Issues Program List

Quarterly Issues Programs List for January 1, 2020 – March 31, 2020

The stations have identified the following issues as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

- A. Addiction. People from every walk of life face addiction. Either themselves, family members or co-workers. With recent changes to local drug laws those in the Quad Cities have more to monitor with their loved ones. We talked to author Ryan LaLumier, professor in the Psychology Department at the University of Iowa about the causes of addiction and why some people are more likely to become addicts than others.
- B. Healthcare. Healthcare is always a topic of need for every community. The topic became more of a serious issue as news of the coronavirus spread grew. So what is the fix? An author joined the stations to discuss the cost and system that is currently in place. Doctors and nurses are stretched thin while more people in the Quad Cities become at risk as the population becomes older.
- C. Parenting. Parenting young children is challenging. But when the young children can't get their adult life started it adds stress to the parent/child relationship. With a community in the Quad Cities seeing an increase in unemployment more 20-somethings are still living with their parents. The show is joined by author of "Failure To Launch" discussing what parents can do to get their unmotivated children going in life.
- D. Social Media. While Social Media can be used for many great ways to connect with people across the country, it is also a minefield of social, racial and sexual speech that can stick with a person for their entire life. The show is joined by a couple of former athletes talking about the pros and cons of social media. Including social media bullying and abuse.
- E. Aging. As the population of the Quad Cities becomes older the issues and needs of these people continue to grow. How to care for their needs is a question many sons and daughters ask themselves. Both emotionally and financially. Eugenia Zukerman was diagnosed with dementia and Alzheimer's three years ago and joined the show to talk about her experience dealing with the disease in hopes of others understanding what is needed.
- F. Exercise. Our jobs, entertainment and in general life is becoming less active. With obesity a major issue in Iowa/Illinois the show is joined by author Kelly McGonigal who talks about ways to still be active and get exercise without the "normal" workouts of treadmills and gyms. These active habits can lead to a healthier life for the Quad Cities.
