Description: Eva Chavez, longtime border community leader, immigrant rights and reproductive justice advocate, is at risk of deportation after being detained by ICE on February 14th. Eva was released from detention because ICE recognized she is the primary caretaker of her special needs child, and is now facing an immigration check-in on Wednesday, March 14th. Following a pattern of ICE targeting community activists, at the check-in Eva will likely be separated from her family, could be detained for years, and even deported to a country she hasn't lived in for 30 years unless we win her a stay of removal

Date:03-13-2018

Description: Homelessness is often what we picture when we see someone begging on the side of the road near our car window, but less often do we see those at risk of being homeless who are hidden within our community. The face of homelessness has changed. It is more often situations like a sudden diagnosis of cancer, mental illness or a death in the family that leaves people vulnerable and in need of help. As a caseworker for Catholic Charities, I am able to witness stories of suffering and pain, but Espinoza's story is one of hope.
