Issue: Santa Fe parks bond audit
WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title):
Date: 4/11/16 Time of day: 12:10pm Duration: 7:11
BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): Even though Mayor Javier Gonzalez issued a statement after a state audit of the city's $30.4-million parks bond spending, saying no fraud was committed, the Albuquerque Journal says it has found some procurement irregularities. State Auditor Tim Keller did a special audit after a general audit found problems with the way the parks bond money was spent. The Journal report shines a light on audit findings that a city worker whose relatives owned a company profiting from bond money had authority to decide who would be awarded contracts for parks work. The total of those contracts over several years, according to the Journal's investigation, was more than $115-thousand. The money was awarded to Ulibarri Landscaping, and the employee - Ben Gurule - is married to the daughter of the late Alfonso Ulibarri, the owner of the company. The Journal found Gurule was directly involved in executing the bond. The city's spokesman says City Councilors will be looking at tightening the purchasing manual so as to avoid potential conflicts of interest in the future.

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): Here and There
Date: 6/14/16 Time of day: 5pm Duration: 50min BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): When it comes to homeless people, you can't help them if you can't find them. Hank Hughes of the New Mexico Coalition to End homelessness on how new technologies and new attitudes are getting more chronically homeless people into places to live. The new technology allows social service workers to track people without addresses, while the new attitude is in the Housing First imperative, which says, help homeless people with their addiction problems or mental illness, but first, get them into a home, and let them stay there, even when they slip in rehabilitation.

Issue: sexual harassment

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): Here And There

Date: 6/20/16 Time of day: 5pm Duration: 50min

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): America has a sex problem. Some symptoms are attitudinal or verbal abuse, sexual pestering, stalking, groping and worse. Being part of America, the University of NM sees all these symptoms on campus. The Federal Department of Education cited them for failing to deal with the problem. Chris Quintana of the ABQ Journal, and what's happened since. One criticism has been that the University has responded to its critics by creating too many offices for fighting sexual imposition, and thereby bringing less help, than confusion.

Issue: child welfare in NM

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): At Noon

Date: 6/21/16 Time of day: 12:17pm Duration:7;22

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): This just in: New Mexico is back to dead-last place for child poverty in an annual report that evaluates child well-being; we're at 49th place for kids' well-being overall. This doesn't come as much of a surprise--We haven't made it above 48th place in the National Kids Count rankings since 2012. New Mexico Voices For Children analyzes and publishes New Mexico's Kid's Count data. KSFR's Kate Powell checked in with Dr Veronica Garcia, director of New Mexico Voices for Children, about the results of the report and how it affects the priorities of child wellness advocates in the state.

Issue: hate crime

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): At Noon

Date: 6/24/16 Time of day: 12:08pm Duration: 5:55

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): A report published by the Associated Press just over a week before the Orlando Pulse Nightclub shooting stated that more than 2,700 police and sheriff's departments nationwide have failed to submit hate crime reports to federal officials between 2009 and 2014. That number includes 45% of all New Mexico police and sheriff's departments. Hate crime legislation has been on the books in New Mexico since 2003, in the form of an additional penalty at sentencing of up to a year in prison, if prosecutors can present convincing evidence that a crime was motivated by hate. I talked to Amber Royster, executive director of the LGBTQ advocacy organization Equality New Mexico, about the issue of hate crimes, particularly those committed against LGBTQ people. I asked Amber if she believes hate crimes are taken seriously by law enforcement in our state.

Issue: workers rights

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): Nuestra America

Date: 6/28/16 Time of day: 4:30pm Duration: 29min BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): Interview with Gail Evans, Legal Director at the NM Center on Law and Poverty who explains the latest NM Supreme Court ruling, prohibiting the exclusion of farm and ranch laborers from the protections of the New Mexico Workers' Compensation Act.

Issue: proposed utility rate hike

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Title): At Noon

Date: 6/29/16 Time of day: 12:17pm Duration: 5:30

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.): In a Public Regulation Commission hearing that began in April and resumed this week, New Mexico's largest electrical utility is asking for a rate increase to offset the cost of acquiring power from a nuclear plant in Arizona. According to the Santa Fe New Mexican, the rate increase could be as high as 15.8 percent—that could mean between five and thirteen extra dollars per month on PNM customers' bills. But New Energy Economy, one of the key interveners in the hearing, says a lack of financial analysis means this rate hike is way too big for no good reason. KSFR's Kate Powell checked in with New Energy Economy executive director Mariel Nanasi and brings us this report.
