Health Care Costs and the Elderly: As the president and Congress wrestle with health care reform, their debate has centered on how to provide health insurance for everyone and how to pay for that. But the president and many others also say the increasing costs of care must come down. Watts Priest: We have a story today about a remarkable man in California. He is a Catholic priest from Ireland who has ministered for 37 years to both African Americans and Latinos in the Watts section of Los Angeles. Is That All There Is: "The secular age is schizophrenic, or better, deeply cross-purposed" and "very far from settling into a comfortable unbelief," according to Canadian scholar Charles Taylor, author of "A Secular Age."

On August 25, 2008, just two months after undergoing surgery for a malignant brain tumor, "The Lion of the Senate" and the Kennedy family's lone male survivor -- Edward M. Kennedy -- surprised attendees with an unscheduled speech at the Democratic National Convention in Denver, Colorado. "As I look ahead, I am strengthened by family and friendship. So many of you have been with me in the happiest days and the hardest days. Together we have known success and seen setbacks, victory and defeat," Kennedy said. The Kennedy story is unlike any other: a saga of ambition, wealth, family loyalty and personal tragedy. From patriarch Joseph Kennedy's rise on Wall Street and frustrations in politics, John Kennedy's march to the White House, Robert Kennedy's near-certain presidential victory, preempted only by his tragic death, through Edward Kennedy's withdrawal from the 1980 Presidential race following the scandal of Chappaquiddick, the family legacy continues to influence politics.

Segment Length: 00:00:00

In this classic 1969 documentary, the Man in Black is captured at his peak, the first of many in a looming roller-coaster career. Fresh on the heels of his "Folsom Prison" album, Cash displays the dark intensity and raw talent that made him a country music star and cultural icon. Director Robert Elfstrom got closer than any other filmmaker to Cash, who is seen performing with his new bride, June Carter Cash; in a rare duet with Bob Dylan; and behind the scenes with friends, family and aspiring young musicians. This program paints an unforgettable portrait that endures beyond the singer's 2003 death.

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

Nearly a decade after the collapse of the Soviet Union, many have forgotten why we fought the Cold War. Applebaum's "The Gulag: A History" is the first book to apply definitive, archival data to expose the Gulag and is the most important work since Alexandr Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago." It is a sobering reminder of the harrowing reality of Stalinist repression. What do we know about the infamous Soviet Gulag and why is it still important today?

At the end of the 18th century, a remarkable group of leaders and philosophers presided over a ferment that would change the world forever. Over 12 turbulent and violent years, reform swept through France, Russia and America. To explore the magnitude of this era, Ben Wattenberg is joined by Jay Winik, author of the best-selling book "The Great Upheaval: America and the Birth of the Modern World, 1788 through 1800." The topic before the house: The Great Upheaval.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

In this classic 1969 documentary, the Man in Black is captured at his peak, the first of many in a looming roller-coaster career. Fresh on the heels of his "Folsom Prison" album, Cash displays the dark intensity and raw talent that made him a country music star and cultural icon. Director Robert Elfstrom got closer than any other filmmaker to Cash, who is seen performing with his new bride, June Carter Cash; in a rare duet with Bob Dylan; and behind the scenes with friends, family and aspiring young musicians. This program paints an unforgettable portrait that endures beyond the singer's 2003 death.

Episcopalians will debate a proposal that would allow churches to conduct same-sex weddings in the six states that have legalized gay marriage. Currently, most mainline denominations do not officially allow same-sex weddings. But the changing legal situation is adding new pressure; Jazz musician Dave Brubeck says, "when I write a piece, a sacred piece, I'm looking hard and trying to discover what I'm about, and what my parents were about, the world is about".

