Dear FCC Commissioner:

Why do you continue to disregard your obligation to protect our families from the constant barrage of indecency on television?

Like many families, we are tired of the constant sex, violence, and profanity coming into our homes through the public airwaves.

On February 25, ABC affiliate stations aired NYPD BLUE. In the program, a young boy was exposed to full adult female nudity. It is shameless that this kind of broadcast is going unchallenged by the FCC.

As a member of OneMillionDads.com, I implore you to vigorously enforce broadcast indecency laws to insure this type of incident does not occur again.

Sincerely,

As an adult looking back at your childhood, when television was introduced and for many years afterwards, can you honestly say that you were harmed by not seeing adult nudity, violence, obscene language and the such? Were the programs you watched filled with kids insulting their parents and each other? Were the parents sneaking around or even openly cheating on their spouse? Were men dating men and women dating women? Of course NOT...Television was good clean fun. What's wrong with bringing that back to today...reset our standards?

I have a 6-1/2 year old boy and would be appalled if he was to witness this kind of adult female nudity. It is hard enough to find good programming on TV, it's another thing to try to not get sick to my stomach with the scenes in so many shows these days. I turn my TV off a lot more than I used to and it will be that way until the FCC starts screening and filtering the kind of shows that are being allowed to air.

Dear FCC Commissioner:

Why do you continue to disregard your obligation to protect our families from the constant barrage of indecency on television?

Like many families, we are tired of the constant sex, violence, and profanity coming into our homes through the public airwaves.

On February 25, ABC affiliate stations aired NYPD BLUE. In the program, a young boy was exposed to full adult female nudity. It is shameless that this kind of broadcast is going unchallenged by the FCC.

As a member of OneMillionDads.com, I implore you to vigorously enforce broadcast indecency laws to insure this type of incident does not occur again.

Dear FCC Commissioner:

Why do you continue to disregard your obligation to protect our families from the constant barrage of indecency on television? Do you have small children who watch TV with you? Do you want them to grow up thinking all this "stuff" is normal, natural, and good for them? I hope not. I don't think it is good for my grandchildren and you are responsible for making sure it doesn't happen.

Like many families, we are tired of the constant sex, violence, homosexuality and profanity coming into our homes through the public airwaves. It has gotten so bad that even though we pay good money to have dish reception of TV and we have hundreds of channels to pick from, it is almost impossible to find a program that is both entertaining and suitable for a couple to watch together.

On February 25, ABC affiliate stations aired NYPD BLUE. In the program, a young boy was exposed to full adult female nudity. It is shameless that this kind of broadcast is going unchallenged by the FCC. And what was the purpose? I don't watch NYPD - never have willingly, but my husband enjoyed it and he is becoming more and more disgusted with the trash portrayed there. You can make a difference.
