Series Title: HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai'i
Program Title: #1410
Distributor: PBS Hawai'i
Date: 10/03/2023 7:30:00 PM

Length: 30

Description: On this episode of HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i, H.P. Baldwin High School senior Kailani Ibanez presents a special collection of stories from her classmates and others who have thoughts to share about what it means to call Hawai‘i home.

Students of H.P. Baldwin High School on Maui contribute a series of HIKI NŌ Personal Narratives based on the HDOE’s Nā Hopena A‘o (or HĀ) learning outcome to build a “strengthened sense of Hawaii” among all students across the state.

The first in the series is from H.P. Baldwin High School senior Kailana Williams, who weaves footage of her family with footage of Maui as she discusses her definition of home: a place that brings people together.

The second HIKI NŌ Personal Narrative in the series comes from H.P. Baldwin High School sophomore Emma Jane Roy, who ponders about her long-time aspirations to leave her island home of Maui and how she came to realize her upbringing will be with her wherever she goes.

The third HIKI NŌ Personal Narrative was produced by H.P. Baldwin High School senior Alys Tolentino, who reflects on the loss of her grandmother and the importance of family during tough times.

The students of H.P. Baldwin High School also contribute a story featuring local Maui officials who share their lessons learned after spending decades keeping people – especially tourists – safe in the ocean.

Hawaii Preparatory Academy senior Caiden Andrist on Hawai‘i Island shares a Student Reflection about meeting his best friend while at boarding school and maintaining their connection, even after moving to a different island.

In her Student Reflection, Pearl City Highlands Elementary School 6th grader Lauren Takamoto speaks about her intensive karate training experience at home on O‘ahu and what she learns from going to a competition in another state.

Series Title: HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i
Program Title: #1501
Distributor: PBS Hawai‘i
Date: 10/24/2023 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30

Description: In this episode of HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i, Maui HIKI NŌ students share what they cherish about their beloved island and reflect on the common mantra echoing across the islands: “Maui Strong,” following the devastating wildfires that affected Maui in August 2023.

The episode features a special collection of student voices and a montage of student-captured footage from Montessori School of Maui, H.P. Baldwin High School and Kihei Elementary School about what makes Maui unique and what it’s like to grow up there.

H.P. Baldwin High School senior Samuel Paci, who was born and raised on Maui, hosts the show and shares a story he produced about his stepfather, who works as a Maui firefighter and was among those involved in fighting the fires in August.

The episode also features a story produced by students of Lahaina Intermediate School before the fire that temporarily displaced them from their campus. Their report “Zero Waste School” explores how their school became among the first public schools in the state to make an eco-friendly switch in their cafeteria.

In addition, students honor Lahaina and the island of Maui by sharing memorable stories about the island from the HIKI NŌ archives, many of which serve as special time capsules of historic Lahaina. Those featured include the work from students at Lahainaluna High School, Lahaina Intermediate School, Maui Waena Intermediate School, and Maui High School.

Length: 30
Description: On this special episode of HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i, find out which schools produced the winning entries of the HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i 2023 Fall Challenge, with host Sloan Billingsley, a junior at Campbell High School.

A day before the storytelling contest began, on Oct. 18, 2023, dozens of students and their teachers joined HIKI NŌ for an online educational workshop, in which they learned about how to find a compelling story for public television, how to strategize and work collaboratively as a production team and how to capture high-quality video and audio.

They also received tips from PBS Hawai‘i professionals about weaving their reporting together with interviews and discussed topics including journalistic integrity while working as HIKI NŌ student reporters for their original segments on PBS Hawai‘i.

The following morning, on Oct. 19, PBS Hawai‘i announced the Fall 2023 Challenge story prompt: “A Sign of the Times.” Students were given five days to answer the call and find stories that met the prompt. During a whirlwind five days, they modeled professional journalists and conducted interviews, captured footage and edited their stories without any hands-on help from teachers or HIKI NŌ’s industry professionals.

HIKI NŌ Challenges are held three times a school year and provide students with the opportunity to review and learn HIKI NŌ production standards, test their skills, and get a taste for what it is like to produce work under professional deadlines. During the normal, non-competitive HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i production cycle, students have several weeks and sometimes months to complete their projects and receive one-on-one mentorship from HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i mentors.

The winning stories’ scores were based on production and storytelling criteria as well as how they fit the prompt. Watch this episode of HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai‘i to see the stories they chose to tell.

Length: 30
Description: In this episode of HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai'i, Maui HIKI NŌ students share what they cherish about their beloved island and reflect on the common mantra echoing across the islands: "Maui Strong," following the devastating wildfires that affected Maui in August 2023.

The episode features a special collection of student voices and a montage of student-captured footage from Montessori School of Maui, H.P. Baldwin High School and Kihei Elementary School about what makes Maui unique and what it's like to grow up there.

H.P. Baldwin High School senior Samuel Paci, who was born and raised on Maui, hosts the show and shares a story he produced about his stepfather, who works as a Maui firefighter and was among those involved in fighting the fires in August.

The episode also features a story produced by students of Lahaina Intermediate School before the fire that temporarily displaced them from their campus. Their report "Zero Waste School" explores how their school became among the first public schools in the state to make an eco-friendly switch in their cafeteria.

In addition, students honor Lahaina and the island of Maui by sharing memorable stories about the island from the HIKI NŌ archives, many of which serve as special time capsules of historic Lahaina. Those featured include the work from students at Lahainaluna High School, Lahaina Intermediate School, Maui Waena Intermediate School, and Maui High School.

Program Title: Nation Within: The Story of America's Annexation of Hawai'i

Distributor: PBS Hawai'i

Date: 11/16/2022 8:30:00 PM

Length: 60

Description: In 1998, a locally-made film exposed what Native Hawaiians had written, talked and sung about for a century: the true story of how and why Hawai'i became part of the United States. The film destroyed the false narrative fueled by ruthless self-serving businessmen in Hawai'i and expansionists within the U.S. government that Native Hawaiians were willing participants in giving up their sovereignty. This was a narrative that survived for nearly 100 years. Instead, Tom Coffman's film recounts the exhaustive efforts by Queen Lili'uokalani and her supporters to resist annexation amid the belief that American leaders would acknowledge the illegality of such a move and restore the monarchy that was overthrown by descendants of missionaries and others with the backing of the U.S. military. The timeline and truths presented in the film are supported by historical documentation from the five-year period between the overthrow of the monarchy in 1893 and annexation in 1898. Scholars at the time, and since, questioned how the United States, supposedly the world's greatest democracy, put democracy aside in lieu of imperialist expansion across the globe that included Hawai'i, the Philippines, Guam, the Mariana Islands and Puerto Rico. How well-informed are Hawai'i residents about this history since the film's release 25 years ago?
