Host Jeremy C. Park talks with music producer Mario Monterosso, who shares some of his personal background as an Italian guitarist, songwriter and producer who fell in love with Memphis music in 1982 when the rockabilly European revival started and how that led him to move to Memphis, Tennessee in 2016.

During the interview, Mario shares how he became inspired by Bobby Darin's 1969 song, Simple Song of Freedom, and how still, after almost 60 years, it is powerfully appropriate for this current moment in history. He talks about spearheading the project to unite Memphis musicians in song in a worldwide humanitarian effort and how the different puzzle pieces came together to produce the song.

Many internationally known Memphis musicians, singers and cultural organizations are supporting and part of the effort, including Priscilla Presley, Memphis Queen of Soul Carla Thomas, Kallen Esperian, Rev. Charles Hodges, Dr. Gary Beard, Dr. Keith Norman of First Baptist Church Broad, and Bar-Kays' founding member Larry Dodson. Their combined efforts and talents merged into the name Memphis Freedom Band. Mario also shares how the song will help children's hearts heal all over the world with proceeds from the song benefiting the Novick Cardiac Alliance, which is an organization headquartered in Memphis, that has been working around the world to ensure children with life threatening illnesses continue, despite war, to receive the treatment they need.

This non-political project was recorded and filmed at the renowned Sam Phillips Recording Studio in Memphis, with Emmy Award-winning film composer and Grammy-nominated music producer, Scott Bomar, as Recording Engineer. The public is invited to the "unveiling" of the music video on December 20, 2023 from 6-8 PM at the Memphis Brooks Museum of Art (www.thebrooks.org/songoffreedom). Mario adds how Marie Pizano and the MVP3 Foundation and MVP3 Records have assisted him in the project and have helped release the song publicly through Select-O-Hits, an American independent record label distributor of music based in Memphis, owned by Sam W. and John Phillips, which was co-founded in 1960 by their father, Tom and uncle, Sam Phillips. Sam Phillips is the founder of the legendary Sun Records, where Elvis, Johnny Cash and many others started their careers. Preview Simple Song of Freedom at <https://orcd.co/memphisfreedomband>

Host Jeremy C. Park talks with Dodd Galbreath, Associate Professor of Sustainability and Director of Graduate Programs at Lipscomb University, who talks about the importance of sustainability careers and how the graduate program at the Lipscomb University Institute for Sustainable Practice is preparing individuals to create positive change with a triple bottom line. The triple bottom line is a sustainability framework that measures a business's success in three key areas: profit, people, and the planet.

During the interview, Dodd talks about some of the current environmental challenges and how energy plays a critical role, talks about how these challenges and the triple bottom line are woven into the graduate program, and how sustainability careers are meeting these challenges and creating success. He also shares some success stories and talks about the power of a graduate degree within the field of sustainability, and then highlights the upcoming 2024 webinar sustainability education series and how the community can get involved.

Host Jeremy C. Park talks with Joe Huff and Bridget Hilton, Authors of “Experiential Billionaire: Build a Life Rich in Experiences and Die with No Regrets,” who share how they both started their lives with zero connections, money, fame, or education, and yet by leaning into the joy of remarkable experiences, they discovered their power to transform lives. Bridget and Joe have spent years interviewing social science experts, conducting one of the largest surveys on life experiences ever done. Together they started the world’s first socially good electronics company and have provided more than 50,000 people with the gift of hearing aids and hearing for the first time. They have trained to be samurai, danced with the northern lights, tracked silverback gorillas in a hailstorm, and studied with monks, and built schools for kids in need.

During the interview, Joe and Bridget discuss some of those experiences and how they shaped their deeper exploration around the importance of shifting people’s mindset from living “someday” to living today. They talk about their book and speaking, and both share valuable tips to renew a sense of urgency to achieve personal and professional goals and investing in the power of experiences.

Host Jeremy C. Park talks with Gene Garcia, Outreach Director with Heartland Adult & Teen Challenge, who shares his personal story of how the nonprofit organization saved his life and highlights their mission and efforts as a long-term, faith-based drug and alcohol treatment program for adult males, ages 18 and up. During the interview, Gene discusses their highly structured program for men who have reached their rock bottom and are ready for a complete life change. Their program focuses on Christian principles while helping men develop life skills that will aid them in the practical side of their recovery. Interpersonal skills and healthy relationships are focused on to help heal broken bonds with family, and work skills are developed so men can not only maintain sobriety but also have the practical skills necessary to be productive members of society. Gene talks about their different locations between Memphis, Middle Tennessee and Murfreesboro, how the community can support their efforts, and how individuals seeking help can take their first steps toward life transformation.

Program 24-01

Air Week: 1/7/2024

Executive Producer: Amirah Zaveri

Production Manager: Jason Dickey

SEGMENT 1: BEING A GOOD PATIENT TAKES WORK: HOW TO FEEL EMPOWERED AT THE HOSPITAL

Time: 1:50

Duration: 12:59

Synopsis: We, as patients, are making more decisions about our health than ever before. From which brand of medicine we want to which supplements we take, a lot of the choices depend on being a smart consumer. Our expert reveals why this is a double-edged sword and how you can feel empowered walking into your next doctor's appointment.

Host: Elizabeth Westfield

Producer: Libby Foster

Guests: Dr. Talya Miron-Shatz, Visiting Researcher, University of Cambridge, Author, Your Life Depends On It

Compliance issues: Health Care, Medicine, Patient Safety, Social Media, Vulnerable Populations, Confirmation Bias, Medical Knowledge, Scientific Terminology, Telehealth

SEGMENT 2: DOES A GOOD BEDSIDE MANNER SAVE LIVES?

Time: 15:50

Duration: 7:02

Synopsis: Dr. Wes Ely, an intensive care specialist, says the early days of his career were spent more worried about the beeps and buzzers rather than the patients that the machines were monitoring. He gives us a unique look into how physicians can humanize patients in the ICU and, in turn, save more lives.

Host: Greg Johnson

Producer: Polly Hansen

Guests: Dr. Wes Ely, Professor of Medicine, Associate Director of Aging Research, Vanderbilt University, Author, Every Deep-Drawn Breath

SEGMENT 1: HOW TO COMBAT MEDICAL IGNORANCE OF RARE DISEASES

Time: 1:48

Duration: 11:12

Synopsis: Having a rare disease means that not all doctors will know how to treat you. For Christyn Taylor's daughter, who was diagnosed with pediatric pancreatitis at age 7, this meant countless physicians who either didn't believe she had the condition or knew nothing about it – factors that continually worsened her illness. To help other families in similar situations, Taylor created a document that gives patients with rare diseases a credible back-up of medical history and current treatment plans when dealing with stubborn physicians.
