Presidential election choices, history of same	Clear Connections	4/3	620	10	Historian and author Doug Cohn talks of the history of presidents and their first year in office. Often we choose presidents, or are told to choose them based on experience. Cohn indicates that past government experience rarely prepares a president for the challenges of the first year in office...Really it's a "learn as you go" process.
Marijuana cultivation policy, local government	Clear Connections	4/10	600	20	Representatives from Jackson County Right to Grow criticize county government's interpretation of state land use law, which effectively takes away the right to grow crops, including marijuana, on rural residential property.
Economy, personal finance, employment	Clear Connections	4/10	620	10	Manufacturing has long been considered the backbone of the middle class. But as manufacturers become increasingly efficient, making more things with fewer people, America has been losing millions of manufacturing jobs to faraway places. Now, a big

					question arises: What are Americans to do for work? 3D printing may be a big part of that answer. “Because 3D printers can make entire parts or products with fewer machines, fewer steps, and therefore fewer people, they eliminate the benefits of making things where labor is cheap,” says John Hornick, author of 3D Printing Will Rock the World. “They bring jobs home, make the world smaller and democratize manufacturing as a whole.”
Homeless Awareness and public policy	Clear Connections	4/17	600	30	Medford City Councilman Clay Bearson discusses the proposal to lease an unused city lot to the Rogue Retreat group in order to start “Hope Village”, a transitional “tiny house” village of homeless people getting set for employment and a more “normal” lifestyle. His book has several diet plans to help control diabetes naturally
Energy, economy, conservation	Clear Connections	5/1 and 5/29	600	20	Monty Mendenhall of Pacific Power discusses the Resource Plan for the electrical utility. Says that 87% of the growth in future power needs in Oregon will be supplied by conservation, and not actually the production of more power. We questioned whether this was sound policy, and whether we could “conserve our way” to economic prosperity. Mendenhall adds that hundreds of thousands of “smart meters” will be installed. We asked about the privacy issues involved, given that PP is moving to demand pricing, which will ultimately lead to much higher energy costs.
Earthquake preparedness	Clear Connections	5/1 and 5/29	620	10	We talk with developers of the Shakealert system, an earthquake early warning system sponsored in part by the U.S. Geological Survey. It’s an important development given the area’s long-anticipated Pacific subduction earthquake talk.
Government health policy, smoking cessation	Clear Connections	5/8	600	20	Heartland Institute’s Dr. Brad Rodu criticizes a recent release of FDA rules and regulations that will place a heavy regulatory burden on “vaping”, electronic cigarettes. Dr. Rodu believes that the costs of the regulation could drive more smokers to continue smoking tobacco products, ultimately more dangerous than even the most “dangerous” e-cigarette.

					from listeners over the controversial "Hope Village" tiny house development, which would build a dozen or so small homes for transitional housing for homeless.
Civil Liberties	Clear Connections	5/22	600	20	John Whitehead, constitutional attorney for the Rutherford Institute, he had much criticism for a recent Supreme Court decision to NOT hear a challenge to the court's own rule banning demonstrations in the plaza in front of the SCOTUS. Says it's an insult to the constitution to have the court ban this political speech.
Civil Liberties	Clear Connections	5/22	620	10	A representative of Young Americans For Liberty, CJ Sailor, promoted its Fight for Free Speech campaign, a national movement committed to ending unconstitutional speech codes and combatting threats to Free Speech on college and university campuses, by hosting more than 340 coordinated events nationwide.

We discuss one of the more well-known examples of a missile system secured with a computer so old that it uses 10.5 inch floppy drives to run the program.

This has been of concern since Portland recently reported problems in their schools. Medford says they're in pretty good shape, there were a couple of old drinking fountains which had corroding fixtures that needed changed out, but overall the water is well within standards.
Law Enforcement, fugitive policy	Clear Connections	6/19	600	20	Jeff Clayton, policy director of the American Bail Coalition discusses whether Oregon should go back to having bail bounds...here's why Out-of-state bail agents and fugitive recovery personnel ("bounty hunters") have no jurisdiction in Oregon over those who have failed to appear on misdemeanor charges. This might not sound like a big deal, until one realizes that misdemeanors can include things such as domestic violence, assault, indecent exposure and driving under the influence. As a consequence, Oregon has become a haven for bail jumpers, with most residents having no idea that these folks are freely roaming about -- and possibly in a position to commit additional offenses without having answered to their original charges.
Public Firearm Policy	Clear Connections	6/19	620	10	A local father discusses what he sees as injustice at southern Oregon University. He was carrying a concealed firearm, legal under state law, at a university graduation ceremony. Security had detected that he was carrying, and ordered him to leave, apparently in violation of state law.
Health care, insurance policy	Clear Connections	6/26	600	30	Dr. Merrill Matthews from the Institute for Policy Innovation talks about a recent study he conducted on Obamacare. He says that recent rule changes in the law's implementation are "walling off" Americans from being able to seek affordable medical care outside of a standard Obamacare insurance policy, which is increasingly exploding in cost. Matthews believes the health insurance system will effectively collapse within the next year or two because of the increasing costs, and declining citizen participation.
