Religion	Digest	Oct. 14	Noon	30 Min.	"Islam" – Ever since the Sept. 11th terrorist attacks on America, the religion of Islam has received more attention than ever. The U.S. government says the attacks were orchestrated by Islamic terrorists, who quote the Koran to justify what they do. So what is Islam? And just what do Muslims believe? Those are just a few of the questions we have for Dr. Baker Siddiquee, of the University of Illinois, Springfield. He teaches a class on "Islam and the West," and is also an associate professor of economics. Host – Zenobia Gerald.
Religion	Digest	Dec. 30	Noon	30 Min.	"Religion" – Americans flocked to churches in record numbers after the Sept. 11th terrorist attacks. Now, religious leaders around the country and here in Central Illinois are reporting that attendance is dropping to pre-attack levels. Why do people flock to churches where there's a crisis....and why turn away. Are we or aren't we taking faith more seriously? Do Americans favor private worship over group services? Those are some of the questions we posed to the Rev. Rosemary Lowery of Maranatha Assembly of God.
