Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

On June 24, 1948, the Soviet Union blocked railroad and street access to West Berlin, starving the population and choking commerce. Allied forces refused to cede the city, and for nearly a year, succeeded in doing what even the best military minds considered impossible -- supply two million civilians and 20,000 allied soldiers entirely from the air. Operating on a strict plan masterminded by U.S. General William Turner, allied forces landed planes every three minutes and delivered more than 4,500 tons of supplies each day. Former German soldiers built airfields and repaired engines for the enemies they had been shooting out of the sky just three years before. American and British pilots, so recently delivering death, were now angels of mercy, supplying coal, flour, coffee and chocolate to the beleaguered city. Through the personal stories of those who were there, this program provides a striking look at the first battle of the Cold War and the largest humanitarian campaign the world had ever seen.

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

You see the world differently when you work underground. That made Butte, Montana different right from the start as immigrants came from around the world to work the mines. But what they blasted out of the 10,000 miles of tunnels was more than just copper. It was the rise of unions and multinational corporations, and the seeds of the current debate over the environment.

The seventh in Larry Cappetto's award winning series, "Lest They Be Forgotten - CANADA," is a moving tribute to those who fought for Canada protecting the freedoms we enjoy today in North America. Hear first hand accounts from Canadian Veterans who landed on the beaches of Sicily, Ortona, Dieppe, and Juno Beach on D-Day, June 6, 1944. Listen to stories from those who fought in Korea, Afghanistan and more. The documentary gracefully brings to life, in a positive manner, the Canadian Veteran today. It truly is a piece of Canadian and world history that needs to be recorded before it is lost.

Korea - 1950-1953. The fighting in Korea was different than any other war. "We went to Korea with a World War II mentality." The Chosin Reservoir was where the Marines first saw action against the North Koreans and the Chinese. The terrain was different than the island fighting in the Pacific. It was right at the end of Nov. 1950 that the Chinese came out in force. "The Chinese were in the number of 200,000 and we were 12,000. They always came in with bugles blowing, whistles blowing and shouting. They scared the hell out of you!" "When the Chinese finally hit us we took a terrible amount of casualties." "They told us it was 35 degrees below zero, 40 mile an hour wind and it was snowing. In order to keep from freezing to death you had to keep moving. You didn't stop." It was so cold that many men lost their feet and their hands. Some froze to death. The Corpsmen held the morphine surrets in their mouths in order to be able to have some morphine that they could use to treat the wounded. "The Forgotten War," will be remembered through this stunning account and gripping stories.

On June 5, 1944, thousands of ships amassed off the coast of Normandy, France in preparation for the largest air, land, and amphibious assault ever recorded in history. On June 6, 1944, General Eisenhower gave the order for allied troops to storm the coast of Normandy on D-Day. Under the command of General Omar Bradley, thousands of American troops landed that fateful day on Omaha and Utah Beach. This is a moving, first hand account from those who survived D-Day. Now for the first time hear the stories from those who were there over 60 years ago as they retell (many for the first time) what it was like to land on Omaha Beach as a young, 18 or 19 year old. This was the first time in combat for many of these young men.

When we saw the ships coming in we said, "My God. There are more ships than there are German soldiers." The whole horizon was filled with ships." "It was horrible for me to see how many Americans were left lying on the beach. I kept on defending myself. I wanted to go home again. The American soldiers had absolutely no protection. They were hit by the artillery, machine guns, and grenade throwers." (Franz Gockel, German soldier) Once again travel back to the shores of Normandy and hear powerful, first hand accounts of the landing on Omaha Beach. D-Day led to the ending of the war in Europe and was a very important time in our countries history. Walk the shores of Normandy with the men who were there.

Iwo Jima - which means, "Sulpher Island." This tiny pork chop shaped Pacific island measuring only 8 1/2 square miles is 1/3 the size of Manhattan. Although small and remote, in 1945, Iwo Jima was an extremely costly piece of real estate for both Japanese and American fighting forces. Lying just 660 miles south of Japan, this tiny fortress would give the U.S. a forward airbase at the front door of the Japanese homeland. Iwo Jima was a landmark of courage and individual valor - a battle the likes of which will never be seen again.

The Merchant Marines - volunteer civilian sailors - kept the Allied forces supplied with food, fuel and raw materials and endured some of the highest casualty rates of World War II. THE MEN WHO SAILED

THE LIBERTY SHIPS pays belated homage to these forgotten wartime sailors. The documentary provides a vivid firsthand account of sailing these ships. Stirring stories of war at sea are intertwined with personal photographs and archival film footage to recreate the unyielding determination and team spirit of America's Merchant Marine seamen. The documentary was taped aboard the Jeremiah O'Brien, one of the last remaining World War II-era Liberty Ships afloat. The ship recently sailed back to Normandy in April 2004 to commemorate the 60th anniversary of D-Day.

He was boxy, with stumpy legs that wouldn't completely straighten, a short straggly tail and an ungainly gait, but though he didn't look the part, Seabiscuit was one of the most remarkable thoroughbred racehorses in history. In the 1930s, when Americans longed to escape the grim realities of the Depression-era life, four men turned Seabiscuit into a national hero. They were his fabulously wealthy owner Charles Howard, his famously silent and stubborn trainer Tom Smith, and the two hard-bitten, gifted jockeys who rode him to glory. By following the paths that brought these four together and in telling the story of Seabiscuit's unlikely career, this film illuminates the precarious economic conditions that defined America in the 1930s and explores the fascinating behind-the-scenes world of thoroughbred racing.

Irving Berlin pulled himself up from poverty on New York's Lower East Side to become America's most famous and enduring songwriter. Born Israel Baline in Belarus, then part of the Russian empire, on May 11, 1888, he immigrated with his family to America at age five and later taught himself rudimentary piano while working as a singing waiter in a bar and brothel in New York's Chinatown. By age twenty-three, he was the wunderkind of Tin Pan Alley with more than two hundred hit songs and hundreds more to come--songs like "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," and "God Bless America." Who was Irving Berlin, and what does his music say about America?

