FACE THE STATE

DATE RECORDED: December 11, 2003- Surgery Center procedure
December 12, 2003 -Interview at the GF Clinic

AIR DATE: January 11, 2004 - Total Run Time 28:35

INTERVIEWER: Fred Pfeiffer

GUEST(S) & TITLE(S): Dr. Timim Kaliqui, Great Falls Clinic
Anesthesiologist/Pain Management Specialist

SUMMARY/TOPIC (QUESTIONS ASKED):

Dr. Kaliqui arrived in Great Falls from Washington, D.C. two years ago. With his arrival came some new techniques for pain management that have never been used in our area. Among them is the burning of nerves with radio frequency equipment that has been purchased. We were allowed to video tape one of those procedures which is part of this program. Questions included how the procedure works, how long it lasts, research that is underway to develop better ways to manage pain and how many in Montana are specialists in his field. He was also asked how difficult it is to attract pain and other specialists to rural states like Montana.

COMMUNITY NEEDS ADDRESSED:

New medical technology that has been introduced to the area for those who suffer from chronic pain.
How difficult or easy it is to attract specialists to Montana in the medical field.
Educating those who currently suffer from long term chronic pain that there may be help for them right here in Montana as more specialists in pain management move to get away from crowded cities.
