as laws in the U.S., and gasoline sold in Mexico is not required to have many of the special blends designed to hold down air pollution, which jack up U.S. prices.

But his failure there has angered some Hispanics and immigrants' advocates, voters who helped elect him in 2008 and whom he'll need at the polls again next year. A White House meeting with a group of about 70 people led to no breakthroughs on the way forward, just a call to action.

McDONALD'S 50,000 JOBS TODAY

As McDonald's makes its nationwide push to get 50,000 new employees to join its ranks, it is important to put the "McJob" in perspective. We've all heard that the average McDonald's job doesn't pay much. And you're right -- it doesn't offer compensation that is anywhere near the pay for salaried positions filled by college graduates or skilled workers. The data we've seen is that the entry-level McJob probably pays a little more than minimum wage. The company and sites that track wages suggest that many of those workers hired Tuesday will be making around $8 an hour, depending in which area of the country they live. A full workweek at $8 an hour gets you about $320 before tax withholding. That's $16,000 a year if you take two weeks off during the year for vacation. It's above the poverty line for individuals this year ($11,136 according to the Census), but below the level for a four-person household ($22,314).

Priority was given to drivers working the night shift in areas where statistics showed high incidence of attacks -- chiefly in outlying parts of boroughs outside Manhattan. Livery cabs must be hired ahead of time and do not pick up passengers off the street, unlike the more well known yellow taxis that cruise New York City streets looking for fares. One dozen vests were donated by New York-based security firm Security USA, adding to another 20 or so protective shields that had been previously donated by retired police officers.

The U.S. government is adding new protections for travelers when airlines lose their bags, bump them off flights or hold them on the runway for hours. The airlines will also have to more clearly disclose the fees they charge. Consumer advocates say the wide-ranging regulations would improve the flying experience. Still, they wanted regulators to get even tougher on bag fees and make it easier to sue airlines over shoddy service. Beginning in late August, passengers who pay $15 or more to check luggage will get a refund if their bag is lost. They'll also be entitled to more money -- up to $1,330 -- if they're bumped from a flight. Airlines will have to include government taxes and fees in advertised prices.

ANA LEDO - NUEVA YORK

PKG: 2:00

Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano says the color-coded terror alert system will be replaced next week by two warnings -- elevated and imminent. The new warnings could be conveyed to the public through Facebook and Twitter. Unlike the colors, the alerts will have expiration dates. The past system described the threat in five colors, from green, low risk, to red, severe. Napolitano says the threat picture in the U.S. is currently at an "elevated baseline," and future public warnings will hinge on specific and credible intelligence above and beyond that threshold. She says the terror threat to the U.S. is at its highest since 9/11 because of the increasing number and types of international and homegrown threats. This does not mean there is a specific threat of an imminent attack.

A significantly revised anti-illegal immigration proposal was approved by the Indiana House, 64-32, Thursday night. Senate Bill 590 now requires most employers to verify the citizenship status of their employees through the federal E-Verify program, and mandates state and local governments ensure illegal immigrants are not receiving welfare benefits. The House eliminated a Senate-approved provision requiring a police officer to investigate the citizenship status of any person the officer suspected was in the country illegally. The legislation now goes back to the Senate, which is expected to accept the changes made by the House.

Villaseñor told a group of elected officials, law enforcement, and religious, business, labor and civil-rights leaders that local law enforcement should focus on solving crimes and serving the community. "Any kind of policy that hinders the relationship between the public and police I view as a bad thing," said Villaseñor, the only representative from Arizona at the White House gathering.

An immigration bill recently introduced in the Florida Legislature is doing something to the Republican Party's Cuban exile base in South Florida that Democrats have had trouble accomplishing over the years. It is turning some Cuban-Americans against each other. Senate Bill 2040 authorizes state law enforcement and corrections officials to increase cooperation with federal authorities in identifying undocumented immigrants being held in jails and prisons, which could lead to deportations. It also requires employers to confirm the legal status of new hires, in part by using E-Verify, a federal database.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg says he's in favor of putting people's fingerprints on Social Security cards. Bloomberg says such biometric identification cards would make it easier for employers to judge whether someone has legal permission to work in the U.S. He says it would reduce the supply of work to illegal immigrants, leading fewer to enter the country. Critics have said that such a system would raise cost and privacy concerns. Bloomberg was one of several politicians who discussed immigration issues this week with President Barack Obama. Bloomberg's immigration reform group, the Partnership for a New American Economy, supports bringing more immigrant workers and entrepreneurs into the country.