This week Think Tank with Ben Wattenberg takes a look at "Irving Berlin's America," Part Two of a two-part show. From Ragtime to Swing and from Broadway to Hollywood, Irving Berlin's music defined American songwriting for more than half a century. Songs like "God Bless America," "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Cheek to Cheek," and "White Christmas." Fully half of his eight hundred and ninety-nine published tunes went on to become hits. Two hundred and eighty-two reached the top ten on the popular charts; thirty-five went to number one. Berlin's music reflects an almost instinctive understanding of the culture and the early events of what has been called the American century. His songs capture the heart of small town America and the brass of Broadway. Who was Irving Berlin? What is there about his music that still stirs and unites Americans? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Linda Emmet, the second of Irving Berlin's three daughters, and music historian Robert Kimball, co-editors of the just-published book, "The Complete Lyrics of Irving Berlin," and Philip Furia, Professor at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and author of "Irving Berlin, a Life in Song."

Only three centuries ago, Scotland was a primitive country, still the scene of barbaric wars, torture, and witch trials. But not long after, Scottish philosophers created a common sense approach to the study of political economy, one whose reverberations can still be felt around the globe today. Just what did the Scottish Enlightenment contribute to America, and to the world?

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

EXPERIENCE WHAT BEATLEMANIA WAS ALL ABOUT! FROM ED SULLIVAN TO ABBEY ROAD! - They look like them and they sound just like them! "The next best thing to seeing The Beatles," raves the Denver Post. All the music and vocals are performed totally live! RAIN covers the Fab Four from the earliest beginnings through the psychedelic late 60s and their long-haired hippie, hard-rocking rooftop days. RAIN is a multi-media, multi-dimensional experience...a fusion of historical footage and hilarious television commercials from the 1960s lights up video screens and live cameras zoom in for close-ups. "Uncanny! RAIN are a quartet of fine musicians in their own right...as The Beatles, they triumph!" cheers the Boston Herald. "An adoring Valentine to The Beatles," declares the Washington Post. Sing along with your family and friends to such Beatlemania favorites as "Let It Be," "Hey Jude," "My Guitar Gently Weeps," "Come Together" and "Can't Buy Me Love."

Irving Berlin pulled himself up from poverty on New York's Lower East Side to become America's most famous and enduring songwriter. Born Israel Baline in Belarus, then part of the Russian empire, on May 11, 1888, he immigrated with his family to America at age five and later taught himself rudimentary piano while working as a singing waiter in a bar and brothel in New York's Chinatown. By age twenty-three, he was the wunderkind of Tin Pan Alley with more than two hundred hit songs and hundreds more to come--songs like "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," and "God Bless America." Who was Irving Berlin, and what does his music say about America?

This week Think Tank with Ben Wattenberg takes a look at "Irving Berlin's America," Part Two of a two-part show. From Ragtime to Swing and from Broadway to Hollywood, Irving Berlin's music defined American songwriting for more than half a century. Songs like "God Bless America," "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Cheek to Cheek," and "White Christmas." Fully half of his eight hundred and ninety-nine published tunes went on to become hits. Two hundred and eighty-two reached the top ten on the popular charts; thirty-five went to number one. Berlin's music reflects an almost instinctive understanding of the culture and the early events of what has been called the American century. His songs capture the heart of small town America and the brass of Broadway. Who was Irving Berlin? What is there about his music that still stirs and unites Americans? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Linda Emmet, the second of Irving Berlin's three daughters, and music historian Robert Kimball, co-editors of the just-published book, "The Complete Lyrics of Irving Berlin," and Philip Furia, Professor at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and author of "Irving Berlin, a Life in Song."

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

You see the world differently when you work underground. That made Butte, Montana different right from the start as immigrants came from around the world to work the mines. But what they blasted out of the 10,000 miles of tunnels was more than just copper. It was the rise of unions and multinational corporations, and the seeds of the current debate over the environment.

Can printed news survive? Today's readers consume growing portions of their news online and the current recession has slashed into the advertising revenue papers count on. What are the implications for coverage for business and for you? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Tom Rosenstiel, Director of the Pew Research Center's Project for Excellence in Journalism, and Jim Pinkerton, Fox News contributor, blogger, and Senior Fellow at the America Foundation. Joining Ben Wattenberg as one of Think Tank's occasional co-hosts is Lauren Ashburn, Managing Editor of USA Today Live, the TV arm of the major newspaper. The topic before the house: Stop the presses...forever?

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill.

What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said,

"It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Segment Length: 00:00:00

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

Length: 30 minutes
Airdate: 12/5/2009 1:00:00 PM
O.B. Date: 6/1/2009 2:00:00 PM
Service: PBS-PLUS
Format: Demonstration/Instructional
Segment Length: 00:26:46

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Can printed news survive? Today's readers consume growing portions of their news online and the current recession has slashed into the advertising revenue papers count on. What are the implications for coverage for business and for you? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Tom Rosenstiel, Director of the Pew Research Center's Project for Excellence in Journalism, and Jim Pinkerton, Fox News contributor, blogger, and Senior Fellow at the America Foundation. Joining Ben Wattenberg as one of Think Tank's occasional co-hosts is Lauren Ashburn, Managing Editor of USA Today Live, the TV arm of the major newspaper. The topic before the house: Stop the presses...forever?

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

A Nobel Peace Prize shocker, plus, Afghanistan, health care, and the Supreme Court tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama SAID, "I am both surprised and deeply humbled by the decision of the Nobel Committee." President Obama was not the only one surprised, but the global endorsement was welcomed, even as it sparked new questions like how and why, especially as the president decides whether to escalate the war in Afghanistan as Republicans and Democrats debate. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Speaker Nancy Pelosi: Let me just say that there was agreement that it's a difficult decision for the president to make." On Capitol Hill, good news for health care reform? Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "The result is a balanced, common sense plan that takes the best ideas from both sides." But what will it cost? And at the Supreme Court, free speech, religion, and a brand new justice. Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Joan Biskupic of USA Today.

