WGY AM/FM 4th Quarter 2017
Chuck & Kelly Issues Discussed
(all times AM)

Wednesday, October 4 6:15 4 minutes

- A big milestone was reached for the Regional Food Bank. Over 25 years, it perfected a plan to pick-up up food from local grocery stores that would normally go to waste and instead, gets it to people in need. The Food Bank trucks go around to places like Price Chopper and Hannaford and pick up meat, produce and dairy products which is then brought to local shelters and food pantries. This year, the program is on track to provide about 12 million pounds of food. That's about 10 million meals throughout the region.

Wednesday, October 11 7:45 4 minutes

- A great story involving a little boy and local law enforcement in North Adams, in Western Mass. The Police Department says while two officers were on a call, they noticed a little boy dressed in special cop-like gear. After asking what game the boy was playing, he told this officers he wasn't playing, he just came out to keep them safe while they worked.

Wednesday, October 18 6:15 4 minutes

- A great event in Colonie to help our Vets. The annual Capital Region Homeless Veterans Stand Down event was held Saturday at the Colonie Elks Club. It provides a variety of services for veterans who are homeless or at risk of being homeless; everything from health screenings and housing information, to clothing, winter gear and a hot meal. More than 200 veterans showed up to take advantage of the free services.

Wednesday, October 24 6:15 4 minutes

- "Hatsgiving" is a project started by Latham teen Jeremy Wernick to help warm the heads of kids battling cancer. Again this year, Wernick and some of his friends are collecting new winter hats and did so before Friday night's high school football playoff game at Shaker. Jeremy came up with idea after shaving his head for the St. Baldrick's Foundation, something he's been doing for seven years now. He realized how cold a bald head can be and thought about the kids getting chemotherapy. This is Year 5 for Hatsgiving. Last year, more than 2,700 hats were collected.

Wednesday, November 1 7:45 4 minutes

- Albany County has honored two Shaker High School students and the mother of one of the students. When a 6-year-old with special needs went missing in their neighborhood, the mother and two teens helped look for little Teresa Mawn and found her in a swimming pool, struggling to stay afloat. Shaker students Gerard Rhatigan and Ben Olsen, along with Ben's mother Patricia, were able to save the 6 year old's life by pulling her from the water. Teresa was back home, watching TV, safe and sound, about a half-hour later.

Wednesday, November 8 6:15 4 minutes

- A group of Capital Region barbers were a cut above over the weekend. The Troy Boys and Girls Club was packed with barbers offering free haircuts for the homeless and veterans. More than a dozen barbers from shops across the community donated their time and talents. Organizers say something as simple as a fresh haircut can make all the difference in a time of need. In addition to the free cut, the homeless and vets were also given a free hot meal thanks to donations from the 99 Restaurant.

Wednesday, November 15 7:45 4 minutes

- A great job by the Buffalo Bills when they surprised Marine Corps Veteran James Kozma, who thought he was just going to be introduced to a crowd appreciative for his service. He was, then they surprised him with a service dog, something he's been waiting for since he retired in 2014 after 21 years in the Marines. Kozma was presented with a pit bull pup named Rebel by the non-profit Paws of War. Kozma says they're already best buds.

Wednesday, November 29 6:15 4 minutes

- One local tree farm is looking to make it easier for U.S. troops and their families spending the holidays on a military base. As part of a nationwide effort, Ellms Christmas Trees is donating about 135 trees to families living on bases all over the world. Volunteers from the New York Army and Air National Guard joined local veterans at the farm in Ballston Spa on Monday to help load the donated trees. Trees for Troops has been around for 13 holiday seasons.

Wednesday, December 6 7:45 4 minutes

- The "Concerned for the Hungry" Thanksgiving food program was another huge success. This is the 39th year. 400 volunteers helped gather, prepare and deliver large food baskets to more than 2,300 families.

Wednesday, December 13 6:15 4 minutes

- Things Of My Very Own is working hard on its "Sponsor a Child in Crisis" holiday campaign. The Schenectady nonprofit provides services to children and families who are at risk. Ryan Boncie of "things of my very own" says clothing is especially crucial for the kids. The Army Reserve came to the rescue this month. About 30 members marched through Schenectady, collecting donations along the way.