VO :19

A Republican-led House panel rejected legislation that would allow illegal immigrants to attend Colorado colleges at the lower in-state tuition rate. Republicans who voted against the bill Monday said it would entice more illegal immigrants to come to the U.S. and provide false to students who would not be able to legally work after graduation. Democrats argued that allowing more students to attend college would boost the state's economy and that the children of illegal immigrants should not be punished for their parent's mistakes. Senate Bill 126 would have allowed illegal immigrant students to qualify for in-state tuition if they meet certain criteria, such as attending a Colorado high school for at least three years and graduating from a state school. This is the fifth time such a bill has failed in Colorado.

Most surprising were the findings that very obese girls were *more* likely to have sex while drunk or high. Extremely overweight girls were also more likely than their healthy-weight counterparts to smoke or use chewing tobacco. Doctors say the study shows the need to better understand the mental health needs of overweight teens -- not just their physical problems.

The Indiana House and Senate approved anti-illegal immigration legislation Friday that was significantly watered down compared to the original version. Senate Bill 590, which now goes to the governor, requires most Indiana businesses check the immigration status of new employees, forbids distribution of state aid to illegal immigrants and prohibits local governments from refusing to abide by federal immigration law. As introduced, the legislation would have required a police officer to check the immigration status of any person the officer suspected was in the country illegally. While the Republican-controlled Senate approved that provision, it was removed by the Republican-controlled House after concerns were expressed by Republican Gov. Government officials may submit Census challenges between June 1, 2011, and June 1, 2013. The bureau won't do recounts, but it will add people when local governments can prove errors. Over the past year, while waiting for Congress to act, the Administration has increased its emphasis on enforcement and deportation and denied its ability to provide administrative relief. The forthcoming report finds that, while DHS has made significant progress in some areas, there is much room for improvement. The report recommends that DHS act in line with its own stated priorities and exert its executive authority to bring about much-needed reforms that can be done in the absence of Congressional action.

Now, with many state legislative sessions coming to a close, the fight against SB 1070 copycat legislation appears contained to just a few key battlegrounds. Converging forces have blocked the copycat bills' success. On the one hand, the bills have spurred broad opposition from immigrant and civil rights groups, as well as from business interests. On the other, a ticking clock killed several bills as legislative sessions end before lawmakers have had time to pass

Assemblyman Tim Donnelly, of Twin Peaks, will host a rally and press conference regarding Assembly Bill 26, the "Secure Immigration Enforcement Act." Special guest, Arizona State Senator Russell Pearce, who was instrumental in passing the Senate Bill 1070 in Arizona, will be speaking at the rally. Assembly Bill 26 would help law enforcement manage illegal immigration in the State and fulfills Assemblyman Donnelly's campaign pledge to introduce a bill similar to the Arizona immigration law, in California. This measure would, among other things, end sanctuary cities and enforce immigration laws against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens, which will free up jobs for citizens and eliminate incentives for people to come here illegally.

McDonalds, which boasts its sold billions of burgers, now says it plans to hire 50,000 workers across the U.S. in one day. They have set April 19th for job fairs around the nation. They are looking for part time and full time workers, even management to help them turn more of their restaurants into 24-hour operations. An industry watcher says the number isn't that impressive. As big as the firm is and with their rate of turnover, they need to hire 58,000 every month just to keep the fryers cooking, and the burgers flipped. The jobs start at $8.30 an hour.

FAA ORDERS MORE INSPECTIONS

VO :25

The Federal Aviation Administration is expected to issue an emergency directive requiring inspection of about 175 Boeing 737s for fatigue damage following an incident in which a Southwest Airlines plane was forced to make an emergency landing after a hole ripped open in the roof. The order comes after Southwest canceled nearly 700 flights nationwide - including 16 of the 130 flights in and out of Boston - in the three days since a 5-foot gash opened up in the fuselage of a Boeing 737-300 shortly after takeoff from Phoenix on Friday.

