CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 1, 2015	10:30 PM	:30	FACEBOOK AIMS TO FIND MISSING KIDS Facebook is rolling out a new tool that it hopes will make it easier for police to find lost and kidnapped children. The social media giant on Tuesday announced a new plan to post Amber Alerts for missing children on the news feed of people who may be nearby. Facebook has already been used to help find missing children and the formal collaboration with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children - which runs the Amber Alert program - will only build on those organic actions, company officials said. Under the new program, Amber Alerts distributed by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children will appear near the top of a Facebook user's news feed, with an option for them to learn more information - such as what number to call if they have information about the case - and share it with others. The alert will only go to people within a certain geographic area of where the child is believed to be, based on where users set their Facebook location as well as analysis of their check-ins, Internet protocol (IP) addresses and any other location information that they already share with the company
CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 22, 2015	3:30 PM	:30	DISNEY PARKS-LINKED MEASLES OUTBREAK GROWS TO 70 CASES Seventy people have been infected in a measles outbreak that led California public health officials to urge those who haven't been vaccinated against the disease, including children too young to be immunized, should avoid Disney parks where the spread originated. New infections linked to the theme parks emerged Wednesday in the outbreak that has spread to five U.S. states and Mexico, though the vast majority, 62, occurred in California. Because measles is highly contagious, people who have not received the measles-mumps-rubella, or MMR, vaccine are susceptible and should avoid visiting Disney for the time being. The people who have been infected range in age from 7 months to 70 years old. The vast majority was not vaccinated, and a quarter had to be hospitalized. Among those sickened were five Disney employees. Three have since returned to work. The company previously said park employees who may have been in contact with those infected were asked to show proof of vaccination or have a blood test to show immunity against measles. Those with pending results were put on paid leave. Vaccinations are also being offered to all employees. Measles has hit California hard recently. The state typically sees four to 60 measles cases a year.
CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 4, 2015	5:27 AM	:30	HISPANIC PEDIATRICIAN ARRESTED Shocked parents trusted their children to Hispanic pediatrician Carlos Teran Miranda, who runs a practice in the Gold Valley Clinic in Merced County, California. A mother who took her son to Dr. Miranda noticed something unusual behind a floral arrangement in a bathroom; it was a small camera. The concerned woman took pictures with her cell phone and alerted police. Authorities served a warrant to search the premises and found a computer which contained child pornography related to the camera in the bathroom. Dr. Teran (a Bolivian national) practiced in New York State for some time and had been working for 3 years at the California Health Center. Dr. Teran is married and is a parent. Authorities are concerned as Dr. Teran practiced medicine for the past 10 years and do not know for how long he had been recording patients with cameras.
CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 12, 2015	4:30 PM	:30	Topic: FLORIDA SCHOOLS STILL USE THE MEDIEVAL PRACTICE OF PADDLING Most Florida public school kids will never be whacked with a paddle for misbehaving. The number of students subjected to corporal punishment statewide has dropped dramatically in recent years, from 65,050 in 1988-89 to 4,274 in 2008-09 and 2,966 in 2011-12. But Florida is still one of 19 states that nonetheless allow schoolchildren to be spanked, and now there's a new push to end what critics call a form of institutionalized violence. A recent study by two University of Florida College of Education professors - and funded by the Southern Poverty Law Center - recommends that the entire state retire the paddle once and for all. Twenty-eight of the state's 67 school districts avail themselves of this disciplinary option, most of them in rural and conservative regions, including Clay and Nassau counties in Northeast Florida. The school district in Suwannee County, about an hour's drive west of Jacksonville, with a student population of about 6,000, paddled the most - 359 times in 2012-13. Duval County, once the state's paddling leader, abolished corporal punishment in 2005. At the time nearly 80 percent of paddled students just so happened to be black.
CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 13, 2015	8:40 PM	:30	ACLU ACCUSES DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL SECURITY OF IGNORING COMPLAINTS ON ABUSES OF MINOR American Civil Liberties Union affiliates in Arizona and San Diego, along with the law firm Cooley LLP, filed a lawsuit in federal court against the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) for its failure to produce records related to the abuse and mistreatment of children in the custody of U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and its sub-agency, the U.S. Border Patrol. DHS oversight has ignored scores of administrative complaints documenting CBP's mistreatment of children. For years, media accounts, human rights reports, and child advocates have described the same abuse and neglect of children in Border Patrol custody. On June 11, 2014, the ACLU and partner organizations submitted a complaint to DHS oversight agencies on behalf of 116 unaccompanied children alleging abuse and mistreatment in Border Patrol custody-including harsh temperatures, severe overcrowding, and denial of adequate hygiene supplies, bedding, food, water, and medical care.

Peanut allergies are rising and affect more than 2 percent of children in the United States alone. They are the top cause of food allergy related severe reactions and deaths. Food allergies often are inherited, but also can develop during life, and age of exposure may matter. In recent years, doctors have wondered whether avoiding certain foods in infancy does harm or good. Food guidelines may change. The American Academy of Pediatrics used to recommend against giving children peanut-based foods before age 3 but dropped that advice in 2008 because there was no evidence it prevented allergies. Now, most parents introduce peanut-based foods when other solid

CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	March 14, 2015	10:21 PM	:30	14 HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ARRESTED IN INVESTIGATION OF RAPE Los Angeles police descended on Venice High School on Friday, arresting nine students in connection with a series of sex crimes that began more than a year ago and involved at least two female classmates. All but one of the arrests was on campus; authorities were attempting to locate five other students. The investigation began after a parent reported the allegations. Detectives discovered at least one photograph showing sex acts, according to law enforcement sources. A photo that appears to show two teenagers engaged in a sex act has been circulated on social media. Allegations involved both consensual sexual acts between minors and coerced acts, which complicates the case. Law enforcement officials stressed the investigation is still in its early stages and that police made the arrests quickly in an effort to prevent any more incidents.
CHILDREN	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	March 21, 2015	10:51 AM	:30	NEW YORK FIRE, 7 CHILDREN KILLED Seven siblings in an Orthodox Jewish family died in an overnight fire Saturday in Brooklyn that authorities said was caused by a hot plate left on because of prohibitions against cooking and operating electrical appliances during the Sabbath. It was the deadliest fire in the city since 2007, fire officials said, taking roughly 110 firefighters about an hour to extinguish the blaze. Fire officials said a preliminary investigation found that a pot that had been left on a hot plate overnight had overheated, setting off the blaze. Orthodox customs prohibit turning electrical appliances on or off, or lighting flames, during the Sabbath.

CRIME	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 28, 2015	3:26 PM	:30	IDENTITY THEFT TOPS LIST OF CONSUMER COMPLAINTS Identity theft was once again the number one complaint from Americans this year, according to the Federal Trade Commission's annual tally. There's no doubt it's a scary situation when it happens. If a criminal gets his hands on some personal information, it can wreak havoc on your life. You might find mysterious charges on your credit card. Or a thief could file a tax return in your name, getting a bogus refund before you even know it. None of this is a surprise. Massive data breaches that could lead to identity theft keep coming and, most recently, hackers hit insurance giant Anthem, stealing information on tens of millions of customers.
CRIME	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	March 12, 2015	6:15 PM	:30	2 POLICE OFFICERS SHOT IN FERGUSON, MO Two cops were shot early Thursday morning during a protest outside the police station in Ferguson, Mo. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch confirmed the reports, noting that "several members of the media, including a Post-Dispatch reporter and photographer, were near the officers who were hit." The shots were fired as police were confronting protesters who had gathered outside the police station...The shots rang out as the protests appeared to be dwindling. Some of the protesters fell to the ground and others ran. It's still unclear who fired and why, but early reports indicate the assailant was not part of the group protesting outside the station: witnesses say the shots came from the general direction of a block of homes on Tiffin Avenue.

Stories abound about young Central American women who have been taken by a prostitution ring for at least 5 years and have been subjected to physical and psychological abuse. San Diego has turned into one of the U.S.' principal sex trade hubs. According to the FBI, in the past 4 years the number of sex procurers taken to court has tripled. In 2009 only 9 such cases reached court, the number rose to 41 in 2013.

Mesa Detective Esteban Flores says victims were injured Wednesday morning in shootings at three locations, including a restaurant and a hotel. Flores says police searched for a bald, white man in his 40s with a large tattoo on his neck. He was seen wearing a gray shirt and either black pants or black shorts. Mesa police closed off an area around the East Valley Institute of Technology on Wednesday morning. Giroux was found in a vacant condo before 1 p.m. local time, and was taken into custody after being hit with a stun gun. The Arizona Department of Corrections said that Giroux had been sent to prison three times on charges that that included burglary, theft, attempted aggravated assault and a marijuana violation.

The baby died, but the victim is recovering in the hospital. Longmont Police Commander Jeff Satur said the suspect - later identified as Dynel Catrece Lane - showed up at an area hospital with the deceased baby, claiming she had a miscarriage. Satur said Lane's husband drove her to the emergency room, thinking the child was alive. He said the husband is not considered a suspect. Satur said Lane and the 26-year-old victim did not know each other prior to this incident.
CRIME	NOTICIAS 41	2-Mar-15	10PM	2:34	Mexican authorities say that it took them 5 years and nearly 1500 arrests. The capture of one of the founding leaders of the self-named Cartel of the Gentlemen (Caballeros) Templarios. Not few in Mexico ask if this arrest will bring peace and an end to violence in Michoacan. Before his visit to Great Britain and during his visit in Gander, Canada, the president of MEXico, Enrique Peña Nieto, said the capture of Servando Gomez, alias "La Tuta," which occurred on Friday in Morelia Michoacan, certifies the attempts and efforts of his government in matters of security. Since the first of December 2012, when he took his position as president, the government of Peña Nieto has captured dozens of cartel leaders, among them Joaquin El Chapo Guzman from the Cartel of Sinaloa, who was detained on February 22 of 2014, Miguel Angel Treviño Morales, alias the Z40 in July of 2013, Vicente Carrillo Fuentes, of the same cartel and Hector Beltran Leyva, Fernando Sanchez Arellano of the Cartel of Tijuana and Enrique Kike Plancarte y Nazario Moreno Gonzalez, both leaders of the Cartel of the Caballeros Templarios, who died in two confrontations with authorities. A persistence in organized crime is said to be explained by a weak institutional endemic. And that is where some assure, is the challenge. A challenge not easy and will take many years to reach.

EDUCATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 8, 2015	3:30 PM	:30	REACTIONS TOWARDS OBAMA'S INITIATIVES  President Barack Obama called for higher taxes on wealthy Americans and new initiatives to boost the middle class as he urged Americans to turn the page on years of economic woes and hard-fought wars in his sixth State of the Union address before Congress. Some highlights from Obama's proposals: TAX HIKES: Raise the top capital gains rate on couples with incomes above $500,000 to 28 percent, the rate under President Ronald Reagan. Impose a fee on roughly 100 massive financial firms with assets exceeding $50 billion. Eliminate a tax break on inheritances. The administration estimates these changes would generate $320 billion over a decade. TAX BREAKS: Create a $500 tax credit for families where both spouses work and have an annual income up to $210,000. Expand the child care credit to up to $3,000 per child under age 5. Offer the Earned Income Tax Credit to childless workers and noncustodial parents. Consolidate six overlapping education tax breaks into two. EDUCATION: Offer two years of free community or technical college. Students would need to go to school at least half-time, maintain a 2.5 grade point average and make progress toward a degree. The White House estimates that would cost $60 billion over a decade. PAID LEAVE: Call for federal and local laws allowing workers to earn up to a week of paid sick time a year. Urge Congress to give federal workers an additional six weeks of paid parental leave. Call for more than $2 billion from Congress for paid family and medical leave programs. HOME OWNERSHIP: Cut insurance premiums for government-backed mortgages by half a percentage point to .85 percent. The White House says the reduction would save new home buyers and those who refinance $900 a year compared to current rates. RETIREMENT SAVINGS: Boost retirement savings by automatically enrolling people without access to a workplace retirement plan in an Individual Retirement Account. Expand access to employer plans for certain part-time workers. MIDDLE EAST: Urge Congress to pass a new authorization for use of military force against the Islamic State group and militant extremists in the Mideast. Until now, Obama has been relying on 9/11-era war powers. CUBA: Seek support for normalizing diplomatic relations with Cuba. Obama wants Congress to lift the economic embargo on Cuba, though the White House doesn't expect Congress to take that step quickly. IRAN: Vow to veto new sanctions on Iran while world powers pursue nuclear talks. TRADE: Ask Congress for so-called "fast track" trade promotion authority to allow an up-or-down vote on trade pacts. Obama wants to secure two major trade agreements -- one with the EU, and one with Asia-Pacific nations. CYBERSECURITY: Call for legislation enabling information-sharing between the private sector and U.S. agencies like the Homeland Security Department. Companies would qualify for targeted liability protection if they comply with certain privacy restrictions. NO GOING BACK: Threaten to veto congressional attempts to roll back Obama's executive actions on climate change and immigration and existing laws on health care and financial reform.
EDUCATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	March 10, 2015	11:30 PM	:30	OBAMA ANNOUNCES CHANGES FOR STUDENT LOAN REPAYMENT  President Barack Obama told students at Georgia Tech on Tuesday he wants to make the process of repaying student loans easier to understand and manage. Obama signed a "student aid bill of rights" and spelled out an assortment of policy tweaks and projects to try to make it easier for people with student loans to pay back their debt. Obama has asked the Treasury and Education departments and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to report by Oct. 1 on whether bankruptcy laws or other laws or regulations should be changed for student loans. The lending industry has resisted loosening bankruptcy standards for student loans, but advocates have argued students burdened by heavy debt should be able to more easily use that as a way to discharge their obligations. The review will focus on private student loans that do not carry protections given to federal student loan borrowers, such as the ability for borrowers with permanent disabilities to discharge loans, an administration official said. The White House said 40 million Americans have student loans. More than 70 percent of U.S. students who graduate with a bachelor's degree leave with debt, which averages $28,400. The White House said it will require clearer disclosures from companies to make sure borrowers understand who is servicing their loan and how to set monthly payments and change repayment plans. Obama will direct his Education Department to create a system by July 1, 2016, to better oversee and address complaints from borrowers about lenders, servicers and collection agencies, the White House said.

HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 11, 2015	4:38 PM	:30	MEASLES EPIDEMIC IN CALIFORNIA Local health officials say five more people who visited Disney theme parks in Southern California last month have fallen ill with measles, bringing the number of cases in the state to a dozen. Orange County Health Care Agency spokeswoman Nicole Stanfield says the county's six patients -- including one reported previously by the state -- visited the theme parks between Dec. 15 and Dec. 20. Stanfield says only one was fully vaccinated against the disease. California's state health agency reported earlier this week that seven Californians and two people in Utah likely contracted measles at Disneyland or Disney California Adventure. In Colorado, the El Paso County Public Health department said Thursday that a patient diagnosed with measles this month in Colorado Springs had visited Disneyland in mid-December.
HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 22, 2015	3:30 PM	:30	DISNEY PARKS-LINKED MEASLES OUTBREAK GROWS TO 70 CASES Seventy people have been infected in a measles outbreak that led California public health officials to urge those who haven't been vaccinated against the disease, including children too young to be immunized, should avoid Disney parks where the spread originated. New infections linked to the theme parks emerged Wednesday in the outbreak that has spread to five U.S. states and Mexico, though the vast majority, 62, occurred in California. Because measles is highly contagious, people who have not received the measles-mumps-rubella, or MMR, vaccine are susceptible and should avoid visiting Disney for the time being. The people who have been infected range in age from 7 months to 70 years old. The vast majority was not vaccinated, and a quarter had to be hospitalized. Among those sickened were five Disney employees. Three have since returned to work. The company previously said park employees who may have been in contact with those infected were asked to show proof of vaccination or have a blood test to show immunity against measles. Those with pending results were put on paid leave. Vaccinations are also being offered to all employees. Measles has hit California hard recently. The state typically sees four to 60 measles cases a year.

The research does not prove a health risk as it involved limited testing on just one brand of e-cigarettes and was done in test tubes, not people. It also does not mean e-cigarettes are better or worse than regular ones; tobacco smoke contains dozens of things that can cause cancer. But it does highlight how little is known about the safety of e-cigarettes, battery-powered devices that heat liquid to deliver nicotine in a vapor rather than from burning tobacco. The study was published Wednesday as a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine. The journal said it had been reviewed by experts in the field. Formaldehyde is found in many things, certain building materials, disinfectants and embalming fluid. An earlier study found e-cigarettes generated less formaldehyde than regular cigarettes do, but that study looked at just the gas portion of the vapor. The new one looked at the liquid particles in the vapor, like the spray from an aerosol can.

HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 30, 2015	3:37 PM	:30	91 MEASLES CASES IN CALIFORNIA. INFECTIOUS DISEASE AFFECTING 14 STATES. Arizona health officials are attempting to contain a measles outbreak that has already spread through multiple states as thousands of fans arrive in Phoenix ahead of Sunday's Super Bowl. Officials are already monitoring 1,000 people in Arizona who were exposed to the contagious virus after seven people were found to be infected in the state. Measles is one of the most contagious viruses in existence and will infect an estimated 90 percent of unvaccinated people who are exposed to the virus. The incubation period is on average 14 days, but an infected person can be contagious up to four days before they start to show symptoms.

HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 2, 2015	8:30 PM	:30	MEASLES OUTBREAK CONTINUES TO GROW The measles outbreak that began in California continues to swell, with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention adding 18 new cases to their official outbreak tally today. There are now 102 people in 14 states who have become infected with the extremely contagious virus that is considered vaccine-preventable, according to the CDC. Most, but not all cases, have been linked to several dozen people who were exposed to the measles at Disneyland in Anaheim, California, and were not vaccinated. Cases have now been reported in Arizona, California, Colorado, Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah and Washington, according to the CDC. The CDC issued a health advisory Jan. 23, at which point the virus had only spread to six states beyond California and Mexico.

A day care center in Los Angeles is closing its doors after a one-year-old tested positive for the virus. Officials are quarantining 14 infants, including that one-year-old, for 21 days. The head of the CDC again encouraging parents to get their children vaccinated. The question of vaccines has become political. New Jersey
HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 10, 2015	8:40 PM	:30	MEASLES PARTIES Public health officials are warning parents against "measles parties," saying that intentionally exposing unvaccinated children to a person with measles could put them at grave risk. "Measles is a serious illness that can have significant consequences," California State epidemiologist Dr. Gil Chavez said in a statement, adding that 30% of people who have been infected in the current outbreak have been hospitalized. Florida could get measles cases, pediatrician say such exposure could contribute to further spread of the California-centered outbreak, which has infected more than 100 people in eight states and Mexico. Chavez issued the statement after it was reported that a Marin County mother had been invited to expose her two young children to a child who had contracted measles.
HEALTH	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 10, 2015	5:30 PM	:30	U.S. GOVERNMENT IS POISED TO WITHDRAW LONGSTANDING WARNINGS ABOUT CHOLESTEROL The nation's top nutrition advisory panel has decided to drop its caution about eating cholesterol-laden food, a move that could undo almost 40 years of government warnings about its consumption. The group's finding that cholesterol in the diet need no longer be considered a "nutrient of concern" stands in contrast to the committee's findings five years ago, the last time it convened. During those proceedings, as in previous years, the panel deemed the issue of excess cholesterol in the American diet a public health concern. The finding follows an evolution of thinking among many nutritionists who now believe that, for healthy adults, eating foods high in cholesterol may not significantly affect the level of cholesterol in the blood or increase the risk of heart disease. The greater danger in this regard, these experts believe, lies not in products such as eggs, shrimp or lobster, which are high in cholesterol, but in too many servings of foods heavy with saturated fats, such as fatty meats, whole milk, and butter. The new view on cholesterol in food does not reverse warnings about high levels of "bad" cholesterol in the blood, which have been linked to heart disease. Moreover, some experts warned that people with particular health problems, such as diabetes, should continue to avoid cholesterol-rich diets.

COUNTY ALERT Clusters of syphilis that cause blindness have been reported on the West Coast, prompting the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health to warn physicians to be extra vigilant of patients reporting visual problems. At least two cases of ocular syphilis are under investigation in Los Angeles County. But there already are 14 cases of the sexually transmitted disease in California and elsewhere - eight in San Francisco and six in Washington state. Most all occurred in men who have sex with men. A majority of them were HIV positive and the cases began to be confirmed in December. AIDS Healthcare Foundation on Friday called on the county Health Department to step up efforts to alert all those who are sexually active, especially within the gay community.

IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 2, 2015	8:30 PM	:30	UNDOCUMENTED IMMIGRANTS IN CALIFORNIA APPLY FOR DRIVERS LICENCES Undocumented immigrants in California started applying for drivers' licenses for the first time this year, a change that registered more than 11 thousand applicants in all California. L.A. council member Gil Cedillo, who led the campaign to reinstate driver's licenses for immigrants when he was in the state Legislature, arrived early in Granada Hills to welcome the first applicants. The DMV says initial interest in the program has been strong. Nearly 400,000 appointments for 2015 were made over two weeks in November, a 115 percent increase in activity over the same period last year. Some immigrant rights' advocates have expressed concern about AB 60 applicants handing over personal information to the government, especially if they've had run-ins with immigration authorities. Other advocacy groups have pushed hard to get licenses into the hands of immigrant drivers and pressured the DMV to issue a design that would avoid stigmatizing cardholders. After months of back-and-forth with the Department of Homeland Security, the DMV finalized a design that included the letters "DP" for "driving privilege" on the front of the card to distinguish it from a standard driver's license. Also included is wording that the card cannot be used for "official federal purposes."

