

WMHB Waterville 89.7 FM – Quarterly Issues Programs List

For 4th Quarter 2022, October 1st to December 31st

WMHB identified the following as issues significant to Waterville this quarter:

- A. Issue: What are the dividing lines that characterize our community? Where are these barriers that separate “us” and “them”? What do we do about them?

Discussion: Mentions of dividedness and diversity are littered throughout the regular conversations heard around Colby and the greater Waterville community. Division does indeed characterize many relationships, such as that between Colby and Waterville residents, between athletes and non-athletes, and between demographics of class, race, heritage, gender, and sex. The college is committed to “Diversity and Inclusivity,” but what does this look like in everyday life? How do we bridge the gaps that exist between these groups? How do we build empathy for those around us and become more accepting of other ways of living than ours? We suggested solutions and offered events and opportunities geared toward connecting diverse groups, humanizing those around us, and openly sharing differing opinions and cultures. We have reached out to individuals and departments, to bridge this gap through the medium that is FM radio.

- ii. Date: Wednesday
- iii. Duration: 1 hours, 4 weeks (4 hours)
- iv. Description: In this program, hosts identify questions about life and how things work, pose them to each other, and then do research and find special guests who can help answer our questions. Often, these questions intersect with national political or cultural issues.

- B. Issue: What brings together the community of Waterville? What connects Colby College to the greater Waterville community, and what do residents in Waterville share in common with each other?

Discussion: Waterville is growing somewhat quickly and new challenges have arisen within the city in terms of connecting new residents and the similarly increasing population for Colby College to one another. This has less to do with the previous discussion of dividing lines and more to do with an emerging sense of diversity and growth in Waterville. Both of these emerging traits are often accompanied by more alienation and less shared common ground between residents. We believe that public-facing, participation-focused radio programming and community events will help facilitate new relationships within the growing city.

Crucially, this show thrives on audience members calling in and contributing their anecdotes and opinions on the weekly topics.
