NOW, Epsd No. 310,

Are U.S. farm subsidies causing global starvation? There are roughly 30,000 cotton growers in America who receive billions of our U.S. tax dollars every year through government subsidies. But critics charge this generous financial support may be ruining the livelihoods of millions of cotton growers in the poorest parts of the world. NOW looks at the tragic global consequences of our subsidies, and at a new farm proposal -- supported by the president -- which seeks to rein in the assistance. Are we paying a terrible global price for subsidizing U.S. cotton farmers?

FRONTLINE, Epsd No. 2407, The Meth Epidemic

Speed. Meth. Glass. On the street, methamphetamine has many names. What started as a fad among motorcycle gangs in the 1970s has become big business, largely due to the efforts of two Mexican drug runners who began smuggling ephedrine -- the same chemical used to make over-the-counter cold remedies -- into California by the ton. Hundreds of illegal meth labs are now operating in the western United States, and the effects are sweeping the nation. From coast to coast, meth abuse is on the rise, but who's responsible? Is the government doing enough to crack down on this latest drug craze? In a reporting partnership with The Oregonian, FRONTLINE investigates America's addiction to meth and exposes the inherent conflict between the illegal drug trade and the legitimate three-billion-dollar cold remedy business.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, Epsd No. 907, New York Underground

Ever since its grand opening in 1904, New York City's subway has remained the largest subway system in the world, with more than 700 miles of track and a billion passengers per year. This feat of modern engineering started as the brainchild of Alfred Beach, who built an experimental subway in 1868 to respond to New York's growing population and incredibly crowded streets. Local politicians who had a monetary interest in the current transportation system halted his progress and the tunnel was closed. The city continued overcrowding the streets until 1888 when a major blizzard shut down the city and Mayor Hewitt proposed building the system that transformed New York forever. Backed by a financier and an engineer, work began on the subway. This program chronicles the challenges faced by the engineer who designed the subway between a maze of buildings and through a river; by the miners and immigrants who risked their lives to build the tracks and tunnels; and by the city's residents, who endured years of blasting and construction.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, Epsd No. 1909, New Orleans

"New Orleans was the birthplace of jazz," George Buck asserts. "Other places in the South they didn't allow the slaves to play drums because they were afraid that they might send messages, you see, for a revolt. In New Orleans, just like it is today, everything goes. You have dances, you have Congo Square where everything started." George H. Buck, Jr. runs a non-profit association that maintains a collection of early jazz recordings. Listen to five tunes from the early days of jazz and read one New Orleanian's thoughts on the origins of jazz. His love of music and his love of his hometown shine through.

ART OF QUILTING; THE,

THE ART OF QUILTING honors the artistry and diverse techniques of America's contemporary art quilters by visiting art quilt exhibitions across the country and through personal interviews with nationally and internationally noted fabric artists. Traditional American quilt-making has become an art form that now adorns the walls of exhibit halls and art galleries worldwide.

02/26/2007 9:30 PM, 60 min.; Format: Race To The Moon

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, Epsd No. 1802, Race To The Moon

On Christmas Eve, 1968 one of the largest audiences in television history tuned in to an extraordinary sight: a live telecast of the moon's surface as seen from Apollo 8. The historic journey of the first manned space flight to leave Earth's gravitational pull and orbit the moon captivated people around the world who welcomed a technological triumph in space after a year marked by assassinations, riots and war on Earth. As this AMERICAN EXPERIENCE production reveals, however, the mission's success was far from assured. The Apollo 8 astronauts had just four months to prepare for the risky mission and catastrophic failure would have brought a halt to America's goal of putting a man on the moon before the end of the decade. With images and audio never before broadcast, this film recounts the flight many consider to be NASA's most daring and important. Interviews with Apollo 8 astronauts, their wives, mission technicians and journalists take viewers inside the high-stakes space race of the late 1960s to reveal how a bold decision by NASA administrators put a struggling Apollo program back on track and allowed America to reach the moon before the Soviets.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, Epsd No. 1805, John And Abigail Adams

