AB 60 / Driver Licenses in CA	Breves	1/1/2015	3 to 6 pm	:10	Many laws are effective starting 2015 and one of the most important is the AB60 which will allow undocumented immigrants to obtain a driver's license in California. Those wanting to apply need an official ID. It is expected 1.4 million driver licenses within the first 3 years.
	News Briefs	1/2/2015	8:30 PM	:30	UNDOCUMENTED IMMIGRANTS IN CALIFORNIA APPLY FOR DRIVERS LICENCES Undocumented immigrants in California started applying for drivers' licenses for the first time this year, a change that registered more than 11 thousand applicants in all California. L.A. council member Gil Cedillo, who led the campaign to reinstate driver's licenses for immigrants when he was in the state Legislature, arrived early in Granada Hills to welcome the first applicants. The DMV says initial interest in the program has been strong. Nearly 400,000 appointments for 2015 were made over two weeks in November, a 115 percent increase in activity over the same period last year. Some immigrant rights' advocates have expressed concern about AB 60 applicants handing over personal information to the government, especially if they've had run-ins with immigration authorities. Other advocacy groups have pushed hard to get licenses into the hands of immigrant drivers and pressured the DMV to issue a design that would avoid stigmatizing cardholders. After months of back-and-forth with the Department of Homeland Security, the DMV finalized a design that included the letters "DP" for "driving privilege" on the front of the card to distinguish it from a standard driver's license. Also included is wording that the card cannot be used for "official federal purposes."
	Breves	1/4/2015	3 to 6 pm	:10	Today, experts will be helping undocumented that want to apply for a driver's license, particularly those that already have a DUI.
	Breves	1/6/2015	3 to 6 pm	:10	Those applying for a driver's license will have to pass a visual exam. Those without health insurance and needing glasses can access some alternatives.

	News Briefs	1/7/2015	5:30 PM	:30	DRIVER LICESES TO UNDOCUMENTED IN CALIFORNIA California officials say 46,200 immigrants started applying for a driver's license in the first three days that the state began issuing licenses to immigrants who are in the country illegally. Department of Motor Vehicles spokeswoman said Tuesday that 970 licenses were issued Friday to immigrants who weren't required to take a road test because they previously had a license in California or another state. Most applicants are given permits after passing a required written test and must return for a road test before getting a license. The DMV says 54 percent of all new driver's license applicants who took the written test in English on Friday passed it, while 36 percent passed it in Spanish. California expects 1.4 million people to apply for the licenses in the next three years.
	Breves	1/8/2015	3 to 6 pm	:10	The increasing demand of driver's licenses among undocumented exceeded the DMV's expectations and will hire more employees.

	News Briefs	1/26/2015	8:30 PM	:30	MORE UNDOCUMENTED IMMIRANTS APPLYING AND TAKING EXAMS FOR LICENSE After three decades of debate and controversy, immigrants in the country illegally began the process of receiving California driver's licenses. By late in the afternoon, at least 11,000 people had applied for the special licenses. The line outside the Granada Hills Department of Motor Vehicles office wrapped around the plaza; people held clipboards with DMV license applications. Some were wrapped in blankets to keep themselves warm in the chilly morning. The DMV has prepared for the law for more than a year. An extra $141 million has been budgeted to handle the influx of applications, with the DMV opening four new offices and hiring an additional 900 employees. Appointments to obtain driver's licenses can now be made 90 days in advance instead of 45 days, the department said. More than 1.5 million new applications are expected in the next three years because of the law, according to DMV estimates.

	News Brief	2/25/2015	10:36 PM	:30	IRS STRUGGLES TO HANDLE FRAUDULENT TAX RETURNS UNDER SMALLER BUDGET As the Internal Revenue Service works through the tax filing season, the agency has a narrow line to walk: Send refund checks to law-abiding taxpayers in a timely fashion while also scrutinizing tax returns for identity fraud - a process which can take up to 120 days to resolve, according to the agency. The IRS, which has 16,000 to 17,000 fewer employees than it did five years ago, is in a bind to meet both of those goals, and as a result, awards billions in fraudulent claims. That's a problem that will only get worse unless Congress raises IRS' budget to allow for new hires, according to the National Treasury Employees Union.

You might find mysterious charges on your credit card. Or a thief could file a tax return in your name, getting a bogus refund before you even know it. None of this is a surprise. Massive data breaches that could lead to identity theft keep coming and, most recently, hackers hit insurance giant Anthem, stealing information on tens of millions of customers.