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

Segment Length: 00:00:00

On October 29, 1929, the lifelong dreams of hundreds of thousands of stock market investors -- middle-class secretaries, clerks, small businessmen -- vanished in a few hours, along with their hard-earned savings. Decades later, the events of this day still haunt the American psyche. This program examines the boom before the crash, whether the crash was predictable, and if it precipitated the Great Depression of the 1930's.

Can printed news survive? Today's readers consume growing portions of their news online and the current recession has slashed into the advertising revenue papers count on. What are the implications for coverage for business and for you? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Tom Rosenstiel, Director of the Pew Research Center's Project for Excellence in Journalism, and Jim Pinkerton, Fox News contributor, blogger, and Senior Fellow at the America Foundation. Joining Ben Wattenberg as one of Think Tank's occasional co-hosts is Lauren Ashburn, Managing Editor of USA Today Live, the TV arm of the major newspaper. The topic before the house: Stop the presses...forever?

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said,

"It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

Ramping up in Afghanistan, answering some questions, raising new ones, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "As commander-in-chief I have determined that it is in our vital national interests to send an additional 30,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan. After 18 months our troops will begin to come home." Question number one, will the president's build-up/drawdown work? Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? Daoud Sultanzoy, Member of the Afghan National Assembly said, "In the 262 years of our modern history, we have never been governed, basically. We have been ruled or misruled." And question number four, will an expanded war keep the president's eye off the distressed economy? We'll get to the bottom of these and other issues tonight with the Washington Week roundtable: Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, James Kitfield of National Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

War and peace, cost and consequence, getting to the bottom of it all, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Part of our challenge is reconciling these two seemingly in reconcilable truths: that war is sometimes necessary and war at some level is an expression of human folly." The president's Nobel Peace Prize tightrope-- what does it tell us about where he and we now we stand on the world stage. And how does that widely praised speech help him with all of the other problems on his agenda, chief among them rescuing the economy and reforming healthcare. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) [Senate Majority Leader] said, "We can't disclose the details of what we've done, but believe me, it's something that's good." Sen. Charles Grassley (R-IA) said, "The last thing you want to think about when the Titanic is sinking is put grandma and more of your family on the boat." The challenges and the opportunities, we examine them all with the reporters covering the week: Jeff Zeleny of the New York Times; Dan Balz of the Washington Post; Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times; and Eamon Javers of Politico.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill. What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill.

What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here."

Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

Despite dire warnings for our endangered planet, Jane Goodall says all is not yet lost - we can change course if we act now. And she should know. Her tough-minded optimism comes from her work as the world's foremost authority on chimpanzees in Tanzania's Gombe National Park. As a scientist and naturalist she has produced landmark studies of animal behavior that led to revolutionary insights into the evolution of human life. Now, traveling 300 days a year, she has become a global advocate for all life, challenging everyone to see ourselves as caretakers of the planet. Her new book Hope for the Animals and Their World features the heroic work of men and women working around the world to protect and preserve the Earth.

Rising more than 700 feet above the raging waters of the Colorado River, it was called one of the greatest engineering works in history. Hoover Dam, built during the Great Depression, drew men desperate for work to a remote and rugged canyon near Las Vegas. There they lived in tent cities, struggled against heat, choking dust and perilous heights to build a colossus of concrete that brought electricity and water to millions and transformed the American Southwest.

You see the world differently when you work underground. That made Butte, Montana different right from the start as immigrants came from around the world to work the mines. But what they blasted out of the 10,000 miles of tunnels was more than just copper. It was the rise of unions and multinational corporations, and the seeds of the current debate over the environment.

The communications industry was born in Pennsylvania. The U.S. printing industry, television, radio, and cable TV all began here in the Commonwealth. The next generation of internet is now being created here. But access to broadband connectivity in Pennsylvania still lags behind much of the developed world...until now. This film details the promise of PA House Bill 30 and Act 183, and what consumers need to know about connectivity and the digital divide in Pennsylvania.

In his second hour-long Adventures With Purposespecial, Richard Bangs travels to the southernmost reaches of civilization to uncover New Zealand's pristine natural beauty, alluring culture and enigmatic mythology. In RICHARD BANGS' ADVENTURES WITH PURPOSE "New Zealand: Quest for Kaitiakitanga," the father of modern adventure travel traverses the most physically and climatically diverse landmass in Polynesia in the pursuit of an age-old Maori tradition. In this new special, Bangs seeks answers to questions rooted in indigenous wisdom, hoping to unearth the meaning and origins of "kaitiakitanga," the responsibility of human beings to protect the natural world. Today's Kiwis believe the knowledge of the ancients may hold a key to the planet's survival. Bangs begins his 1,000-mile trek in Mt. Aspiring National Park, where he navigates north to the Franz Joseph Glacier and then to the east coast town of Kaikoura. From there, Bangs crosses the Cook Strait to the North Island and the capital city of Wellington. He next visits the Taupo region, heads to Hokianga Harbor, and finally makes his way to Cape Reinga on the upper tip of New Zealand, where he encounters the great tangled "spirit tree" of Maori myth.