O.B. Date: 9/4/2007 10:00:00 PM
Service: PBS
Format: Documentary
Segment Length: 00:00:00

Los Angeles is now the country's center for apparel manufacturing, but many of its factories bear an eerie resemblance to New York's early 20th-century sweatshops. "Made in L.A." follows the remarkable journey of three Latina immigrants working in L.A.'s garment factories and their struggle for self-empowerment as they wage a three-year battle to bring a major clothing retailer to the negotiating table. This intimate film offers a rare and poignant glimpse into the "other" California, where immigrants in many industries toil long hours for sub-minimum wages, fighting for an opportunity in a new country.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

How is capitalism faring in this time of bailouts, federal takeovers, and a rapid increase in government spending? Is private investment still the force in the marketplace that moves mountains and makes fortunes almost overnight? This week's guest is David Rubenstein, co-founder and managing director of The Carlyle Group, one of the world's largest global investment firms, discussed whether capitalism is in crisis.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

America's Workers: Explore some of the crucial issues facing America's workers and priorities for reform. Topics include challenges faced by younger workers, workplace rules, The Employee Free Choice Act, the living wage movement and more. Sam Tanenhaus on THE DEATH OF CONSERVATISM: Digging deep into the roots and evolution of the American conservative movement, Sam Tanenhaus talks with Bill Moyers about why he believes that conservatism is dead and how it might yet come back to life. Tanenhaus is the editor of both The New York Times Book Review and the Week in Review section of the TIMES. State of the Unions with Bill Fletcher and Michael Zweig: With public support for labor unions at its lowest point in 70 years, Bill Moyers talks with experts Bill Fletcher, co-author of "Solidarity Divided: The Crisis in Organized Labor and a New Path Toward Social Justice" and Michael Zweig, director of the Center for the Study of Working Class Life at SUNY Stony Brook, about the state of organized labor. The JOURNAL on Working America: View a collection of JOURNAL reports on the effect of the downturn on the homefront.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." On the Hill, Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke pushes the reset button. Ben Bernanke [Federal Reserve Chairman] said, "We have a much better situation today than we would have if we had seen a collapse of the global financial system last October." Is anybody listening? Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Michael Fletcher of the Washington Post, Marylyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

This program tells the history of one of America's most famous passenger trains that operated between 1937 and 1971. The Daylight (a Southern Pacific train) ran between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Part of that scenic route was along 113 miles of the Pacific Ocean coast. The train was called "the most beautiful train in the world" because of its striking colors - red, orange and black - that represented the colors of California. Many of the interviews are with people who were passengers, train crewmembers, or managers of the railroad. Newly discovered 16mm professional color film footage was used to showcase the streamlined steam locomotive designed specifically for the train in 1937. The program is hosted by Michael Gross and has been entered for a regional EMMY.

He was a beloved American icon. Dean Martin - the coolest, the most debonair, the smoothest entertainer of the 1960s and 70s. This one-hour special is a loving and moving tribute to one of the most admired and multi-talented performers the world has ever known. While one of America's top vocalists, Dino was also an accomplished, serious film actor, appearing in The Young Lions, Toys In The Attic, Some Came Running, Rio Bravo, and many others. And with his Martin & Lewis comedy background, he was also adept at light comedy in films like Ocean's Eleven, What A Way To Go, and Ten Thousand Bedrooms. At the same time, Dean's NBC variety hour, The Dean Martin Show, ran for nine highly-rated years and spawned his equally well-watched Celebrity Roast specials. Dean Martin - The One & Only takes us through his entire life and career, from growing up in Steubenville, Ohio (where he was born Dino Paul Crochetti) through his early days as first a boxer, and then a handsome young crooner, then his teaming with comedian Jerry Lewis in movies, television, and on stage. The breakup of Martin & Lewis was followed by Dean's growth as a huge record seller and movie star, followed by his teaming with Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis, Jr., Peter Lawford, and Joey Bishop in the legendary Rat Pack of movies and the Las Vegas stage. The film features performance clips from Martin & Lewis' comedy career, and we also see their live television reunion, after many years of not speaking to each other. Interview segments include Dean himself, Jerry Lewis, Dean's wife Jeannie and daughter Deana, his producer Greg Garrison, and William Schoell, his biographer. Songs included in order: That's Amore; Volare; Memories Are Made of This; Eveybody Loves Somebody Sometime; An Evening in Roma; My Marie; Mambo Italiano; O Sole Mio.