A senior Boeing Co. engineer said Tuesday that Southwest Airlines Co., which works its planes longer each day than other airlines, wasn't to blame for metal fatigue that led to a hole in the roof of a jet last week. Paul Richter said the aircraft maker was surprised by Friday's rupture of the Boeing 737-300 because the company didn't expect cracking in the aluminum skin of such planes for many more years. Southwest planes make frequent short and medium-length hops. They spend an average of 11.7 hours a day in the air -- a full hour more than the airline industry average, according to government figures.

GEORGIA IMMIGRATION PROTEST

Eight young illegal immigrants were arrested Tuesday for sitting in the middle of a busy street in front of the Georgia Capitol, protesting their lack of access to higher education in a scene reminiscent of civil rights demonstrations decades ago. The group, made up of mostly students, believe their plight is similar to movement the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. led, and they met with former activists from the 1960s to hash out their civil disobedience plan. As the foreign-born youngsters sat in the road, at times holding hands, hundreds of supporters lined the street and cheered in support as the illegal immigrants were led away in handcuffs.

Legislators seeking to discourage the hiring of illegal immigrants are one step closer to overhauling Florida's employment law. The State Senate's judiciary committee on Monday approved a bill requiring companies use the federal government's electronic verification program for new hires or to request those employees show state-issued identification cards. The bill also encourages local enforcement agencies to train officers to enforce federal immigration laws. Unlike previous drafts, though, the bill does not require such training due to budget constraints.

House lawmakers are pushing a bill that would grant in-state tuition rates at Maryland colleges to illegal immigrants, but only if they jump through some hoops first. The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill Tuesday that would grant illegal immigrants in-state tuition rates if they complete two years at a community college first and can show their parents paid state taxes for the three years before they enrolled. The panel added a requirement that immigrants sign up for the Selective Service to receive the reduced tuition. It also changed the definition of an immigrant receiving the reduced tuition rate to count as a part of a school's out-of-state student pool, so in-state slots for Maryland residents are unaffected.

In a elementary school in southwest Detroit, Michigan, parents say they have experienced moments of panic, when according to them pursued immigration agents ... This mother can not hold back the tears when he recounts how her husband took ... And she wants justice for undocumented parents with U.S. citizen children ... The principal will ensure that student pursuit of ICE has caused trauma among students ... The actions of March 31, allegedly committed by six immigration agents were denounced by immigrant activists in this city, who claim that ICE violated his own code of ethics in carrying out raids in the vicinity of schools, and so have several demands for the federal agency... Late last night the Alabama State House of Representatives in a 73-28 vote passed an anti-immigration law that will allow police officers to hold people suspected of being in the country illegally. If there is 'reasonable suspicion' that someone is here illegally an Alabama police officer can demand proof of citizenship and while waiting for proof someone can be detained in jail. In addition it would be a crime to provide housing, rent to, give a car ride to or employ an illegal immigrant. The bill sponsor Republican Representative Micky Harmon is hoping illegal immigrants will 'deport themselves' if this bill becomes law. The bill now goes to the Alabama Senate.

In New York City, some parts of Brooklyn and Queens were mistakenly classified as vacant, according to Joseph Salvo of the city planning department. "People are saying, 'Where are these areas? Because I need an apartment,' " Salvo says. Omissions can be costly. The federal government hands out money for things such as schools and public safety based on the count. In New York, each person left out means $3,000 a year the city won't get, says Rachaele Raynoff, planning department spokeswoman. Government officials may submit Census challenges between June 1, 2011, and June 1, 2013. The bureau won't do recounts, but it will add people when local governments can prove errors. After the 2000 Census, the bureau found possible problems in 1,180 of the country's 39,000 jurisdictions. In the end, it raised the national tally by about 2,700 people. Hidalgo County, Texas, believes 8% of its rural population was missed, and the county may sue, says Jose Garza, a lawyer hired by the county. "We don't want to get caught flat-footed at the end of the day if (an appeal) doesn't work out," he says.

Daniella Alulema of the New York State Youth Leadership Council has a degree in accounting, but the Ecuadoran native says she can't put her education into action because of her immigration status. She says she was looking forward to seeing Congress pass the DREAM Act, which would give undocumented youth education opportunities while on a conditional path to citizenship. The limitations are fairly stringent: to be eligible, an immigrant must have come to the U.S. before turning 16, currently be younger than 35, lived in New York for at least two years and obtained a high school diploma or GED. Further, eligible people must not have any felony convictions and must have completed two years of college, two years of service in the National Guard or 910 hours of community service.

