Description: On this episode of HIKI NŌ — Hawai‘i’s New Wave of Storytellers, watch a compilation of some of the most memorable stories from HIKI NŌ’s most recent Spring round of shows, showcasing work from students ranging in grades from 3rd grade to high school.

HIKI NŌ producers selected a wide variety of segments to showcase, including traditional stories, how-to videos and thoughtful Student Reflections.

The show begins with a profile story from the students of Ernest Bowen de Silva Elementary School on Hawai‘i Island who introduce us to one of their newest Hawaiian Studies teachers, Punawai Rice. The story took home a third-place prize in the HIKI NŌ Spring Challenge Middle School Division.

The students of Sacred Hearts Academy on O‘ahu share a story about one of the newest competitive teams at their school: an all-girls eSports team.

Students at Kapa‘a High School on Kaua‘i share their feature story about a local thrift store that gives back to the community’s homeless. The piece tied for first place in the high school division of the HIKI NŌ Spring Challenge.

Santana Sebastian, a HIKI NŌ student at H.P. Baldwin High School on Maui, shares a profile story about his father and his musical talents.

Sebastian’s H.P. Baldwin High School classmates Mina Suzuki and Kailani Ibanez share their segment about how persistent stress can have consequences on high schoolers.

Students at Kalani High School on O‘ahu offer a tutorial on how to roller skate.

Students Jack Vedder and Lucas Stevens of Kaiser High School on O‘ahu share their short poetic film that conveys how dealing with stress in high school is universal.

Taylor McCann, a senior at Waiākea High School on Hawai‘i Island shares her post-graduation plans in a thoughtful Student Reflection.

Last but not least, the students at Maui Waena Intermediate School share their story about a community garden on Maui. The story won first place in the HIKI NŌ Spring Challenge Middle School Division.

Series Title: HIKI NŌ
Program Title: #1320
Distributor: PBS Hawai‘i
Date: 07/19/2022 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30
Description: On this special episode of HIKI NŌ—Limitless Aloha: STN in Hawai‘i—teachers, students and members of the education community tell the story of the first-ever Hawai‘i-based hub of the annual STN (Student Television Network) conference and competition.

Traditionally, Hawai‘i students and their teachers travel to other U.S. cities to compete in the conference, which is widely considered to be the Superbowl of student digital media competitions.

This year, due to the pandemic restrictions that prevented student travel to mainland events, media teachers acquired special permission from STN to hold a parallel event in Honolulu with the support of the Hawai‘i State Department of Education called “Limitless Aloha,” based on the national event’s “Limitless” theme.

The competition was held over three days at the Hilton Hawaiian Village and included breakout session workshops led by HIKI NŌ staff, mentors and other industry professionals.

Most of the students who compete in STN have already gained skills and training through HIKI NŌ, giving them a leg up in competition.

This year Hawai‘i schools took home a stunning number of awards, 40 in all, which broke an STN award count for island schools.

Series Title: HIKI NŌ
Program Title: #1301
Distributor: PBS Hawai'i
Date: 07/26/2022 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30
Description: This episode opens with The HIKI NŌ Story: a recap of the first ten years of HIKI NŌ, culminating with the pandemic giving birth to a unique genre of HIKI NŌ storytelling. Known as the Student Reflection, this genre elevated the personal expression of students to new heights and brought the social-emotional aspects of HIKI NŌ to the fore.

The episode is hosted by Trevor Takeno, a freshman at Moanalua High School on O'ahu. Takeno shares a Student Reflection on how he stayed motivated as an 8th grader at Moanalua Middle School by embracing a new hobby during the school year amid a global pandemic.

In Waikiki Elementary School student Marika Zialcita's Student Reflection, she shares her experience of moving, starting at a new school, and the challenges of making friends during a year of distance learning caused by COVID-19.

Saige Adaro, a Pearl City High School student on O‘ahu, reflects in her Student Reflection about having feelings of being lost when her dance activities were canceled by pandemic restrictions. She made a pivot and found a new passion: filmmaking.

From the island of Maui, students at Lahainaluna High School profile Markus-Alan Bettencourt, a student who found a deeper connection to his Hawaiian culture through a cliff diving performance job at a local hotel.

In West Hawai‘i, Konawaena High School students profile senior student Travis Ishishida, who is pursuing his dream to become a professional musician and recording artist — carving a new path in a tradition long held by his family.