This one-hour documentary is a vintage tour of the transformation of HersheyPark from its beginnings as a small picnic grove to its growth into a world-famous attraction. Using archival film footage, historic photographs, home movies and first-hand accounts, this program also presents a sweet ride through the chocolate factory, and the town of Hershey, enveloped in the smell of chocolate, with candy-shaped street lights that look good enough to eat. It traces the park's origins to the turn of the century, when chocolate magnate Milton S. Hershey wanted to provide his employees with a place where they could come with their families and indulge in a Sunday picnic or a stroll by the stream. After building a merry-go-round, which on its first day earned $87 at five cents a ride, Hershey knew he was on to something. The program also looks at the park today and the updates that were made in honor of its 90th anniversary.

On June 5, 1944, thousands of ships amassed off the coast of Normandy, France in preparation for the largest air, land, and amphibious assault ever recorded in history. On June 6, 1944, General Eisenhower gave the order for allied troops to storm the coast of Normandy on D-Day. Under the command of General Omar Bradley, thousands of American troops landed that fateful day on Omaha and Utah Beach. This is a moving, first hand account from those who survived D-Day. Now for the first time hear the stories from those who were there over 60 years ago as they retell (many for the first time) what it was like to land on Omaha Beach as a young, 18 or 19 year old. This was the first time in combat for many of these young men.

Iwo Jima - which means, "Sulphur Island." This tiny pork chop shaped Pacific island measuring only 8 1/2 square miles is 1/3 the size of Manhattan. Although small and remote, in 1945, Iwo Jima was an extremely costly piece of real estate for both Japanese and American fighting forces. Lying just 660 miles south of Japan, this tiny fortress would give the U.S. a forward airbase at the front door of the Japanese homeland. Iwo Jima was a landmark of courage and individual valor - a battle the likes of which will never be seen again.

ON A WIND AND A PRAYER is the story of one of the most bizarre, obscure and forgotten stories of World War II - attacks on America from balloon bombs launched from Japan. Never before in the history of flight had the North American continent been under attacks launched directly from an enemy shore, yet most Americans and Canadians do not know such attacks occurred. One bomb took the lives of six Americans, the only victims of World War II on American soil. Apart from that they caused only minor damage, but their potential for destruction, fire and widespread public panic was awesome. Today it is believed that as many as 600 balloon bombs are still lying undiscovered in remote regions of the North American continent, possibly still explosive. The documentary uses fascinating archival photos, animation, dramatic re-enactments and expert testimony to present an in-depth look at the Japanese Fugo Balloon Bomb Offensive and to highlight its place in World War II history.

SAMMY DAVIS JR. - ONE COOL CAT will make very effective programming for your February Black History Month schedule. There may be other Sammy Davis programs available to you, but this is the one you'll be proud to have in your schedule. Born and raised in the classic vaudeville tradition, Sammy was the complete package: dancer, singer, impressionist, actor, comedian, and storyteller. Throughout his illustrious career, he was recognized as "The World's Greatest Living Entertainer." A black performer in a time of segregation and extreme prejudice, Sammy used his fierce drive and limitless talent to break through the barriers of race. Throughout his public life, he endured insults regarding his race and religion, several death threats, and a horrible car accident that resulted in the loss of one of his eyes. Privately, he would forever battle the demons of a childhood lost to the stage and of a loneliness born out of a constant stream of "next towns" and faceless crowds. Performances include "What Kind of Fool Am I," "Candy Man," "Come With Me," "Mr Bojangles," and many more. It is a not only a warm and affectionate special by itself, but with Dean Martin-The One & Only and Frank Sinatra-The Man & The Myth, it completes the Executive Program Services' trio of Rat Pack biographies. Sammy Davis Jr. - One Cool Cat is a detailed and thoroughly entertaining look at the life and career of this American entertainment icon through the use of rarely seen archival performance footage and photos. The name Sammy Davis, Jr. conjures up many images in our collective mind. But if there was one thing this entertainer came to symbolize for us it was the way he went about it all. Sammy Davis, Jr. will forever be the icon of "cool."