The study indicates that Los Angeles could benefit from 40, 000 new jobs which will have an immediate effect on the tax windfall. This could have a very positive effect in the regional education and health services. Similar studies will be announced in Texas, Illinois and New York.

	News Brief	1/27/2015	4:40 PM	:30	MAYORS JOIN LAWSUIT IN DEFENSE OF OBAMA IMMIGRATION PLAN Los Angeles Mayor and New York Mayor are leading a coalition of more than two dozen mayors in support of President Obama's recent immigration order; on Monday, the coalition filed a brief in support of the order in Texas vs. United States, a multi-state lawsuit that aims to block the order from taking effect. The brief was filed Monday in Texas v. United States, a federal lawsuit filed in December with the intent of stopping the recent order from taking effect. Garcetti and New York Mayor Bill de Blasio organized the coalition of city leaders, which includes Mayors Ed Lee of San Francisco, Rahm Emanuel of Chicago, Muriel Bowser of Washington, D.C. and more than two dozen others. Obama's executive order, signed in November, would temporarily protect millions of immigrants from deportation. Those who would qualify for a three-year reprieve and a work permit include certain immigrants who arrived as minors, and parents of U.S. citizens and legal residents who have spent at least five years in the United States. The amicus brief from the mayors argues that these provisions will fuel economic growth in cities across the country, increase public safety and public engagement, and facilitate the full integration of immigrant residents by promoting family unity and limiting family separation.

	News Brief	1/28/2015	2:45 AM	:30	THE US GOVT TELLS AGENTS TO ID WHICH IMMIGRANTS NOT TO DEPORT The Obama administration has ordered immigration agents to ask immigrants they encounter living in the country illegally whether they might qualify under President Barack Obama's plans to avoid deporting them, according to internal training materials obtained by The Associated Press. Agents also have been told to review government files to identify any jailed immigrants they might be able to release under the program. The directives from the Homeland Security Department mark an unusual change for U.S. immigration enforcement, placing the obligation on the government for identifying immigrants who might qualify for lenient treatment. One training document includes scenarios describing encounters between agents and immigrants with guidance about how agents should proceed, with a checklist of questions to determine whether immigrants might qualify under the president's plans. ICE officials earlier began releasing immigrants who qualified for leniency from federal immigration jails. Obama in November announced a program to allow roughly 4 million parents of U.S. citizens and legal permanent residents to apply for permission to stay in the country for up to three years and get a work permit.

	News Brief	1/18/2015	6:19 PM	:30	PRESIDENT OBAMA WANTS LOWER TAXES FOR MIDDLE CLASS AND HIGHER FOR THE RICH President Barack Obama would like to make tax increases for the wealthy and reductions or credits for the middle class, as part of a tax reform. The administration wants to increase the top rate to 28 percent, from the current rate of about 25 percent with various surcharges, while expanding the number of things that would be subject to it. It would do that by cracking down on what's known as a "stepped-up basis." Here's how it works: If you sell stock for $1 million that you bought for $100,000, you pay capital gains taxes on the $900,000 profit. But if you die, and your kid gets the stock, he or she is excused from paying taxes on the $900,000. For your child, the new starting point in calculating capital gains taxes is the $1 million, so that $900,000 escapes taxation. It's a tax break that mostly, though not exclusively, benefits the wealthy. According to the Congressional Budget Office, it cost the Treasury about $50 billion in 2013, and 21 percent of the tax benefits went to the top 1 percent.

The research does not prove a health risk as it involved limited testing on just one brand of e-cigarettes and was done in test tubes, not people. It also does not mean e-cigarettes are better or worse than regular ones; tobacco smoke contains dozens of things that can cause cancer. But it does highlight how little is known about the safety of e-cigarettes, battery-powered devices that heat liquid to deliver nicotine in a vapor rather than from burning tobacco. The study was published Wednesday as a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine. The journal said it had been reviewed by experts in the field. Formaldehyde is found in many things, certain building materials, disinfectants and embalming fluid. An earlier study found e-cigarettes generated less formaldehyde than regular cigarettes do, but that study looked at just the gas portion of the vapor. The new one looked at the liquid particles in the vapor, like the spray from an aerosol can.