The Farnsworth House near Chicago is an icon of 20th-century modernist domestic architecture. The one-story masterpiece of steel and glass, with its simple geometric designs and transparent walls, reflects architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's minimalist expression of structure and space. SAVED FROM THE WRECKING BALL tells the compelling story of van der Rohe's vision and his often tempestuous relationship with his client, D. Edith Farnsworth - a relationship filled with romantic intrigue and contentious legal battles. The film follows the saga of the Farnsworth House, from its construction in 1951 through its stewardship under subsequent owners to the efforts to preserve the building within its original context.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill. What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill. What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

A Nobel Peace Prize shocker, plus, Afghanistan, health care, and the Supreme Court tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama SAID, "I am both surprised and deeply humbled by the decision of the Nobel Committee." President Obama was not the only one surprised, but the global endorsement was welcomed, even as it sparked new questions like how and why, especially as the president decides whether to escalate the war in Afghanistan as Republicans and Democrats debate. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Speaker Nancy Pelosi: Let me just say that there was agreement that it's a difficult decision for the president to make." On Capitol Hill, good news for health care reform? Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "The result is a balanced, common sense plan that takes the best ideas from both sides." But what will it cost? And at the Supreme Court, free speech, religion, and a brand new justice. Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Joan Biskupic of USA Today.

Decisions, decisions on health care, Afghanistan, and garden variety politics. We look at a pivotal week tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Olympia Snowe (R-ME) said, "Is this bill all that I would want? Far from it. Is it all that can be? No." But when history calls, history calls. And with that the health care bill lived to fight another day. And what a fight it's turning out to be as insurance companies, labor unions, Democrats, and Republicans prepare to make it a fight to the finish. Rep. Jim Cooper (D-TN) said, "It is kind of a Super Bowl of lobbying on health care reform and the lobbyists are winning so far, but the game's not over yet." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "Everybody knows that things need to be changed in our health care system. It's just how do you do it?" And how will the administration do Afghanistan? Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) said, "My advice to the president would be that our national security interests and the future of Afghanistan are better served with a smaller U.S. military footprint." Sen. Linsey Graham (R-SC) asked, "Can we turn it around? I think so. I pray that we can." Plus, the president as politico in chief as he travels the country, campaigning for other Democrats. Can he recapture the magic of 2008? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, James Kitfield of National Journal and John Harris of Politico.

Decisions, decisions on health care, Afghanistan, and garden variety politics. We look at a pivotal week tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Olympia Snowe (R-ME) said, "Is this bill all that I would want? Far from it. Is it all that can be? No." But when history calls, history calls. And with that the health care bill lived to fight another day. And what a fight it's turning out to be as insurance companies, labor unions, Democrats, and Republicans prepare to make it a fight to the finish. Rep. Jim Cooper (D-TN) said, "It is kind of a Super Bowl of lobbying on health care reform and the lobbyists are winning so far, but the game's not over yet." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "Everybody knows that things need to be changed in our health care system. It's just how do you do it?" And how will the administration do Afghanistan? Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) said, "My advice to the president would be that our national security interests and the future of Afghanistan are better served with a smaller U.S. military footprint." Sen. Linsey Graham (R-SC) asked, "Can we turn it around? I think so. I pray that we can." Plus, the president as politico in chief as he travels the country, campaigning for other Democrats. Can he recapture the magic of 2008? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, James Kitfield of National Journal and John Harris of Politico.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice President Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. President Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness."

Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

Crunch time for health care reform, plus Asia, Afghanistan and Sarah, tonight on Washington Week. Yet another big vote looming on health care. Senator Chuck Schumer (D-NY) said, "It's an incredible work. And the momentum has now shifted to us." Sen. Lamar Alexander (R-TN) said, "It's the same turkey you didn't like in August and it's not going to taste any better on Thanksgiving." The Senate Saturday night special. Will Democrats have enough votes? Will the GOP be able to stop them? Congress debates as the administration grapples with foreign policy in Asia. President Barack Obama said, "The United States does not seek to contain China. On the contrary, the rise of a strong and a prosperous China can be a source of strength for the community of nations." And in Afghanistan...Secretary Hillary Clinton said, "There is now a clear window of opportunity for President Karzai and his government to make a new compact with the people of Afghanistan." While on the home front, Sarah Palin turns best selling author. Former Governor Sarah Palin said, "Alaska and Michigan have so much in common with the hunting and the fishing and the hockey moms." But what else does she have in mind? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, David Sanger of the New York Times, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News.

Crunch time for health care reform, plus Asia, Afghanistan and Sarah, tonight on Washington Week. Yet another big vote looming on health care. Senator Chuck Schumer (D-NY) said, "It's an incredible work. And the momentum has now shifted to us." Sen. Lamar Alexander (R-TN) said, "It's the same turkey you didn't like in August and it's not going to taste any better on Thanksgiving." The Senate Saturday night special. Will Democrats have enough votes? Will the GOP be able to stop them? Congress debates as the administration grapples with foreign policy in Asia. President Barack Obama said, "The United States does not seek to contain China. On the contrary, the rise of a strong and a prosperous China can be a source of strength for the community of nations." And in Afghanistan...Secretary Hillary Clinton said, "There is now a clear window of opportunity for President Karzai and his government to make a new compact with the people of Afghanistan." While on the home front, Sarah Palin turns best selling author. Former Governor Sarah Palin said, "Alaska and Michigan have so much in common with the hunting and the fishing and the hockey moms." But what else does she have in mind? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, David Sanger of the New York Times, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

War and peace, cost and consequence, getting to the bottom of it all, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Part of our challenge is reconciling these two seemingly in reconcilable truths: that war is sometimes necessary and war at some level is an expression of human folly." The president's Nobel Peace Prize tightrope-- what does it tell us about where he and we now we stand on the world stage. And how does that widely praised speech help him with all of the other problems on his agenda, chief among them rescuing the economy and reforming healthcare. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) [Senate Majority Leader] said, "We can't disclose the details of what we've done, but believe me, it's something that's good." Sen. Charles Grassley (R-IA) said, "The last thing you want to think about when the Titanic is sinking is put grandma and more of your family on the boat." The challenges and the opportunities, we examine them all with the reporters covering the week: Jeff Zeleny of the New York Times; Dan Balz of the Washington Post; Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times; and Eamon Javers of Politico.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill. What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill.

