ISSUES OF CONCERN TO LUBBOCK
ADDRESSED IN RESPONSIVE PROGRAMMING IN THE 3rd QUARTER, 2023

1. Community Awareness/Image: Local Non-Profit organizations need promotion and help with publicity for their events with the basic who, what, where & when these events and fundraisers make Lubbock a better city to live in and help the quality of life in our community.
2. Health: There is a constant need for health awareness and often times health fairs take place that provide opportunities for free or reduced fee checkups or education. Education at health fairs can also help prevent future problems and reduce the need for public assistance at a higher cost to taxpayers.
3. Parenting / Child Involvement: Learning how to parent and issues that adults face when raising children. Lubbock organizations often have events where parents and children interact to help form a stronger bond.
4. Education: The community can benefit from educational opportunities, from museum activities to workshops. Plus, the Lubbock Independent School District Office of Communication and Community Relations shares information with parents about school activities, events to early dismissals.
5. Hispanic Issues: Retaining language, music along with teaching the culture and interaction with others and equal representations are issues our Hispanic community faces daily.
6. Exercise: With the United States Obesity Rate at an all-time high it is important to discuss exercise.
7. News/Weather: Local and National News is always of an importance to the listener as is the weather conditions.

8. Financial:

With Summer Heat here we'd like to remind you on the importance of double checking the inside of your car before exiting.
Hi this is Chismosa and Cucuy from Magic Mornings.
It's important for parents to be mindful of the heat and how to protect themselves and their children.
Over the past 25years, more than 940 children have died of heatstroke, because they were left or became trapped in a hot car.
Children are more vulnerable to heatstroke because their bodies heat up 3 times faster than adult's.
If your a bystander and you see a child alone in a car, call 911 immediately.

Motor vehicle crashes are a leading cause of death among children. While most people believe their children are properly buckled up, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration points out that 46% of all car seats are misused. The best way to keep young children safe in your vehicle is to make sure they're properly buckled up in a car seat. That means selecting a car seat that's appropriate for a child's age and size and installing it correctly. TXDot's free safety seat inspections are available throughout the year.

CHCL has some summer safety tips:

UV Safety: UV is the root cause of most skin cancers and the public needs to take precautions. American Academy of Dermatology recommend the public take these precautions: Seek shade when appropriate, wear sun protective clothing and apply a broad spectrum water resistant sunscreen with an SPF of 30 or higher.

Mosquitos and Ticks: Use insect repellents containing DEET, consider staying indoors at dusk and dawn, when mosquitoes are most active. Wear light colored clothing to make it easier to see tiny insects. Get rid of mosquito breeding sites by emptying sources of standing water outside of the home.

Extreme Heat: You need to drink enough water to prevent heat illness.

Avoid sugary, caffeinated and alcoholic drinks.

Stay safe and have a fun summer. To schedule an appointment please call CHCL at 806.765.2611 or visit www.chclubbock.com

Expired, unused or unwanted medications pose dangers, even if they are locked up. In an ongoing effort to help local residents properly dispose of their medications, the Texas Panhandle Poison Center (TPPC), managed by the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC) Jerry H. Hodge School of Pharmacy, will host Lubbock's Fall Medication Cleanout event 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 23 (Saturday) at the Texas Tech Physicians Medical Pavilion, 3601 Fourth St.

Medication Cleanout employs a drive-thru, drop-off format which allows residents to conveniently dispose of their medications without leaving their cars. The program also provides disposal services for syringes and sharps. Yard signs will be posted to help drivers locate the drive-thru path.

Medications should be left in their original containers. Because of environmental restrictions, only medications from households can be accepted. Medications from clinics, pharmacies and other businesses are not allowed.

A new study identified eight habits that can add over TWO DECADES to your life if you adopt them all by age 40 . . . 24 years for men, and 21 years for women.

You're already doing a few of them, hopefully. 24 is just the max compared to someone who does none of them.