John Adams was brilliant, argumentative, sometimes irascible. Abigail Adams was a savvy observer of the tumultuous political scene, not afraid to speak her mind in an age when women were excluded from politics. Together they forged one of the greatest partnerships in American history. In the tradition of its award-winning Presidents series, American Experience's John & Abigail Adams chronicles both an inspiring political marriage and the birth of a nation. Under the direction of Peter Jones (Bataan Rescue, The Great Transatlantic Cable), two formidable actors -- Simon Russell Beale (John Adams), recipient of the 2003 Laurence Olivier Theatre Best Actor Award for his performance in "Uncle Vanya," and Linda Emond (Abigail Adams), an accomplished stage actress who previously portrayed Abigail in the Broadway rendition of "1776" -- bring the couple to life. Historians, including David McCullough, author of the bestselling John Adams and the recent 1776, Joanne Freeman, and Joseph Ellis, provide insight on the couple and their legacy. A visionary and gifted political thinker, Adams moved a reluctant colonial Congress to declare independence from England, and single-handedly secured millions of dollars in loans to keep the American army from collapse. He penned the Massachusetts constitution, which served as the basis for the U.S. Constitution. He was the nation's first ambassador to England, its first vice president, and its second president. Through it all, Abigail remained his most trusted political advisor and confidante.

INDEPENDENT LENS, Epsd No. 816, Hip-Hop:Beyond Beats And Rhymes

Filmmaker Byron Hurt, a life-long hip-hop fan, was watching rap music videos on BET when he realized that each video was nearly identical. Guys in fancy cars threw money at the camera while scantily clad women danced in the background. As he discovered how stereotypical rap videos had become, Hurt, a former college quarterback turned activist, decided to make a film about the gender politics of hip-hop, the music and the culture that he grew up with. "The more I grew and the more I learned about sexism and violence and homophobia, the more those lyrics became unacceptable to me," he says. "And I began to become more conflicted about the music that I loved." The result is HIP-HOP:Beyond Beats and Rhymes, a riveting documentary that tackles issues of masculinity, sexism, violence and homophobia in today's hip-hop culture.

SUPREME COURT; THE, Epsd No. 101, One Nation Under Law

One Nation Under Law examines the creation of the court and follows it through the brink of the Civil War, paying particular attention to the fourth chief justice of the Supreme Court - John Marshall - and to his successor, Roger Taney. Marshall presided over one of the most famous cases before the court while Taney presided over one of the most infamous. In Marbury v. Madison (1803), Marshall found in an obscure case involving an unsigned judicial appointment the opportunity to assert the court's most important power: judicial review, which gave federal courts the right to strike down laws that clashed with the Constitution. In Dred Scott v. Sandford (1857), however, Taney, the next chief justice, exercised that same power against the national government - to protect slavery.

FRONTLINE, Epsd No. 2407, The Meth Epidemic

Speed. Meth. Glass. On the street, methamphetamine has many names. What started as a fad among motorcycle gangs in the 1970s has become big business, largely due to the efforts of two Mexican drug runners who began smuggling ephedrine -- the same chemical used to make over-the-counter cold remedies -- into California by the ton. Hundreds of illegal meth labs are now operating in the western United States, and the effects are sweeping the nation. From coast to coast, meth abuse is on the rise, but who's responsible? Is the government doing enough to crack down on this latest drug craze? In a reporting partnership with The Oregonian, FRONTLINE investigates America's addiction to meth and exposes the inherent conflict between the illegal drug trade and the legitimate three-billion-dollar cold remedy business.

OREGON FIELD GUIDE, Epsd No. 1801, Sudden Oak Death / Animal Corridors

Sudden Oak Death - Trouble is brewing in Oregon's southwest coastal forests in the form of a deadly microbial pest that, if it takes hold, could devastate woodlands throughout the state. Oregon considers the threat so serious that if a single dead tanoak turns up infected, rapid response teams are ordered to slash and burn everything for hundreds of yards around it. Crews even have the authority to act on private land and nurseries if the disease is found. So far, the counterattack has contained SOD in the wild to a 22-square-mile area near Brookings. In the words of one ecologist, "this is the northwest's equivalent to the Irish potato famine or the East Coast chestnut blight." If Sudden Oak Death goes unchecked, it could mean the end of the tanoak species and cause significant damage to Oregon's forest ecosystems. Animal Corridors - We see our roads and highways as a way to get around, but for some animals, they represent deadly asphalt barriers that keep them from moving as their lifecycles demand. As population increases, some species are being fragmented into pockets of habitat too small to support long-term survival. FIELD GUIDE looks at some of the methods that have been tried in Oregon and elsewhere in the world to help animals move as their lifecycle demands.

