

KNPR Issues and Programs List

Q4: October 1, 2022 – December 31, 2022

The most significant community issues during this period covered by Nevada Public Radio are listed here. The producers and Program Director direct the content and selection of the program KNPR's State of Nevada airing weekdays 9 – 10am and 7 – 8pm.

Oct 5, 2022 - Education, homelessness, health care: How will lawmakers spend Nevada's surplus?

- Climate change threatens not just our way of life, it's an existential threat.

Oct 26, 2022 - How do Nevada artists use art to manage mental health? Podcast takes a look

- This is just one story. It comes from the Guardian Australia: I was in a violent relationship for 18 years.

Nov 14, 2022 - A shift to purple: What do Nevada's election results mean for the state's future?

- After the election, Nevada will have Republicans in the governor and lieutenant governor's seats and a larger Democratic majority in the Legislature.

Nov 30, 2022 - New assessment looks to address climate change in Nevada

- By now, most people realize climate change is real. A report by Clark County adds an exclamation point: it says we're facing a potential climate crisis.

Dec 7, 2022 - Packed casinos a sign of good things to come in Las Vegas

- Las Vegas has seen almost two years of monthly gaming revenue records, previously unseen numbers at Reid International Airport, and if you walk into a casino right now? It's wall-to-wall people almost every night of the week.

Dec 22, 2022 - Las Vegas ranks last for youth mental health. Here's how one woman hopes to help

- Local therapist Janet Nordine wanted to do something about this ongoing mental health crisis. So she co-founded a collective centering on youth and family therapy.