BYRON CENTER, MI – Every summer, Railside Golf Club owner, manager and PGA Professional Jim Bultema becomes a marathon man to support the women's and children's programs at Mel Trotter Ministries.

He teed it up for 36 consecutive hours Sunday and Monday with help from local celebrities to raise funds and awareness as part of the 16th annual Golf Marathon of Hope that raised about $100,000.

"It's definitely a passion," Bultema said of the unique event. "I'm blessed enough to be able to come to work at a country club every day. There are people who don't have a place to sleep or a meal to eat. I'm glad to be part of this. That's Mel Trotter's mission – to give people a second chance who really need it."

Bultema, 36, partnered with several local celebrities again this time.

He played nine-hole rounds with former Mr. Basketball Award winners Matt Steigenga and Drew Neitzel, former NFL and Michigan State players Mitch Lyons and Ty Hallock, WOOD-TV 8's Terri DeBoer, WLAV-FM's Tony Gates, WBBL-FM's Bill Simonson and others in an alternate-shot format.

He played a total of 342 holes, beginning at 7 a.m. Sunday and continuing through 7 p.m. Monday. His only breaks were a half-hour soaking under a hot shower at from 4:30 a.m. to 5 a.m. on Monday morning and a short lunch break between shotgun starts of morning and afternoon squads for the Mel Trotter golf outing.

"My body feels really good," he said early Monday afternoon. "The part that always hurts the most is the hands. I like to interact with all of the celebrities. If I was by myself doing this, it wouldn't be any fun."

"It was a supernatural feat of endurance. We are so grateful to Jim for showing compassion to the hungry, homeless and hurting by participating in our Golf Marathon year after year," said Rev. Chico Daniels, Mel Trotter's president and CEO.

Brian Diemer of Calvin College, who won the bronze medal in the 3,000-meter steeplechase during the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles, posted the lowest score among the celebrities with a 32.

Colorectal Cancer

Program Overview

The Michigan Colorectal Cancer Early Detection Program

- The Michigan Department of Community Health (MDCH) has implemented the Michigan Colorectal Cancer Early Detection Program (MCRCEDP) through a multi-year grant from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The MCRCEDP provides outreach and colorectal cancer education, individualized risk assessment, and screening to eligible 50- to 64-year-old men and women living in 38 Michigan counties
- MCRCEDP services are provided through eight local coordinating agencies (LCAs) with the cooperation and partnership of physicians, hospitals, and other health care organizations in their communities. Following Michigan Cancer Consortium Guidelines for the Early Detection of Colorectal Cancer, colorectal cancer screening is provided through:
  - Fecal Occult Blood Test (FOBT) for average-risk clients, and
  - Colonoscopy for clients at increased risk for colorectal cancer.

Cancer Resources

- Colorectal Cancer Fact Sheet
- Colorectal Cancer Navigation - The Michigan Department of Community Health has developed a guide to navigation utilizing evidence-based strategies in colorectal cancer screening. Several MCC member organizations are highlighted in this document focusing on different aspects of screening navigation. The intended outcome is to disseminate evidence-based strategies and interventions which could be implemented by providers to increase colorectal cancer screening rates.
- Lynch Syndrome is an inherited disorder that increases the risk of many types of cancer, particularly cancers of the colon and rectum, which are collectively referred to as colorectal cancer. For screening and genetic testing information for Lynch Syndrome visit <http://www.geneticalliance.org/>.

Dear Friends,
 We invite you to this very special workshop to bring attention to the plight of crime victims.

- Increase awareness of victims' rights
- Celebrate the progress made in the victims' rights movement
- Promote organizations that provide services to victims

You will also learn real-life tips, such as:

- Learn what to do if you are the victim of a crime
- Learn what to do if someone you know is the victim of a crime
- Learn what to do if you are witness to a crime.

Our panel of speakers will all be from Kent County Law Enforcement, Court and Support Services/Counseling.

It has been thirty years since Congress passed the first Victims of Crimes Act.
 Come to celebrate the progress made and help spread the word about this very important issue.

This workshop will be interpreted in ASL.

Sincerely,
 Sandy Faulkner
 Volunteer Advocate

KidsFirst Emergency Shelter

Since 1998, the St. John's Campus has provided emergency shelter services for Kent County boys and girls. Last year, 452 Kent County children, from newborns to 17, stayed for a short time in two comfortable homes, called "KidsFirst".

