Gary Bauer interviews Jerry Newcombe, executive director of the Providence Forum, about the ideals and principles upon which our great nation was founded. Let us never forget that our founding fathers leaned heavily on God and their Judeo-Christian heritage as they completed the final draft of the Declaration of Independence 247 years ago. It is the very reason why we, as Americans, can and do celebrate the 4th of July and call our nation "the land of the Friday, the Supreme Court delivered a victory for free speech, ruling for Lorie Smith. She is the founder of 303 Creative, a graphic design company that creates custom websites for weddings. Colorado decided that Lorie did not have the right to choose which messages she uses her talents to express. It even forbade her from posting a notice on her website stating she is unable to create websites that express messages contrary to her Christian beliefs.

The year before he died, Chuck Colson delivered a Breakpoint commentary on the July 4th holiday in which he reflected on our national identity. Specifically, he recognized that the only way to ground the ideals found in the Declaration of Independence, "that all men are created equal" & possess "certain inalienable rights, among them life, liberty & the pursuit of happiness," is if we are indeed "endowed by their Creator."

Dr. Tim Clinton interviews Alex McFarland, Christian teacher and apologist, to discuss God's plan for each of us and our families. Parents, be aware that the devil seeks to confuse and destroy all we know as true, and the battle is raging to protect the very souls of our children. Listen and learn how standing up for God's Truth can save us all from the enemy's path of disappointment and destruction.

Corporate America faces a crisis of values. Spurred on by the push for so-called "environmental, social, and governance principles" (ESG) a decade ago, a huge percentage of top corporations are now committed to an increasingly radical progressive agenda. This agenda is forced on employees and customers and anyone whom these corporations do business with.

Following the lead of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick became the second jurisdiction in Canada to adopt a policy of "presumed consent" for organ and tissue donation. Instead of willingly opting in to be an organ donor, residents 19 years and older, with limited exceptions, will be opted in by default. The presumed consent of the New Brunswick law adds a perverse incentive: the immense value of organs for transplant.

A few months ago, Dr. Stanley Goldfarb was fired from UpToDate, a digital research tool for physicians. Last year, the president of the University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine, where Dr. Goldfarb served as an associate dean, wrote a public letter accusing him of racism. Dr. Goldfarb's purported crimes had nothing to do with medicine and everything to do with his public opposition to DEI.

Perhaps the most helpful framework for wrestling with moral issues comes from T.S. Eliot. To paraphrase, we can only know what we should and should not do with something if we first know what that something is for. For example, before we decide what we should do with human life (whether we should take it, make it, or remake it), we should know what human life is for.

The Boy Scouts of America have been the training ground of soldiers and senators, pastors & presidents and instilled values over the 100-year history. This year's Jamboree drew only 15,000 scouts compared to 40,000 in 2017. The sexual abuse scandal may have fatally undercut the group's claim to trustworthiness & integrity, but throwing open the doors to LGBT ideology changed the very nature of the organization.

You don't have to look far to see that the war to destroy America is front and center in the public square. As our culture continues to trend toward sin and destruction, Christians need to prepare for the imposition of a radical agenda. David Horowitz, once himself an adherent of liberal policies, reveals why leftist doctrine is a bankrupt worldview.

Pixar's Wall-E has proven to be among the most profound and prophetic films of the last 20 years. After hopelessly polluting the Earth and leaving an army of robots to clean up the planet, humans now live aboard a giant ship. Thus, humans are left with nothing to do but amuse themselves and eat a lot. The film's commentary on human exceptionalism and vocation, specifically the inability of our machines to do our most important work for us, was spot-on.

Raised by communist parents, David Horowitz was once a strong voice for the American Left in the 1960s. But after awakening to the evil it was doing, this Jewish writer went on to embrace American exceptionalism, birthed from Protestant Christianity. Dr. James Dobson and his guest, David Horowitz, author of Dark Agenda, continue to discuss the secular culture's agenda for our sovereign nation and the importance for Christians to remain vigilant.

Not long ago most non-Christians treated pornography as a harmless expression of sexual freedom. For half a century Hefner's Playboy philosophy dominated teaching people to wink at porn use. Children discovering a relative's "stash" became a popular trope in TV & film and was played off for laughs. More people are admitting that, though it was never harmless, this content now poses a life-altering danger to those who stumble across it-especially children

In September, most U.S. states released their public school "report cards." These reports are intended to evaluate the quality of education being offered across the state. By federal law, report cards must measure academic performance and graduation rates. Of course, these assessments are only helpful if they make sense. Many don't.