The Maryland House of Delegates has passed a bill allowing illegal immigrants to pay in-state tuition, if they meet certain conditions. The House voted 74-66 on Friday for the measure. The Senate already has approved legislation. The two chambers will have to work out some differences added by the House before the Legislature adjourns Monday night for the bill to go to Gov. Martin O'Malley, who has said he will sign the measure. Illegal immigrants would have to complete two years at a community college and show that their parents paid state taxes for the three years before they enrolled to qualify for in-state tuition. Democrats say it creates opportunity for people who have lived in Maryland for years, but Republicans contend it rewards illegal behavior at taxpayers' expense.

A federal appeals court is refusing to lift a stay blocking major parts of a tough Arizona law targeting illegal immigrants from taking effect. The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Monday turned down an appeal filed by Gov. Jan Brewer. The governor asked them to lift an injunction imposed by a federal judge in Phoenix the day before the law was to take effect on July 29, 2010. The U.S Justice Department sued to block the law. It argued it violates the constitution because enforcing immigration law is a federal issue. Brewer's lawyers said the federal government hasn't effectively enforced immigration law and that the state law will assist federal authorities. The law would require police to check immigration status when enforcing other laws, among other provisions.

With two immigration reform bills possibly up for a vote next week in Georgia's Legislature, critics of the bills warn that an unintended consequence will be decreased investment into the state from around the country and the world. House Bill 87, which attempts to crack down on illegal immigration by mandating that businesses verify their employees' legal status, passed the House of Representatives in early March. Later in the month, a similar piece of immigration reform, Senate Bill 40, was adopted in the Senate. While it is unclear if the bills will reach the opposite chambers for a vote, lawmakers could make a decision about the legislation before April 14, the last day of the 40-day session. D.A. King, president of the Dustin Inman Society, which opposes illegal immigration, said the bill will open up jobs for unemployed Georgians, while critics of the bills told GlobalAtlanta the legislation could send a message that international investment is not welcome in Georgia.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals turned down an appeal filed by Gov. Jan Brewer. She had asked the appeals court to lift an injunction imposed by a federal judge in Phoenix the day before the law was to take effect on July 29, 2010. The U.S. Justice Department sued to block the law, saying it violates the U.S. Constitution because enforcing immigration law is a federal issue. U.S. District Court Judge Susan Bolton issued an injunction preventing four major parts of the law from going into

Today, the Immigration Policy Center will release DHS Progress Report: An Analysis of Immigration Policy in the Second Year of the Obama Administration. In its second year under the Obama Administration, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)-which is responsible for the nation's three immigration agencies (USCIS, CPB, and ICE)-continues to struggle with its competing missions of providing immigration benefits and enforcing immigration laws, all within the context of an outdated and broken immigration system. Over the past year, while waiting for Congress to act, the Administration has increased its emphasis on enforcement and deportation and denied its ability to provide administrative relief. The forthcoming report finds that, while DHS has made significant progress in some areas, there is much room for improvement. The report recommends that DHS act in line with its own stated priorities and exert its executive authority to bring about much-needed reforms that can be done in the absence of Congressional action.

The bill will allow undocumented high school graduates to receive in-state college tuition rates providing they meet certain criteria. The research arm for the state legislature, The Department of Legislative Services, estimated it would cost Maryland taxpayers $778,000 in fiscal year 2014 and up to $3.5 million in fiscal 2016 to subsidize the tuition rate undocumented students would receive. There are currently 16 community colleges in Maryland.

Arizona Gov. Jan Brewer has vetoed a bill to allow guns to be carried on public rights of way on public university and community college campuses. Gun-rights advocates backed the bill, saying it would help people defend themselves and prevent them from getting in trouble for merely driving through a campus with a gun in a vehicle. University presidents opposed the bill. They said allowing guns on campuses would endanger employees, students and visitors, and it would be difficult for officers responding to a shooting to quickly identify a wrongdoer. The bill originally would have applied to campus buildings, including classrooms, by allowing people with concealed weapons permits to carry guns into the facilities. But it was scaled back during Senate consideration to apply only to rights of way. References to concealed weapons also were removed.