Always Open.

Each day battered and neglected children and adolescents are brought to KidsFirst's door by public safety officers or Protective Services workers. They stay until a safe home can be found. KidsFirst serves nearly 600 children each year.

A Nurturing Staff.

Kids' needs come first. Injuries and trauma are the first concern, followed by home-cooked meals, warm baths, clean clothing and even a teddy bear. Counselors are always ready to listen and give reassurance.

New Experiences.

During their stay, kids enjoy St. John's 25-acre campus—including cookouts, bike rides, basketball, and crafts.

A Partnership.

The KidsFirst program is at the center of child welfare in Kent County—serving 600 abused and neglected kids each year, and partnering with the Kent County Department of Human Services and all other child welfare agencies serving the county.

You can help!

During their stay, kids attend plays, sporting events, concerts and festivals—sometimes for the very first time in their lives—thanks to donated tickets and passes. These new opportunities show children that the community values them and wants to contribute to their care.

Michigan Indoor Radon Program Overview

The Michigan Indoor Radon Program is a non-regulatory program. Its purpose is to identify elevated indoor radon levels, to encourage testing for radon, and to also encourage citizens where elevated radon levels are found. The program resides in the Radiological Protection Section of the Resource Management and Assessment Division of the Department of Environmental Quality.

Funding from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), matched by state funds, has established a toll-free number (1-800-723-6642) that citizens can call to get information on the health risk, how to test for radon, etc. Literature is distributed free of charge, and program staff can help locate do-it-yourself radon testing kits.

For more information about the history of the radon program in Michigan, read on.

Radon was first recognized as an indoor environmental health concern in the mid-1980s, when a public health official from the Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH) Division of Radiological Health (DRH) learned that many people who wanted to know about the health risk, how to test their homes, and what could be done to reduce radon levels.

It soon became evident that radon could, indeed, be a problem in some Michigan homes. In 1987, MDPH, with the assistance of the U.S. EPA and Michigan's local health departments (LHDs) conducted a residential radon survey during the 1987-88 winter heating season with all but four of the state's 83 counties participating. The results of this survey showed that many homes in this state would have radon screening levels greater than 4 picocuries per liter of air (pCi/l). In fact, more than 10 percent of the homes would have screening levels above the 4 pCi/l guideline.

In June of 1989, then-Governor James J. Blanchard officially designated the Department of Public Health as the lead agency for the indoor radon program, and a staff person was hired to carry out the day-to-day duties of the program.

In 1990 MDPH entered the federally funded State Indoor Radon Grant (SIRG) program with the goal of determining the extent and magnitude of radon levels in the public school environment. A survey of public schools was conducted during the 1991 school year. While fewer than 3 percent of the schools had elevated radon levels, many as one in four buildings had at least one room with an elevated radon level.

A third survey was conducted in 1991-92 (using SIRG 2 grant funds) to confirm the extent of radon levels in the residential environment (discovered during the 1987-88 residential survey), the Republic area in Marquette County was surveyed. A survey of Republic homeowners for measuring more than 250 sites. Preliminary results showed that many homes in the Republic area had elevated radon levels.

Take the Pledge    About    Get Started    Meet Our Partners

Your healthier tomorrow starts today.

Monday always feels like the perfect day to start a new healthy program. But in fact, today is the best day. Right now. Start by making an appointment with your doctor. As your health partner, your doctor plays a key role in helping you meet your health goals.

There are four key health measures that are closely linked to several chronic diseases. These are numbers you should know and track with your doctor:

- Weight and body mass index
- Blood pressure
- Cholesterol level
- Blood sugar level

Print the Know Your Numbers sheet and take it to your doctor to help you set a healthy, realistic goal for yourself. To calculate what losing 10% of your body weight is, just do the math: (Your weight in pounds) X .10 = Your 10% weight loss goal (pounds). Then imagine how you will look and feel when you reach that goal!

Here are some other things you can do today to get started.

If you haven't done so yet, Take the Pledge. Get the starter kit and sign up for the twice-monthly motivational e-mails and/or text messages.

And for some healthier things you can start doing today, just print the MI Healthier To-Do List, MI Daily Plan and Food Journal pages.

To learn more, share your experiences, or challenge your friends and family to join the MI Healthier Tomorrow movement with you, like the MI Healthier Tomorrow Facebook page.
