

WUKY (FM) University of Kentucky

Issues/Program List: 2nd Quarter 2023

(April, May, June 2023)

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining directly and relatedly to COVID-19 and other issues including the ongoing opioid crisis that could impact the health, quality of life, healthcare and potentially health care costs of Lexingtonians.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	April 5, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	On the day lawmakers in Frankfort were busy overriding Governor Andy Beshear's veto of Senate Bill 150, WUKY medical reporter Dr. Greg Davis talked with a physician who will be directly affected by the new law. Dr. Keisa Fallin-Bennett is an associate professor in the Department of Family & Community Medicine at the University of Kentucky. Fallin-Bennett also serves as the lead physician of the Transform Health initiative and its LGBTQT* clinic at UK.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	April 19, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	The National Institutes of Health (NIH) awarded the University of Kentucky a prestigious center grant to share its expertise and lead national efforts to build diverse academic research environments. This will be accomplished by the oversight of the new Support of Research Excellence (SuRE) R16 grant program designed to foster research capacity building at colleges and universities that serve underrepresented students. Dr. Greg talks with program co-director Brett Spear.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	April 26, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	In 2021, overdose deaths in Kentucky reached an all-time high of 2,250, with 90% involving an opioid. Because bystanders are present in more than a third of opioid overdoses, hundreds of these deaths could have been prevented with naloxone, a lifesaving medication that is accessible, safe and easy to administer. Trish Freeman, a professor in the UK College of Pharmacy, talks with Greg about this potentially game-changing development in the fight against opioid addiction and overdose deaths.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	May 10, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	One University of Kentucky researcher's work is rooted in helping people understand how cultural values and health beliefs can play a role in various health disparities. Julie Plasencia, Ph.D., began her career studying Type 2 diabetes. Her research interests have expanded to diet-related health disparities in low-resource communities and how culture influences dietary behaviors in Latino communities. She talks about her research with Dr. Greg Davis.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 11, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	The national COVID-19 public health emergency ends today, but medical experts are making it clear, the virus is still here.

WUKY's All Things Considered	May 11, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	GOP candidates for governor have all lobbed criticism at Democratic Gov. Andy Beshear's response to the pandemic, characterizing his administration's actions as government overreach. With Thursday's end of the COVID public health emergency, Beshear had a chance to assess his record during the crisis.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	May 17, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Two researchers at the University of Kentucky Human Development Institute (HDI) are working to better understand the challenges Kentuckians who use wheelchairs face in air travel; an especially timely topic during the upcoming summer traveling season. Walt Bower, Ph.D., preservice training coordinator, and Julie Pfeiffer, a Ph.D. student in the College of Education and a graduate research assistant at HDI, are laying the groundwork for further academic research on this issue. They talk about it on this week's edition of Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 24, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	State and local officials, along with several Kentucky families gathered on the Capitol grounds in Frankfort Wednesday to dedicate the permanent Kentucky COVID Memorial to honor the more than 18,000 Kentuckians lost during the pandemic.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	May 24, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Hiking is a very popular activity that many people enjoy, especially when spring and summer roll around. It can also be a dangerous activity if the necessary precautions are not taken. You want to keep yourself safe on the hiking trail, in addition to keeping the ones around you safe. This week Dr. Greg gets some helpful safety tips from Jonathan Bronner, M.D., associate professor of emergency medicine at the University of Kentucky.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 5, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	Kentucky's top health official was asked Monday about the status of the state's health system as pandemic funding and resources wind down — and how the commonwealth might fare during a future health emergency.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	June 14, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	A group of University of Kentucky researchers in the Substance Use Priority Research Area is working to make studies more responsive and inclusive. The group formed a community advisory board, called the Survivors Union of the Bluegrass, including those who identify as people who use drugs and/or people in non-abstinence-based recovery. Dr. Greg Davis talks with SUB chair Jeremy Byard and Amanda Fallin-Bennett, Ph.D., associate professor in the UK College of Nursing.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	June 21, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Have you ever wondered how a hot and humid day can affect the ability of our bodies to function? Three UK College of Medicine researchers are raising this important question in light of climate change and the prediction that more people will be exposed to these conditions over time. Dr. Greg speaks with Hollie Swanson, PhD, professor of pharmacology and nutritional sciences.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	June 28, 2023	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	In a recently published commentary, UK HealthCare physicians call for standard-of-care treatment for opioid use disorder (OUD) among patients who are incarcerated. The viewpoint article highlights some of the barriers to initiating medication for opioid use disorder for addicts behind bars. Dr. Greg talks with one of the authors of the opinion piece: UK's 2022 Bell Addiction Medicine Scholar Anna-Maria South M.D.