SPITFIRE: BIRTH OF A LEGEND tells the story of the fighter plane that won the Battle of Britain and saved that nation in World War II. The brilliant engineer R.J. Mitchell's design for a "killer fighter" encountered opposition and problems in its early days, but the Spitfire went on to earn itself the distinction of becoming the symbol of Britain's determination to defend itself. The story of this legendary plane is told chronologically as the war progressed and the pressure was on to get the planes manufactured. The design was continually upgraded to meet the demands put on the aircraft during the conflict.

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." On the Hill, Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke pushes the reset button. Ben Bernanke [Federal Reserve Chairman] said, "We have a much better situation today than we would have if we had seen a collapse of the global financial system last October." Is anybody listening? Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Michael Fletcher of the Washington Post, Marylyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Covering these stories this week: Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times, Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, Janine Zacharia of Bloomberg News, and James Kitfield of National Journal.

Los Angeles is now the country's center for apparel manufacturing, but many of its factories bear an eerie resemblance to New York's early 20th-century sweatshops. "Made in L.A." follows the remarkable journey of three Latina immigrants working in L.A.'s garment factories and their struggle for self-empowerment as they wage a three-year battle to bring a major clothing retailer to the negotiating table. This intimate film offers a rare and poignant glimpse into the "other" California, where immigrants in many industries toil long hours for sub-minimum wages, fighting for an opportunity in a new country.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

This episode features three great lodges and a smaller mountain chalet in Glacier National Park, high in the mountains of northwestern Montana. Glacier Park Lodge, with its massive three-story atrium, is modeled after early Christian basilicas in Rome. Lake McDonald Lodge, smaller and more intimate, is like a rustic hunting lodge nestled on the edge of a deep-blue glacial lake. The most Alpine of the park's lodges, Many Glacier Lodge, is perched in a glacial cirque immediately below three glaciers and two walls of jagged rock. Newly re-opened after years of renovation, the elaborate hiking huts at Sperry Chalet reward those on horseback or hardy trekkers at the end of daylong backcountry hikes.

Science fiction writers have come up with strange depictions of alien life, but nothing to rival creatures with a beak like a parrot, no bones, three hearts, blue blood, skin that can change colors and arms growing out of lips. Scientists call them cephalopods (squid and octopus); they inhabit a world where cannibalism is a daily practice, mating can involve amputation, trickery is rife and size means everything - and nothing. Viewers follow a cameraman into the abyss and share his adventures with the planet's most cryptic and clever monsters.

From the beginning, honeybees have played a key role in human survival. Most fruit trees and vegetable species are entirely dependent on bees to produce, and there's no artificial replacement for natural pollination. But the bees are disappearing. Massive die-offs, first reported in November 2006, are now the subject of international emergency research as scientists race to discover the cause of this ecological disaster. Could it be a disease? Is it caused by pesticides, genetically modified foods or radiation from cell phone towers? Whatever is happening, we must solve the mystery and correct the problem soon or face unimaginable consequences.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

On August 25, 2008, just two months after undergoing surgery for a malignant brain tumor, "The Lion of the Senate" and the Kennedy family's lone male survivor -- Edward M. Kennedy -- surprised attendees with an unscheduled speech at the Democratic National Convention in Denver, Colorado. "As I look ahead, I am strengthened by family and friendship. So many of you have been with me in the happiest days and the hardest days. Together we have known success and seen setbacks, victory and defeat,"

Kennedy said. The Kennedy story is unlike any other: a saga of ambition, wealth, family loyalty and personal tragedy. From patriarch Joseph Kennedy's rise on Wall Street and frustrations in politics, John Kennedy's march to the White House, Robert Kennedy's near-certain presidential victory, preempted only by his tragic death, through Edward Kennedy's withdrawal from the 1980 Presidential race following the scandal of Chappaquiddick, the family legacy continues to influence politics.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Episcopalians will debate a proposal that would allow churches to conduct same-sex weddings in the six states that have legalized gay marriage. Currently, most mainline denominations do not officially allow same-sex weddings. But the changing legal situation is adding new pressure; Jazz musician Dave Brubeck says, "when I write a piece, a sacred piece, I'm looking hard and trying to discover what I'm about, and what my parents were about, the world is about".

