Fundraiser

Guest: John Williams

TIME: 6:15 AM

ISSUE: 1, 7 Recreation and
Community Service Organizations

A fundraiser is being held by Hospice of Yuma in order to raise funds for the non-profit organization. The fundraiser involves a raffle of a high end sand rail, valued at over 14-thousand-dollars. The raffle is one of two huge fundraisers Hospice of Yuma does annually. The other occurs in October and is the Monster Mash event to coincide with Halloween. Hospice of Yuma's monies are all kept in Yuma County to help those who are terminally ill. Hospice of Yuma also operates a thrift store that helps to support the financial needs of those who need such health care. The money raised from the raffle will go to Hospice of Yuma to help them through the leaner months during the summer.

Arizona's College and Career Ready Standards give Arizona students the skills they need to be successful in life. Simply put, they are a set of expectations placed on students to ensure that when they leave classroom, they are ready to become informed, productive members of their community and that they are not only able to compete in a competitive job market, but that they can excel. Arizona education standards have long been adopted by the Arizona Board of Education to ensure every child in our great state has the skills to move through our school system. The standards have gone into effect starting with the 2013-2014 school year.

VITA - otherwise known as Volunteer Income Tax Assistance is a nationwide program sponsored by the I-R-S where I-R-S Certified Volunteers prepare Federal and State returns for free for individuals and families earning less than 52-thousand-dollars in 2013. In 2012, VITA volunteers in Yuma County served almost 1500 Yuma residents and netted a total refund of two-point-five-million-dollars. This year the United Way of Yuma County has five VITA sites open around Yuma County. There are also sites in which you can get online help with your taxes through their website. The site is easy to navigate, but if persons are requiring more assistance, they can go in person in Yuma, San Luis or Somerton.

Tucson Medical Center is holding their annual mega raffle to help raise money for the hospital. The Tucson Medical Center (TMC) Mega Raffle is an opportunity for the public to participate in generating new funds for Tucson Medical Center by purchasing tickets that could win a prize. TMC Mega Raffle is not a philanthropic donation. Instead, it uses an entertainment and prize format to attract dollars in support of the hospital, as a gaming event would. Net proceeds from the Raffle go to Tucson Medical Center, a non-profit hospital organization, to be used for patient care, medical education and/or research - in keeping with Arizona legislation authorizing such a Raffle. The grand prize includes a new house or cash and a car.

Issues covered:
Employment

Length: 8:04

Lance LoRusso, Atlanta-based attorney, former law enforcement officer, author of "When Cops Kill: The Aftermath of a Critical Incident"

Mr. LoRusso said police officers are well-trained on when and how to use their weapons, but are ill-prepared for what to do in the aftermath. He explained how the investigation of a police shooting differs significantly from one involving a civilian. He estimated that 75% of officers involved in a deadly force incident are the target of a civil lawsuit, whether the shooting was justified or not.

Issues covered:
Police & Crime
Violence
Legal Matters

Length: 9:10

Jonathan T. Jefferson, PhD, school administrator, author of "Mugamore: Succeeding without Labels—Lessons for Educators"

Dr. Jefferson said he believes that today's education system needs to change the way it handles problem students. He said zero tolerance policies and the application of labels to students who have behavioral or learning disorders causes many of them to be left behind. He believes that schools personnel need to exercise more patience with immature students to give them time to grow into productive students.

Ms. Feldman noted that 50 percent of new teachers get burned out in their first five years on the job and end up leaving the profession. She explained why this is such a costly problem and how it damages our nation's education system. She offered suggestions for concerned parents who would like to help and encourage stressed-out teachers.

Issues covered:
Education
Parenting

Length: 8:57

Sheldon Krantz, Distinguished Visiting Professor of Law at the University of Maryland Carey School of Law, former dean of the University of San Diego Law School, former law professor at the Boston University Law School, former federal prosecutor, author of "The Legal Profession: What Is Wrong and How to Fix It"

Mr. Krantz said legal services should be available to every American, whether they can afford it or not. He said attorneys do not provide nearly enough pro bono services. He said many of today's law students would be willing to work in the public interest, but are often mired down in student debt. He would like to see loan forgiveness programs or other new initiatives that would enable young lawyers to help lower-income litigants.

Issues covered:

Length: 8:09

Legal Matters

Poverty

Government Policies

Brenda Shields, M.S., research coordinator, Center for Injury Research and Policy, Columbus Children's Hospital in Ohio

Ms. Shields discussed a recent study into the increasing dangers for young people involved in cheerleading. Her research found that emergency room visits are becoming much more common as cheerleading routines have added complex gymnastic moves. She outlined the questions that parents should ask, to be sure coaches are properly qualified.

Length: 9:22

Chris Malone, Managing Partner of Fidelum Partners, a research-based consulting and professional services firm, author of "THE HUMAN BRAND: How We Relate to People, Products and Companies"

Mr. Malone explained why upstart businesses have surged in popularity while many traditionally dominant companies and brands have been falling behind. He outlined the reasons that social media has become such a valuable tool for both consumers and the companies they do business with. He said business schools fail to teach students how to nurture relationships with customers, causing much less loyalty to brands and products.

Issues covered:
Consumer Issues
Education

Length: 7:52

Janet Larson, Director of Research, the Earth Policy Institute

The US is the world's largest consumer of bottled water. Ms. Larson talked about the huge environmental impact of bottled water, both in its manufacture and disposal. She also explained how consumers can wisely decide whether to use bottled water.

Dan McCue, Research Manager, Joint Center for Housing Studies of Harvard University

The cost of renting an apartment or house has jumped in the past decade, according to a study led by Mr. McCue. A 6% rise in prices, combined with the drop in renter incomes, has made affordability a major concern. Much of the jump in prices is because of increased demand for rental homes as a result of the mortgage crisis. He said a quarter of all U.S. households are paying more than half of their income for housing, which is dangerously high.