--	--	--	---

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the aftermath of the 2023 Legislative Session in Kentucky, the statewide gubernatorial primary election and the subsequent run-up to the November general election

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
WUKY's All Things Considered	April 17, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	A new poll shows the GOP race for governor tightening, with former United Nations ambassador Kelly Craft gaining ground against frontrunner Daniel Cameron. We discuss it with analyst Laura Cullen Glasscock; editor and publisher of the Kentucky Gazette.
WUKY's All Things Considered	April 18, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	The Kentucky Department of Education has released guidance for school districts as they implement a host of new state-backed rules surrounding transgender students and sex education.
WUKY's Morning Edition	April 20, 2023	7:44-7:49am	We are now less than 30 days away from the Kentucky primary election with Republicans having to choose between 12 candidates for governor. WUKY's Alan Lytle talks with Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock about the latest campaign finance reports and polling data.
WUKY's Morning Edition	April 25, 2023	7:44-7:49am	WUKY's Alan Lytle and Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock examine the strategies and talking points that Kelly Craft and Daniel Cameron are emphasizing in their ads and on the campaign trail. They also talk about what Craft's running mate, Senator Max Wise - the author of the controversial Senate Bill 150 has been doing on her behalf.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 1, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Five of the GOP candidates for Kentucky governor — including frontrunners Daniel Cameron and Kelly Craft — shared the stage on KET's Kentucky Tonight Monday.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 8, 2023	8:44-8:49am	The frontrunners for the GOP gubernatorial nomination — Attorney General Daniel Cameron and former UN Ambassador Kelly Craft — opted not to attend a debate hosted by WKYT and Transylvania University Monday night, but viewers did hear from three of the candidates hoping to pull off an upset in the homestretch of the primary.

WUKY's Morning Edition	May 9, 2023	8:44-8:49am	One week from today some Republicans and Democrats will go to the polls to select candidates for a number of seats and offices across Kentucky; well, actually early voting begins Thursday May 11th. Suffice it to say there's not a lot time left in the campaign season. The Kentucky Gazette owner and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock weighs in on which of the 12 GOP gubernatorial hopefuls has the edge going into the final stretch.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 11, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	GOP candidates for governor have all lobbed criticism at Democratic Gov. Andy Beshear's response to the pandemic, characterizing his administration's actions as government overreach. With Thursday's end of the COVID public health emergency, Beshear had a chance to assess his record during the crisis.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 15, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Voter turnout is expected to barely break double digits Tuesday, with a short ballot and the lack of a competitive contest on the Democratic side. In Lexington, a new county clerk will be overseeing the process.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 17, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Shortly after Daniel Cameron and Andy Beshear were declared the victors in their respective contests WUKY's Alan Lytle discussed potential strategies with Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 19, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	The break between Election Night and the start of the 2023 election season was brief – with GOP candidates presenting a united front Friday and incumbent Gov. Andy Beshear releasing his first video ad.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 1, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Just one day after the date was announced for the special election to fill the 93rd District Kentucky House seat, filmmaker and activist Emma Curtis has announced she's running. If elected, Curtis would be the first openly transgender state lawmaker in the commonwealth.

