How Programming Addressed the Issues

- Jobs / Economy

- 08/16/21 Drumbeat Host Dana Supreme Richardson and his guest discussed the incoming Hurricane Henri about to strike Boston and its impending impact on workers, especially essential workers who rely on public transportation to commute. His guest works in construction and so, predicted that the next week or so would be very difficult with the storm and his industry would face a lot of delays. The hosts also discussed the City of Boston's storm preparedness and provided listeners with tips on how to prepare for a hurricane. Length: 02:00:00

- Community / Social Action

- 07/18/21 The Family Tree Host Nina Ruff and guest Haywood Fenell Sr. discuss Mr. Fenell's work in his community of Roxbury. Mr. Fenell brings up the name change of historic Dudley Square to Nubian Square and how, although it was something that the community fought for, it was not followed up on by the city with economic investment. He emphasized the need for not just political power, but also economic power for his community, and the historic lack of economic development in Roxbury. Length: 02:00:00