This warning comes in part with a publicity campaign directed at Mexico and Central America, which seeks to bring to light the immigration reform that has been active since Obama's announcement November 20th.
IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 7, 2015	5:30 PM	:30	DRIVER LICESES TO UNDOCUMENTED IN CALIFORNIA California officials say 46,200 immigrants started applying for a driver's license in the first three days that the state began issuing licenses to immigrants who are in the country illegally. Department of Motor Vehicles spokeswoman said Tuesday that 970 licenses were issued Friday to immigrants who weren't required to take a road test because they previously had a license in California or another state. Most applicants are given permits after passing a required written test and must return for a road test before getting a license. The DMV says 54 percent of all new driver's license applicants who took the written test in English on Friday passed it, while 36 percent passed it in Spanish. California expects 1.4 million people to apply for the licenses in the next three years.

Susana Martinez said that she plans a new push to repeal the state law allowing undocumented immigrants to obtain driver's licenses. Martinez, who has tried to get the law repealed twice before, described it as dangerous in a post on her official Facebook page. "I am once again asking the legislature to repeal the law that gives driver's licenses to illegal immigrants..." "I am always willing to discuss this issue with legislators from both parties and explore ways to find common ground, but I believe the most effective solution is to simply repeal this dangerous law." Her comments are the latest salvo in a nationwide debate over the controversial issue.

Cuba urged the U.S. to end immigration privileges that grant virtually automatic legal residency to any Cuban who touches U.S. soil. Its government blames the Cold War policy for luring tens of thousands of Cubans a year to make perilous journeys by sea and land to try to reach the United States. Still, many Cubans are worried the elimination of the rules would take away their chance to have a better life in the U.S. U.S. officials reported a spike in the number of rafters attempting to reach Florida after the Dec. 17 announcement that the countries would move to normalize ties. Those numbers appear to have slowed in recent days. In Washington, U.S. Homeland Security Secretary Jeh Johnson issued a statement saying additional Coast Guard cutters have been deployed to stop Cuban and Haitian migrants from reaching the United States by boat.

IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 27, 2015	4:30 PM	:30	MAYORS JOIN LAWSUIT IN DEFENSE OF OBAMA IMMIGRATION PLAN Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and New York Mayor Bill de Blasio are leading a coalition of more than two dozen mayors in support of President Obama's recent immigration order; on Monday, the coalition filed a brief in support of the order in Texas vs. United States, a multi-state lawsuit that aims to block the order from taking effect. Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti is one of a long list of mayors who have signed on to an amicus brief supporting President Obama's executive order on immigration. The brief was filed Monday in Texas v. United States, a federal lawsuit filed in December with the intent of stopping the recent order from taking effect. Garcetti and New York Mayor Bill de Blasio organized the coalition of city leaders, which includes Mayors Ed Lee of San Francisco, Rahm Emanuel of Chicago, Muriel Bowser of Washington, D.C. and more than two dozen others. Obama's executive order, signed in November, would temporarily protect millions of immigrants from deportation. Those who would qualify for a three-year reprieve and a work permit include certain immigrants who arrived as minors, and parents of U.S. citizens and legal residents who have spent at least five years in the United States. The amicus brief from the mayors argues that these provisions will fuel economic growth in cities across the country, increase public safety and public engagement, and facilitate the full integration of immigrant residents by promoting family unity and limiting family separation. These positive impacts are possible because Executive Action will permit undocumented immigrants to better reach their potential and contribute to their communities.
IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 27, 2015	5:30 PM	:30	SECOND LAWSUIT AGAINST OBAMA ON IMMIGRATION Speaker John Boehner told House Republicans in a closed-door meeting today that a lawsuit might be the best, or only, option to try and overturn President Obama's executive action on immigration. One month before the Homeland Security Department runs out of funding, Republican leaders are scrambling to find alternative ways to express their displeasure over the president's decision last year to grant work visas to up to five million undocumented immigrants. The department runs out of money on Feb. 27, under an agreement Congress reached last year to keep the rest of the government running, and Republican leaders are unwilling to risk government shutdown over another immigration fight. But the lawsuits against Obama from Congress are beginning to stack up. Last year, House Republicans took legal action against the president over the Affordable Care Act. The lawsuit is already on its third set of lawyers on the Republican side and no quick resolution is in sight in the courts. The discussion of legal action from Boehner comes one day after Republican leaders bulled a bill to strengthen security along the southern U.S. border amid concerns it might not pass because some lawmakers believed the measure didn't go far enough. After the closed-door meeting, Boehner downplayed any problems with the immigration funding fight.
IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 28, 2015	2:45 AM	:30	THE US GOVT TELLS AGENTS TO ID WHICH IMMIGRANTS NOT TO DEPORT The Obama administration has ordered immigration agents to ask immigrants they encounter living in the country illegally whether they might qualify under President Barack Obama's plans to avoid deporting them, according to internal training materials obtained by The Associated Press. Agents also have been told to review government files to identify any jailed immigrants they might be able to release under the program. The directives from the Homeland Security Department mark an unusual change for U.S. immigration enforcement, placing the obligation on the government for identifying immigrants who might qualify for lenient treatment. Previously, it was the responsibility of immigrants or their lawyers to assert that they might qualify under rules that could keep them out of jail and inside the United States. One training document includes scenarios describing encounters between agents and immigrants with guidance about how agents should proceed, with a checklist of questions to determine whether immigrants might qualify under the president's plans. ICE officials earlier began releasing immigrants who qualified for leniency from federal immigration jails. Obama in November announced a program to allow roughly 4 million parents of U.S. citizens and legal permanent residents to apply for permission to stay in the country for up to three years and get a work permit. The program mirrors one announced in 2012 that provides protection from deportation for young immigrants brought to the country as children.
IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 2, 2015	4:30 PM	:30	NEW LAW PROTECTING IMMIGRANTS New law protecting immigrants goes into effect today in NY State. The Immigrant Assistance Service Enforcement Act will go into effect throughout the state on February 2nd. The Act signed into law last August 2014 by Governor Cuomo, creates new protections and rights for immigrants seeking legal assistance and new penalties and restrictions against those who seek to defraud immigrant New Yorkers. It also establishes the New York State Office for New Americans as a permanent part of State government dedicated to promoting and enhancing the welfare of immigrant communities. Government, law enforcement, and community leaders will discuss the new protections and rights, and how immigrants can benefit from them.
IMMIGRATION	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 19, 2015	3:21 PM	:30	HOW NEW YORK CITY'S MUNICIPAL ID PROGRAM PROTECTS IMMIGRANTS The bill that created New York City's popular municipal ID program has a clause protecting undocumented New Yorkers from a conservative White House in 2017. The New York Post reported this week. New York City officially started issuing municipal ID cards last month in order to provide the city's 500,000 undocumented immigrants, as well as others, access to multiple city services. Applicants to the program must provide their name, address, and proof that they live in the city's five boroughs, among other personal data. That information, according to a clause in the bill that created the program, can be destroyed by the city on Dec. 30, 2016 -- just three weeks before the next President would walk into the Oval Office.