What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

You see the world differently when you work underground. That made Butte, Montana different right from the start as immigrants came from around the world to work the mines. But what they blasted out of the 10,000 miles of tunnels was more than just copper. It was the rise of unions and multinational corporations, and the seeds of the current debate over the environment.

Can printed news survive? Today's readers consume growing portions of their news online and the current recession has slashed into the advertising revenue papers count on. What are the implications for coverage for business and for you? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Tom Rosenstiel, Director of the Pew Research Center's Project for Excellence in Journalism, and Jim Pinkerton, Fox News contributor, blogger, and Senior Fellow at the America Foundation. Joining Ben Wattenberg as one of Think Tank's occasional co-hosts is Lauren Ashburn, Managing Editor of USA Today Live, the TV arm of the major newspaper. The topic before the house: Stop the presses...forever?

Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

A Nobel Peace Prize shocker, plus, Afghanistan, health care, and the Supreme Court tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama SAID, "I am both surprised and deeply humbled by the decision of the Nobel Committee." President Obama was not the only one surprised, but the global endorsement was welcomed, even as it sparked new questions like how and why, especially as the president decides whether to escalate the war in Afghanistan as Republicans and Democrats debate. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Speaker Nancy Pelosi: Let me just say that there was agreement that it's a difficult decision for the president to make." On Capitol Hill, good news for health care reform? Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "The result is a balanced, common sense plan that takes the best ideas from both sides." But what will it cost? And at the Supreme Court, free speech, religion, and a brand new justice. Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Joan Biskupic of USA Today.

Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Speaker Nancy Pelosi: Let me just say that there was agreement that it's a difficult decision for the president to make." On Capitol Hill, good news for health care reform? Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "The result is a balanced, common sense plan that takes the best ideas from both sides." But what will it cost? And at the Supreme Court, free speech, religion, and a brand new justice. Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Joan Biskupic of USA Today.

A Nobel Peace Prize shocker, plus, Afghanistan, health care, and the Supreme Court tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama SAID, "I am both surprised and deeply humbled by the decision of the Nobel Committee." President Obama was not the only one surprised, but the global endorsement was welcomed, even as it sparked new questions like how and why, especially as the president decides whether to escalate the war in Afghanistan as Republicans and Democrats debate. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Decisions, decisions on health care, Afghanistan, and garden variety politics. We look at a pivotal week tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Olympia Snowe (R-ME) said, "Is this bill all that I would want? Far from it. Is it all that can be? No." But when history calls, history calls. And with that the health care bill lived to fight another day. And what a fight it's turning out to be as insurance companies, labor unions, Democrats, and Republicans prepare to make it a fight to the finish. Rep. Jim Cooper (D-TN) said, "It is kind of a Super Bowl of lobbying on health care reform and the lobbyists are winning so far, but the game's not over yet." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "Everybody knows that things need to be changed in our health care system. It's just how do you do it?" And how will the administration do Afghanistan? Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) said, "My advice to the president would be that our national security interests and the future of Afghanistan are better served with a smaller U.S. military footprint." Sen. Linsey Graham (R-SC) asked, "Can we turn it around? I think so. I pray that we can." Plus, the president as politico in chief as he travels the country, campaigning for other Democrats. Can he recapture the magic of 2008? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, James Kitfield of National Journal and John Harris of Politico.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

Crunch time for health care reform, plus Asia, Afghanistan and Sarah, tonight on Washington Week. Yet another big vote looming on health care. Senator Chuck Schumer (D-NY) said, "It's an incredible work. And the momentum has now shifted to us." Sen. Lamar Alexander (R-TN) said, "It's the same turkey you didn't like in August and it's not going to taste any better on Thanksgiving." The Senate Saturday night special. Will Democrats have enough votes? Will the GOP be able to stop them? Congress debates as the administration grapples with foreign policy in Asia. President Barack Obama said, "The United States does not seek to contain China. On the contrary, the rise of a strong and a prosperous China can be a source of strength for the community of nations." And in Afghanistan...Secretary Hillary Clinton said, "There is now a clear window of opportunity for President Karzai and his government to make a new compact with the people of Afghanistan." While on the home front, Sarah Palin turns best selling author. Former Governor Sarah Palin said, "Alaska and Michigan have so much in common with the hunting and the fishing and the hockey moms." But what else does she have in mind? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, David Sanger of the New York Times, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help? President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

Ramping up in Afghanistan, answering some questions, raising new ones, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "As commander-in-chief I have determined that it is in our vital national interests to send an additional 30,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan. After 18 months our troops will begin to come home." Question number one, will the president's build-up/drawdown work? Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? Daoud Sultanzoy, Member of the Afghan National Assembly said, "In the 262 years of our modern history, we have never been governed, basically. We have been ruled or misruled." And question number four, will an expanded war keep the president's eye off the distressed economy? We'll get to the bottom of these and other issues tonight with the Washington Week roundtable: Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, James Kitfield of National Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? Daoud Sultanzoy, Member of the Afghan National Assembly said, "In the 262 years of our modern history, we have never been governed, basically. We have been ruled or misruled." And question number four, will an expanded war keep the president's eye off the distressed economy? We'll get to the bottom of these and other issues tonight with the Washington Week roundtable: Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, James Kitfield of National Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Ramping up in Afghanistan, answering some questions, raising new ones, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "As commander-in-chief I have determined that it is in our vital national interests to send an additional 30,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan. After 18 months our troops will begin to come home." Question number one, will the president's build-up/drawdown work? Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? War and peace, cost and consequence, getting to the bottom of it all, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Part of our challenge is reconciling these two seemingly in reconcilable truths: that war is sometimes necessary and war at some level is an expression of human folly." The president's Nobel Peace Prize tightrope-- what does it tell us about where he and we now we stand on the world stage. And how does that widely praised speech help him with all of the other problems on his agenda, chief among them rescuing the economy and reforming healthcare. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) [Senate Majority Leader] said, "We can't disclose the details of what we've done, but believe me, it's something that's good." Sen. Charles Grassley (R-IA) said, "The last thing you want to think about when the Titanic is sinking is put grandma and more of your family on the boat." The challenges and the opportunities, we examine them all with the reporters covering the week: Jeff Zeleny of the New York Times; Dan Balz of the Washington Post; Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times; and Eamon Javers of Politico.