NOW, Epsd No. 308,

A new cancer-fighting vaccine holds life-saving promise for young women, but debate over its use is raising tough questions at the crossroads of medicine and morality. NOW investigates the controversy over Gardasil, a new vaccine developed by the pharmaceutical giant Merck that blocks certain high-risk strains of the sexually-transmitted human papillomavirus (HPV) which cause 70% of cervical cancers. Just weeks ago, Texas Governor Rick Perry issued a controversial executive order requiring all girls entering sixth grade to be vaccinated with Gardasil, with opt-out exceptions. Some 20 other states are considering similar action. But many critics feel that mandating these vaccinations infringes on parental rights and may encourage risky sexual behavior among young people. Others argue that the rush to inoculation is too hasty and that more medical review is required. Some also wonder if Merck's powerful political influence inappropriately prejudiced state government decisions. Under criticism, Merck suspended its lobbying efforts for the vaccination mandate this past Tuesday. NOW travels to Michigan, a flashpoint of the debate, to uncover more about the issue and discuss its human consequences with doctors, local politicians, and private citizens, including a young mother living with cervical cancer brought on by HPV. The moral dilemma of requiring a life-saving vaccine.

IN THE LIFE, Epsd No. 1604, Breaking Ground

The first segment, "The Women of ACT UP", takes us back to the early 1980s, a time when lesbians and gay men appeared to be worlds apart. Started by a small group of gay men, ACT UP soon became a home for lesbians who quickly understood that AIDS would soon spread beyond the gay community. In another segment: The world of comic books is filled with gay metaphors-- flamboyantly dressed superheroes with secret identities and mutant x-men rejected by society. Perhaps that's why so many gay artists are drawn to the medium. In "A Cartoonists Life" we meet Phil Jimenez, a successful and openly gay comic book creator who invited us behind the scenes to catch a glimpse of his imagination at work. This month's Real to Reel segment explores the compelling documentary "The Congregation". In 2003 veteran husband and wife filmmakers, Susan and Alan Raymond spent over a year documenting the daily life of a Methodist church and its parishioners in German Town, Philadelphia. Initially they concentrated on the senior pastor who was brand new to the church, but mid-way through their project an intriguing character suddenly emerged who grabbed their attention, Associate Pastor Beth Stroud. She was on the brink of telling her congregation that she was gay and in a committed relationship. The stakes were high: Beth Stroud fully appreciated that her "coming out" could cost her everything she had worked for.

IN THE LIFE, Epsd No. 1606, Leading Ladies

As a way of celebrating Women's History Month this March, In the Life turns the spotlight on its archive with "Leading Ladies," celebrating the lives and accomplishments of several extraordinary women. Hosted by Martina Navratilova, this month's In the Life, gives a voice to the diverse lesbian community we all share. First up, "An Artistic Rebel," takes us to Paris, France in the early years of the Twentieth Century. You're about to meet an American ex-patriot painter--Romaine Brooks—who dared to be different. And today, almost a century later, her work continues to challenge our notions of female sexuality and identity. Next, "Making Herstory" visits an old brownstone in Brooklyn, New York where a rare collection of once-forgotten lesbian histories exists as a part of the "Lesbian Herstory Archives." For the past 32 years the volunteer caretakers of this archive have gathered rich and colorful stories that celebrate the diverse lesbian community. Two years ago, In the Life profiled the Showtime series "The L Word," the first TV series to feature the stories of lesbian lives. "The L Word" broke new ground and immediately developed a diverse audience when it premiered in January 2004. In the Life brought its viewers behind the scenes to meet its creator and talented ensemble of actors, who shatter stereotypes and boldly venture into uncharted territory. Finally, in the segment "Sehokia" we meet four lesbians of the Muslim faith who struggle to understand the contradictions between their sexuality and their religion. It's rarely easy for those in the gay community to reconcile their sexuality with their religious beliefs.

