This workshop at the Garfield Ridge Library deals with how animals survive extreme environments from the poles to the deserts and in the deepest part of the ocean. Students will learn about marine mammals and touch and test real 'blubber'. They will also learn about desert adaptations and how life exists deep in the ocean.

Reptiles are perhaps the most feared, persecuted and misunderstood animals on the planet. Want to meet some special creatures that crawl and slither to teach you about science? The Traveling World of Reptiles at the McKinley Park Library is an up-close, live, and extremely interactive experience about reptiles and amphibians from around the world. This humorous and intelligent presentation is every bit as entertaining as it is educational.