WUKY's All Things Considered	June 5, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	Organizers seeking justice in the case of Breonna Taylor want to keep Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron out of the Governor's Mansion — and they're laying the groundwork for a campaign on the issue. The announcement comes on what would have been Taylor's 30th birthday.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	June 26, 2023	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	The Fayette County Public School board is implementing sweeping state legislation critics have labeled "anti-trans." The board is, however, leaving out one provision Republican lawmakers say they intended to be mandatory.

Matters pertaining to major city government issues before the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Council, the Gorton Administration, and associated agencies.

WUKY's Morning Edition	April 18, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Spring break is officially over for Lexington's Urban County Council and it's shaping up to be an eventful week at city hall with Mayor Linda Gorton's budget speech later today and consideration of the 2045 Comprehensive Plan, which includes the hot-button issue of expanding the Urban Service Boundary. Kit Anderson with CivicLex joins us for a preview.
WUKY's Morning Edition	April 25, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Kit Anderson with CivicLex fills us in on what's going on down at City Hall. There's more discussion surrounding Mayor Linda Gorton's proposed spending plan, the Urban County Council is making changes to how people sign up for public comment, and the Public Arts Commission has launched a new collaborative program to help introduce more public art projects on city-owned property.

WUKY's All Things Considered	April 25, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	Mayor Linda Gorton has released details of her proposed budget. The $505 million proposal includes money for public safety, infrastructure and park projects. It also aims to set aside money to focus on affordable housing in the city.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 2, 2023	7:44-7:49am	In this week's installment, we look through this week's docket downtown and highlight upcoming talks on the mayor's $500 million budget, a proposed Real-Time Intelligence Center, and a look back at the early March windstorms.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 9, 2023	7:44-7:49am	We are back with this week's lookahead at what's going on downtown with city government, the CivicLex Chat. Learn more about a push to enact a Lexington version of the CROWN Act, the latest discussions over the city's wide-ranging comprehensive plan, and when you can have your say about Mayor Linda Gorton's proposed budget.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 10, 2023	7:44-7:49am	The pressure is on Lexington's city council to act on a new plan for growth; with increasing demand for more land for housing and businesses and continuing concerns about expanding the urban service boundary. WUKY's Josh James has more on Tuesday night's public comment on the issue.
WUKY's Morning Edition	May 16, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Most major city council meetings are on pause this week, but the city leaders have a lot to digest as they weigh public comments heard on the budget and the comprehensive plan. In this installment, we hear more about those discussions and how long residents have to put in their two cents.

WUKY's Morning Edition	May 23, 2023	7:44-7:49am	In this installment of our weekly CivicLex Chat, we get the low down on the last scheduled meeting on the comprehensive plan update — which includes urban service boundary guidelines going forward — along with previews of meetings on the Lextran and Parking Authority budgets, and the relaunch of the search for a new city hall.
WUKY's Morning Edition	June 13, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Lexington's Urban County Council is gearing up for an unusually busy week — with a long to-do list, including final adoption of the Comprehensive Plan, the Urban Service Boundary, the budget and more.
WUKY's Morning Edition	June 16, 2023	7:44-7:49am	Lexington's city council made Thursday night's meeting one for the history books, pushing the city's urban service boundary outward for the first time in nearly 30 years. They also gave final approval to the budget for the next fiscal year.
WUKY's Morning Edition	June 27, 2023	7:44-7:49am	During this week's update on city hall, we chat with CivicLex's Jillian Riseman about efforts to improve the planning and development process in Lexington.
WUKY's Morning Edition	June 30, 2023	7:44-7:49am	It wasn't an easy sell at the time, but the city of Lexington is now celebrating the 20th anniversary of the passage of its historic citywide anti-smoking ordinance.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to gun violence, the tragic mass shooting in Louisville, the murder of a Scott County Sheriff's Deputy during a routine traffic stop and gun violence prevention programs in Lexington.

