IOWA INGREDIENT

1/1/2021 – 3/31/2021

1/7/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000903 -Oats)

You can enjoy them rolled, cut, or ground. Oats are a nutrient dense and fiber packed grain that are perfect for breakfast and beyond. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a farm in central Iowa to learn how one grower harvests and processes his oats. Then the talented chef Katy Meyer from Trumpet Blossom Cafe in Iowa City will serve up a few recipes using this versatile grain.

1/14/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000904 - Basil)

There are dozens of different kinds of basil and countless ways to use this savory herb. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a farm in Northeast Iowa to learn how to grow basil, and we'll find out about some of the tastiest varieties. Then Chef Matt Steigerwald from Rapid Creek Cidery will share some fresh and delicious recipes using Basil.

1/21/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000905 – Trout)

In Northeast Iowa, among cornfields and pastures you can find spring fed streams teeming trout. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll meet an angler from Decorah who will share a few of his secrets for catching trout. Then Suman Hoq will visit our studio kitchen to create a few delicious recipes using trout.

1/28/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000906 - Leeks)

A cousin of onions and garlic, leeks are milder in flavor but they can still be used as the star ingredient for a lot of dishes. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a farm in western Iowa to learn the best practices to growing and harvesting leeks. Then the talented Katy Meyer from Trumpet Blossom Cafe in Iowa City will stop by the kitchen to share a few recipes using this versatile ingredient

2/4/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000907 - Flour)

Flour has been with us for a long time now. Our ancestors figured out how to use two strong to turn grain into flour, and it's been with us ever since. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a flour mill in central Iowa. Then central Iowa chef Dean Latrell will give us a taste of his Italian heritage as he shows us the flexibility of flour.

2/11/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000908 - Asparagus)

As one of the first ingredients to arrive in the spring, asparagus is a seasonal favorite at farmers' market stands. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a vegetable farm in Southwest Iowa to learn how to grow and harvest this popular vegetable. Then Chef Joshua Frederick from Cafe Mir will share a few recipes and tips for cooking with asparagus.

2/18/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000909 - Pears)

Pears are far from one note when it comes to looks or flavor. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a family orchard to learn a few tips to growing and harvesting this sweet-tasting fruit. Then Chef James Calkins from Milk and Honey Restaurant in Harlan will share a few of his pear-inspired recipes.

2/25/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000910 – Okra)

While Okra is known as a staple in Southern cuisine, it does find its way into Midwest gardens and dishes as well. On this Iowa Ingredient, we'll visit a central Iowa farm to learn some tips and tricks to growing this beautiful plant. Then the talented Lynn Pritchard, who is the executive chef of Table 128 in West Des Moines, will stop by the studio kitchen to share a fun twist using okra.

3/4/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #001001 – Farmer's Market Special)

Farmers markets have exploded in popularity. Sometimes the greatest challenge that comes with any food you get at the farmers market is what to do with it. Luckily, we've got you covered. On this special episode, we'll celebrate the fresh flavors of farmers markets. Two of our favorite chefs will share some recipes and tips to get the most out of your market fresh foods.

3/11/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000911 – Iowa's Culinary Heritage)

On this special episode of Iowa Ingredient, we'll open Iowa's history book and read a couple of chapters about our diverse food traditions and culinary heritage that have blended and evolved over the years. Author and special guest Darcy Maulsby will join us in the kitchen to teach up a few famous Iowa specialties.

3/18/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000504 – Maple Syrup)

Maple syrup is exclusive to North America, and while Canada is the largest producer of this sweet ingredient, there are plenty of areas in Iowa where maple syrup is produced. On this Iowa Ingredient, join host Charity Nebbe to learn more about Iowa maple syrup, when we visit Great River Maple in Garnavillo. Then Chef Justine Wieczorak from the Kalona Brewing Company will stop by the studio kitchen to share some innovative ways to cook with maple syrup.

3/25/21 at 6:30 p.m. (IAI #000805 - Ginger)

With a little ingenuity, almost anything can be grown here in Iowa, even a tropical plant like ginger. As one of the world's most well known spices, ginger has been around for thousands of years. Koenig's Acres Farm in Hampton, Iowa shows us how to cultivate our own crop of fresh ginger.

Then Chef Katy Meyer from Trumpet Blossom Cafe in Iowa City creates a savory and sweet recipe option for fresh ginger.

And flowers aren't just a fantastic part of your garden, some of them can also be a tasty element in your kitchen. Aaron Steil from Reiman Gardens in Ames gives us some edible flower tips.