Here are the eight things you need to do . . .

1. Exercise.
2. Don't get hooked on opioids or pain pills.
3. Don't smoke.
4. Manage your stress.
5. Eat a mostly plant-based diet.
6. Avoid binge drinking.
7. Get enough sleep.
8. Have friends, and maintain good social relationships.

There's a new study out on how irregular sleep schedules can have negative consequences on your gut bacteria, which can lead to obesity, inflammation, and heart problems.

The researchers found that even a 90-minute difference in the mid-point of your sleep timing can impact your gut. That includes staying up late a couple times a week, and sleeping in a couple hours on the weekends.

Of course, what you eat and drink has a big impact on your gut . . . but the scientists say disruptions to your internal clock also play a significant role.

One researcher says, "Maintaining regular sleep patterns . . . so when we go to bed and when we wake each day . . . is an easily adjustable lifestyle behavior we can all do, that may impact your health . . . for the better."

"The New York Times" did a big write-up on a hot new term . . . "SCREEN APNEA."

It's like sleep apnea, where you stop breathing in your sleep. Except it happens when you're too focused on screens.

You don't stop breathing altogether. But you might sometimes be holding your breath without realizing it, or just taking shallower breaths.

A Microsoft exec named Linda Stone realized she was doing it in 2007, and coined the term "email apnea." But it doesn't just apply to email, so "screen apnea" is the new term.

She tracked 200 other people's breathing while they checked their email, and found 80% sometimes held their breath, or altered their breathing.

It's part of our body's stress response to any sort of stimuli. Our nervous system kicks into gear, just in case there's a threat. Then our body responds by slowing our breathing to help us focus.

Cats do it too when they're stalking a bird. Right before they pounce, they tend to freeze and hold their breath. And the same thing happens when we get an email, text, or Slack message.

In other words, we're constantly overstimulated. And when that happens, we tend to get jumpy.

When it happens too much, it sends our body into a, quote, "chronic state of threat" that leaves us feeling exhausted and drained every day.

Here's a trick that might help though: If you catch yourself holding your breath, try SIGHING out loud. Studies show it might help reset your breathing, and get you to start taking deeper breaths again.

KXTQ-FM Magic Morning Show

Date: August 28, 2023

Time: 8:05 AM

Duration: 1 minute

If you want to be the best version of yourself, you have to work at it. That's according to a "peak performance" coach named Greg Harden, whose clients include Tom Brady and Michael Phelps.

He just wrote a book that came out this month called "Stay Sane in an Insane World: How to Control the Controllables and Thrive". Here are his top six tips for leveling up . . .

1. Discover the power of breathing. He says it sounds simple, but it's underrated. Start by taking five deep, slow breaths. Breathe in and hold. Then as you exhale, think about letting go of all your stress and anxiety.
  2. Identify what's working, and what's not. How do you spend your time? Who are you spending it with? And are those things building you up, or sabotaging you? But also be conscious of how you're getting in your OWN way.
  3. Give 100%, 100% of the time. Make that mindset your "default mode," including when you're doing stuff you don't like. If you can get to that point, then even your worst day will be better than the average person's best day.
  4. Master yourself. He says your goal should be to "become the world's greatest expert on one subject" . . . you. That means being critical, but also being your own best friend.
  5. Decide to change. Being able to pivot and make changes is why we're unique and amazing. Quote, "Human beings can decide to shift and change, to reinvent themselves, to discover a whole new approach to their lives."
- In other words, you're in control. But only if you decide to be.
- Tom Brady's favorite mantra he got from him was, "If it is to be, it is up to me."
6. Realize it's perfectly okay to not be perfect. Give 100% always, but never expect perfection. And remind yourself that your job is what you do, not who you are. He says he even told Tom Brady, "You're more than football."

A poll asked parents AND teachers what their first thought is each morning during the school year. The most common answer from both was, "I have SO much to do today."