The Arizona bill included proof-of-qualification for all candidates appearing on Arizona ballots, with those varying by the office sought. Hawaii officials have certified Obama was born in that state, but so-called "birthers" have demanded more proof. Brewer said in her veto letter that she was troubled that the bill empowered Arizona's secretary of state to judge the qualifications of all candidates when they file to run for office.

But 1200 WOAI's Michael Board says plenty of south Texans are ducking to avoid the bullets from the gang wars, to gas up at prices which are as much as a dollar lower than prices in the United States. Why is gasoline so much cheaper across the Rio Grande? Two main reasons. First of all, Petroleos Mexicanos, the state-owned oil company, controls prices with the assistance of the Mexican government, which is not keen to see the price of gasoline go up too high for fear of public unrest. Also, Mexican environmental laws are not as strict as laws in the U.S., and gasoline sold in Mexico is not required to have many of the special blends designed to hold down air pollution, which jack up U.S. prices.

As McDonald's makes its nationwide push to get 50,000 new employees to join its ranks, it is important to put the "McJob" in perspective. We've all heard that the average McDonald's job doesn't pay much. And you're right - it doesn't offer compensation that is anywhere near the pay for salaried positions filled by college graduates or skilled workers. The data we've seen is that the entry-level McJob probably pays a little more than minimum wage. The company and sites that track wages suggest that many of those workers hired Tuesday will be making around $8 an hour, depending in which area of the country they live. A full workweek at $8 an hour gets you about $320 before tax withholding. That's $16,000 a year if you take two weeks off during the year for vacation. It's above the poverty line for individuals this year ($11,136 according to the Census), but below the level for a four-person household ($22,314).

Livery cabs must be hired ahead of time and do not pick up passengers off the street, unlike the more well known yellow taxis that cruise New York City streets looking for fares. One dozen vests were donated by New York-based security firm Security USA, adding to another 20 or so protective shields that had been previously donated by retired police officers.

The U.S. government is adding new protections for travelers when airlines lose their bags, bump them off flights or hold them on the runway for hours. The airlines will also have to more clearly disclose the fees they charge. Consumer advocates say the wide-ranging regulations would improve the flying experience. Still, they wanted regulators to get even tougher on bag fees and make it easier to sue airlines over shoddy service. Beginning in late August, passengers who pay $15 or more to check luggage will get a refund if their bag is lost. They'll also be entitled to more money -- up to $1,330 -- if they're bumped from a flight. Airlines will have to include government taxes and fees in advertised prices.

The new warnings could be conveyed to the public through Facebook and Twitter. Unlike the colors, the alerts will have expiration dates. The past system described the threat in five colors, from green, low risk, to red, severe. Napolitano says the threat picture in the U.S. is currently at an "elevated baseline," and future public warnings will hinge on specific and credible intelligence above and beyond that threshold. She says the terror threat to the U.S. is at its highest since 9/11 because of the increasing number and types of international and homegrown threats. This does not mean there is a specific threat of an imminent attack.

It is turning some Cuban-Americans against each other. Senate Bill 2040 authorizes state law enforcement and corrections officials to increase cooperation with federal authorities in identifying undocumented immigrants being held in jails and prisons, which could lead to deportations. Critics have said that such a system would raise cost and privacy concerns. Bloomberg was one of several politicians who discussed immigration issues this week with President Barack Obama. Democrats argued that allowing more students to attend college would boost the state's economy and that the children of illegal immigrants should not be punished for their parent's mistakes. ### PESTICIDES IN DRINKING WATER VO :28

More pesticides could get into America's drinking water supply. The House of Representatives passed a bill which would allow farmers to use pesticides near water supplies. Supporters of the bill say use of pesticides is already regulated. Pesticides are harmful to pregnant women and children, say recent studies.

OBESE TEENS: MORE PROBLEMS VO :18

Extremely obese teens are already at risk for all sorts of health problems. But a new study finds they may be putting themselves in even more danger. Researchers found very obese teens are engaging in high-risk behaviors like smoking, drinking, drugs and sex -- at the same rates as healthy-weight teens. Most surprising were the findings that very obese girls were *more* likely to have sex while drunk or high. Extremely overweight girls were also more likely than their healthy-weight counterparts to smoke or use chewing tobacco. Doctors say the study shows the need to better understand the mental health needs of overweight teens -- not just their physical problems.

