Ibram Xolani Kendi is an assistant professor of African American History at the University of Florida. His second book, Stamped from the Beginning: The Definitive History of Racist Ideas in America, was recently awarded the National Book Award - Nonfiction. Kendi was born in 1982 to parents who came of age during the Black power movement in New York City. They were student activists and Christians inspired by Black liberation theology. While Kendi was in high school, his family moved from Jamaica, Queens, to Manassas, Virginia. He traveled further south and attended Florida A&M University where he earned his undergraduate degrees in Journalism and African American Studies in 2004. After working for a time as a journalist, Kendi pursued his graduate studies. He earned his doctoral degree in African American Studies from Temple University in 2010. Kendi has published fourteen essays in books and academic journals, including The Journal of African American History, Journal of Social History and The Sixties: A Journal of History, Politics and Culture. Kendi is the author of the award-winning book, The Black Campus Movement: Black Students and the Racial Reconstitution of Higher Education, 1965-1972.

Raised on the Southside of Chicago, 24 year-old Vic Mensa has already established himself as an integral part of Chicago culture, first co-founding the SAVEMONEY collective and releasing two mixtapes in two years and now as a solo artist signed with the Roc Nation family. His debut mixtape 'Straight Up' in 2010, followed by 2013's 'INNANETAPE', brought Mensa's solo work to a new and larger audience. In addition, The Chicago native's critically acclaimed 2nd project helped earn him a top spot on XXL Magazine's 2014 freshman class. In 2015, Vic Mensa collaborated with Kanye West and Sia on "Wolves" - the first track on Kanye West's album 'Swish', he's released 'U Mad' featuring Kanye West and most recently, 'No Chill' with Skrillex. Mensa received his first Grammy nomination in 2016 for co-writing Kanye West's song "All Day." His full-length debut The Autobiography will be released on July 28, 2017.

Charley Pride is a country music legend. He is a three-time Grammy winner with more than 50 top ten hits and has sold more records for the RCA label than anyone else except Elvis. He was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame in the year 2000. Pride took the stage, made his first hit record, and broke the color line in the country music 50 years ago. Between 1967 and 1987, he had a steady string of hits including "All I Have to Offer you is Me," "Is Anybody Goin' to San Antone," "Amazing Love," "Mississippi Cotton Pickin' Delta Town," and "Mountain of Love." His biggest hit has been "Kiss an Angel Good Morning," and with its release in 1971 he won the Country Music Entertainer of the Year and Male Vocalist of the Year awards from the Country Music Association. Pride grew up as one of 11 children in small town

Mississippi, the son of a share cropper. He got his first guitar at age 14 from a Sears Roebuck catalog and taught himself to play by listening to shows like the Grand Ole Opry on the family radio. Before becoming a star in country music, Pride played professional baseball in the Negro American League. He is now part-owner of the Texas Rangers.

"Nightmare bacteria." That's how the CDC describes a frightening new threat spreading quickly in hospitals, communities and across the globe. FRONTLINE reporter David Hoffman investigates the alarming rise of untreatable infections: from a young girl thrust onto life support in an Arizona hospital, to a young American infected in India who comes home to Seattle, and an uncontrollable outbreak at the nation's most prestigious hospital, where 18 patients were mysteriously infected and six died, despite frantic efforts to contain the killer bacteria. Fueled by decades of antibiotic overuse, the crisis has deepened as major drug companies, squeezed by Wall Street expectations, have abandoned the development of new antibiotics. Without swift action, the miracle age of antibiotics could be coming to an end

Greg Champagne was first elected Sheriff of St. Charles Parish in 1995. He was the first Sheriff of St. Charles Parish to serve as President of the Louisiana Sheriff's Association in 2007 - 2008 and is the recent past-president of the National Sheriff's Association and is presently Chairman of the NSA Legal Affairs Committee. He graduated from Nicholls State University in 1979 with a Bachelor's Degree in Government. He went on to receive his law degree from the Louisiana State University Law Center in 1982. He served as an assistant district attorney in St. Charles Parish for nearly 14 years and earned a reputation as being a tough, but fair prosecutor with a 94% conviction rate. Sheriff Champagne joined "Fight Crime: Invest in Kids" in 2009. Since becoming a member, Sheriff Champagne is a strong advocate for early education and mental health reform to help prevent kids from going down the wrong path and ending up in jail.

On this edition for Sunday, July 9, The U.S.-backed Iraqi army won the battle for Mosul on Sunday, ousting the Islamic State from the city it seized three years ago. Though sporadic resistance by cornered ISIS militants continues, Iraq's Prime Minister Haider al-Abadi declared victory nine months after Iraqi forces launched their offensive to retake Mosul. Then, a commission created by President Trump to look into potential voter fraud and Russian interference with the U.S. election have brought the annual meeting of the National Association of Secretaries of State this weekend to center stage. Later, as Venezuela's economy plummets, mass exodus ensues. Despite having the largest oil reserves in the world, Venezuela's economy is in a freefall, necessities have become scarce and tens of thousands of residents are fleeing across the border to Colombia.

