The Hanalei Watershed Hui, along with our project partner Sustainable Resources Group Intn'l, Inc., is conducting a flood study, using hydraulic and hydrologic modeling, to show the areas and depth of water that covers the land during various flow levels in the Hanalei and Wai'oli Rivers. The model uses highly accurate topographic maps that show all waterways (i.e. ditches, 'auwai, streams, rivers, and ponds). Modeling will demonstrate, for the same flows, how strategies such as clearing hau bush or installing water holding basins on the floodplains, change the area of water cover and depths. Modeling will inform a prioritized list of recommendations to minimize flooding.