SCHOOL BUS ADVERTISING MONICA NAVARRO. SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS PKG 1:01

Buses in a Texas school district can now display paid ads. Of course, there are some things these rolling billboards can not advertise. a number of companies have approached us over the last several months to see if we wanted to partner with them to have advertising on our buses. Took us some time but we finally decided that it's time to try something new. State law prohibits, if it's tobacco, advertising tobacco, alcohol, anything sexual in nature, religious organizations, gambling--- can't have any of those things. Ads for a restaurant and credit union were the first to be featured on the buses.

Assembly Public Safety Committee Hearing on AB 1081 (Ammiano), the TRUST Act, which would honor the right of local governments to opt out of ICE's controversial "Secure" Communities or S-Comm Program and set basic standards for jurisdictions that choose to participate. As Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) faces a growing storm of criticism from public officials over its troubled S-Comm program, the Assembly Public Safety Committee will hear a bill that would grant decision-making power to local governments on whether, and how, to relate to the controversial initiative.

FERNANDO PIZARRO. WASHINGTON, DC
PKG 1:51

Gas pump prices continue to climb, hitting $3.87 per gallon on Tuesday, though experts say the national average should fall eventually as Americans drive less. Retail gasoline prices have increased for 35 straight days, adding 32.2 cents per gallon since March 22. They're above $4 per gallon in California, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Connecticut, Washington D.C., Alaska and Hawaii.

INDIANA APPROVES IMMIGRATION LAW

The Indiana House and Senate approved anti-illegal immigration legislation Friday that was significantly watered down compared to the original version. Senate Bill 590, which now goes to the governor, requires most Indiana businesses check the immigration status of new employees, forbids distribution of state aid to illegal immigrants and prohibits local governments from refusing to abide by federal immigration law. As introduced, the legislation would have required a police officer to check the immigration status of any person the officer suspected was in the country illegally. While the Republican-controlled Senate approved that provision, it was removed by the Republican-controlled House after concerns were expressed by Republican Gov. Mitch Daniels, Indiana businesses and tourism officials.

TAXES DUE TODAY

VO: 24

Today is the filing deadline for Americans to turn in their taxes. This year the filing deadline fell on April 18th, which is three days later than usual. That's because the Emancipation Day holiday fell on a Saturday. People who still don't have their taxes in order by the end of the day, need to submit Form 48-68, which gives taxpayers a six-month extension.

U.S. ECONOMY

VO: 27

A survey from the National Association for Business Economics says the U.S. economy is gaining strength despite political unrest in North Africa and the Middle East and last month's devastating earthquake and tsunami in Japan. The survey finds that economists are hopeful that the broader economy is substantially improving, with rising employment reported for the fifth quarter in a row.

GALLON OF GAS NOW TOPS $4 IN SIX STATES AND D.C.

VO: 28

According to AAA's Daily Fuel Gauge, the Empire State today became the sixth state to top $4 for the average price of a gallon of gas, joining Alaska, California, Connecticut, Hawaii and Illinois. The average price of gas also rose to more than $4 per gallon in Washington, D.C., yesterday. The next states to join the list could be Michigan, which has gas for $3.95 per gallon on average, and Indiana, where the average price is $3.94. Nevada, Washington and Wisconsin are close behind. Hawaii has the highest price in the U.S. at $4.48 per gallon.

PROSECUTIONS OF TAX EVADERS UP 25%

Federal prosecutors filed charges in 1,250 tax cases last year, a 25.3% jump from 2001, IRS data show. Prosecution recommendations by the IRS also reached a high of 1,507, up 50.4% from the 1,002 the data show for 2001. USA TODAY confirmed the trend by analyzing tax prosecution referrals in court records compiled by the Transactional Records Access Clearinghouse, a data research and distribution organization at "The time that we're spending on tax investigations has gone up," even though IRS staffing has remained relatively flat, said Steven Miller, the tax agency's deputy commissioner of Services and Enforcement, in an interview as today's federal tax filing deadline approached. "That's resulted in a lot more prosecutions in that area." Part of the rise last year came from criminal charges or guilty pleas in cases involving at least 25 Americans who were accused of ducking taxes on profits stashed in secret accounts with Swiss banking giant UBS.