WUKY's All Things Considered	April 13, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	This week's violence in Louisville has reignited an all-too-familiar conversation over how best to address gun-related incidents in particular — and political reaction has mostly fallen along predictable lines.
------------------------------	----------------	-------------	---

WUKY's All Things Considered	May 23, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Law enforcement from across the region and the state joined a procession in honor of Scott County Deputy Caleb Conley, who was killed in the line of duty this week.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 1, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	A community has paid its final respects to Scott County Deputy Sheriff Caleb Conley, who was killed in the line of duty.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 20, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	The team charged with preventing and intervening in youth violence in Lexington offered lawmakers in Frankfort a glimpse inside their operation Tuesday. One Lexington director Devine Carama had some encouraging numbers and sobering news from the front lines.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the documentation and improvement of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in Lexington and Central Kentucky including Pride Month and associated LGBTQ+ communities and the city's annual festival celebrating Juneteenth.

WUKY's All Things Considered	May 4, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	People in Lexington know all about Derby winning jockey Isaac Murphy; or do they? In Isaac Murphy: The Rise and Fall of a Black Jockey, historian Katherine C. Mooney finds that the superstar athlete was both an American hero, employed by the country's elite to ride their prized horses, and a Black man living in a racist country, who for every success he achieved could never be truly seen beyond his skin color.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 9, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Media Arts teacher Wendy Turner and some of her students just returned from San Francisco where she received the national 2023 Diversity Award from the Journalism Education Association (JEA). Turner, the advisor of PLD Lamplighter for nearly 20 years, was hailed for fostering a sense of belonging at Dunbar. Under her leadership the journalism program now produces their daily newscasts in English and Spanish.

WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	May 11, 2023	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	A movement to bar race-based hair discrimination is on the move in Lexington city government. WUKY's Josh James has more on the work being done to implement a local version of the CROWN Act.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	May 18, 2023	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	Last week we brought you a story about a local high school teacher who won a national award for diversity. Today, WUKY's Alan Lytle takes you inside the Paul Laurence Dunbar High School's newsroom and their efforts to produce daily bilingual newscasts. You'll get to know some of the talented reporters working to make a difference in representation and cultural understanding.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 23, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	A campaign to highlight Fayette County's rural Black hamlets and their unique history is getting underway ahead of the Juneteenth holiday. WUKY's Josh James traveled out to Jimtown to get a first-hand look at the process.
WUKY's All Things Considered	May 31, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	With thousands of visitors descending on Lexington this weekend; some for the first time, a digital public art project that highlights African American history and culture is available for download through the VisitLex phone app.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 6, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	Lexington is hosting a series of events surrounding Juneteenth, the nationally-celebrated commemoration of the ending of slavery in the U.S. One new addition this year is a campaign to recognize Fayette County's rural Black hamlets.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	June 12, 2023	7:44-7:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	For several decades the Henry Clay Memorial Foundation has been working to tell a more inclusive story surrounding the famously powerful politician who ran for President 3 times unsuccessfully in the 1800's. A recent part of that mission is to detail the over 120 enslaved African Americans who lived and worked on his estate. On Monday the University of Kentucky Libraries' Special Collections Department returned an important photo image to Ashland – a rare stereograph copy of Clay's one-time coach driver and personal valet, Aaron Dupuy.

WUKY's All Things Considered	June 12, 2023	4:44-4:49pm	Kentucky LGBTQ advocates were on hand at the White House over the weekend, as the Bidens hosted a Pride Month gathering.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 16, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Karyn Czar introduces us to Wake Mullins, a 27 year old competitor who eats, drinks and sleeps golf. He and his stepfather Dennis Gaines are in Germany this week getting ready to tee it off for Team USA in the Special Olympics.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	June 19, 2023	8:44-8:49am & 4:44-4:49pm	A unique Juneteenth celebration including African American artistic expression was held at the Lyric Theater and Cultural Center for the Arts Saturday.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 20, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Tuesday, Mayor Linda Gorton helped cut the ribbon on The Alcove at Russell, a 202-unit affordable housing development. The announcement comes less than a week after the city council voted to expand the urban service boundary, with the goal of attracting more affordable housing projects to town.
WUKY's All Things Considered	June 22, 2023	5:44-5:49pm	Lexington's annual Pride Festival is expanding this year and moving indoors. We have your full preview.