

QUARTERLY REPORT #3 for 2019

FOR PERIOD COVERING

July 1, 2019 to Sept. 30, 2019 (Filed 10.8.19 by Wendy Osher)

This Quarter, we've gotten another round of fatal incidents involving visitors to hiking spots and waterfalls. After last quarter's high profile missing-then-found report of Amanda Eller, Maui got another dose of missing persons cases surface including the disappearance of Khiara Henry whose rental vehicle was found at Waianapanapa State Park in East Maui. We followed the story from the start and interviewed her parents after their two month search before they returned to the mainland. Another missing person, a male individual who was staying at the Banana Bungalows was located deceased at the bottom of a waterfall in East Maui.

This Quarter, Maui also saw a crackdown on cleanliness of restaurants with multiple red cards issued by the Department of Health following customer complaints. Two of the placards were issued to Honokowai businesses. A third was issued to Asian Cuisine and Sushi bar in Kahului.

Hawaii also had 29 of 30 consecutive days of record heat. We provided information to our listeners with a comprehensive rundown of temps.

Hurricane season in Hawaii started on June 1st and continues through the end of November. Intense tracking and tools are available to our listeners online. We've also activated our hurricane tracker online and have the ability to send out text alerts for severe weather. We tracked the return of Flossie, and several other storms this quarter and provided preparedness tips.

On the roads, Maui traffic fatality count continues to grow. We attended a rally in Kihei urging drivers to not drink and drive. This was named as a contributing factor in a crash that claimed the lives of a mother and son on the Piilani Highway and comes on the heels of another Drunk driving accident on the Kuihelani Highway.

This quarter we provided extensive coverage of the TMT issue on Hawaii Island, with reports from the ground, video posted online and comments from Maui government officials.

We got a break in the Mo Monsalve cold case with the grand jury indictment of Bernard Brown in Sacramento. We broke the story and interviewed Monsalve's daughter Alexis Felicilda. We are also following this case as it heads through the court on Maui. Brown entered a not guilty plea and is scheduled to go to a trial by jury in December.

Maui had two stranding events of pilot whales in South Maui at Sugar Beach. The first incident involved the beaching of 10 adult whales and a baby whale. The second incident involved two adult whales, both of which were euthanized. If another incident occurs, NOAA Fisheries might seek federal recognition of the strandings to enable funding and further research to determine the cause. So far tests point towards lung abnormalities.

Maui is also dealing with growing homeless issues. While homeless numbers remain at or near levels from last year, Central Maui reported multiple homeless related issues including a shooting near the old Kahului Safeway store, a fatal traffic accident in the parking lot of the old store, and eviction of a homeless camp across the street from the Kahului Foodland. We followed up with police and did an interview and story on what's being done about security at the site as well as an exclusive interview with MPD's first LEAD program success story, Susan Capobianco, who went from incarcerated to homeless, and is now planning a big move to the mainland with her kids.