Racing to beat the clock on healthcare reform while the president plays bad cop to bankers and returns from Copenhagen with a deal -- sort of -- on climate change. I'm Karen Tumulty sitting in for Gwen Ifill. What it all means, tonight on "Washington Week." President Barack Obama said, "It's clear that we are on the precipice of an achievement that's eluded Congresses and presidents for generations, an achievement that will touch the lives of nearly every American." But is it the right reform? Some big name Democrats don't think so. Gov. Howard Dean (D-VT) said, "This is essentially the collapse of healthcare reform in the United States' Senate. And honestly, the best thing to do right now is kill the Senate bill." And the dash to the finish line for healthcare reform. Could the Democrats be setting themselves up for a fall? The American taxpayer bailed out big banks but have the banks done enough in return? The president has asked for more. Is there anything he can do to get it? And the climate change issue on the world stage. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (R-CA) said, "I think the key thing is that we continue campaigning and continue communicating that there is global warming and this is an enormous obstacle to the future of the world." World leaders wrap up in Denmark. What did they accomplish and where do they go from here? Covering these stories these week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Dickerson of Slate magazine and CBS News, Greg Ip of the Economist, and Charles Babington of the Associated Press.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep.

Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On June 24, 1948, the Soviet Union blocked railroad and street access to West Berlin, starving the population and choking commerce. Allied forces refused to cede the city, and for nearly a year, succeeded in doing what even the best military minds considered impossible -- supply two million civilians and 20,000 allied soldiers entirely from the air. Operating on a strict plan masterminded by U.S. General William Turner, allied forces landed planes every three minutes and delivered more than 4,500 tons of supplies each day. Former German soldiers built airfields and repaired engines for the enemies they had been shooting out of the sky just three years before. American and British pilots, so recently delivering death, were now angels of mercy, supplying coal, flour, coffee and chocolate to the beleaguered city. Through the personal stories of those who were there, this program provides a striking look at the first battle of the Cold War and the largest humanitarian campaign the world had ever seen.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

He was boxy, with stumpy legs that wouldn't completely straighten, a short straggly tail and an ungainly gait, but though he didn't look the part, Seabiscuit was one of the most remarkable thoroughbred racehorses in history. In the 1930s, when Americans longed to escape the grim realities of the Depression-era life, four men turned Seabiscuit into a national hero. They were his fabulously wealthy owner Charles Howard, his famously silent and stubborn trainer Tom Smith, and the two hard-bitten, gifted jockeys who rode him to glory. By following the paths that brought these four together and in telling the story of Seabiscuit's unlikely career, this film illuminates the precarious economic conditions that defined America in the 1930s and explores the fascinating behind-the-scenes world of thoroughbred racing.

Segment Length: 00:49:26

He was boxy, with stumpy legs that wouldn't completely straighten, a short straggly tail and an ungainly gait, but though he didn't look the part, Seabiscuit was one of the most remarkable thoroughbred racehorses in history. In the 1930s, when Americans longed to escape the grim realities of the Depression-era life, four men turned Seabiscuit into a national hero. They were his fabulously wealthy owner Charles Howard, his famously silent and stubborn trainer Tom Smith, and the two hard-bitten, gifted jockeys who rode him to glory. By following the paths that brought these four together and in telling the story of Seabiscuit's unlikely career, this film illuminates the precarious economic conditions that defined America in the 1930s and explores the fascinating behind-the-scenes world of thoroughbred racing.

Episode Title: What Darwin Never Knew
Length: 120 minutes
Airdate: 12/29/2009 11:00:00 PM
O.B. Date: 12/29/2009 8:00:00 PM
Service: PBS
Format: Documentary
Segment Length: 01:56:46

On the 150th anniversary of the publication of Darwin's famous On the Origin of Species, NOVA reveals answers to the riddles that Darwin couldn't explain. Stunning breakthroughs in a new science - nicknamed "evo devo" - are linking the enigma of origins to another of nature's great mysteries: the development of an embryo. To explore this exciting new idea, NOVA takes viewers on a journey from the Galapagos Islands to the Arctic, from the Cambrian explosion of animal forms half a billion years ago to the research labs of today. Here, scientists are finally beginning to crack nature's biggest secrets at the genetic level. And, as NOVA shows in this absorbing detective story, the results are confirming the brilliance of Darwin's insights, while exposing clues to life's breathtaking diversity in ways he could scarcely have imagined.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Can printed news survive? Today's readers consume growing portions of their news online and the current recession has slashed into the advertising revenue papers count on. What are the implications for coverage for business and for you? To find out, Think Tank is joined by Tom Rosenstiel, Director of the Pew Research Center's Project for Excellence in Journalism, and Jim Pinkerton, Fox News contributor, blogger, and Senior Fellow at the America Foundation. Joining Ben Wattenberg as one of Think Tank's occasional co-hosts is Lauren Ashburn, Managing Editor of USA Today Live, the TV arm of the major newspaper. The topic before the house: Stop the presses...forever?

On June 24, 1948, the Soviet Union blocked railroad and street access to West Berlin, starving the population and choking commerce. Allied forces refused to cede the city, and for nearly a year, succeeded in doing what even the best military minds considered impossible -- supply two million civilians and 20,000 allied soldiers entirely from the air. Operating on a strict plan masterminded by U.S. General William Turner, allied forces landed planes every three minutes and delivered more than 4,500 tons of supplies each day. Former German soldiers built airfields and repaired engines for the enemies they had been shooting out of the sky just three years before. American and British pilots, so recently delivering death, were now angels of mercy, supplying coal, flour, coffee and chocolate to the beleaguered city. Through the personal stories of those who were there, this program provides a striking look at the first battle of the Cold War and the largest humanitarian campaign the world had ever seen.