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Faith and the Brain: Scientists have long found an association between relaxation and health. Now, there is new evidence that meditation and other spiritual practices have a beneficial and measurable effect on the brain. In a new book, "How God Changes Your Brain," Andrew Newberg reports that meditation improves memory and reduces stress and that the kind of God you worship can affect the structure of your brain.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." On the Hill, Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke pushes the reset button. Ben Bernanke [Federal Reserve Chairman] said, "We have a much better situation today than we would have if we had seen a collapse of the global financial system last October." Is anybody listening? Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Michael Fletcher of the Washington Post, Marylyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. A special program this week--your questions, our answers, all on the hot topic of this hot month: health care, tonight, on Washington Week. The questions are coming fast and furious. One man asked, "Why are we inviting 50 million illegal invaders, who broke federal law, into our health care system?" Then, a woman asked, "Why do you continue to support a Nazi policy as Obama has expressly supported this policy, why are you supporting it?" Rep. Barney Frank (D-MA) said, "On what planet do you spend most of your time?" But who do you trust to give you the answers. The president is trying. Pres. Barack Obama said, "We're going to have to cut through a lot of nonsense out there, a lot of absurd claims that have been made about health insurance reform." But is it too little too late? One woman said, "Call your senator. Stop the government takeover of health care." We asked for your questions and hundreds of you responded. Tonight's answers come from the reporters who have been covering the story--Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal, and Jeanne Cummings of Politico.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

On the world stage--nuclear threats in Iran, terror threats at home, turning points in Afghanistan, and the health care standoff on Capitol Hill, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Those who used to chastise America for acting alone in the world cannot now stand by and wait for America to solve the world's problems alone." And what problems they are. World leaders reveal Iran's new nuclear ambitions. Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "America, the United Kingdom, and France are at one. Iran's nuclear program is the most urgent proliferation challenge that the world faces today." Generals and bureaucrats search for common ground in the Afghanistan war debate. President Obama stated, "The most important thing I wanted was us to refocus on why we're there." And a new domestic terror plot reveals al Qaeda's continuing influence. Meanwhile, lawmakers on Capitol Hill duel to a standoff on health care reform. Sen. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "Mr. Chairman, let me just complete my thought here." Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "In about one minute, you'll complete your thought. Okay, we've got..." Sen. Kyl then stated, "I'll complete my thought, and then make another point, Mr. Chairman." "It's just you're delaying, Senator, and we just have to move on," Sen. Baucus said. Sen. Kyl said, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman, I am not delaying. I'm making an extremely important point." Sen. Baucus, "It's a very, very important point, but you're also delaying." Bad blood everywhere. We look at why with the reporters covering the week Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, Nancy Youssef of McClatchy newspapers, Pete Williams of NBC News, and Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine.

Episcopalians will debate a proposal that would allow churches to conduct same-sex weddings in the six states that have legalized gay marriage. Currently, most mainline denominations do not officially allow same-sex weddings. But the changing legal situation is adding new pressure; Jazz musician Dave Brubeck says, "when I write a piece, a sacred piece, I'm looking hard and trying to discover what I'm about, and what my parents were about, the world is about".

Los Angeles is now the country's center for apparel manufacturing, but many of its factories bear an eerie resemblance to New York's early 20th-century sweatshops. "Made in L.A." follows the remarkable journey of three Latina immigrants working in L.A.'s garment factories and their struggle for self-empowerment as they wage a three-year battle to bring a major clothing retailer to the negotiating table. This intimate film offers a rare and poignant glimpse into the "other" California, where immigrants in many industries toil long hours for sub-minimum wages, fighting for an opportunity in a new country.

