WVON commemorates the 50th anniversary of the 16th Street Baptist Church bombing that killed four little girls -- Addie Mae Collins, Cynthia Wesley, Carole Robertson and Denise McNair. The church was the epicenter of the Civil Rights Movement in Birmingham, Alabama. It served as the staging ground for many demonstrations against segregation. It unfortunately became a specific target of hatred. Because of the many bombings in the city, many renamed Birmingham "Bombingham." Klansman Robert "Dynamite Bob" Chambliss was eventually held responsible for the bombing. Attorney Doug Jones, a former prosecutor who tried two of the bombing suspects, and Lisa McNair, sister of Denise McNair, called in