Mark Danner on Obama's Foreign Policy Challenges: Reporting from the world's most troubled hotspots, Mark Danner has seen countless deaths over ethnic and political divides, and witnessed firsthand how U.S. attempts to exploit those conflicts have resulted in disastrous unforeseen consequences. Danner speaks with Bill Moyers about Obama's challenges in resetting the mindset of America from war to peace, and redefining the U.S. as a nation. Moyers Digital Archive--Maurice Sendak: Bill Moyers gives viewers a look into the private world of Maurice Sendak in an unexpectedly candid interview that reveals the surprisingly dark influences at play in his complex work. Shaped by immigrant parents and the tragedy of the Holocaust, Sendak provides frank insight into his complicated psyche and a rare window into the soul of an acclaimed artist. Santa Ana's Community Health Crusade: The JOURNAL profiles public health doctor America Bracho, who serves her Santa Ana, CA community--notorious for crime, poverty and disease--with her organization, Latino Health Access. The JOURNAL on Community Organizers: Explore a video collection of JOURNAL profiles of people who are making a difference in their communities.

From Versailles to Iraq - At the close of World War I, allegedly the war to end all wars, the powers met in Paris to create what they hoped to be a lasting peace. They redrew the boundaries of the modern world and created new nations. Many of today's conflicts stem from this redrawing. What went wrong? What went right?

A Nobel Peace Prize shocker, plus, Afghanistan, health care, and the Supreme Court tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama SAID, "I am both surprised and deeply humbled by the decision of the Nobel Committee." President Obama was not the only one surprised, but the global endorsement was welcomed, even as it sparked new questions like how and why, especially as the president decides whether to escalate the war in Afghanistan as Republicans and Democrats debate. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "It's pretty clear that time is not on our side. Speaker Nancy Pelosi: Let me just say that there was agreement that it's a difficult decision for the president to make." On Capitol Hill, good news for health care reform? Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "The result is a balanced, common sense plan that takes the best ideas from both sides." But what will it cost? And at the Supreme Court, free speech, religion, and a brand new justice. Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Joan Biskupic of USA Today.

Decisions, decisions on health care, Afghanistan, and garden variety politics. We look at a pivotal week tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Olympia Snowe (R-ME) said, "Is this bill all that I would want? Far from it. Is it all that can be? No." But when history calls, history calls. And with that the health care bill lived to fight another day. And what a fight it's turning out to be as insurance companies, labor unions, Democrats, and Republicans prepare to make it a fight to the finish. Rep. Jim Cooper (D-TN) said, "It is kind of a Super Bowl of lobbying on health care reform and the lobbyists are winning so far, but the game's not over yet." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "Everybody knows that things need to be changed in our health care system. It's just how do you do it?" And how will the administration do Afghanistan? Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) said, "My advice to the president would be that our national security interests and the future of Afghanistan are better served with a smaller U.S. military footprint." Sen. Linsey Graham (R-SC) asked, "Can we turn it around? I think so. I pray that we can." Plus, the president as politico in chief as he travels the country, campaigning for other Democrats. Can he recapture the magic of 2008? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, James Kitfield of National Journal and John Harris of Politico.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

Round two on the health care public option, executive compensation, Afghan elections, and an Iranian nuclear deal. Plus, we remember our friend Jack Nelson, tonight on Washington Week. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "We're leaning towards talking about a public option. No decision has been made." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "Healthcare reform has moved out of the public eye and into the smoke-filled rooms here on Capitol Hill." What once was thought dead, lives again. But can Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi really revive a plan many Americans worry gives the government too much power? And will another plan, this one to limit what companies can pay their own employees, fly?" Kenneth Feinberg said, "There is a gap between Wall Street and Main Street in terms of the perception concerning compensation." On foreign policy, will a runoff election in Afghanistan change the balance of power there and here? Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) said, "This is a very tough environment in which to hold an election." And will Iran yield to international pressure for a new nuclear deal? Sec. Hillary Clinton said, "The door is open to a better future for Iran, but the process of engagement cannot be open-ended." Critical tests all around. Plus we remember Jack Nelson. Covering the week, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Deborah Solomon of the Wall Street Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and David Sanger of the New York Times.

The economy rebounds--somewhat, but progress on health care, Afghanistan and swine flu slows. Tonight on Washington Week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "We're moving in the right direction, we're starting to make real progress on the road to recovery." Finally, good economic news. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The 3.5 percent growth in the third quarter is the largest three-month gain we have seen in two years." With at least one big exception. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "I'm pleased that the GDP numbers this morning were up. But the question is where are the jobs?" The numbers tell the story as Wall Street heads up then down. While on Capitol Hill, the health care two-step continues with new Democratic plans. Sen. Sherrod Brown (D-OH) said, "I think people don't want to be on the wrong side of history on this." And new hesitations. Joseph Lieberman (I-CN) said, "If at the end it's not what I think is good for our country and most people living in our country, then I'll vote against cloture, I'll join a filibuster and I'll try to stop the bill from passing." Meanwhile, worries mount about the availability of the H1N1 flu vaccine. Sec. Janet Napolitano said, "This is not a situation that is cause for panic." But what to do? And along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, fresh casualties complicate the U.S. effort as Secretary Clinton talks tough to old allies. Covering the week: Greg Ip of the Economist, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, Marilyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and Nancy Youssef of McClatchy News Service.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said,

