SECOND QUARTER 2021: KING 5 Special Programs

Urban Gardening with Ciscoe

Sunday, June 20th, 2021, 8:02 – 8:30P (joined-in-Progress)

Gardening expert Ciscoe Morris looks at the importance of green space in a big city like Seattle. He talks to a supervisor of the Seattle P-Patch Community Gardening Program. Next, Ciscoe goes to Bradner Gardens Park to find out about container gardening and the importance of compost from a Seattle Tilth instructor. In segment two, Ciscoe is on the Seattle University campus to visit Michael Shiosaki from Seattle Parks and Recreation to hear how green spaces in the city improve the environment and provide a place for people to enjoy. Ciscoe also finds out from Aaron Clark of Stewardship Partners on how rain gardens help cut down on pollution. Finally, Ciscoe meets with Jeff Steenbergen from the Puget Sound Beekeepers Association at Pollination Garden to find out how beneficial and vital bees are to the environment. This KING 5 produced Ciscoe half-hour special program originally aired in 2016. It was joined-in-progress on 6/20/2021 due to a slight NBC sports overrun of the Olympic Track Trials.
