Concilio de Liderazgo Latino

Issue Addressed in this Program

Description on how the issue was covered:

- The Council of Latino Leadership helps Latino families in Placer and Sacramento. We focus our services in the areas of health, education and youth development.
- Our services are provided in large part by our outreach workers. Promoters are individuals who sit with each family to identify your needs and see which combination of services Latino Leadership Council, other community organizations and public services is the best to help that family.
- The Parent Project is an example of such comprehensive services. The Parent Project is a series of classes that help parents establish better communication and discipline their children, avoid social and educational problems, and better understand the resources available.
- During class, parents gather to learn how to best raise children, how to navigate the school system, how to tell if their children are involved with drugs or gangs and much more information. At the same time, the children gather in another room to learn how to better resolve conflicts, how to communicate with their parents and siblings, and develop more positive friendships and the dangers of drugs, alcohol and gangs.
- Other social programs include Corner Stitch and Bitch, a program that provides a support system for women. The wives share and crafts, which used to sell several and become more independent.
