

WVON

Chicago, IL
Quarterly Issues/Programs List

SEPTEMBER 2019

WVON provides its listeners with programming and public announcements that address issues of concern to our local community. Among the issues determined to be of most concern to the community during the preceding calendar quarter were:

Employment: Kimberly Dir. Of Workforce Development, of the Chicago Urban League weekly segment informs listeners about employment opportunities.

News:

WVON and listeners welcomed multi-talented broadcaster, television host, voice-over actor, and motivational speaker Alexx Dupri to discuss exercise and the importance of running for mental and physical reasons. Alexx is a 5-time competitive IRONMAN triathlete. Alexx is known as an ultra marathon runner and obstacle course endurance athlete.

Art Simms welcomed guest Heidi Barker a Communications, pop culture and lifestyle expert to talk about some advice for parents during this Back to School season.

Perri welcomed Rhoda E. Howard-Hassmann, Ph.D. Professor Emeritus, Dept. of Political Science Wilfred Laurier University Canada Research Chair in International Human Rights. The conversation was centered on how Japanese Americans have been able to receive reparations while African Americans have not.

WVON and listeners celebrated the life of Joan Johnson, who helped create one of the nation's largest black-owned companies, has died. Johnson, 89, co-founded Johnson Products Company, the pioneering black hair care company which made iconic products such as Ultra Sheen and Afro Sheen. She died in Chicago after a long illness.

Mazo and Todd welcomed Black 9/11 Hero Sgt. Jason Thomas to discuss his feelings on the casting of a White man to portray his experience in the World Trade Center Movie.

News/Community:

Perri Small spoke to Patrick Smith, WBBZ Criminal Justice reporter about the murder of Darlis Nkolomoni. Chicago police identified the man who killed Darlis, one of the rare cases solved by CPD. But the alleged killer was never charged with a crime. According to a WBEZ analysis of Cook County state's attorney data, Nkolomoni's death is one of hundreds of cases that were solved by Chicago police detectives but never charged in court.

WVON and listeners discussed the Chicago Football Classic and the importance of Black Students attending an HBCU.

Perri Small was joined by The Washington Post's Helena Andrews-Dyern to discuss her book: The power of black motherhood: Moving beyond the statistics of maternal mortality. The main point behind this conversation was to educate Black women about how to stay safe as possible during delivery.

WVON welcomed Artistic Director Michael Halberstam of Writers Theater production, Into the Woods. Into the Woods is the story of a childless baker and his wife set out to lift their family curse by journeying into the woods. The discussion centered around fear and overcoming challenges.

WVON and listeners discussed September as National Suicide Prevention Month, Art Chat Simms welcomed noted health expert Dr. Wanda Parker, Behavioral Health Expert to talk about overall mental health and the reason why many people suffer silently with mental illness.

WVON welcomed Karen Devereaux, Founder & President of Imagery Writing Services, shared valuable information on uncovering the power of your resume, personal branding and how to get one step closer to your career goals.

September is Self-Improvement Month, WVON welcomed social media influencer and blogger Sharon Rowe to talk about steps to forgiveness and the benefits.

News/Politics:

Maze Jackson and Todd Stroger spoke to Janet Smith, author of the study and co-director of the Voorhees Center for Neighborhood and Community Improvement at UIC about the rising rents Woodlawn residents are dealing with as the impending opening of the Obama Center nears.

Maze Jackson was joined by Dan Cooper, director of research at Metropolitan Planning Council and author of The War on Neighborhoods: Policing, Prison and Punishment in a Divided City. To discuss how the Chicago region shows some signs of improved racial integration. However, many Black families are leaving or being displaced from neighborhoods with proximity to high wage jobs.

Maze Jackson and Todd Stroger talked to Washington correspondent Ameshia Cross about what has the Black Congressional Caucus done this year thus far and her thoughts on how are the democratic presidential candidates polling.

Maze Jackson discussed the new grant passed in the state capital for a $15 million dollar LGBTQ community center on the South Side, an amenity long sought by activists and social service providers. South Side Rep. Lamont Robinson (D-5th) said that sites in Washington Park, Bronzeville and South Shore are under consideration for the new centers location.

Perri Small was joined by guest Angela Rye, a political commentator who's been featured on CNN, NBC, HBO, ABC, MSNBC, etc. They discussed how African American students are being preyed on by for-profit colleges and universities and receive inadequate support for affordable higher education. For students of color, obtaining a college education can result in catastrophic debt.