On Hawai‘i Island in Puna, students from Kua O Ka Lā Public Charter School tell the story of how a community Taiko group managed to stay connected and keep drumming despite pandemic-related setbacks.

HIKI NŌ also spotlights Maui High School senior and HIKI NŌ student Ho‘ohieokalā Luna-Beamer, who produced a piece for the PBS NewsHour Student Reporting Labs program about what visitors should know when visiting the Hawaiian islands.

Series Title: HIKI NŌ
Program Title: #1302
Distributor: PBS Hawai‘i
Date: 08/02/2022 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30
Description: This special episode will reveal the winning entries of the first-ever HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling Challenge, in which students entered three categories: the traditional Story Category, the How-To and the Student Reflection. In the past, HIKI NŌ challenges had only one category of entry: the traditional Story.

During the normal, non-competitive HIKI NŌ production cycle, students have up to two months to complete a project, and they receive one-on-one mentorship help from industry professionals.

For the 2021 HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling Challenge, students had just four days to set out to film, conduct interviews and edit projects that met the theme: MORE THAN MEETS THE EYE. They did so without any hands-on help from teachers and no mentoring from industry professionals.

More than a dozen teams competed across four islands, and a handful entered all three categories to vie for the title of the HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling.

Scores were given based on how well the project met the theme and how well the videos met HIKI NŌ’s production and storytelling criteria.

This episode highlights the winners of the first two categories — the How-To and Student Reflection — from the middle and high school divisions.

Series Title: HIKI NŌ
Program Title: #1303
Distributor: PBS Hawai‘i
Date: 08/09/2022 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30
Description: This is the second of two special episodes revealing the winning entries of the first-ever HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling Challenge, in which students entered three categories: the traditional Story Category, the How-To and the Student Reflection.

Find out which teams placed in the Story Category, which school dominated the social media portion of the competition, and which school was awarded the first-ever HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling title.

For the 2021 HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling Challenge, students had just four days to film, conduct interviews and edit projects that met the theme: MORE THAN MEETS THE EYE. They did so without any hands-on help from teachers and no mentoring from industry professionals.

During the normal, non-competitive HIKI NŌ production cycle, students have up to two months to complete a project, and they receive one-on-one mentorship help from industry professionals.

The teams entered from middle and high schools across four islands, and a handful entered all three categories to vie for the title of the HIKI NŌ Triple Crown of Storytelling.

Scores were given based on how well the project met the theme and how well the videos met HIKI NŌ’s production and storytelling criteria.

Distributor: PBS Hawai‘i
Date: 08/16/2022 7:30:00 PM
Length: 30
Description: HIKI NŌ, Hawai‘i’s New Wave of Storytellers, brings more stories of personal growth, finding passions, and staying motivated during the COVID-19 pandemic.

This episode is hosted by Camrenn Cabalar, a junior at Hilo High School on East Hawai‘i Island. This summer, Cabalar stumbled across financial advice on TikTok and became inspired to learn more about financial planning. He shares his learning journey in a Student Reflection, which he worked on with the guidance of HIKI NŌ mentor Shirley Thompson. Thompson visits the PBS Hawai‘i studio to share her thoughts about the experience of being a mentor with the program and how Cabalar’s video evolved.

Next comes a story from Central O‘ahu — a profile of Highlands Intermediate student Marina Vowell, who shares her lifelong passion for go kart racing.

From students at Chiefess Kamakahelei Middle School on Kaua‘i comes a story from the HIKI NŌ archives that highlights another O‘ahu family that shares the love of racing.

Kailani Ibanez, a junior at H.P. Baldwin High School on Maui, shares two reflection pieces she has made over her high school career that illustrate personal growth and a sense of wonder as she prepares to enter her senior year.

Logan Tsukiyama, a Maui High School student, realized she had adopted a sedentary lifestyle during the pandemic. When she dove into research and produced a story about it for the PBS NewsHour Student Reporting Labs, she discovered she wasn’t alone. Tsukiyama shares a shorter version of her Student Reporting Labs piece with HIKI NŌ.

On Hawai‘i Island, Konawaena High School Senior Dylan Crusat shares a profile of his own father, a retired police officer battling cancer.

Students from Kaua‘i High School take a look behind the curtain at a local theater production of MOANA Jr. and interview the directors and cast about staging a play as the pandemic ensues.