Segment Length: 00:00:00

Los Angeles is now the country's center for apparel manufacturing, but many of its factories bear an eerie resemblance to New York's early 20th-century sweatshops. "Made in L.A." follows the remarkable journey of three Latina immigrants working in L.A.'s garment factories and their struggle for self-empowerment as they wage a three-year battle to bring a major clothing retailer to the negotiating table. This intimate film offers a rare and poignant glimpse into the "other" California, where immigrants in many industries toil long hours for sub-minimum wages, fighting for an opportunity in a new country.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Los Angeles is now the country's center for apparel manufacturing, but many of its factories bear an eerie resemblance to New York's early 20th-century sweatshops. "Made in L.A." follows the remarkable journey of three Latina immigrants working in L.A.'s garment factories and their struggle for self-empowerment as they wage a three-year battle to bring a major clothing retailer to the negotiating table. This intimate film offers a rare and poignant glimpse into the "other" California, where immigrants in many industries toil long hours for sub-minimum wages, fighting for an opportunity in a new country.

Health Care Costs and the Elderly: As the president and Congress wrestle with health care reform, their debate has centered on how to provide health insurance for everyone and how to pay for that. But the president and many others also say the increasing costs of care must come down. Watts Priest: We have a story today about a remarkable man in California. He is a Catholic priest from Ireland who has ministered for 37 years to both African Americans and Latinos in the Watts section of Los Angeles. Is That All There Is: "The secular age is schizophrenic, or better, deeply cross-purposed" and "very far from settling into a comfortable unbelief," according to Canadian scholar Charles Taylor, author of "A Secular Age."

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." On the Hill, Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke pushes the reset button. Ben Bernanke [Federal Reserve Chairman] said, "We have a much better situation today than we would have if we had seen a collapse of the global financial system last October." Is anybody listening? Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Michael Fletcher of the Washington Post, Marylyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns.

Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

On August 25, 2008, just two months after undergoing surgery for a malignant brain tumor, "The Lion of the Senate" and the Kennedy family's lone male survivor -- Edward M. Kennedy -- surprised attendees with an unscheduled speech at the Democratic National Convention in Denver, Colorado. "As I look ahead, I am strengthened by family and friendship. So many of you have been with me in the happiest days and the hardest days. Together we have known success and seen setbacks, victory and defeat," Kennedy said. The Kennedy story is unlike any other: a saga of ambition, wealth, family loyalty and personal tragedy. From patriarch Joseph Kennedy's rise on Wall Street and frustrations in politics, John Kennedy's march to the White House, Robert Kennedy's near-certain presidential victory, preempted only by his tragic death, through Edward Kennedy's withdrawal from the 1980 Presidential race following the scandal of Chappaquiddick, the family legacy continues to influence politics.

Episcopalians will debate a proposal that would allow churches to conduct same-sex weddings in the six states that have legalized gay marriage. Currently, most mainline denominations do not officially allow same-sex weddings. But the changing legal situation is adding new pressure; Jazz musician Dave Brubeck says, "when I write a piece, a sacred piece, I'm looking hard and trying to discover what I'm about, and what my parents were about, the world is about".

Nearly a decade after the collapse of the Soviet Union, many have forgotten why we fought the Cold War. Applebaum's "The Gulag: A History" is the first book to apply definitive, archival data to expose the Gulag and is the most important work since Alexandr Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago." It is a sobering reminder of the harrowing reality of Stalinist repression. What do we know about the infamous Soviet Gulag and why is it still important today?

At the end of the 18th century, a remarkable group of leaders and philosophers presided over a ferment that would change the world forever. Over 12 turbulent and violent years, reform swept through France, Russia and America. To explore the magnitude of this era, Ben Wattenberg is joined by Jay Winik, author of the best-selling book "The Great Upheaval: America and the Birth of the Modern World, 1788 through 1800." The topic before the house: The Great Upheaval.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