Some immigration lawyers fear the delay will leave their clients at risk of deportation as evidence becomes dated, witnesses disappear, sponsoring relatives die and dependent children become adults. The increase in cancellations began late last summer after the Justice Department prioritized the tens of thousands of Central American migrants crossing the U.S.-Mexico border, most of them mothers with children and unaccompanied minors. Immigration lawyers in cities that absorbed a large share of those cases, including New York, San Antonio, Los Angeles and Denver, say they've had hearings canceled with little notice and received no new court dates. Measles Outbreak	News Brief	1/11/2015	4:38 PM	:30	MEASLES EPIDEMIC IN CALIFORNIA Local health officials say five more people who visited Disney theme parks in Southern California last month have fallen ill with measles, bringing the number of cases in the state to a dozen. Orange County Health Care Agency spokeswoman Nicole Stanfield says the county's six patients -- including one reported previously by the state -- visited the theme parks between Dec. 15 and Dec. 20. Stanfield says only one was fully vaccinated against the disease. California's state health agency reported earlier this week that seven Californians and two people in Utah likely contracted measles at Disneyland or Disney California Adventure. In Colorado, the El Paso County Public Health department said Thursday that a patient diagnosed with measles this month in Colorado Springs had visited Disneyland in mid-December.

	News Brief	1/22/2015	3:30 PM	:30	DISNEY PARKS-LINKED MEASLES OUTBREAK GROWS TO 70 CASES Seventy people have been infected in a measles outbreak that led California public health officials to urge those who haven't been vaccinated against the disease, including children too young to be immunized, should avoid Disney parks where the spread originated. New infections linked to the theme parks emerged Wednesday in the outbreak that has spread to five U.S. states and Mexico, though the vast majority, 62, occurred in California. Because measles is highly contagious, people who have not received the measles-mumps-rubella, or MMR, vaccine are susceptible and should avoid visiting Disney for the time being. The people who have been infected range in age from 7 months to 70 years old. The vast majority was not vaccinated, and a quarter had to be hospitalized. Among those sickened were five Disney employees. Three have since returned to work. The company previously said park employees who may have been in contact with those infected were asked to show proof of vaccination or have a blood test to show immunity against measles. Those with pending results were put on paid leave. Vaccinations are also being offered to all employees. Measles has hit California hard recently. The state typically sees four to 60 measles cases a year.
	News Brief	1/31/2015	3:37 PM	:30	91 MEASLES CASES IN CALIFORNIA. INFECTIOUS DISEASE AFFECTING 14 STATES. Arizona health officials are attempting to contain a measles outbreak that has already spread through multiple states as thousands of fans arrive in Phoenix ahead of Sunday's Super Bowl. Officials are already monitoring 1,000 people in Arizona who were exposed to the contagious virus after seven people were found to be infected in the state. Measles is one of the most contagious viruses in existence and will infect an estimated 90 percent of unvaccinated people who are exposed to the virus. The incubation period is on average 14 days, but an infected person can be contagious up to four days before they start to show symptoms.

Prices / Cost of Living	News Brief	1/12/2015	10:30 PM	:30	HIGH FEES LIMITING U.S. CITIZENSHIP In 2000, the start of the George W. Bush administration, the cost of applying for citizenship was $225. That increased rapidly, so that by 2008, the final year of his administration, the cost was $675. The share of those naturalizing who are Mexican American dropped. After the 2007 surge, the share of legal permanent residents of Mexican origin who naturalized, dropped from 19.8 percent in 2008 (naturalizations generally occur a year after application) percent to 12.7 percent in 2010. But what the CRS failed to do was look at difference between fees to become a citizen and to renew a green card that resulted after the fee increases. Seeing that green card renewal was far cheaper than naturalization, legal residents opted to keep renewing legal residency rather than become citizens. Citizenship application costs rose so drastically during the George W. Bush administration that naturalizations dropped dramatically, particularly for legal permanent residents who were poorer, less educated and of Mexican origin, according to advocates pushing the Obama administration to reduce the fees.

Plaintiffs' attorneys say the state Taxation and Revenue Department in 2012 began a policy of denying tax refunds to New Mexico residents who file returns using their federally issued tax ID. They say the state has sent at least 14,500 letters to filers citing discrepancies on their returns and seeking supporting documents. Meanwhile, the same people have been receiving federal refunds from the IRS.

USCIS issued 5,461,568 new work permits to immigrants during the same period, in addition to the 1.1 million legal immigrants and 700,000 guest workers admitted to the United States each year. These statistics were obtained from USCIS in a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request submitted by The Center for Immigration Studies (CIS), a Washington-based non-profit organization that advocates shrinking the illegal immigrant population through consistent enforcement of our immigration laws. The Obama administration signaled its intentions to continue its policy of granting work permits to illegal immigrants last October, when USCIS posted a notice on the FedBizOpps.Gov (Federal Business Opportunities) website announcing the imminent solicitation for card stock to be used to print a number of Permanent Resident Cards and Employment Authorization Documentation cards far in excess of what might be needed for immigrants who came here legally.
