02.02.23	08:30	60:00	Alternative Radio	Angela Davis – Beginnings: Movements of Possibilities In times of crisis, one can simultaneously see danger and opportunity. Today there is nostalgia for an imagined past and a desire to recreate it. It's a seductive tale. Things were better then. The country was unchallenged in the world. Jobs were plentiful. Minorities, women, gays, and immigrants knew their place. There was order in the land. But over many decades, as a result of struggle and movements, society evolved and changed. We are at a perilous moment. Do we want to go back or continue to move forward building on hard-fought gains? During another perilous time, Martin Luther King Jr., declared, "We've got to massively confront the power structure." We are at a crossroads: the beginning of a brighter or darker future. The choice is ours.
02.16.23	08:30	60:00	Alternative Radio	Robin D. G. Kelley - The Black Radical Tradition Historian and author Cedric Robinson defined the Black radical tradition as "the continuing development of a collective consciousness informed by the historical struggles for liberation." The Black radical tradition is a rich and vibrant tapestry woven by the efforts of many Black people who raised their voices demanding freedom and equality denied to them by racial capitalism. They broke through white supremacy and forged the Black Radical Tradition. There were such giants as W. E. B. Du Bois, C.L.R. James, Frantz Fanon, and Malcolm X. And important cultural figures such as Langston Hughes, Lorraine Hansberry, James Baldwin, Paul Robeson, and Toni Morrison. Today, the legacy of these pioneers and many others inform and inspire Black movements for liberation and justice from Ferguson to Minneapolis to Memphis.
02.22.23	09:30	30:00	Spotlight on the Performing Arts	Harper Hogan '25 talks Love + Information with director Jessie Dean and cast member Ariel Noble Also in conversation are several MTA Studios directors, including Devyn Jarvis '24, Eben Cornine '23, and Brooke Hager '23. Lastly, Harper holds an enlightening conversation with professional theatre maker Dana Iannuzzi '03 about the upcoming Senior Showcase, as well as participant Nicole Gardner '23 about her experience entering the industry.

03.29.23	09:30	30:00	Spotlight on the Performing Arts	On this dance-crazed episode of Spotlight on the Performing Arts, host Harper Hogan '25, interviews Dance Department Chair, Karen Dearborn, along with student choreographers, Riley Hammett '23 and Claire Spenard '23, about the Northeast conference of the American College Dance Association. Also featured in this episode is an enlightening conversation on the upcoming production of In Motion, with Professor Heidi Cruz-Austin and dancer Kayla Grammerstorf '23, premiering this weekend, March 30 to April 1. Lastly, Nicola Ferro '23, speaks about the Muhlenberg Dance Association's site-specific concert, A Dance Migration.