OPRAH'S ROOTS:AN AFRICAN AMERICAN LIVES SPECIAL,

When AFRICAN AMERICAN LIVES premiered on PBS in February 2006, audiences and critics nationwide were especially drawn to the powerfully moving discussions between renowned scholar Henry Louis Gates Jr., series host and executive producer, and TV pioneer/philanthropist Oprah Winfrey. In OPRAH'S ROOTS, Professor Gates and Ms. Winfrey continue their quest to discover the full history of her ancestors' struggles and accomplishments. The program builds on previously unseen portions of their original interview and will present the dramatic results of Ms. Winfrey's genetic analysis. This fascinating quest of OPRAH'S ROOTS will not only showcase Ms. Winfrey's family legacy, but also show viewers how census and slave holder's property records can help locate their own ancestors.

WASHINGTON WEEK, Epsd No. 4627,

2007 beckons in Congress, at the White House, on foreign policy, on the campaign trail, and at the Supreme Court. Our panelists tell you what to watch for this year, tonight on "Washington Week." Rep. Nancy Pelosi (D-Ca) said, "We are pledging to uphold the highest ethical standards, the most honest, most open Congress in history." Mr. John Harwood said, "There's a lot of sentiment for a new kind of politics." Mr. Charles Babington said, "Well, it's a huge change. I mean, the Democrats have been on the outs for 12 years." Ms. Karen Tumulty said, "The Republicans are now freed of being in charge of anything, at least on Capitol Hill." Mr. Jeffrey Birnbaum claims, "There are going to be investigations weekly." President George W. Bush said, "We enter this New Year clear-eyed about the challenges." Ms. Martha Raddatz said, "They're recalibrating everything." Mr. Michael Duffy said, "In a war now that is entering its fourth year." Mr. Peter Baker said, "Look, President Bush's numbers tumbled to as low as any president of the modern era." Mr. Doyle McManus said, "This White House has been politically enormously acute in the past. This is still the White House of Karl Rove." Ms. Alexis Simendinger claims, "The President's prescription for 2007 is to just keep on doing, just keep on working; try, try, try." Secretary Condoleezza Rice said, "We want to achieve this and achieve it as soon as possible." Ms. Andrea Mitchell said, "In 2007, there's going to be a big push by Condoleezza Rice to try to accomplish something in Middle East diplomacy." Ms. Helene Cooper said, "America's standing has definitely gone down, particularly in the Mideast." Mr. McManus said, "I think there's a one-word answer: Iraq." Mr. David Broder, " - which is going to, I'm afraid, consume a lot of our attention and energy and be the source of much grief in 2007." Senator Hillary Clinton claims, "I am practically speechless." Senator John McCain says, "How are you, sir?" Senator Barack Obama declaims, "I am fired up." Mr. James Barnes said, "My guess is you'll see at least half dozen to eight in both parties will be out stomping around." Mr. Dan Balz said, "The price tag on this election is the biggest we've ever seen." Justice John G. Roberts said (From tape.), "The purpose of the Equal Protection Clause is to ensure that people are treated as individuals." Mr. Pete Williams said, "This is a court that is both more open and more cautious." Ms. Linda Greenhouse said, "Between now and June, we'll get some answers."

WASHINGTON WEEK, Epsd No. 4629,

And it's on: the Iraq debate heats up, but so does action on ethics reform and secret wiretaps, tonight on "Washington Week." President George Bush said, "No question, 2006 was a lousy year for Iraq, and so the question I'm now faced with is, do I react to that or do we just begin to leave?" Sen. Hillary Clinton (D-NY) said, "The president's proposal to add 21,500 troops in escalation of the combat situation is not going to work." Who's right: the president and his shrinking band of supporters, or the increasingly loud and raucous critics, many of whom happen to be running for president? Sen. Sam Brownback (R-KS) said, "The United States seems to care more about the peaceful Iraq than the Iraqis do." Sen. Barack Obama (D-IL) said, "When it comes to the war in Iraq, the time for promises and assurances, for waiting and patience is over." Sen. John Edwards (D-NC) said, "It is a betrayal not to speak out against an escalation of the war in Iraq." On Capitol Hill, the Senate joins the House in passing landmark ethics reform. Is it the end of the free lunch? And the White House relents on the practice of spying without a warrant, but it isn't the end of the argument. More than 2,000 years ago, Alexander the Great established Alexandria, a magnificent city on the shores of the Mediterranean Sea in Egypt. He bestowed upon it one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World -- Pharos, the great lighthouse of Alexandria. The lighthouse was an edifice so immense, it soared more than 300 feet above the shore and contained a fire that could be seen 70 miles out to sea. Archaeologists have long believed that it was obliterated by an earthquake, but ruins left behind by the structure have never been found, and archaeologists have been denied access to Alexandria's harbor where the lighthouse's mighty blocks are thought to have rested for centuries. However, when a new construction in the harbor threatened to destroy the site, a full-scale underwater excavation was approved by the Egyptian government. This documentary follows the excavation team as they uncover history and ancient treasures on the ocean floor of the Mediterranean Sea, and in the process, ignite a renewed interest in the fate of Pharos. With the aid of underwater photography and new techniques in computer graphics, viewers are transported into a watery graveyard of sunken archaeological treasures, including a giant sphinx from 30 B.C.