Critics say the raids, carried out under two identity theft laws, have torn hundreds of families apart. U.S. District Judge David Campbell ruled in a preliminary injunction Monday that Arpaio's tactics were likely unconstitutional and halted the raids, at least until a federal court reaches its decision in a class-action lawsuit aimed at ending the tactic. Civil rights advocacy group Puente Arizona is the lead plaintiff in the case against the sheriff, as well as Maricopa County Attorney Bill Montgomery and Robert Halliday, director of the Arizona Department of Public Safety. The extension allows eligible TPS beneficiaries to retain TPS through Sept. 9, 2016, so long as they otherwise continue to meet the eligibility requirements. Employers should alert all company representatives responsible for the completion of the I-9 process about this development, as employers are often unsure about how to complete and/or re-verify the I-9 form for individuals holding TPS work authorization. For individuals already holding TPS under the El Salvador designation, the 60-day re-registration period runs from Jan. 7, 2015 through March 9, 2015. By late in the afternoon, at least 11,000 people had applied for the special licenses. The line outside the Granada Hills Department of Motor Vehicles office wrapped around the plaza; people held clipboards with DMV license applications. Some were wrapped in blankets to keep themselves warm in the chilly morning. The DMV has prepared for the law for more than a year. An extra $141 million has been budgeted to handle the influx of applications, with the DMV opening four new offices and hiring an additional 900 employees. Appointments to obtain driver's licenses can now be made 90 days in advance instead of 45 days, the department said. More than 1.5 million new applications are expected in the next three years because of the law, according to DMV estimates.

SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 13, 2015	5:30 PM	:30	HIGH ALERT ON SECURITY US Airport screeners have been ordered to enhance the number of random searches of passengers and carry-on luggage, an order first issued last week but only being made public now. The security order comes in the wake of this alarming, step-by-step recipe of kitchen ingredients for what al Qaeda calls in its latest magazine inspire, the hidden bomb to bring down an airplane. The device is designed to get by standard airport magnetometers, and would only be detected by full body scanner machines which are not present at many smaller airports. Officials acknowledge at least two of them got away, the girlfriend of the gunman at the grocery store, and an accomplice, both in this airport surveillance video seen arriving in Turkey and both now believed to be in Syria. As French authorities try to unravel the plot, one question involves how the terrorists got such heavy duty weapons. This new video shows the two brothers holding up a gas station, with automatic weapons and extremely powerful military rocket launcher. The US military came face to face with another terror weapon Monday, as supposed ISIS followers took over the twitter feed and the YouTube channel of the US Central command, headquarters for American efforts against the terrorists. They posted ISIS videos, and this threat: American soldiers, we are coming, watch your back. The military says no classified information was involved in the cyber-attack, but the FBI today is launching a full investigation.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 1, 2015	10:30 PM	:30	FACEBOOK AIMS TO FIND MISSING KIDS Facebook is rolling out a new tool that it hopes will make it easier for police to find lost and kidnapped children. The social media giant on Tuesday announced a new plan to post Amber Alerts for missing children on the news feed of people who may be nearby. Facebook has already been used to help find missing children and the formal collaboration with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children - which runs the Amber Alert program - will only build on those organic actions, company officials said. Under the new program, Amber Alerts distributed by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children will appear near the top of a Facebook user's news feed, with an option for them to learn more information - such as what number to call if they have information about the case - and share it with others. The alert will only go to people within a certain geographic area of where the child is believed to be, based on where users set their Facebook location as well as analysis of their check-ins, Internet protocol (IP) addresses and any other location information that they already share with the company
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 23, 2015	5:27 PM	:30	TSA AGENTS DISCOVERED 2,212 GUNS AT AIRPORT CHECKPOINTS IN 2014 The Transportation Security Administration found more than 2,000 firearms at the nation's airports last year - the overwhelming majority of them loaded, the Department of Homeland Security said today. TSA agents discovered 2,212 firearms - or a little more than six a day - in carry-on bags; 83 percent of them were loaded, the department said. The number was a 22 percent increase from 2013, when 1,813 firearms were discovered. The number of firearms discovered at TSA checkpoints has risen nearly every year since 2005. Also last year, the department said, more than 1,400 "firearm components, replica firearms, stun guns, and other similar dangerous objects were discovered" in carry-on luggage.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 24, 2015	5:24 AM	:30	MILITARY COMBAT PLANES ESCORT 2 COMERCIAL JETLINERS AFTER CREDIBLE BOMB THREATS F-16 fighter jets escorted two passenger planes into Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport on Saturday after a bomb threat made on Twitter was deemed credible. Southwest Airlines Flight 2492 and Delta Flight 1156 landed safely at the airport and were searched by bomb disposal units, according to airline officials. Nothing out of the ordinary was found. One runway was closed temporarily, causing delays for other flights as passengers on the two flights were questioned and their luggage was searched by bomb-sniffing dogs, officials said. A Delta spokesman said it was a Portland, Oregon, to Atlanta, Georgia, flight. Delta is supporting the sweeping process carried out by authorities while the Southwest flight was coming from Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 21, 2015	2:39 PM	:30	DHS INTELLIGENCE REPORT WARNS OF DOMESTIC RIGHT-WING TERROR THREAT  They're carrying out sporadic terror attacks on police, have threatened attacks on government buildings and reject government authority. A new intelligence assessment, circulated by the Department of Homeland Security this month and reviewed by CNN, focuses on the domestic terror threat from right-wing sovereign citizen extremists and comes as the Obama administration holds a White House conference to focus efforts to fight violent extremism.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 23, 2015	2:30 PM	:30	NATION ON ALERT OVER THREAT TO MALL  Authorities say there is "no credible threat" associated with the Mall of America after the release of a video purportedly made by Al-Qaida linked rebels that urges Muslims to attack shopping malls. Bloomington police, FBI, Hennepin County sheriff's office, Minnesota Department of Public Safety, Metro Transit Police and Mall of America said they take all security concerns seriously and have responded appropriately. "Enhanced security measures, to include additional personnel, have been implemented, and all information is being monitored. We will continue to focus on and to prioritize the safety, security, and well-being of our citizens and visitors," law enforcement wrote in a joint statement. Mall of America officials say the mall remains a safe place and employs a large, well-trained professional security force that monitors activity 24 hours a day. Meanwhile, the Orono School District canceled the sixth grade Mall Of America physics field trip for Tuesday in response to the news. The threat by the Al-Qaida affiliate came in the final minutes of a more than hour-long video released Saturday.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 27, 2015	10:30 PM	:30	ONE-WEEK EXTENSION OF FUNDING FOR THE DHS  The House approved a one-week extension of funding for the Department of Homeland Security, avoiding a partial shutdown just hours before a Friday night deadline. President Barack Obama signed the bill, which funds the Department of Homeland Security until March 6. The bill does nothing to resolve the central issue that has turned the agency's funding into a political football: immigration. Republicans will again push to tie money for DHS to legislation rolling back Obama's immigration orders. Senate Democrats will block that effort, ensuring another tumultuous week on Capitol Hill and more uncertainty for the hundreds of thousands of people who work at DHS. There was already plenty of drama in Congress on Friday. Earlier in the day, the House rejected a bill that would have kept DHS open for three weeks, a shocking twist that renewed questions about Speaker John Boehner's grip on the House.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 28, 2015	3:26 PM	:30	IDENTITY THEFT TOPS LIST OF CONSUMER COMPLAINTS  Identity theft was once again the number one complaint from Americans this year, according to the Federal Trade Commission's annual tally. There's no doubt it's a scary situation when it happens. If a criminal gets his hands on some personal information, it can wreak havoc on your life. You might find mysterious charges on your credit card. Or a thief could file a tax return in your name, getting a bogus refund before you even know it. None of this is a surprise. Massive data breaches that could lead to identity theft keep coming and, most recently, hackers hit insurance giant Anthem, stealing information on tens of millions of customers.
SECURITY	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	March 3, 2015	2:26 PM	:30	DHS CONGRESS VOTES  In a major victory for President Barack Obama, the Republican-led House relented on Tuesday and will back legislation to fund the Homeland Security Department through the end of the budget year, without restrictions on immigration. House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, outlined the dwindling options for his deeply divided GOP caucus on Tuesday morning after the Senate left the House with little choice. Boehner pointed out that the issue is now in the hands of the courts. Conservatives had demanded that the funding bill roll back Obama's immigration directives from last fall. He signed orders sparing millions of immigrants from deportation. Democrats had insisted on legislation to fund the department, which shares responsibility for anti-terrorism operations, without any conditions. Passage of the stand-alone spending bill would seal the failure of a Republican strategy designed to make Homeland Security funding contingent on concessions from Obama. The department, which has major anti-terrorism responsibilities, is also responsible for border control. Whatever the final result of the struggle, controversy over the legislation has produced partisan gridlock in the first several weeks of the new Congress, though Republicans gained control of the Senate last fall and won more seats in the House than at any time in 70 years.

WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 12, 2015	4:35 PM	:30	COLD WEATHER LATEST Airlines at Midway Airport have nearly half a dozen delays from 20 to 60 minutes but otherwise have normal operations, according to the aviation department. A winter weather advisory remains in place until noon, and as of 6 a.m., O'Hare reported 0.4 inches of snow, according to weather service. The Illinois Department of Streets and Sanitation redeployed its snow plows and salt spreaders to neighborhood and side streets. A handful of weather-related accidents have occurred on Cook County highways.
WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	January 26, 2015	4:30 PM	:30	GENETICALLY MODIFIED KILLER MOSQUITOES MAY ATTACK FLORIDA KEYS Thanks to climate change and globalization, the Keys are also increasingly home to killer tropical diseases such as dengue fever and chikungunya spread by Aedes aegypti, a tiger-striped mosquito that originated in Africa. Just last year, a few dozen people in the Sunshine State were infected with these formerly exotic illness as they made their way up the Gulf Coast. The solution? A private company has genetically modified the Aedes aegypti, creating a mosquito that fights for the good guys and, pending Food and Drug Administration approval, will be unleashed in the Keys ASAP. Dengue and chikungunya - also charmingly called "break-bone" fever - are no joke. About 50 million people contract dengue each year - more than 2 percent die. Chikungunya is less widespread, but has already done damage in the Caribbean after afflicting 1 million people there in 2014. The Aedes aegypti, meanwhile, is a formidable foe. Though Florida is routinely soaked with insecticide, these mosquitoes have developed resistance to more than half of the chemicals designed to kill them.
WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 1, 2015	5:11 PM	:30	100 MILLION PEOPLE IN PATH OF DANGEROUS WINTER STORM The snowstorm was expected to be the most far-reaching of the season to date, stretching from Nebraska to Maine, according to the National Weather Service. Forecasters also said the storm was moving unusually slowly, meaning accumulations of between 10 to 16 inches of snow are possible for parts of northern Illinois, Indiana and northwest Ohio. Similar amounts of snow are expected for the Northeast later Sunday and throughout Monday. More than 2,000 flights were canceled in the Midwest, the vast majority of which were in or out of Chicago's two airports. Chicago's Department of Aviation said about 1,400 departing flights were canceled from O'Hare International Airport and 315 at Midway International Airport. At Detroit Metropolitan Airport, more than 350 departing flights were canceled, and more delayed. About 20 flights were canceled from Omaha's Eppley Airfield. Winds - gusts up to 45 mph were expected in the Chicago area - made road travel tricky too. Illinois Gov. Bruce Rauner cautioned against any travel and put state agencies on alert.
WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 10, 2015	5:37 PM	:30	THREE CONSECUTIVE MONDAYS OF SNOW STORMS IN NORTH EAST U.S. Boston on Monday, 62.5 inches of snowfall since January 15 -- the record for most snow in a 30-day period has already been broken. The previous record was set in 1978. With the third storm in as many weeks, how long will it be before the new record will be surpassed? Boston is in the cross hairs again, and winter storm warnings are in place across large portions of the Northeast, including Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. The National Weather Service forecasts 12 to 16 inches of snow by the time the storm ends Tuesday. For upstate New York, the numbers are 8 to 14 inches.
WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 17, 2015	4:37 PM	:30	WINTER WEATHER AFFECTS 90 MILLION IN 20 U.S. STATES Winter Storm Octavia dealt a sturdy blow to the South, leaving hundreds of thousands without power and killing five people due to its icy blast. Tuesday, as residents clean up from the mess left behind, they'll have to deal with brutally cold temperatures invading some of the hardest-hit areas. More than 2,100 flights were canceled by 11:00 p.m. EST Monday, many of which were in the South, according to the flight-tracking website FlightAware. But that was just the beginning - Octavia's impacts played a huge role in some 1,400 additional flights being canceled Tuesday morning.

WEATHER	UNIMAS NEWS BRIEFS	February 21, 2015	2:39 PM	:30	RECORD-BREAKING COLD WEATHER CATCHES U.S. SOUTH OFF GUARD The south is in a state of post-traumatic stress over the cold. Dixie face some of the coldest temperatures on record on Friday. Lynchburg, Virginia, set an all-time record low of -11F (-24C) on Friday morning. Charleston's temperature of 18F (-8C) is four degrees colder than the previous record. Tennessee may have been caught most off guard. Severe, unprecedented arctic weather has claimed 16 lives in the state so far, according to the Tennessee emergency management agency (Tema), a count that has been climbing as temperatures have been falling. One 67-year-old dialysis patient died in Hickman County because snow, freezing, rain and sleet had made it impossible to travel for his treatment.
WEATHER	NOTICIAS A LAS 10PM	3-Mar-15	10PM	1:00	A strong mass of Arctic wind will continue descending over the area tonight. A high pressure in the atmosphere and humid air from the Gulf of Mexico have caused the drizziling. In some areas, there is still probability for ice or sleet. This cold front will be causing the major impact during this winter in the Hill Country and in the Austin area. In these locations, there can be accumulation of upto one inch of cold rain and sleet.
WEATHER	NOTICIAS A LAS 10PM	11-Mar-15	10PM	:24	While the city of San Antonio is threatened with rain from the Niño phenomenon, the reality is that the Alamo City faces its fifth year of a drought. That's why this Saturday the San Antonio Water System will present options for you to care for your garden. Remember this Saturday from 9 in the morning to 1 in the afternoon at the SAWS offices on Highway 281 and Mulberry.
WEATHER	NOTICIAS A LAS 10PM	25-Mar-15	10PM	:25	A tornado classified as extremely dangerous has already claimed the life of one person in the state of Oklahoma. It destroyed more than a dozen mobile homes in the west of Tulsa. Many residents suffered minor injuries. From 25 to 30 houses were destroyed by the tornado that touched ground at 5:45 in the afternoon. Nearly 23 thousand persons in TUlsa and 25 thousand in the Osage County were left with no electricity.
WEATHER	NOTICIAS A LAS 10PM	28-Mar-15	10PM	:16	That was the sound heard in Moore, Oklahoma. Authorities revealed hundreds of 911 calls from residents amidst the arrival of the tornado. Many houses were left in pieces, as well as an elementary school. But to the luck of the residents, no one was injured.