"It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

A world of uncertainty on unemployment, Afghanistan, health care, and domestic politics, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Although it will take time and it will take patience, I am confident that our economy will recover." Rep. Kevin Brady (R-TX) said, "Today's numbers are further proof that the Obama economic policies are a failure." Cool optimism and hot pessimism on display as the unemployment rate makes a sudden jump. Nervousness at the ballot box too as Obama Democrats in two big states go down to defeat. Gov. Jon Corzine said, "There is some little sadness." Will the election results rattle the health care debate on Capitol Hill? Speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We're right on the brink of passing historic legislation to provide quality, affordable, accessible health care for all Americans." Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "Not one Republican will vote for this bill." And will violence at home -- and abroad -- change the course in Afghanistan? Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "It is not just the U.S. that is being tested in Afghanistan, nor is it just Britain. It is the whole international community." Covering the week: Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, James Barnes of National Journal, Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Fallout from 9/11 and Guantanamo, on Afghanistan, on the Fort Hood shooting and on health care. Tonight on Washington Week. Attorney General Eric Holder said, "After eight years of delay, those allegedly responsible for the attacks of September will finally face justice." Khalid Sheikh Mohammed headed for trial in New York as the Obama administration moves toward closing Guantanamo. Even as the president narrows and expands his choices on Afghanistan. Gen. David Petraeus said, "I think that we are indeed nearing a decision on this very important topic." A decision shadowed by the sacrifice of the war's veterans and of the victims at Fort Hood. Col. John Rossi: Fort Hood has gotten its breath back and we continue to move forward. Meanwhile, Congress leaves town with another explosive issue on its health care plate: abortion. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I expect the bill that will be brought to the floor will ensure that no federal funding for abortion." What are Democrats willing to give up to get a health care bill passed? Covering the week: Pete Williams of NBC News, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Tom Gjelten of National Public Radio, and Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal.

After the turkey and the stuffing, President Obama still has a lot on his plate. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill. We'll digest it all, tonight on Washington Week. The registers are ringing. Mr. Tod Marks of Consumer Reports said, "Now matter how bad the economy is, even though people tell us they're cutting back, they're still going to be spending." But does that mean Americans think the worst is over or will high anxiety about jobs dampen the holiday spirit? And can the president do anything to help?

President Barack Obama said, "I will not rest until businesses are investing again and businesses are hiring again and people have work again." After weeks of briefings and deliberation, the President prepares to reveal his plan for sending more troops to Afghanistan but even some members of his own party are already skeptical. Rep. David Obey (D-WI) said, "On the merits I think it's a mistake to deepen our involvement." Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "The ayes are 60, the nays are 39." And then there's healthcare. As the Senate prepares to debate the Democrats' plan, opponents are hoping to defeat it. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "I don't think Americans really understand the scam that's going on here." Covering these stories these week: David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal, Charles Babington of the Associated Press, and Gloria Borger of CNN.

Ramping up in Afghanistan, answering some questions, raising new ones, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "As commander-in-chief I have determined that it is in our vital national interests to send an additional 30,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan. After 18 months our troops will begin to come home." Question number one, will the president's build-up/drawdown work? Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? Daoud Sultanzy, Member of the Afghan National Assembly said, "In the 262 years of our modern history, we have never been governed, basically. We have been ruled or misruled." And question number four, will an expanded war keep the president's eye off the distressed economy? We'll get to the bottom of these and other issues tonight with the Washington Week roundtable: Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, James Kitfield of National Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Ramping up in Afghanistan, answering some questions, raising new ones, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "As commander-in-chief I have determined that it is in our vital national interests to send an additional 30,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan. After 18 months our troops will begin to come home." Question number one, will the president's build-up/drawdown work? Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) said, "The date for withdrawal sends exactly the wrong message to both our friends and our enemies." Question number two, might it be too much? Sec. of Defense Robert Gates said, "There are no great choices in this situation. There rarely are when you're in war." Question number three? Will Hamid Karzai do his part? Daoud Sultanzy, Member of the Afghan National Assembly said, "In the 262 years of our modern history, we have never been governed, basically. We have been ruled or misruled." And question number four, will an expanded war keep the president's eye off the distressed economy? We'll get to the bottom of these and other issues tonight with the Washington Week roundtable: Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, James Kitfield of National Journal, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

War and peace, cost and consequence, getting to the bottom of it all, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Part of our challenge is reconciling these two seemingly in reconcilable truths: that war is sometimes necessary and war at some level is an expression of human folly." The president's Nobel Peace Prize tightrope-- what does it tell us about where he and we now we stand on the world stage. And how does that widely praised speech help him with all of the other problems on his agenda, chief among them rescuing the economy and reforming healthcare. Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) [Senate Majority Leader] said, "We can't disclose the details of what we've done, but believe me, it's something that's good." Sen. Charles Grassley (R-IA) said, "The last thing you want to think about when the Titanic is sinking is put grandma and more of your family on the boat." The challenges and the opportunities, we examine them all with the reporters covering the week: Jeff Zeleny of the New York Times; Dan Balz of the Washington Post; Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times; and Eamon Javers of Politico.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Crunch time for health care reform, plus Asia, Afghanistan and Sarah, tonight on Washington Week. Yet another big vote looming on health care. Senator Chuck Schumer (D-NY) said, "It's an incredible work. And the momentum has now shifted to us." Sen. Lamar Alexander (R-TN) said, "It's the same turkey you didn't like in August and it's not going to taste any better on Thanksgiving." The Senate Saturday night special. Will Democrats have enough votes? Will the GOP be able to stop them? Congress debates as the administration grapples with foreign policy in Asia. President Barack Obama said, "The United States does not seek to contain China. On the contrary, the rise of a strong and a prosperous China can be a source of strength for the community of nations." And in Afghanistan...Secretary Hillary Clinton said, "There is now a clear window of opportunity for President Karzai and his government to make a new compact with the people of Afghanistan." While on the home front, Sarah Palin turns best selling author. Former Governor Sarah Palin said, "Alaska and Michigan have so much in common with the hunting and the fishing and the hockey moms." But what else does she have in mind? Covering the week: Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, David Sanger of the New York Times, Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, and John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News.

Segment Length: 00:00:00

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.