Half of parents and teachers don't always get enough sleep once school starts up, and "me time" takes a hit too. The average parent only gets 1 hour and 16 minutes of it at the end of each day. For teachers, 1 hour and 12 minutes.

The poll also asked parents to name the most common MISTAKES they've made while getting their kids ready for school.

1. Forgetting to pack them a lunch.
  2. Oversleeping and running late.
  3. Forgetting to feed them breakfast.
  4. Dressing them in a mismatched outfit.
  5. Giving them the wrong lunch.
  6. Giving them the wrong backpack.
  7. Forgetting to pack specific school materials they need that day.
  8. Forgetting to pack extracurricular stuff, like sports equipment.

For families checking items off of their back-to-school list, Lubbock ISD is here to help! The district is hosting the fourth-annual Drive-Thru Registration event on Thursday, July 27 from 7 a.m. - 7 p.m. at Monterey High School on 50th St. and Indiana Ave. to assist families with registration for the 2023-2024 school year.

District staff will be available to help families with the online registration process for new and existing families, required documentation, and answer questions about the upcoming school year. Interpretation services will be provided for Spanish-speaking and deaf or hard of hearing parents, guardians, and students.

Limited quantities of free school supplies are also available.

Why register now? Online registration eliminates the need for cumbersome paper enrollment packets and makes the process faster and more convenient. Registering early ensures your child's schedule or classroom placement is ready for them on the first day of school. Even if you've been attending school in Lubbock ISD, it's your RSVP for the new school year!

For families unable to attend Drive-Thru Registration, the Lubbock ISD Help Desk is available to help with registration questions at 806-219-0190.

A new study identified eight habits that can add over TWO DECADES to your life if you adopt them all by age 40 . . . 24 years for men, and 21 years for women.

You're already doing a few of them, hopefully. 24 is just the max compared to someone who does none of them.

Here are the eight things you need to do . . .

1. Exercise.
2. Don't get hooked on opioids or pain pills.
3. Don't smoke.
4. Manage your stress.
5. Eat a mostly plant-based diet.

6. Avoid binge drinking.
  7. Get enough sleep.
  8. Have friends, and maintain good social relationships.

A study may have found the two exercises that lower blood pressure the best. And the good news is, they require NO movement. Until now, we thought aerobic exercises like running or cycling were best. And those ARE still good options. But according to the study, the best exercises for blood pressure might be PLANKS and WALL SQUATS. Planks are when you're in a push-up position but on your elbows, and you hold it for a while. Wall squats or "wall sits" are when you squat down with your back against a wall. If you've never done them, they're no cakewalk. But if you hate running, they might be a good option. In general, our blood pressure is supposed to be 120 over 80, or lower. The study found doing planks and wall squats regularly can help bring down that top number by around 8, and your bottom number by around 4. (CCCU / CNN)

A trial date is set for the federal election interference case of former President Trump.

US District Judge Tanya Chutkan ordered the trial to begin on March 4th of next year.

Prosecutors wanted it in January... Trump's team wanted it in April 2026. This date falls in the middle of the Republican Presidential Primaries, and one day before "Super Tuesday." Trump is also scheduled to stand trial on March 25th for a hush money case in New York... then again... May 20th for a case involving his handling of classified documents. No trial date has been set at this point... for Trump's Georgia elections case.

Trump says the March 4th trial date amounts to election interference from the judge.

Since a good chunk of the country is experiencing sweltering temperatures, here are four tips to boost your air conditioner's performance in a heat wave.

1. Don't mess with the thermostat. Set it at the temp you want and leave it alone. Setting it lower to try to cool things down faster is inefficient.
2. Clean the filters and coils. Dirty filters impede air flow, and dusty coils make it harder for the unit to cool your house. Basic maintenance goes a long way.
3. Turn off heat-producing appliances. During the hottest part of the day, turn off anything that produces heat, like stoves, dishwashers, and lights.
4. Run a ceiling fan. Having the breeze blowing on you will help cool you down faster.