On this edition for Saturday, July 29, Senate Republicans failed this week to repeal the Affordable Care Act, which has provided insurance to 12 million people. Most people enrolled under the ACA have at least two insurers to choose from, but next year, 3 million people may have only one choice, and people living in 45 counties could be left with none. Next, on Sunday, Venezuela will hold an election for a new national assembly that could rewrite its constitution. Parties opposed to President Nicolas Maduro, whose party has presided over a severe economic downturn in recent years, are boycotting the vote for fear the new assembly would expand executive powers. Later, since 2010, India has undertaken what is by far the largest citizen registration drive in history by documenting most of its 1.3 billion people into a single national identification database. The system assigns a number and records fingerprints and iris scans.

On this edition for Sunday, July 9, The U.S.-backed Iraqi army won the battle for Mosul on Sunday, ousting the Islamic State from the city it seized three years ago. Though sporadic resistance by cornered ISIS militants continues, Iraq's Prime Minister Haider al-Abadi declared victory nine months after Iraqi forces launched their offensive to retake Mosul. Then, a commission created by President Trump to look into potential voter fraud and Russian interference with the U.S. election have brought the annual meeting of the National Association of Secretaries of State this weekend to center stage. Later, as Venezuela's economy plummets, mass exodus ensues. Despite having the largest oil reserves in the world, Venezuela's economy is in a freefall, necessities have become scarce and tens of thousands of residents are fleeing across the border to Colombia.

North Korea's Tuesday missile launch crossed the intercontinental threshold the U.S. had been hoping to prevent. At the U.N. Security Council on Wednesday, the U.S. tried to rally the world to punish and isolate the regime. Meanwhile, North Korean leader Kim Jong-un insisted he will never negotiate away his missile and nuclear programs. Nick Schifrin reports on the American response so far.

After decades of decline, the city of Utica, New York, is growing again, thanks in part to its reputation as "the town that loves refugees." And their basic reason for loving refugees is simple: An influx of new residents and workers have helped keep its economy afloat. But are there also downsides to an refugee-driven recovery? Economics correspondent Paul Solman reports.

Charley Pride is a country music legend. He is a three-time Grammy winner with more than 50 top ten hits and has sold more records for the RCA label than anyone else except Elvis. He was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame in the year 2000. Pride took the stage, made his first hit record, and broke the color line in the country music 50 years ago. Between 1967 and 1987, he had a steady string of hits including "All I Have to Offer you is Me," "Is Anybody Goin' to San Antone," "Amazing Love," "Mississippi Cotton Pickin' Delta Town," and "Mountain of Love." His biggest hit has been "Kiss an Angel Good Morning," and with its release in 1971 he won the Country Music Entertainer of the Year and Male Vocalist of the Year awards from the Country Music Association. Pride grew up as one of 11 children in small town Mississippi, the son of a share cropper. He got his first guitar at age 14 from a Sears Roebuck catalog and taught himself to play by listening to shows like the Grand Ole Opry on the family radio. Before becoming a star in country music, Pride played professional baseball in the Negro American League. He is now part-owner of the Texas Rangers.

On this edition for Saturday, July 29, Senate Republicans failed this week to repeal the Affordable Care Act, which has provided insurance to 12 million people. Most people enrolled under the ACA have at least two insurers to choose from, but next year, 3 million people may have only one choice, and people living in 45 counties could be left with none. Next, on Sunday, Venezuela will hold an election for a new national assembly that could rewrite its constitution. Parties opposed to President Nicolas Maduro, whose party has presided over a severe economic downturn in recent years, are boycotting the vote for fear the new assembly would expand executive powers. Later, Since 2010, India has undertaken what is by far the largest citizen registration drive in history by documenting most of its 1.3 billion people into a single national identification database. On this edition for Sunday, July 30, how do phone scams actually work? That's what Alex Goldman, co-host of Gimlet Media podcast Reply All, wondered recently when he answered a call and found himself the target of an attempted phone scam. Then, Hackers, lawyers, security officials and government employees gather annually in Las Vegas for the Def Con security convention. This year, hackers were able to penetrate a touch screen voting machine used in a 2014 Virginia election in less than two hours. Next, Finnish icebreaker has completed the Northwest Sea passage, which links the Atlantic and Pacific oceans across the Arctic. The trip, from Vancouver to Greenland's capital city Nuuk, took 24 days -- a new record, in part because climate change has melted sea ice, making the journey easier. Later, while publicly-held American corporations are responsible to shareholders to maximize profits, a group of businesses say they're approaching their enterprises differently, with an eye toward environmental sustainability and workers' rights.

"Nightmare bacteria." That's how the CDC describes a frightening new threat spreading quickly in hospitals, communities and across the globe. FRONTLINE reporter David Hoffman investigates the alarming rise of untreatable infections: from a young girl thrust onto life support in an Arizona hospital, to a young American infected in India who comes home to Seattle, and an uncontrollable outbreak at the nation's most prestigious hospital, where 18 patients were mysteriously infected and six died, despite frantic efforts to contain the killer bacteria. Fueled by decades of antibiotic overuse, the crisis has deepened as major drug companies, squeezed by Wall Street expectations, have abandoned the development of new antibiotics.

Without swift action, the miracle age of antibiotics could be coming to an end

Chuck Berry -- early architect of the sound, attitude and raw power of rock 'n' roll -- died this year, but his music is getting a second life. A new album called "Chuck," his first since 1979, was announced in the months before his death on his 90th birthday, and charts his life as a kind of autobiographical epitaph. Jeffrey Brown talks with Berry's son and grandson about his legacy.
