Today we discuss a new project involving a partnership with the New Mexico State Library, the Creative Startups business accelerator and Santa Fe Community College's Fab Lab.

=====
Issue: education funding

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): Here And There

Date: March 6 Time of day: 5:07pm Duration: 51min

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): Why would two sets of pre-schoolers be playing separately in a single schoolyard divided by a chain link fence? Lauren Villagran of Searchlight NM says it's New Mexico state public education department policies that segregate the Head Start kids from the state-funded pre-schoolers, keeping the poorest children in a world of their own. Does this make sense to you? There's more agreement in the Legislature that more money needs to go for early-childhood education than there about where the money should come from.
