Quarterly Issues Programs List

Section I. Issues

The stations have identified the following topics as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

- Economy: Food prices are still at an amazingly high rate and southern Utah communities struggle to deal with the ripple effect created by this, such as raising a family and the rising costs to employ people.
- Mental Health: Suicide prevention is foremost among the issues with a new hotline (9-8-8) and SW Behavioral Health Dept. pushing hard to help prevent these tragedies with its Reach4Hope programs.
- Housing: Young people still cannot afford homes and rents are amazingly high right now, creating a housing crunch in southern Utah. Rising prices for homes are staggering, especially for a young family. A house typically costs over $500K in the county, so even with a big down payment, a monthly payment would be $3K.
- Community Involvement: Appearances weekly from the local mayors like Michele Randall, Kress Staheli and Nanette Billings get us updates on the respective cities in our listening area.
- Environment: We are heading into a dry winter and that has many officials concerned we won't get the needed snow pack to sustain normal life quality in this high desert area, leading to possible water rationing or at least programs to promote water conservation.