The professor, the policeman, and the president: did Barack Obama step on his own healthcare message, tonight on Washington Week. The first black president steps into his first racial controversy. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The Cambridge Police acted stupidly in arresting somebody when there was already proof that they were in their own home." And then, attempts to step away. Pres. Obama later stated, "There was an overreaction in pulling Professor Gates out of his home to the station. I also continue to believe, based on what I heard, that Professor Gates probably overreacted as well." The uproar threatened to overwhelm the administration's health-care push. A week of interviews, Rose Garden announcements, news conference and rallies. Pres. Obama said, "This nation cannot afford a future where our government spends more on Medicare and Medicaid than we spend on anything else. This is the price of doing nothing about health care." But some remain unmoved. Rep. Eric Cantor (R-VA) said, "This administration, this president has no one else to blame. They have no straw man, they have no press conferences left." On the Hill, Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke pushes the reset button. Ben Bernanke [Federal Reserve Chairman] said, "We have a much better situation today than we would have if we had seen a collapse of the global financial system last October." Is anybody listening? Covering the week: Peter Baker of the New York Times, Michael Fletcher of the Washington Post, Marylyn Werber Serafini of National Journal, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." A special program this week--your questions, our answers, all on the hot topic of this hot month: health care, tonight, on Washington Week. The questions are coming fast and furious. One man asked, "Why are we inviting 50 million illegal invaders, who broke federal law, into our health care system?" Then, a woman asked, "Why do you continue to support a Nazi policy as Obama has expressly supported this policy, why are you supporting it?" Rep. Barney Frank (D-MA) said, "On what planet do you spend most of your time?" But who do you trust to give you the answers. The president is trying. Pres. Barack Obama said, "We're going to have to cut through a lot of nonsense out there, a lot of absurd claims that have been made about health insurance reform." But is it too little too late? One woman said, "Call your senator. Stop the government takeover of health care." We asked for your questions and hundreds of you responded. Tonight's answers come from the reporters who have been covering the story--Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal, and Jeanne Cummings of Politico.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

On the world stage--nuclear threats in Iran, terror threats at home, turning points in Afghanistan, and the health care standoff on Capitol Hill, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Those who used to chastise America for acting alone in the world cannot now stand by and wait for America to solve the world's problems alone." And what problems they are. World leaders reveal Iran's new nuclear ambitions. Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "America, the United Kingdom, and France are at one. Iran's nuclear program is the most urgent proliferation challenge that the world faces today." Generals and bureaucrats search for common ground in the Afghanistan war debate. President Obama stated, "The most important thing I wanted was us to refocus on why we're there." And a new domestic terror plot reveals al Qaeda's continuing influence. Meanwhile, lawmakers on Capitol Hill duel to a standoff on health care reform. Sen. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "Mr. Chairman, let me just complete my thought here." Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "In about one minute, you'll complete your thought. Okay, we've got..." Sen. Kyl then stated, "I'll complete my thought, and then make another point, Mr. Chairman." "It's just you're delaying, Senator, and we just have to move on," Sen. Baucus said. Sen. Kyl said, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman, I am not delaying. I'm making an extremely important point." Sen. Baucus, "It's a very, very important point, but you're also delaying." Bad blood everywhere. We look at why with the reporters covering the week Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, Nancy Youssef of McClatchy newspapers, Pete Williams of NBC News, and Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine.

The vast and remote Brooks Range, a mountain chain stretching across northern Alaska and into Canada's Yukon Territory, inspired a national wilderness-protection movement with its pristine vistas and habitats teeming with wildlife. Narrated by award-winning actress Glenn Close, GATES OF THE ARCTIC journeys to this seldom-seen natural treasure, one of the most remote and pristine places in North America, to explore the region's inhabitants, culture and history. The few travelers fortunate enough to visit the Brooks Range share their experiences, while stunning high-definition photography captures several brief and unexpected encounters some of region's diverse animal life and a few of its exceptional local characters.

Through the magic of modern technology, Elvis Presley is reunited with his original TCB band and back-up singers 25 years after his death, for a unique concert special, featuring Elvis from selected concerts including the Aloha From Hawaii satellite special. This one-of-a-kind concert event has stirred audiences around the world and ignited a passion for the King in a whole new generation of music lovers. ELVIS LIVES uses the technique where a recorded past performance is integrated in real time with supporting musicians and singers live on stage. This technique has been used before, but only one song was performed and not before a live audience. Therefore, it is truly a marvel that an entire live concert was performed in this manner. The Elvis Lives concert was staged in August of 2003 at The Pyramid in Memphis, TN in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of Elvis's death.

