05.07.20	08:30	60:00	Stephen Brezruchka – Consequences of COVID-19	What kind of bizarre twilight zone world are we in? The coronavirus pandemic is a global altering moment. It has exposed huge fissures of vulnerability. The dead from COVID-19 in the U.S. now exceeds Vietnam War levels. The health crisis has triggered an economic crisis. Tens of millions have lost their jobs in the largest mass unemployment since the Great Depression. The bread lines of the 1930s have turned into car lines as people wait for hours to get some free food. The lack of preparation, the shortages of tests and medical equipment plus all the dissembling has been mind-boggling. the Earth or more rapacious destructive capitalism? The choice is clear.
05.21.20	08:30	60:00	Noam Chomsky – The Politics of the Pandemic	It should be abundantly clear that part of the president’s m.o., almost an article of faith, is never accept responsibility when things go wrong. It’s always someone else’s fault: Pelosi, the media, the WHO, Obama, China, immigrants.
05.28.20	08:30	60:00	Sonia Shah - Outbreaks: From Epidemics to Pandemics	Years before the sudden arrival of COVID-19, ninety percent of epidemiologists predicted that one of them would cause a deadly pandemic sometime in the next two generations. Unfortunately, they were right. By examining the stories of pandemics past we can begin to better understand our own future, and to prepare for what it holds in store.
06.04.20	02:00	60:00	Philosophy Talk: Covid Conundrums and Moral Dilemmas	Is it ethical to order non-essential goods online, putting low wage workers at risk for your own comfort? What should you do if your roommates refuse to follow the rules, putting your health in danger? And if social distancing means thousands will die alone of non-Covid related diseases, has it gone too far?

06.11.20	02:00	60:00	Philosophy Talk: White Privilege and Racial Injustice	“White privilege” has become a buzzword in discussions about racial inequality and racial justice. The call to “check your privilege” appeals to those privileged to acknowledge the various ways they receive special treatment that others don’t. But when white people explicitly acknowledge their privilege, does this do anything to further racial equality? Is talking about “white privilege” just a way to assuage white liberal guilt? Instead of unequal privilege, should we be more focused on equal rights? What kind of theory of justice is required to improve black lives? John and Ken check their privilege with Naomi Zack from the University of Oregon, author of White Privilege and Black Rights: The Injustice of U.S. Police Racial Profiling and Homicide.
06.12.20	08:30	60:00	KOL HAEMEK	“Walking the walk...Beyond words to action”. Reflections on the Black Lives Matter movement and the impact on the Lehigh Valley with Cantor Kevin Wartell, Reverend Gregory Edwards and Reverend Pickens.