NOVA, Epsd No. 3116, America's Stone Age Explorers

Who were the first Americans, and where did they come from? We all grew up with the idea that ancient big-game hunters entered the Americas across the Bering land bridge - a strip of dry land that spanned the Bering Strait between Asia and Alaska during the last Ice Age some 12,000 years ago. But in recent years, a wave of startling discoveries has overturned that conventional view. The first Americans almost certainly came thousands of years earlier, traveling in skin boats and living off sea mammals along the edge of the ice. Now a truly provocative theory has stirred a storm of disbelief and argument among archaeologists. A leading prehistorian at the Smithsonian Institution claims that some of these first canoe-borne migrants came not from Asia but Europe, and that they crossed the Atlantic in skin boats by following the fringes of the ice sheets. This Stone Age detective story reveals that the peopling of the Americas is a far more tantalizing riddle than anyone had ever suspected.

MARCH OF THE BONUS ARMY, THE,

In 1932, a remarkable event occurred in Washington, D.C. In the darkest days of the Depression, unemployed World War I veterans marched on Washington, looking for an advance on the bonus compensation promised to them years earlier. After camping throughout Washington for two months, the veterans were driven out by force, as rising military figures General Douglas MacArthur, Major Dwight Eisenhower and Major George Patton cleared out the "Bonus Army" and burned their camps. By the time the clashes were over, two marchers and two children were dead, and the Bonus Army incident had become a political liability for President Hebert Hoover.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE, Epsd No. 1907, The Berlin Airlift

On June 24, 1948, the Soviet Union blocked railroad and street access to West Berlin, starving the population and choking commerce. Allied forces refused to cede the city, and for nearly a year, succeeded in doing what even the best military minds considered impossible - supply two million civilians and 20,000 allied soldiers entirely from the air. Operating on a strict plan masterminded by U.S. General William Turner, allied forces landed planes every three minutes and delivered more than 4,500 tons of supplies each day. Former German soldiers built airfields and repaired engines for the enemies they had been shooting out of the sky just three years before. American and British pilots, so recently delivering death, were now angels of mercy, supplying coal, flour, coffee and chocolate to the beleaguered city. Through the personal stories of those who were there, this program provides a striking look at the first battle of the Cold War and the largest humanitarian campaign the world had ever seen.

FRONTLINE, Epsd No. 2501, Return Of The Taliban

FRONTLINE reports from the lawless Pakistani tribal areas along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border and reveals how the area has fallen under the control of a resurgent Taliban militia, which uses it as a launching pad for attacks on U.S. and coalition forces in Afghanistan. Despite the presence of more than 70,000 Pakistani troops, the Taliban has claimed two tribal agencies, North and South Waziristan, as Taliban republics. The area, off limits to U.S. troops by agreement with Pakistan's president and long suspected of harboring Osama bin Laden and his deputy Ayman al-Zawahiri, is now considered a failed state. President Pervez Musharraf tells FRONTLINE reporter Martin Smith that Pakistan's strategy, which includes cash payments to militants who lay down their arms, has clearly foundered. In a region little understood because it is closed to most observers, FRONTLINE investigates a secret front in the war on terror.

INDEPENDENT LENS, Epsd No. 810, A Fish Story

A FISH STORY is the tale of two women who lead their communities in a battle for control of the ocean. Angela Sanfilippo of Gloucester, Massachusetts, and Shareen Davis of Chatham, Massachusetts were born into fishing families and married men who continue to make a living from the sea. Fishing defines who they are and has sustained their communities for generations. But their way of life is threatened when a powerful coalition of national environmental groups file a lawsuit that could put hundreds of fishermen out of business. Three hundred years of fishing tradition and the health of the ocean hangs in the balance.