Episcopalians will debate a proposal that would allow churches to conduct same-sex weddings in the six states that have legalized gay marriage. Currently, most mainline denominations do not officially allow same-sex weddings. But the changing legal situation is adding new pressure; Jazz musician Dave Brubeck says, "when I write a piece, a sacred piece, I'm looking hard and trying to discover what I'm about, and what my parents were about, the world is about".

Even though America has elected its first black president, efforts toward racial integration are often still fraught with difficulties, not least in churches where it's been said that 11 o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week. Lucky Severson reports; Interfaith marriage has become commonplace in this country. But, for a long time, when it came to the wedding ceremony, many couples felt they had to pick just one religious tradition, the bride's or the groom's--or none at all. Today, brides and grooms are finding new ways to incorporate both their religions. Betty Rollin has our story.

Faith and the Brain: Scientists have long found an association between relaxation and health. Now, there is new evidence that meditation and other spiritual practices have a beneficial and measurable effect on the brain. In a new book, "How God Changes Your Brain," Andrew Newberg reports that meditation improves memory and reduces stress and that the kind of God you worship can affect the structure of your brain.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC News, Dan Balz of the "Washington Post," Naftali Bendavid of the "Wall Street" Journal, and Joan Biskupic of "USA Today".

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Covering the week: Joan Biskupic of USA Today, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Jeanne Cummings of Politico, and Mark Mazzetti of the New York Times.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the Secretary of State. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Covering these stories this week: Janet Hook of the Los Angeles Times, Michael Duffy of Time Magazine, Janine Zacharia of Bloomberg News, and James Kitfield of National Journal.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

On the world stage--nuclear threats in Iran, terror threats at home, turning points in Afghanistan, and the health care standoff on Capitol Hill, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Those who used to chastise America for acting alone in the world cannot now stand by and wait for America to solve the world's problems alone." And what problems they are. World leaders reveal Iran's new nuclear ambitions. Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "America, the United Kingdom, and France are at one. Iran's nuclear program is the most urgent proliferation challenge that the world faces today." Generals and bureaucrats search for common ground in the Afghanistan war debate. President Obama stated, "The most important thing I wanted was us to refocus on why we're there." And a new domestic terror plot reveals al Qaeda's continuing influence. Meanwhile, lawmakers on Capitol Hill duel to a standoff on health care reform. Sen. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "Mr. Chairman, let me just complete my thought here." Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "In about one minute, you'll complete your thought. Okay, we've got..." Sen. Kyl then stated, "I'll complete my thought, and then make another point, Mr. Chairman." "It's just you're delaying, Senator, and we just have to move on," Sen. Baucus said. Sen. Kyl said, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman, I am not delaying. I'm making an extremely important point." Sen. Baucus, "It's a very, very important point, but you're also delaying." Bad blood everywhere. We look at why with the reporters covering the week Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, Nancy Youssef of McClatchy newspapers, Pete Williams of NBC News, and Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine.

English-language companion to the Spanish-language series LOS NINOS EN SU CASA. Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

Both shows are designed for parents or anyone else who takes care of young kids: grandparents, nannies, babysitters and home daycare providers. The shows cover subjects such as: tantrums, literacy, preventing obesity, speech and language delays. These series combine an entertainment format -- the daytime talk/demonstration show -- with solid educational information on how young children learn, and what adults need to know to help kids be prepared for kindergarten and beyond.

Spafford Children's Center in Jerusalem, which helps Palestinian Muslim and Christian children deal with trauma, is examined. Also, Dr. Joseph Tate, an obstetrician and Orthodox Jew, discusses faith and Vaginal Birth after C-section deliveries. Last, Rabbi Lawrence Troster, a religious environmental leader, says it's good to use bar mitzvahs and bat mitzvahs to inculcate environmental values, "Protecting the Earth is a mitzvah, and I mean that in the sense of a commandment. We are required to take care of creation. It's not a choice."