It's widely accepted that most Americans are living decades longer than any generation in human history. This longevity has far-reaching implications for society, and experts, policy makers and the general population are only just beginning to grapple with how to reframe our thoughts on aging. What does it mean for communities, programs and policies, and how we live and work? COMING OF AGE IN AGING AMERICA is a penetrating documentary that probes these questions. It suggests that America's social and economic institutions will - and must - change to adapt to a staggering demographic transformation where more than half of the world's population will eventually be over the age of fifty. Over the course of an hour, the program examines the current social security system; looks at the data being collected on the aging brain and body at a Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) lab; explores a town re-designing itself for multi- generational use; and observes a large medical system remolding its work environment to both retain older workers and welcome younger ones. Through interviews with experts - including John W. Rowe, professor at Columbia University's Aging Center; Lisa F. Berkman, professor of public policy and director of the Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies; Laura L. Carstensen, professor and director of the Stanford University Center on Longevity; Joseph Coughlin, director of the MIT AgeLab; and urban planner Scott Ball - COMING OF AGE IN AGING AMERICA examines the exploding population shift, its impact on society, and the need to see the reach and magnitude of the changes an aging America will bring.

Even before the Civil War, African Americans, both slave and free, were settling in Oklahoma. By the turn of the century, the territory was dotted with all-black communities, but none as extraordinary as Greenwood, in Tulsa. Segregation kept blacks apart from white Tulsans, but black Greenwood thrived. Black residents built and supported two movie houses, two newspapers, 15 grocery and drug stores, 13 churches, and a number of restaurants, funeral parlors, clubs and hotels. In 1921, angry whites looted and burned Greenwood to the ground in one of the most vicious race riots the nation had ever seen. But tough, enterprising black citizens rebuilt a new Greenwood from the ashes, making it stronger and more alive than ever. By 1936, the neighborhood boasted the largest concentration of black business in the United States. But the Greenwood that fought its way back from racial violence of the 20s couldn't survive the progressive policies of integration and urban renewal of the 60s. In a nostalgic celebration of old-fashioned neighborhood life, the black residents of "T-Town" relive their community's remarkable rise and ultimate decline. Ossie Davis narrates.

The Dead Sea Scrolls are one of the greatest archeological finds of all time. First discovered in a cave by a Bedouin shepherd boy in 1947, these fragile parchment relics were written around the time of Christ two millennia ago and include the oldest known versions of the Hebrew Bible. They not only reveal that early Judaism was far richer and more varied than previously thought, but also hold vital clues to the birth of Christianity. But who compiled them and do more scrolls await discovery? While certain scrolls have survived intact, others have been ravaged by time-burnt, decayed, or torn into pieces and remain an enigma. Now, scientists are using new technologies to read the unreadable, solve mysteries that have endured for millennia, and even discover million-dollar fakes!

Some 30 million Americans have sent their DNA to be analyzed by companies like 23andMe and AncestryDNA, hoping to obtain clues to family origins and forecasts of their future health. Some users have found family members and discovered lurking genetic risks. But what happens once the sample is in the hands of testing companies? What are they looking at and how accurate are their results? NOVA explores the power of this information and the unintended consequences that can arise from sharing our data with these rapidly growing online databases. DNA results that offer estimates of health risks can be misleading, and the discovery of intimate family secrets can tear relationships apart. Meanwhile, law enforcement is increasingly turning to the DNA-sharing website GEDmatch as an extraordinarily powerful tool for cracking cold cases, as demonstrated by the 2018 arrest of California's notorious Golden State Killer after 42 years at large. What is the peril and promise of consumer DNA testing?

BLACK BALLERINA is a story of passion, opportunity, heartbreak and triumph of the human spirit. Set in the over-whelmingly white world of classical dance, it tells the stories of several black women from different generations who fell in love with ballet. Sixty years ago, while pursuing their dreams of careers in classical dance, Joan Myers Brown, Delores Browne and Raven Wilkinson (the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo's first black ballerina) confronted racism, exclusion and unequal opportunity in segregated mid-century America. In 2015, three young black women also pursue careers as ballerinas, and find that many of the same obstacles their predecessors faced are still evident in the ballet world today. Through interviews with current and former ballet dancers along with engaging archival photos and film, the one-hour documentary uses the ethereal world of ballet to engage viewers on a subject that reaches far outside the art world and compels viewers to think about larger issues of exclusion, equal opportunity and change.
